Mr. George argued against the resolution as unnecessary, and reviewed the legislation on the subject of the transit of goods in bond. He held that under existing laws the President had the right to prevent the transfer of goods under the duplex system—first as an import and then as an export of an import—from Canada to foreign countries, but that the President could not prevent the other operation—that is, the transfer of foreign goods coming into the United States and destined for Canada.

Mr. Cullom said he had not examined the statutes critically, and would let the resolution stand over until to-morrow.

The resolution accordingly went over.

Mandlin Mr. Mills.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—In speaking on the fisheries question at Yonkers Congressman Mills said: "This is a serious position in which we are placed by the blunder of the Republican party. God knows what it may result in. It is not the pathway to peace when a man says to his neighbor, 'You've killed my cat, and now I'm going to kill your dog.' That means irritation, bad temper, bad blood. The road to retaliation is not the road to peace. It may result in war, but our duty to our people is plain and mandatory. We will stand by the people at whatever cost. If it comes to the point that war must come and that Canada must fall, as she will, into the arms of the Union, and if in the providence of God that poor carpet-bag ridden island across the water should end the days of her captivity, then every liberty-loving man can raise his voice in hallelujahs."

The Impression Prevails.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—The impression prevails in official circles that the Government will not retaliate even though the United States adopt a policy of non-intercourse. By doing this the Canadian railways will continue to get their former share of American traffic.

How the Widow Butler Would Fix It.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—In response to the request of a large number of business men Gen. B. F. Butler last evening addressed a large audience on the tariff question. During his address he referred to the fisheries question, touching upon various treaties that had been in force between the United States and Great Britain. He said:

"I agree with the President that the bill giving him power of retaliation was a poor bill, unworthy of the dignity of the Government, and if he had vetoed it on that ground I should have been inclined to support him. My fault with the bill is that it contains statements in regard to keeping vessels and goods of Canada in the British Dominion of North America out of our ports when we learn that in these North American British ports our vessels are kept out of port. Pray, why don't the United States take the bull by the horns, even if his name is John, and give the President power and the right whenever he finds that a single vessel, however small, is kept out of any British port or anywhere unlawfully, to keep out of ports of the United Stacs every British vessel, however great, until that wrong shall be redressed. Retaliate the wrongs done to fishermen by Canadians, by action against the Cunard steamships sailing under the ensign of the British Government, and the thing will be brought to an end. The first question that springs to my lips is, "Is the President in earnest?" If he is let him force retaliation for the wrongs by the power he has had since March, 1887. If he will do that he will show that his paper is the message of the man and not a campaign document.

Relaxing Vigorous Measures.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. — Secretary Fairchild said last night that there was a disposition to relax the vigorous measures against the Canadian poachers on the sealing grounds in Alaskan waters, because the British Government is now proposing legislation which will entirely stop depredations, and pending these steps there is a desire not to adopt a severe policy.

THE WORK OF THE STORM

A Number of Buildings Struck by Lightning—One Man Killed.

KINGSTON, Aug. 31.—A severe thunderstorm passed over the city this morning. On Princess-street the lightning struck a chimne on Vaughn-terrace between No. 2 and 3 levelling it to the roof and hurling the bricks upon the street. The lightning ran down the chimney and stunned for a moment Mr. George Smith, Mr. Hallect and the Misses Smith who were in the dining-room of No. 2. In No. 3 Mrs. Johnson and Mr. McLean were shocked, Mr. McLean being thrown off a chair. A Mrs. Stevenson received so severe a shock as to render her unconscious. A number of other buildings were struck but no serious damage done.

A $2000 Loss.

ETHEL, Aug. 31.—The barn of Malcolm Lamont, a farmer residing one mile from the village of Ethel, was struck by lightening about 8 o'clock this morning. The barn, together with the whole of this year's crops, was completely destroyed. The loss will be about $2000. The amount of insurance is not known.

Burnt by a Bolt.

TYRONE, Aug. 31.—A barn owned by Wm. Walkey of the township of Darlington, situated about 11½ miles from Tyrone, was struck by lightning to-day and consumed with its contents.

Killed by Lightning.

FOREST, Aug. 31.—Wm. Call, third son of Stephen Call, a farmer living near Jura on the 8th concession of the township of Bosanquet, was instantly killed by lightning about noon to-day while plowing in the field. One of the horses was also killed and the other badly stunned but afterwards recovered.

Howes Acquitted at Ingersoll.

INGERSOLL, Aug. 31.—Mack Howes of St. Paul, Minn., who was arrested in Toronto on Tuesday evening on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and was brought to Ingersoll by Chief Murphy yesterday, was taken before Police Magistrate Chadwick this morning and was honorably acquited. He threatens an action for false arrest.

Two Slight Collisions at Guelph.

GUELPH, Aug. 31.—Two collisions occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway here to-day between the freight and passenger depots, resulting in considerable damage to several freight cars and an engine.

A Railroad Receiver Discharged.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 31.—Judge Walton to-day issued a final decree discharging the receiver of the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad. A like decree will be obtained in the courts of New Hampshire and then the Maine Central will take control of the roads.

ROAD AGENTS AT WORK.

A Carluke Mail Carrier Escapes With a Bullet in His Hat.

HAMILTON, Aug. 31.—Charles Young carries Her Majesty's mails between Carluke and Hamilton. His route is about fourteen miles long, through a rough and lonely country. Mr. Young is nearly 60 years old, and has been carrying the mail for years; but he never in the course of his life got such a scare as he did this morning. He lives two miles from Carluke, and as he starts with the mails at 6 o'clock it is necessary for him to get up very early in the morning. Between 4 and 5 o'clock, in the dim light of dawn, he saw a couple of strangers lounging near his house, eating apples, but he paid no particular attention to them.

He started on his route at the usual time, took up the mail at Renforth, North Glanford, and Glanford, and had passed Smoke' Corners a mile or two, and got within about seven miles from the city, when an incident occurred that he will never forget. The two men whom he had seen near his house three hours earlier suddenly appeared on the road. They were young men and were well dressed. Both wore moustaches. This is all the description that Mr. Young could give of them, but he is sure he would recognize them again. One of the strangers asked him for a ride. Mr. Young refused. "No," said he, "I don't like anybody in my wagon." "You don't, eh?" said the man with an oath; "well, we'll ride with you whether you let us or not." With that they made a rush toward the wagon. But Mr. Young applied the whip and his mare sprang forward, and in a few seconds was out of reach of the men. He had not got many yards away when Mr. Young heard a report and felt something graze his head. Another report followed, but by this time the good mare had carried him a safe distance, and a turn in the road hid the men from view.

Mr. Young did not allow his mare to slacken speed until he had got a good two miles nearer the city. Then he took off his hat and examined it: there was a hole in the back and front of it, where a bullet had passed through, close enough to grase his scalp. There was nothing special in the mail to-day to repay anybody for the trouble of robbing it. Hereafter Mr. Young's wagon will be an armory of wheels.

MUST WED OR LOSE.

His Uncle Leaves Him $280,000 on Condition That he Marries.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—James L. Babcock, formerly of Chicago but now of Ann Arbor, will meet with smiling encouragement from mothers with marriageable daughters, for by the death of his uncle he inherits $280,000 in money and bonds upon condition that he marries within five years.

Luther James, the deceased uncle, resided for many years at Lima, Mich., and became one of the wealthiest men in the county. He was a bachelor, and, in fact, a woman hater. His brothers and sisters married and had families, and the old bachelor uncle grew to love and admire his nephews and nieces. He finally selected James Luther Babcock as his particular favorite, whom, as he grew to manhood, the old man helped and put in charge of a bank at Ann Arbor.

The favorite nephew prospered. He fell in love with a beautiful girl and was accepted. The wedding day was fixed, but the dream of happiness was doomed to fade into mist. Uncle Luther James opposed the match and James Babcock accepted the fiat and broke off the match. He is now 45 years old and still unmarried, but some would say that his uncle's will has recompensed him for the loss of his bride.

The banker can now marry if he pleases, and if he declines to fill the condition the property is to be given to the sisters, nephews and nieces equally. By the will, which was probated in Ann Arbor on Tuesday, the two sisters and twenty-one nephews and nieces receive $5000 each, the residue going to James L. Babcock on the odd condition named.

Are an Indian's Goods Liable to Seizure?

MONTREAL, Aug. 31.—An Indian named Tercikonkow, belonging to the Caughnawaga tribe and living at Laprairie, was sued by a Mr. Cherrier and his goods seized upon a promissory note for goods purchased. Mr. Cherrier took the case into the Commissioners' Court at Laprairie and obtained a judgment. A writ of prohibition was then taken out to prevent the execution of the judgment under the Indian act, which provides that the goods of Indians are not subject to seizure in cases of ordinary debt. The case has been appealed.

HILLSDALE'S MISSING BANKER.

In Hiding at Montreal—His Financial Exploits—The Woman in the Case.

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—Charles W. Waldron, one of the partners of the Waldron bank of Hillsdale, Mich., who skipped to Canada with over $100,000 and a married woman, leaving his wife behind, is supposed to be in hiding in this city, having left Windsor, Ont., a day or two ago with the ostensible purpose of coming here. Hon. Ezra L. Koon, his partner, is personally stuck for $40,000 or $50,000 if held responsible for all the firm's paper sold. Waldron took $14,000 in negotiable notes and $6000 in cash from the bank. He secured about $25,000 of cash deposits in Detroit and $20,000, as far as heard from, on the firm's notes, partly secured by collaterals taken from the Hillsdale bank. At Chicago he obtained $10,000 in firm's notes and $10,000 more on individual notes from S. A. Kean & Co. He had been working up the thing two weeks, and every inch of his land had been converted into money.

On Aug. 20 Waldron went to F. W. Stock, a miller at Hillsdale, and wanted to loan him $10,000, and Stock agreed to take it, and gave his note for that amount. Waldron gave him a check on the First National bank of Toledo, where he said he had a deposit. Waldron sold this note in Detroit. The check was thrown out at Toledo, as he had no money there. Stock at once attached property in Hillsdale, and only a few hours after deeds of the attached property were put on record transferring it to Detroit parties. Waldron had little difficulty in obtaining whatever money he wanted, as his reputation as a close and shrewd business man was of the very best.

Two years ago he and Mrs. V. V. Bidwell, with whom he has cleared out, became intimate while the Bidwell family lived at Hillsdale. Mrs. Waldron was greatly indignant over the actions of the pair, and he at one time offered to give her $15,000 and a house, and make no opposition to a suit for divorce. Mrs. Bidwell is said to be a handsome brunette, about 30. It is further averred that Mrs. Bidwell's husband has been paid a salary by Waldron to run the grocery business at Hillsdale ever since they moved to that place last fall, and that among other considerations he was to look after the children and not let them be inconveniently under foot when Waldron made his occasional visits to the female partner in that household. Mrs. Bidwell is said to have been in trouble before.

$250 Duty for Chinese Missionaries.

OTTAWA, Sept 1.—The Mission Board of the Methodist church found it necessary to have the services of a native Christian worker among the Chinese population of British Columbia. They engaged, through their representative in China, a well-tried and suitable married man, and applied to the Dominion Government for the free admission of the family, but the custom laws do not provide for such cases. Consequently the sum of $250 has to be paid for the admission of the missionary, his wife and three children.

MONDAY'S CELEBRATION.

Everything Ready for a Grand Day of Speeches and Sport.

Monday will be a big day for the workingmen all over the continent and the labor men of Peterborough will by no means be behind in their demonstration. Having received their public holiday and the merchants and clothiers having signified that they intend to close up, they will no doubt have a large number to participate in the day's sport who are not members of the order, but who are willing to encourage and assist the workingmen, especially when it can be done with so much enjoyment to themselves.

The programme for the day has been published before, but a reminder will not be out of place. At 9.30 the labor organizations will meet at Labor Hall, on Water-st., and form in procession, headed by the Fire Brigade Band and parade the principal streets of the town to the station and there take the train for Hastings. This village has declared its civic holiday for Monday and the villagers will all be waiting to meet their Peterborough visitors. An extensive programme of games and sports for valuable prizes has been arranged, and a baseball match is to be played between a nine from the Hamilton Machine Works and one from the Peterborough Lock Works. There will also be a lacrosse match between the Shamrocks and Ætnas, which will be a good game as both clubs play good lacrosse. Speeches will be delivered by Mr. Wm. Garson, M. P. P., of St. Catharines; Messrs. R. R. Elliott, D. M. W., of Uxbridge, Mayor Stevenson, M.P.P., J. R. Stratton, M.P.P. and others.

The Committee of the Labor men have made every arrangement and this will probably be one of the largest and most enjoyable picnics of the season.

There will not be a very extensive programme for those who remain at home, although the ball game of the season will be played between the Port Hope's and the Peterborough's, on the P. A. A. grounds at 2.30 in the afternoon.

A BRIEF HISTORY.

The Sawyer Business College was founded in the city of Ottawa, Feb. 4th, 1878. From the beginning this institution shared such a degree of success and received such patronage as perhaps no other similar institution known in Canada.

At this time there were in the city of Ottawa two successful Business Colleges in operation, besides various other schools and academies in which Ottawa abounds, but within three months Prof. Sawyer had enrolled students to the number of 30, a record which is unsurpassed. A brief glance at the roll discloses the following names, which shows the kind of patronage Prof. Sawyer received and at the same time the confidence he enjoyed from the citizens of Ottawa:—

Herbert Tilley, Leonard Tilley, Thos. McLelan — Sons of Cabinet Ministers.
Hon. O. S. Lambert.....son of Lord Cavan
F. Gordeau. Chief Accountant Marine and Fishery Department.
Colin Russell....Accountant Finance Department.
W. J. Johnson....Accountant Customs Department.
J. B. Bruce....Accountant Post Office Department.
B. Monaghan....Reporter Supreme Court, United States.

The fact that Prof. Sawyer has occupied the position of Reporter in the Dominion House of Commons, has enjoyed the confidence of the members of the Cabinet and the success of his students account in no small degree for the success of the institution with which he has been connected.

The college was then merged into the Ottawa Business College when Prof. Sawyer became Principal of the shorthand and penmanship departments, but in the year 1885 it was decided to move to Peterborough and there build up a school second to none in the Dominion, and worthy of the most enterprising of towns. Consequently on July 1st, 1885, the college was placed in Peterborough, and instruction commenced the 27th of the same month. A new field was opened and within three months over 80 students had found their way to its halls and during the time that it has been located here over 400 students have been admitted and have gone forth again to take to themselves positions of trust and responsibility in the great field of commerce.

It is a fact worth mentioning that no student who has graduated at the Peterborough Business College and thoroughly prepared his or herself has had to wait for remunerative employment.

The success of a Business College is the result of faithful and practical work. While this is generally true of all institutions of learning, yet it is peculiarly true of a Business College, with no government grants, no furnished buildings, no aids of any kind, the managers of the Business College are entirely dependent upon their personal efforts and faithful work. The Sawyer Business College opens its 4th year in Peterborough with great promise. Mr. Geo. S. Bean, B.A., B.Sc., who has for the past two years been the Mathematical Master of the Collegiate Institute and whose students have carried off 1st class honors at the recent university examinations, has entered and become joint pro-Vice-Principal Prof. Sawyer retains his position as Principal and Manager. In the shorthand department, he is ably assisted by a well qualified lady teacher.

Satisfied that vigorous action wins, the Principals of the Business College propose energetic, rapid and persistent work for and with all pupils entrusted to their care. The rooms are large, commodious and well furnished. The Banking and Actual Business department is fitted up in Counting House style. The Shorthand, Typewriting and Telegraphy occupy a separate apartment so as to remove all disturbance.

The Principals of the college whose qualifications are mentioned above are not figureheads, but along with their teachers are daily devoted to the instruction of their students.

The same efforts which have placed this school at the head of Business Colleges will, we are sure, be continued and we confidently invite those contemplating a business course to inspect the Sawyer Business College or write for prospectus to the Principals and enroll their names in the already long list of students.

Rev. Father Sweeney's Picnic.

Among the attractions at the Rev. Father Sweeney's picnic at Jubilee Point on Tuesday, Sept. 11, will be a shooting match between two local marksmen, Mr. R. W. Doncaster and Mr. P. D. Doran. Mr. Doran has "a beye like a beagle" and it is reported that he can strike the bullseye when he likes, while Mr. Doncaster can keep the scorer just busy dotting down centre shots. Mr. Doran has the advantage in weight and if he can keep from laughing when he shoots will run up a surprising record. With such marksmen in the line retaliation has no terrors.

An Elevator for Lindsay.

The Lindsay Watchman says:—"A large and influental meeting of the Board of Trade was held Tuesday forenoon to meet Messrs. White and Macklin of the G. T. R. with reference to the erection of grain elevator at Lindsay. The Railway Company have offered a free site for the proposed elevator, and expresses their preference for the grounds occupied by the storehouses lately destroyed by fire. Two other sites were mentioned and it was promised that their claims will be duly considered. A joint Stock Company is to be formed and the business men and farmers canvassed therefor immediately, for the purpose of carrying out the scheme of the erection of an elevator of sufficient capacity for the grain trade at Lindsay."

It Cost Him Ten.

HAMILTON, Aug. 31.—A peculiar case was tried at the Police Court this morning. A pretty girl named Mary Kidd charged a young man named Wm. Blowes with assault. According to Blowes' statement he had been "keeping company" with the girl for some time. Thursday night he went to the house and invited her to walk up street a short distance with him. She consented. William put his arm round her waist, whereupon she smacked his face. Accidentally or otherwise he threw up his hand and struck her in the face. The Magistrate fined him $10.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings healt and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Acknowledgment.

The lady superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital thankfully acknowledges the following donations to the Hospital in August:—Mrs. (Gen.) Haultain, books, toys and pictures; Miss Tucker, flowers and preserves; Mr. Clancy, fruit; Miss Dennistoun, flowers; Mr. Minore, daily papers; a Friend, preserves; a friend, fruit and flowers; old cotton and flannel from the W. C. T. U., per Mrs. Green; flowers three times from the park, per Mr. Maclennan. Miss Dalby also acknowledges the kind gift of flowers for herself from Mr. Blade and Mr. Maclennan, of the Horticultural Park.

A Proposed Match.

Thos. Wallis of Gore's Landing is some thing of a paddler. He has shown good speed and at a Lake George meet of the Canoe Association beat all contestants. This was hardly a fair trial of speed, for Wallis is in some respects a professional in that he gets his living by pursuits such as hunting and fishing and paddling people about from point to point on Rice Lake. Wallis has great confidence in his ability to beat any man in the Dominion. His prowess is questioned, and it seems, pretty seriously by Mr. Garner Nicholls, of Chemong Lake, who is not adverse to a trial of speed with Wallis. Negotations are in progress to bring on a match between the paddlers, and if possible to have the course on the waters of the Little Lake at Peterborough. It is understood that Wallis is anxious for the race and if Nicholls will consent to paddle the date will be announced. It will be a race for blood and the record for the distance, from one to three miles, whichever is determined to paddle, will be lowered. The two men once paddled at Lakefield, for a small stake and Nicholls won the event.

Although thousands of pounds are spent annually in the interests of this work no collections are taken up at any of their meetings or subscriptions solicited. On Wednesday the firm received an order to remove the organ from the old Catholic church in Belleville to the new cathedral now approaching completion, the large organ. Considerable alterations will be made in the organ and some new and additional stops supplied. The cathedral will be opened on October 1st, next. THE MURDEROUS BURGLAR.

Has His Wounds Dressed and Then Drives Away in a Stolen Rig.

Great excitement prevailed all day yesterday over the burglar-policeman duel and the universal enquiry was "have hey caught the burglar?" Last night he police station was visited by hundreds to ascertain whether anything new had turned up.

The searching parties sent out, all returned yesterday afternoon as announced in the REVIEW but threw no more light on the track the man had taken, of his whereabouts, and if ever there were men tired they were the police last night. People had told the searchers they had seen the man in all parts of the country and it was impossible to conjecture which was the most likely to be correct.

TRACK OF THEIR MAN.

Things were in this state when about 8 o'clock last night, a telephone message came from Calcutt's brewery to the police station to the effect that a man was at the brewery at whose house an unknown man had called and wanted some wounds, from from which he was suffering, dressed. Chief Roszel immediately proceeded to the brewery and found that the man's name was McNern, the old pensioner having a cancer in his throat, who lives back of Heap's brick yard near the C. P. R. track.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BURGLAR.

The Chief went down to the McNern's home and Mrs. McNern said that about 7 o'clock a man who looked about 5 feet 7 inches tall, twenty years old, with a very slight moustache, dressed in dark pants and coat, a blue sailor shirt and a light satin tie and not wearing any vest had come to the door and asked to have some wounds dressed from which he was suffering. She said he was cut badly across the left wrist and the back of the fingers of the right hand. His pants were torn and his legs were cut. Mrs. McNern dressed the wounds on his wrist and hand and gave him a cup of tea. The man and said he felt as though he would drop if he walked further. While he was in the house Mr. Tobias Fitzgerald and another gentleman drove up. A short distance away was the woods, and tying his horse they went into the woods intending to shoot woodcock. The wounded burglar then left McNern's and walked straight over to Fitzgerald's rig and untying the horse got in the buggy and drove off. This was about eight o'clock last evening. This is known almost as if he had been seen do it for when he was in the house he noticed Fitzgerald's rig drive up and remarked to Mrs. McNern that he was afraid the police would catch him, thinking that the rig belonged to the police, and he went out when the horse had been tied and thought he was robbing the police.

APPEARED VERY WEAK

SEARCHING WHERE HE WAS NOT.

Of course, the matter about the horse and rig did not come out until afterwards or the police would have acted differently, Mr. McNern did not know at the time the Chief called that horse and buggy had been stolen, so that he supposed and the officer thought that the man was in the woods near by, and so the Chief, Constable Adams and Stewart and several others formed three searching parties and this morning at break of day were scouring the woods in this vicinity.

THEY WERE MISSING.

Mr. Fitzgerald upon returning to get his horse and rig found both gone, and thinking that the horse had gone home, he came to town, only to find that he had not been seen. He then returned to hunt his horse and it his search came across Chief Roszel, who upon being told about the rig at once surmised that the burglar had taken this golden opportunity and was then flying over the road as fast as horse flesh could carry him.

HORSE AND BUGGY FOUND.

The chief immediately returned to town and telegraphed to all the towns in the district to watch for the rig. Mr. Fitzgerald received word about eleven o'clock to-day that a rig had been found in Cobourg and a little later Chief Roszel received the following telegram:—

COBOURG, Sept. 1st, 1888.

Chief Roszel, Peterborough:

Horse was left loose on the street in the night; found by constable; no person answering description seen about yet.

WM. HANKINS,
Chief of Police.

It is feared that the burglar has

in the steamer across the lake or got out of Cobourg by train. The procuring of the horse and rig was what secured the man his freedom as he must have inevitably have been caught if he had been compelled to depend upon his legs for travel, his weak condition making it almost impossible for him to have gone far.

The police cannot be blamed in the least as they

to catch their man and the chief or men have hardly slept at all since the affair occurred. In the first place Constable Stewart's plucky pursuit would probably never have ended as it did if the electric light at the corner of Aylmer-st. had been lighted, and the Council should see that the police are not so handicapped on such another like occasion. In the second place the reports of the man having been seen by people who said the description of Officer Stewart tallied exactly with that of the man they had seen, then the police, as this appearance of the man in Ashburnham shows, are away off the track. For instance, a woman came this morning and said she had seen a man of exactly that description away out in the country, when there can be no doubt that he was in or past Cobourg. The man probably crossed the river at Auburn and came down through Ashburnham.

Mr. Fitzgerald's horse and rig were sent for this afternoon.

ROBBERS IN A CHURCH.

The Sabbath School Funds of George-st. Methodist Church Stolen.

Another burglary was brought to light this morning which may have been committed any time during this week and which was one that is not of every day occurrence—the robbery of a church. A church usually is exempt from the unholy and sacreligious operations of burglars, and in this the robber is either a man who would rob his mother, or a lad who does not realize what church means.

This morning when Jas. Bradley, son of the sexton of the church, came down to prepare the church for service to-morrow he was surprised upon entering the room of the secretary of the Sabbath school to find the doors of his secretairie standing open, the collection drawer gone and several of the missionary boxes lying on the desk broken open and their contents gone.

He at once notified the secretary, Mr. J. T. Emmerson, who estimated that the sacreligous robber must have succeeded in getting between fifty and sixty dollars. There was a quarter's collection of the Sabbath school in the collection drawer which would amount to about fifty dollars, and the four missionary boxes they opened would probably produce a couple of dollars more.

The peculiar circumstances of the affair are that the person who engineered the job opened only four of the missionary boxes, while there were about thirty of them lying in the same place which contained at least ten dollars and which he did not touch.

It must have been some person acquainted with the school as nothing was disturbed around the building, except in this room.

Young Bradley said he remembered shutting down one of the windows on Thursday which he found open, but did not suspect anything wrong at that time. The thief had probably entered by the third window in the basement on the north side of the building as there is a broken pane of glass in this window through which he could reach inside and open it and this was the one which was found open. No one had been in the secretary's room since last Sunday until this morning. There is not the slightest suspicion or view as to who the sacreligious rascals were who committed the deed.

WHAT SHOULD A SHORTHAND AMANUENSIS KNOW?

Penmanship, letter-writing, spelling, practical grammer, typewriting, shorthand, copying, business forms.

Can I Not

Learn these with a private teacher?

No! You must have an experienced reporter to give you speed and the "tricks of the trade." You must do the copying, and see the work as it is done in trade. Shorthand alone will leave you without employment just as surely as any other one qualification. You need the full course.

Why

Should I learn shorthand at the Business College?

Because

When I graduate I have speed as well as knowledge, and the name of the College helps me to get employment.

Why?

Should I take a Business course before going into business?

Because

When I graduate I am so trained that I will be promoted far more rapidly than I would have been without a training.

We desire to emphasize this fact, namely, that while others are getting students to train in shorthand we train them in every needed subject for office work. In short, we prepare shorthand amanuensies, while others simply teach shorthand. And our charge is no more than others ask.

We have engaged a young lady who has completed our course and who has had several years experience in teaching, who holds a professional Normal certificate (2nd class), who loves teaching and who is eminently successful in her work, to assist us in teaching shorthand this season.

Colts and Veterans.

The Colts and Veterans played another match game of cricket yesterday afternoon which again resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 88 to 58. The Veterans went to bat first and Stirling was the only man who obtained double figures, he making a score of 23. Pearson, Hamilton, Hay and Anderson were bowling for the colts. The colts in their innings made 88, Hamilton making 37, K. Kincaid 16, and M. Kincaid 10, the others failing to get out of the single figures. The bowling of Stirling and Parker was splendid, both men bowling in better shape than formerly. The return match will be played on Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Personal.

Mr. W. A. Finlay, B. A., of Lakefield, has received the appointment as Classical Master in the High School Quebec.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Rev. Mr. Bradshaw of Ashburnham conducted service in the Sturgeon Point hotel parlor Sunday afternoon. There was a fair congregation."

The Orillia Packet says:—"The Rev. Thomas Manning is prospering greatly in his new charge. His sermons last Sunday—especially that in the morning on Christian perfection, based on Matthew v., 48—were excellent and practical."

Col. Wm. Sparling, of Toronto, Superintendent of Agencies, and Mr. Jas. Gallon, Lindsay, Inspector for Eastern Ontario of The Manufacturer's Life Insurance Company, are in town, and judging from the large number of applications already taken, (with the assistance of Mr. J. Robertson), Messrs. Wilson and Morrison's office is having quite a boom. The Company will write over $6,000,000 this year.

Dr. D. N. Carmichael, late of Mount Pleasant, has removed to town and entered on the practice of his profession. His residence is on George-st., nearly opposite the Methodist Church. A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

ICELANDIC IMMIGRANTS.

ARRIVAL OF 250 SETTLERS FOR THE PRAIRIE PROVINCE.

The Mormon Scriptures Held by the Customs Department to be Neither Immoral Nor Bibles.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—A Mormon elder who is acting as missionary in Nova Scotia imported a number of Mormon bibles through the mail. The Collector of Customs detained them until he could ascertain whether they came under the clause in the Customs Act prohibiting the importation of indecent and immoral literature. The Customs Department decided that the book could not be excluded as immoral or indecent, nor could it be admitted at 5 per cent. duty as a bible, but it could come in as an ordinary book at 15 per cent. duty.

The Department of Agriculture continues to receive advices that the crops in Manitoba and the Northwest are the richest and best ever known, greatly exceeding the huge crops of last year.

The American tug Gladiator has been seized at Algoma Mills by Special Customs Officer Waters for towing a raft of logs in Canadian waters without the necessary permission.

Mr. Frank Madill, M.P. for North Ontario, Mr. William Smith, M.P. for South Ontario, Messrs. N. A. Paterson and J. McDermott of Port Perry had an interview with Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, to-day with reference to Sadler, Dundas & Co.'s mills at Lindsay. It is claimed that the large quantity of water used by these mills greatly reduces the height of water in Lake Scugog and not only interferes seriously with navigation, but by lowering the water exposes a large quantity of marshy land, from which malaria arises and is injurious to the health of the people of Port Perry and vicinity. These mills were established over forty years ago and the condition of the surrounding country has greatly changed since then. The water power was granted by the Public Works Department and it is now claimed that the privileges ought to be withdrawn and the mills obliged to use steam. Sir Hector promised that the matter should be investigated.

Customs Officer Trowbridge has seized a boat at Calwright, Ont., the owner of which was smuggling coal oil into Canada. As the owner appears to be a professional smuggler he will probably be prosecuted criminally.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tenders for the Sault Ste. Marie Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on TUESDAY, the 23rd day of October, next, for the formation and construction of a Canal on the Canadian side of the river, through the Island of St. Mary.

The works will be let in two sections, one of which will embrace the formation of the canal through the island; the construction of locks, &c. The other, the deepening and widening of the channel-way at both ends of the canal; construction of piers, &c.

A map of the locality, together with plans and specifications of the works, can be seen at this office on and after TUESDAY, the 9th day of October, next, where printed forms of tender can also be obtained. A like class of information, relative to the works, can be seen at the office of the Local Officer in the Town of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Intending contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms and be accompanied by a letter stating that the person or persons tendering have carefully examined the locality and the nature of the material found in the trial pits.

In the case of firms, there must be attached the actual signatures of the full name, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same, and further, a bank deposit receipt for the sum of $20,000 must accompany the tender for the canal and locks; and a bank deposit receipt for the sum of $7,500 must accompany the tender for the deepening and widening of the channel way at both ends, piers, &c.

The respective deposit receipts—cheques will not be accepted—must be endorsed over to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works, at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The deposit receipt thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tenders.

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her style of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a new make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

AUGUST CUSTOMS RULINGS

A DOMINION CABINET MEETING HELD YESTERDAY.

Matters Connected with the Visit of the Newfoundland Delegates Discussed—An Attempt to Burglarize a Corner Stone.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—The following are the customs rulings for the month of August:

Scissors, plated, 30 per cent. Scissors, not plated, 25 per cent.
Rapeseed, 20 per cent.
Brass weights for scales, 30 per cent.
Fish pumice, 20 per cent.
Spring wire collars, 30 per cent.
Insect powder, 20 per cent.
Meerschaum pipes, real or genuine, 20 per cent. Meerschaum pipes, artificial, 35 per cent.
Huckleberries, 20 per cent. Pears, 20 per cent.
Repairs on machinery, either on vessels or otherwise, 30 per cent.

The first meeting of Council since the summer vacation commenced was held at 3 o'clock to-day and lasted two hours. It is understood that the principal matter under consideration was the coming visit of the Newfoundland delegates. It could not be learned that anything was done with reference to retaliation.

At the Council meeting to-day Sergeant-Major D. H. Macpherson, of the Manitoba Mounted Police, was promoted to an inspectorship. Mr. Macpherson has worked himself up from the ranks, and, apart from the claim of seniority, merits the position.

Burglarizing a corner stone is somewhat of a novelty, yet this was what was attempted in Aylmer on Saturday night. After the banquet which followed the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new postoffice by Sir Hector Langevin some miscreant pried the stone out of its place and endeavored to get open the cavity in which the usual papers and coins had been deposited. He was disturbed in his work, however, and did not accomplish his purpose. Last night a guard was mounted over the stone and to-day it was built in so that it cannot be disturbed again. Aylmer was in a great flutter of excitement over the matter yesterday.

The Comptroller of the Northwest Mounted Police is in receipt of advices that the Indians are perfectly quiet and every thing is progressing satisfactorily.

Hon. John Carling will leave shortly on a trip of inspection of the quarantine stations.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF SEDAN.

Twenty Thousand Men Pass in Review Before the German Emperor.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—On the anniversary of Sedan the army corps of the guards which garrisons Berlin, Potsdam and Spandau (20,000 men) passed in review before Emperor William. The weather was all that could be wished. The morning showers, which laid the dust, were followed by bright sunshine. Tempelhof common was crowded by a huge multitude of spectators anxious to see this the first appearance of the young Emperor as commander-in-chief of his army at this grand annual spectacle. By 7 o'clock the Emperor was already in the saddle. The Emperor's suite was a brilliant one, including the Kings of Sweden and Saxony, between whom he rode along the lines of troops, who greeted him with loud cheers, while every variety of uniform lent color to the crowd of princes, generals and foreign representatives, who took up their stand behind His Majesty at the saluting point.

A more feature of this year's review was the presence of a captive balloon, from which, at an altitude of 1000 feet, two reconnoitres belonging to the aeronaut detachment of the railway regiment made an accurate reporter of all passing below, thus presaging the use that is sure to be made of this scientific means of scouting and observation by Germany in the next war. The march past the saluting point took two hours, the infantry passing first in columns of companies, followed by the cavalry—eight magnificent regiments, in demi squadrons, and then by the artillery and train. The next time the infantry rolled past in dense and rock like columns of regiments, followed by the Horse Cuirassiers, Hussars, Lancers and Dragoons, in the same formation as before, but at the trot, and then by the artillery, likewise trotting in mathematical alignment. It was an interesting moment when the Emperor, leaving the saluting point, placed himself at the head of the First Foot Guards, with their towering helmets, and afterward in front of the Scarlet hussars of the guard, and let these pet regiments of his past the King of Saxony and Sweden.

Next Saturday will witness a similar parade of the Brandenburg corps. These are the two soon to be pitted against each other in the autumnal Kriegspiel, under the eye of the Emperor himself. Yesterday's spectacle inaugurated the manœuver season, of which the most interesting portion will fall between Sept. 14 and 19 at no great distance from Berlin. On Sept. 14 the guards operate against a skeleton foe, under the command of the Emperor. On Sept. 15 the cavalry divisions of both corps will manœuver in a similar manner, while Sept. 17, 18 and 19 will be devoted to regular battles on the newest tactical principles between the opposing armies.

During this time His Majesty's headquarters are to be at Munchelburg, a little town on the railway between the capital and Kostrin, where he will live under canvas in order that nothing shall be wanting to inure him to the habits and hardships of the field.

RUNNING 50 MILES AN HOUR.

A Rail Turned and the Train was Wrecked —The Killed and Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4.—Particulars of the accident on the Missouri Pacific Railway near Boonville, Mo., Saturday evening have been received. The list of killed is as follows:

Killed—Charles Hall, Frank McKinney, Frank McGonegal.

Injured—John Shodley, arm, shoulder, and collar bone broken; Samuel White, badly bruised about the head and shoulders.

It was a mixed train composed of seven freight cars and two coaches, the latter filled with passengers returning from the Tipton fair. The train was running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, a rail turned and the wreck followed.

THE WAR IDEA RIDICULED

THE ENGLISH PRESS ON THE FISHERIES SITUATION.

It is Suggested that an Opportunity is Afforded to Test the Feasibility of Imperial Federation.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Owing chiefly to the dulness of the season here regarding politics, the fisheries question continues to occupy much of the attention of the English press. The chief topic of conversation to-day is the defiant tone of the article in The Standard, in which the United States is reminded that Canada has behind her English guns and ironclads, and recalls the Trent affair. While English feeling strongly favors the maintenance of Canadian rights, the tone and character of The Standard's references are condemned in many quarters as quite without defence and an outrage on the good feeling which should prevail. The Daily News, it is thought goes too far in the opposite direction, apparently urging Canada to yield everything.

The Standard Denounced.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The St. James' Gazette ridicules the idea of a war between Great Britain and the United States. It suggests that the rejection of the Fisheries Treaty has given England an opportunity to ascertain how far Imperial Federation can be made a serious reality, or whether it must remain entirely a sentimental wish.

The Pall Mall Gazette denounces The Standard for its violent utterances on the fisheries question and charges that paper with outraging that good feeling which ought to exist between Great Britain and the United States.

An Alleged Corruptionist.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—In the Senate today Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter received by him from Charles Arpin of Quebec suggesting that if certain hay claims held by Canadians against the Government of the United States were allowed and paid at this time the Republican party could be assured of support from Canada, the claimants being willing to make a good allowance. Mr. Hoar remarked that such letters, he had no doubt, were occasionally received by senators from men as ignorant as base, but the man who had written this letter had been a candidate for the Canadian Parliament and was a man of considerable intelligence and address. It seemed, therefore, that the communication should be put on the files of the Senate, so when the claims it referred to were presented, they might be attended with the history of this attempt at corruption.

It was so ordered, after a remark by Mr. Riddleberger (Rep., Va.), alluding to the articles in the English papers as to Canada having British ironclads behind her—that "we have men behind our guns, but no slaves."

BOULANGER'S DISAPPEARANCE.

The Reasons for His Unwonted Modesty a Mystery—Parisian Politics.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Since Boulanger set out on his voyage of exploration to Sweden and Norway his movements have been wrapped in mystery. The boulevard reporters have been racking their brains to explain the motives of his unwonted modesty. One made a great sensation on Thursday by gravely announcing that the General had gone, not to Sweden, but to Friedrichsruhe to have an interview with Bismarck. In support of this romance—which was, of course, promptly contradicted—he quoted the imaginary case of Gambetta's visit to the Chancellor. As a matter of fact Gambetta never paid Bismarck any such visit. A flat denial was given to the report at the time, six or seven years ago. Gambetta went to Hamburg, it is true, but on private business, to see some old friends. Whatever curiosity he may have felt to make the acquaintance of the arch enemy of his country, he was far too good a patriot to indulge it.

It is shrewdly suspected that Boulanger is in neither Germany nor Sweden, but is quietly enjoying himself, a la Parnell, somewhere in his own country.

Boulanger grows less and less particular in the choice of the means by which he hopes to obtain his political ends. All recruits to his party are welcomed with open arms, whether Socialists, Royalists, or Bonapartists. In a letter which he has just written to "his friend," the Bonapartist Dugue de la Fauconnerie, he appears to make a bid for the support of the party of disorder.

"The quarrel is not between Monarchists and Republicans," he writes, "but between the oppressors and oppressed—les exploiteurs et les exploites. You know on which side I fight."

It is shrewdly suspected by most people that he fights, like Hal of the Wynd, for his own right hand; but you can't persuade the Royalists of this. With the blessed innocence which characterizes all their political moves, they still fancy that they will be able to smash the Frankestein monster they have created directly they find him an encumbrance.

I hear privately that the Comte de Paris has determined to spend no less than 20,000,000 francs on election expenses at the next general election. The rumor is received with incredulity in Royalist circles, but it seems serious.

Will Demand an Enquiry.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—On the reassembling of the Chamber of Deputies the Boulangist members intend to demand an enquiry into the conduct of the recent elections in the Departments of Ardeche, Somme, Charente Inferieure and the Nord.

The Chief of the Spies.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—A despatch from Nice to La France says that Hohenburg, the German ex-officer who was arrested there, is the head of a regular service of spies operating on the Franco-German frontier.

Canada and the Liquor Traffic.

KINGSTON, Sept. 4.—Rev. D. V. Lucas, speaking in the City Hall, said he had experience with the drink traffic the world over, and he was prepared to say that Canada was freer from the effects of the liquor traffic than any other country in the world.

Lighting a Fire With Coal Oil.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 4.—A 10-year-old daughter of James Patterson, carter, while lighting a fire with coal oil, was almost cremated alive. She was terribly burned about the arms and legs and her recovery is doubtful.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Mrs. Hagarty, wife of Chief Justice Hagarty, died yesterday evening.

Surveys are to be made of San Juan harbor, in Vancouver Island, with the object of ascertaining its capabilities as a harbor of refuge and a strategic point for defence purposes.

Senator McCallum, is reported by his physician to be out of danger.

Mr. J. M. Williams, Registrar of the County of Wentworth, was stricken with severe nervous prostration on Saturday, but was much better yesterday.

A Young Female Forger.

KINGSTON, Sept. 4.—A young woman most respectably connected, forged a check for $30 on J. W. Fraser, tailor, and had it cashed in Donald Fraser's bank. Friends having come forward with the money, the matter was hushed up.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Troubles of the Trades—Local Crooks Leaving Town to Avoid Arrest.

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—The cigarmakers are now on the sixteenth week of their strike and are as confident as ever that the employers will have to yield in the end. The plumbers on strike are still receiving substantial aid from other organizations. The strike of plasterers and their laborers in the employ of W. J. Hynes terminated yesterday morning. The objectionable non-union man Kennard has left the city, and all the union men resumed work after about three days' idleness.

Of the gang of eight persons who were charged with stealing $54 from James Sullivan in an alleged lodging house at 62 Adelaide-street west, the evidence of Sullivan only implicated two of the number of complicity in the robbery—Lena Allen and Samuel Yelland. They were each sentenced to six months' imprisonment—the girl to the Mercer Reformatory and the male prisoner to the Central Prison.

Maggie Paisley, suspected of belonging to the gang of burglars who successfully worked Buffalo last week and brought the proceeds of their industry to this city, has been arrested and will accompany two detectives back to Buffalo to-day.

The local thieves are leaving town sooner than risk spending a couple of weeks in jail as vagrants. Several have already left the city, and a number of others have called on Detective Stark and expressed their intention of getting out of town as soon as possible. Each detective has been given a list of crooks to look up and escort to jail. He will have to account for each of his men and either satisfy himself that he is not in town or see that he is put away for the exhibition.

The executive of the Gaelic Society met last night and arranged to issue invitations to members not residing in the city to attend the annual reception which will be held in Victoria Hall on Sept. 16.

In the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday an application was made in Curry v. C.P.R., which was tried at Toronto Spring Assizes, to set aside a verdict for $2000 against the Company for leave to appeal against the judgment. In this case Mr. Curry, who was a drover from Milton, while accompanying a car load of cattle started long at his dinner at Sharbot Lake and while attempting to board the train while in motion fell under the cars and lost his leg for which the jury gave him $2000. The judges could not make up their minds to grant leave for a re-argument of the case and reserved judgment.

Boucher J. K. Kerr, Q.C., introduced these gentlemen to the court, who were duly called to the bar: R. S. McLaughlin (gold medal), Wm. Mundell (silver medal), W. H. Williams, A. J. Boyd, S. A. Henderson, C. Kemp, J. Kyles, H. E. Irwin, H. N. Roberts, W. J. McWhinney, J. B. Davidson, C. A. Blanchet and E. A. Johnston.

The Knickerbocker Ice Company claim $1000 damages from the city by reason of the corporation diverting the channel of the river Don. Other property owners will probably follow suit.

William Farren was knocked down and kicked into a state of insensibility by five men with whom he engaged in an altercation at the corner of King and Berkeley-street last night.

At the last sitting of the Division Court for East Toronto, Deputy Judge Morson heard the case of the city of Toronto against John Strachan, an Erie Railway agent, to recover $24.76, being income tax upon $1500. Mr. Strachan disputed the tax, claiming that he was in Toronto only on every Saturday, that the amount he earned here was under the $400 exemption and that he was paid in Buffalo. Judge Morson has given judgment against the defendant.

There were 98 cases on the Police Court docket yesterday.

The city schools reopened yesterday.

KEHOE FOUND TO BE SANE.

The H. & O. N. Co.'s Boats to Go Into Winter Quarters on Sept. 15.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—The Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company have decided to withdraw their Upper Canada boats for the season on Sept. 15, and send them into winter quarters at Sorel. This will be considerably earlier than at any period since the company's formation. The reason for the present early withdrawal is simply dulness of traffic, owing in part to continued wet and unfavorable weather.

While Wm. Senz, aged 19, was watering his horse in the river at Pointe-aux-Trembles on Saturday, he drove into a deep part and in trying to save the animal his foot got entangled in the reins and he was drowned.

The bodies of two unknown men were also found in the river opposite the city today.

The Exhibition grounds were crowded this afternoon with spectators attending the Cigarmakers' Union picnic and games in honor of Labor Day. To-night the city band gave a promenade concert, the grounds were illuminated and several workingmen delivered addresses.

The jury which was empanelled to try the murderer Kehoe to determine the question of his sanity returned a verdict this afternoon that he was sane.

True bills were brought in by the grand jury this afternoon against Charles F. Pitcher for bringing stolen money into Canada, A. H. Caza for murder and Alex. Sherriff for forgery and embezzlement.

MURDER AT BRANDON.

A Laundryman Shoots His Wife, Killing Her Instantly.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4.—At Brandon on Saturday a laundryman, named Webb, shot his wife in the neck, killing her instantly. He had once before attempted to kill her. She was the daughter of wealthy people in England, and her husband was her father's groom, with whom she ran away. Webb gave himself up to the police. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of wilful murder.

The 14-year-old daughter of A. W. Brain of Brandon has been missing since Friday, and it is feared she is drowned, as she was last seen near the river bank.

Albert Hiller, a printer, has been arrested near Carberry for indecent assault on May Fountain, said to have been an inmate of a house of ill-fame in Winnipeg. He claims that it is a case of blackmail.

Farmer Williams of Oak Lake has been arrested for stealing logs belonging to Mr. Christie at Brandon, while being floated down the river. The logs were found on his farm.

Strangled His Baby Sister.

OLCOTT, N.Y., Sept. 4.—Sunday evening Howard Niles, an imbecile aged 7 years, son of a farmer living two miles south of here, strangled his baby sister aged 13 months.

Burglars Arrested in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Two boys named George Dewer and Henry Robertson were arrested to-day on a charge of burglary in breaking into the house of Wm. Leach, a wealthy livery stable keeper of Dunnville, Ont., stealing property valued at $200. They were tracked to this city and the stolen property, including gold chains, rings, diamonds and other jewelry found in their possession. The youthful culprits will be taken back to Dunnville by Constables Wickes and Stevens of that place.

Severe Frost In Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 4.—Specials from the cranberry district report that recent frosts have damaged crops in the dry and unimproved marshes fully 25 per cent. Buckwheat and corn also suffered in some sections.

THEIR AUDITOR BOUNCED.

THE MANITOBA LEGISLATURE TURN OUT MR. NURSEY.

Two Members of The Opposition Support The Government and the Vote is 31 to 3 —Prairie Province News.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 3.—The question of dismissing Provincial Auditor Nursey occupied the time of the Legislature this morning, a petition of his to be heard by counsel at the bar of the House receiving an adverse vote. The report of the Investigating Committee, which stated that the charges of unbusinesslike bookkeeping, the Auditor passing vouchers for his own salary illegally, etc., were proven by the evidence, was presented.

Treasurer Jones moved the Auditor's dismissal, but Mr. Norquay contended that no man should be condemned without evidence being heard. Mr. Jones reviewed the evidence and urged that sufficient facts had been elicited from the Auditor's own vouchers to justify his dismissal.

The matter was not taken up at the afternoon session, which was devoted to matters of local importance.

Auditor Nursey was dismissed to-night after a prolonged debate by a vote of 31 to 3, O'Malley and Wood supporting the Government.

THE HUDSON BAY SCHEME.

No Prospect of Provincial Aid—Conflicting Crop Reports.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 3.—The Red River Valley road was located in the city to-night, coming by the southern route. The station will probably be near Main-street, at its southern end.

The Legislature will not do anything for the Hudson Bay road, and the scheme will doubtless be dropped for the present.

A large number of Ontario farmers arrived from their western trip this morning.

Reports respecting the crops are most conflicting, but it is known that a large area of wheat has been saved. The full loss will not be known till the spring.

Wheat is being delivered at Gretna and Brandon in large quantities. It is quoted at 80 to 85 cents.

Hamilton News Notes.

The first mate of the steamer plunged after the would-be suicide and succeeded in holding his head above water until a rope was procured. The two men were safely landed. The jumper said his name was Mr. Drews, of New York City. He offered as an excuse for his action that he was experiencing a succession of troubles and thought the best and quickest way of ending them was to drown himself. He promised not to repeat his action.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1888.

THE FIRST LABOR DAY

A Signally Successful Celebration.

A PICNIC AT HASTINGS.

ADDRESSES BY SEVERAL PROMINENT GENTLEMEN.

A Programme of Athletic Sports Well Carried Out—Dancing in the Grove—Baseball and Lacrosse—About a Thousand People from Town.

Labor Day has passed and a grand day it was for the workingmen of Peterborough The holiday will now in all probability be an annual event, and such an orderly, respectable and enjoyable outing once a year is bound to be attended with results which will tend to cement together in a stronger bond of friendship the different labor and trades unions in the town. The day passed off smoothly and the committee of the labor men in particular and the whole labor element generally have every reason to be highly elated over the grand success their celebration proved to be. The committee was composed of the following:—Messrs. Geo. Rose (Chairman), R McGreggor (Secretary), Geo. Ball, T. M. D. Croly, John O'Brien, John Burns, Jas. Froude, T. J. McNamara, Richard Sheehy, Geo. Graham, F. Parks, J. Whitehair, Albert Wright, Chas. Murty and P. Delaire.

LEAVING THE TOWN.

Early in the morning the workingmen were astir, making the finishing preparations for the start. The weather was cool, but a finer day for such an outing could not have been had even if the order had been sent in several weeks ago. The different unions all congregated at Labor Hall on Water-st., and shortly after nine o'clock formed into procession and marched up Water-st. to Brock, up Brock to George, down George to Charlotte and thence to the Grand Trunk depot. The procession was a long one, and was composed of as fine a looking body of men as ever marched to the music of a band. The order of procession was as follows:—

Fire Brigade Band.
Knights of Labor and smaller unions.
Iron Moulders' Union.
Carpenters and Joiners' Union.
Bricklayers and Masons' Union.
Typographical Union.

Arriving at the G.T.R. station the crowd which was there assembled, together with the people who had followed the procession, made a regular jam. Eight coaches were drawn up to carry the excursionists to Hastings, but these were soon crowded to overflowing and Conductor Stanton was compelled to switch on two extra coaches, making ten in all, and then standing room only was obtainable. Soon after ten o'clock the train of happy pleasure seekers pulled out of the station and all went merrily until the train was nearing Villiers, when it got stuck on an up grade. Five of the cars were pulled as far as the Villier's siding and then the engine returned for the other five. This caused a little delay, but the remainder of the run was made in good style and Hastings was reached about 11.30.

IN THE VILLAGE.

The hotels were immediately beseiged by the majority of the excursionists, although a large number had bought baskets and picnicked in Johnston's grove. The village was rather startled when over eight hundred hungry excursionists were landed in its midst. The hotels, however, did nobly and no complaints whatever were to be heard about the accommodation offered. The afternoon train brought down about 150 more visitors and altogether their must have been one thousand people from Peterborough in Hastings. After dinner had been done justice to, the majority of the excursionists began to stroll towards the grove, and some took in the lacrosse and baseball matches.

AT THE GROUNDS.

Speeches, Dancing, Games and Sports all Carried out.

The people by and by commenced coming into the beautiful grove, and about two o'clock the Fire Brigade Band came marching in and discoursed several lively airs. The orchestra of the band then took possession of the platform and the light fantastic was indulged in by a large crowd of young people. The rest of the picnickers were stretched on the grassy turf beneath the shade or strolling through the woods listening to the strains of the band.

The Sports and Games.

took place in the clearing in the grove and were superintended by Mr. Frank Fairen. The races and the different contests excited considerable interest and most of them were closely contested. The list of races with the prizes, donors, and the winners were as follows:—

Resolutions and Speeches.

Shortly after three o'clock the platform was cleared and a large crowd collected in front of the stand to hear the speeches. Messrs. Garson and Elliott were unable to attend but the local members were on hand. Mr. Geo. Rose, chairman, said that two resolutions had been drawn up by the Trades and Labor Unions and he called upon the secretary to read them.

Secretary Robt. McGregor then stepped forward and read the following resolutions:—

AN ANNUAL HOLIDAY.

"Whereas the effort on the part of capitalists to monopolize all sources of enjoyment and recreation to suit their own interests and conveniences, they have in former time sought and obtained from the officers in power the Civic Holiday of the large centres of population in the early part of the summer, to the inconvenience of the wage earning portion of the community;

"Be it therefore resolved that now and in future the wage earners of Canada seek to make the first Monday of September in each year the great labor holiday and request the officers of each city, town and village to aid and assist in so doing."

NINE HOURS A DAY.

Whereas the wage-earners of Canada recognizing the fact that the improvement and introduction of machinery into all branches of trade and avocations of life has given facilities for speedily and cheaply doing work, we find that it would be to our benefit to shorten the hours of labor and that there is need of some legislation for that purpose;

Be it therefore resolved by the wage-earners assembled on this 3rd day of September, at Hastings, pledge ourselves to use every legitimate means to reduce the hours of a day's work to nine hours and further pledge ourselves to use our franchise in that direction"

MAYOR STEVENSON, M. P.

The chairman then called upon Mayor Stevenson, M.P., to address the audience.

Mayor STEVENSON upon rising was received with cheers. He was glad to meet the workingmen of Peterborough at such a gathering. They had asked for a public holiday and had got it without trouble, although some of the business men had been pretty sore about closing their places of business. He said the mechanics had long been complaining, but what they must do was to sustain men who would vote for their measures and there would be no trouble in getting legislation. The trouble was when our elections came they always forgot in such cases—not so much in labor as there had been no vote on this question but, for instance, on temperance—and would fall into political lines. When they advocated certain measures they should stick to them "and," he said, "you stick to those who stick to you." He had never employed a man for less than $1.25 per day, and a man who was not worth this should not work at all. He then moved the adoption of the first of the foregoing resolutions, and remarked that it would have the hearty approval of everyone and no objections could be made, not even by the large employers. He closed by saying that the labor men should be as one man for then they would be successful, but if divided they would fail. (Cheers.

COUNCILLOR CAHILL

seconded the resolution. It was one that would meet the approval of every one, and he did not think there was a man in the land who would deny a holiday once a year. Nine hours was enough for a man to work in a day, and he thought he would do as much in nine hours as in ten. It was the men who worked the hardest who had the longest hours for the smallest pay and it was strange that the men who created the wealth should have to work the hardest for that little which they receive. Such a gathering as that before him would send them all home with more friendly feelings towards each other and he remarked that the workingmen should feel proud for no other class of the community could turn out such a large and respectable body. (Cheers). He hoped, in closing, they should have workingmen in Parliament to legislate for their interests and when that time comes they could rely on him for assistance. (Cheers).

J. R. STRATTON, M. P. P.,

was pleased to address an assemblage such as that before him and felt doubly gratified—gratified for two reasons, one of a personal nature and another at seeing such a large body of workingmen assembled to celebrate their first labor day. They were the sinue and backbone of Peterborough. He favored the nine hour movement and lauded the few Acts which he claimed the Ontario Government had passed for the benefit of the workingman. He closed by stating that if he could do anything as a representative they had only to come and ask and it would be done, but they must not expect extensive changes in the legislation. He moved the second resolution as above.

EAGLE MOUNT MUSINGS.

A Stoney Lake Idyl.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Camping and jollity are now in full blast. So many of your citizens are temporarily located here that I feel sure your good town must present quite a deserted, in fact a Lindsay-like appearance.

Well may you and your still resident readers, while breathing the dust and disagreeable odors of George st., envy the lucky sojourners on the beautiful islands and shores of Stoney Lake.

We are having a glorious time, not only has Peterborough sent its "choicest spirits" to make these classic shores resound with revelry and mirth, but distant cities also contribute their quota of select citizens to aid in making a summer holiday.

Among the visitors from a distance is a young man from Toronto who is charmed with this locality and thinks that Stoney Lake nearly equals "The Bay" and that Juniper Island will compare favorably with "The Island."

He is a really good fellow, his only fault is his firm belief that Toronto is the Hub of the Universe, that everything which originates in, or emenates from Toronto must as a matter of necessity be superlatively good. So far has he allowed this unfortunate prediliction to influence his judgment that he really thinks an article which appeared last month in a Toronto serial, viz. a communication composed largely of extracts from the "New Testament," the "Book of Common Prayer" and other sources interspersed with a few reflections and entitled "My Impressions of Divine(?) Worship" very cleverly written and that the writer's arguments in favor of free thought are unanswerable.

As the article referred to is from the pen of a "Heathen," not of the "Sitting Bull" type, but a literary heathen, a few extracts from and comments on the "Heathen's" thesis will, I am sure, amuse and interest your readers.

We are informed that the Heathen has a friend who wears patent leather boots, and who goes to church because it is the right thing to do, also, because he can see a pretty girl home and get his supper in the bosom of her family "you know" (Dear, delightful, Crawley!)

"On a balmy Sunday evening in the merry month of May," or perhaps July, the "Heathen" was seated, as he informs us—in his "comfortable bachelor quarters," when his musings on "knotty problems" were suddenly interrupted by the entrance of the friend who earns his supper as a "Cavelier des Dames," who remarked "Dreaming as usual," "you will have a fit of the blues," "come to church with me."

The "Heathen" replied "I never go to church," "you know, I believe, my reasons."

However, he eventually consented to accompany his friend, because, as he says, he was "curious to learn" the special attraction of those "so-called divine services." As the "Heathen" entered the church "the rich full tones of the organ were pealing forth their "musical melody" and the "Heathen," who superabounds with the "imaginative faculty of a so-called romantic temperament of "hyper-sensitiveness" to fair and pleasing externals," experienced a certain sense of satisfaction, arising from the "dim semi-religious light of the lower burners."

The dim, semi-religious light had a soothing effect on the heathen mind, but, unfortunately, on the christian mind the effect was semi-religious only. Oh, careless verger; oh, negligent verger. How little do you realize your grave responsibility!

But "revenir a nos moutons," the "semi-religious light," "the slow sweet strains of the organ and the softly intoned chanting of the white surpliced choir," (query, is the wearing of a white surplice conducive to good chanting?) caused the "Heathen" to experience a "sense of indescribable awe and solemnity, coupled with a kindred feeling of profound sadness."

Query, was it the fit of the blues predicted by his friend or an attack of indigestion?

This explanation as to the cause of the "Heathen's" sadness had scarcely sufficiently defined itself as to assume the form of a suggestion when suddenly the gentle breeze wafts across the moonlit lake silvery sounds of enchanting music and as I listen the refrain melts into well defined words and sweet voices sing in "musical melody" the following fragment of a beautiful Stoney Lake Idyl:

"What did you have for your supper?"
"What did you have for your tea?"
"What did you have for supper?"
"Which gave you the dyspepsee?"

But to return to the Heathen and his sensations. The 'sense of indiscribable awe' and "kindred feeling of profound sadness," produces "emotions simple and indefinable in themselves," which give place to a train of well defined thoughts, and ideas following each other in swift succession, "which" turn to words silently uttered, yet drawn from the very depths of the "Heathen's" being, "and full to repletion," (no wound a the Heathen was dyspepsie) "with the uncontrollable passion of soul stirred conviction."

The Heathen in this state of "repletion" allowed his eyes to "wander slowly down the long rows of up-turned faces," and was "fairly startled, amazed, terrified," not to find the "faintest vestige of solemnity," "of religious fervor," "of worship in the fullest sense of the term."

Two seasoned maiden ladies with heads together, laboriously took notes of the fashions and compared the fashions of their own garments.

"A couple of pretty girls carried on a whispered conversation alternated by coquettish glances thrown towards a pew opposite wherein sat three well dressed young men, who appeared equally assiduous in their attentions judging from the glances thrown in return.

"An elderly gentleman who had dined "too well," slumbered heavily, with a rather too audible nasal intonation, and the Heathen's friend, while reclining at his ease, carefully examined the "tips of his patent leather boots," and speculated on his chances of securing the choir girl for a walk home, and a supper with the choir girl's family.

He, the "Heathen," admits that "a few well dressed people, rigidly knelt and bowed as occasion required, and appeared to closely follow the service from their prayer book." But it seemed to this "hyper sensitive" "Heathen," that even those "well dressed" and to all outward appearances devout people were only "Pharisaical church-goers."

Was it fair to blame the congregation for the omission on the verger's part to turn on a full religious light instead of a "semi-religious" light?

The church musings of the Heathen were suddenly brought to an end by the closing of the service.

His friend is lost in the receding crowd and the "poor benighted Heathen," "Freethinker," and "so-called Agnostic" is left alone with his impressions, his blues, his sadness and his dyspepsia, "a sadder" but he says "not a wiser man."

In making this last statement I think his innate modesty has deceived him, for he informs us that he, who entered the church a "Heathen" and "Agnostic," on returning from church to his "comfortable quarters" offered a prayer to that God in whose existence as a "Heathen" and "Freethinker," he, when entering the church, did not believe in that sense in which Christians believe in a God, who hears and answers prayer.

I must now bring my quotations and comments to a close, trusting that my musings may suggest to some of your young readers that the unlimited use of adjectives is not argument, and sneers at professing Christians are not evidence against the truths of Christianity.

When these are clogged and smoked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

To Form a Burns Club.

A mass meeting of Scotchmen is called for Saturday night next at 8 o'clock, to be held at the Grand Central Hotel and at which it is hoped there will be a large attendance. Although not as yet decided it is proposed to form a society, possibly in the way of a "Burns" club, to comprise in its membership all who are Scotchmen or of Scotch descent.

Shots at the Dominion Meet.

On Saturday night a party of riflemen from town went to Ottawa to participate in the matches of the Dominion Rifle Association which commenced yesterday. Of the party were Messrs. W. H. Hall, Max. Dennistoun, A. Mason, A. Biade, George Fitzgerald, D. Cameron and R. Smith. Mr. F. Hall was booked to go but decided to leave on Monday. The Peterborough contingent were joined by a number who came from Lindsay, all good shots and anxious to distinguish themselves, including Messrs. A. Hughes, R. Sylvester, J. Robinson, J. Williamson and others. The boys go into camp at the ranges and propose to do some good shooting during the matches.

On the Way to Japan.

Miss Jessie Munro, who left Peterborough to go to Japan as a Methodist missionary, sailed from Vancouver, B. C., on the Abyssinia on August 28th. The boat was a week late, but the company paid the extra expenses of the passengers at the hotel. Everything on board, Miss Munro writes from the steamer, was very comfortable and everyone kind and attentive—the officials seem to have learned the Golden Rule. In a letter from Vancouver Miss Munro says that she had better health than for the last six months. Of Vancouver she says:—" Our hotel is on a hill overlooking the city, catching all the sea breezes (although we can't see the sea) and giving a full view of Burrard Inlet and the mountains beyond. A beautiful view. The busy city, the calm inlet, the sail boats with sails spread like white wings, the marble-white villages beyond nestling at the edge of the forest and the massive mountains behind. All nationalities are met in this city of less than 8,000. Chinese swarm everywhere, Negroes, Indians, Japanese, French and Germans. The waiters, cook and 'maids' at our hotel are Chinamen; no other servants. The organist in the church is a negro. The first evening I was here I heard conversations carried on in English, German, Indian, Japanese and Chinese and heard 'bon soir' besides."

MR. BLEZARD, M. P. P.,

was a laborer himself. The nine hour question did not concern him particularly nor his constituency, as he represented a rural district. He must admit he could not see the nine hour movement in the same light as the others did. Ten hours was not too long for a man to work out of twenty-four. Farmers had to work sixteen hours often and fourteen hours a day was common. But, he said, if the West Riding wanted nine hours for a day's work, what interested the West also was of interest to the East Riding, and when the movement came up in the Ontario Legislature they could expect his support. (Cheers.)

COUNCILLOR J. J. HARTLEY.

who is also President of the Bricklayers and Moulders' Union said he could easily understand Mr. Blezard hesitating at endorsing the nine hours movement, for a jump from sixteen to nine was enough to cause him to hesitate. (Laughter.) Capitalists did not want shorter hours because the longer the hours the men work the more money comes in. He was a contractor and employed a large number of men and he wanted to be able to take a man by the hand and share with him the honest profits. It was a poor man who could not make up one hour in nine and was not of much muscle. They should be as one man in all matters and then they could say to the legislators we want this and if we don't get it we will put you out. Laboring men were becoming learned as well as any legislators and would have representatives out of their own ranks.—(cheers)—and then they would dictate instead of being dictated to. They should say here is our man, away with politics and go to the polls and vote for the man who would look after their interests best.

MR. GEO. BALL, W. M.,

dealt with Mr. Blezard's statement that ten hours was not too long a day, and explained that machinery had done away with manual labor and made an army of tramps, which capitalists said were worthless fellows. They must have shorter hours, he said, in order to give work to all the men. If a workingman, who had been working for a dollar a day, gets out of work when hard times come and loafs around town he is called a bum. If he went to Toronto he is called a vagrant or tramp, and they must shorten hours in order to give employment to them. They had sent doctors and lawyers to parliament and these men had made laws and rules for the doctors and lawyers and why should they not for blacksmiths and masons, and looking over the bills past in the legislature one out of the hundred was in the interest of the workingman and the rest were in the interest of monopolies. (Cheers.)

objected to strikes as they were injurious to both labor and the country. Capital and labor should go hand in hand, but if capitalists were making more than fair profits they should be compelled by legislation to share the profits with the workingmen, for without labor they would make no profits. He referred to Peterborough's unexcelled water power and said it was to the interest of every one to bring capital to Peterborough, and this would give employment to more labor.

BASEBALL AND LACROSSE.

Hamilton's Baseball Team Win the Medal—Shamrocks and Ætnas.

A baseball match was played at Hastings on the sports ground on the opposite side of the river from the grove. The contestants were teams representing the Wm. Hamilton Co.'s shop and the Hastings baseball club, the prize being a handsome silver medal given by Mr. Z. B. D. Lafleur, of Peterborough. There was a delay in commencing the game, owing to the Hastings team being late, but when the players settled down to work there was a very good exhibition of ball.

The Hamilton team went to bat first and commenced the game well by getting in three runs. Hastings followed with the same score and it was seen that the match was to be a close one. In the next innings the Hamiltons only got in one, but they put the other side out for a naught. The next innings brought the score even again, the visitors making one and the home team two. Three was the Hamilton's score in the fourth, and they led by that number. But in this innings they got rattled a little, and a hard drive by a Hastings player when the bases were full sent the village stock up. Five runs were made before the townsmen were at liberty to again seize the willow. The fifth innings was begun with the Hamiltons two behind, but they put in three runs in good shape, and Galley got on his mettle again and the Hastings players went out quickly with the second blank of the match. This gave the match to the Hamiltons by one run, and the interest in the game was shown by the cheer that greeted the result. James Cahill was a fair and satisfactory umpire. The score was as follows:—

THE LACROSSE MATCH.

When the baseball match was concluded, the Shamrock and Ætna lacrosse clubs faced each other on the field. The teams were composed as follows:—

SHAMROCKS		ÆTNAS
Murphy	Goal	Welsh
McCabe	Point	Cronan
Meagher	Cover Point	S. Weir
Butler	Defence Field	Brennan
J.J. McDonough	"	McCollough
Simons	Centre Field	Marshall
Corcoran	Home Field	Batten
J. McNamara	"	Hickey
J. McDonough	"	A. Weir
Mitchell	Outside Home	Canning
W. McNamara	Inside Home	Daley
J. Begley	Field Captain	T. Duncan
T. Isbister	Umpire	R. Parnell

Referee—P. Howard, Hastings.

Play was begun by a scuffle for the ball in centre field, and from the time of the face the rubber was allowed no rest. Each side played in earnest and played well, and the teams were very evenly matched. This made the game interesting from the commencement to the end. Each goal had close calls, and the defence and goal keepers had work to do. Once the Ætnas claimed a game, but the umpire did not allow it. Finally, after half an hours play, Corcoran ran the ball through the Ætnas' goal and scored a game for the Shamrocks.

The second game lasted the same length of time, but was not finished. For some time the play was much the same as in the first game, but towards the close the Ætnas were pressed hard. When time was called this game had not been finished.

There was some really good individual play on each team during the match, and some very good exhibitions of team play.

The matches, baseball and lacrosse, were witnessed by quite a number of people.

Coming Home.

After the speeches at the grounds dancing was again resumed and continued until six o'clock when the hotels and baskets were again beseiged. The first train left Hastings at about 6.45 and arrived home about eight o'clock. It was crowded to its fullest and there was a tired crowd stepped off on the platform and wended their way homewards, but all were loud in their expressions of the enjoyment and pleasure of the outing. The remainder of the excursionists arrived home on the regular express a little later.

CHINA MISSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Taylor Addresses Four Gatherings While Here.

Dr. F. H. Taylor, son of Dr. Howard Taylor, the celebrated China Missionary, arrived in the town on Saturday evening. On Sunday morning he occupied the pulpit of the Murray-st. Baptist church and spoke to a good congregation.

In the evening Dr. Taylor delivered a discourse in St. Paul's church. This commodious edifice was crowded to its greatest capacity, and during the rev. gentleman's discourse the most undivided attention was accorded him. The Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., conducted the opening services, reading for the evening lessons, Numbers, vi chap., and John, vi chap. Dr. Taylor, upon rising to commence his discourse, said that upon entering the church he had no idea that Rev. Mr. Torrance was going to choose the sixth chapter of St. John's Gospel, as one of the evening's lessons. The chapter had come in his daily reading last week and he thought he could not do better than take that chapter for the subject of his remarks that evening. The story of the remarkable miracle of Christ feeding the five thousand was a familiar story to all, and the rev. gentleman proceeded to give a most beautiful exposition of this miracle, interspersing his explanation with many applications to the present time and to the actions of Christians of to-day.

He spoke of missionary work, and said the home mission field was not as fruitful as the foreign, and he impressed upon his hearers the great importance of mission work.

A service was held at 8.30 in George-st. Methodist Church, at which Dr. Taylor spoke of the work in China, and related many interesting stories about his fathers' and his co-labourers in China, showing how the Mission had been carried on without meetings at home, but altogether in faith in the Lord to provide.

On Monday evening a fairly large audience assembled at the Baptist church to hear an address delivered by Dr. F. H. Taylor, in support of the work of the missions in China. Dr. Taylor came to Peterborough on the invitation from the local Y. M. C. A. Dr. Taylor is a son of the well known Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, founder of the China inland missions and who had been for a long time engaged in the work.

On the platform were Dr. Taylor, and Rev. Mr. Parker and Rev. Mr. Torrance. The meeting was opened with a hymn and Rev. Mr. Torrance read a portion of Scripture and offered prayer. Another hymn was sung, after which Rev. Mr. Torrance briefly introduced Dr. Taylor, who at once took up the subject of the China inland missions and sketched in outline the surroundings of the work in that distant land, and the principles experienced by his father in carrying on the mission system under very unfavorable circumstances. After describing the immense population of the empire and their forms of worship and habits, he urged that liberal assistance would afford large results and render the work more effective in combatting idolatry. The occasion was a very happy one and the family gathering was complete, the eldest son, Mr. Walter Rogers, came from England and the second son, Mr. Herbert Rogers, from Victoria, B. C., two extremes of east and west, to be present.

Silver Wedding.

Saturday, Sept. 1st, was the silver wedding day of Postmaster Col. H. C. Rogers and Mrs. Rogers. Among the mementoes of the anniversary sent by friends was a handsome silver camping flask, the gift, as the inciription states, of the "Frogs." The frog is the token of the Lindsay Canoe Club and it was from members of that club that the present was received. Good wishes of another twenty-five years of connubial happiness accompanied the gift. The occasion was a very happy one and the family gathering was complete, the eldest son, Mr. Walter Rogers, came from England and the second son, Mr. Herbert Rogers, from Victoria, B. Colts and Veterans.

Taking advantage of the holiday, another match was played yesterday between these two teams. The Colts had the assistance of Mr. B. T. A. Bell, the famous Ottawa player, while Sam Ray captained the Veterans. Strange to say, neither of these excellent players scored a run. To show the interest taken in cricket at present, we may mention that no fewer than 15 played on each side, while a much larger number of spectators than usual watched the game. The veterans batted first with Stirling and Burnham. Stirling was in a long time for his 16, which was marked by very steady play, as was Wrighton's 13. Salisbury and Hammond got their runs in excellent shape, while Canning hit very hard for his 27, the top score of the innings. Towards the end of the innings the fielding of the Colts, which was good at first, was completely demoralized. Pearson succeeded best in the trundling department, getting 7 wickets for 28 runs. Bell had 4 for 42, Hamilton 2 for 19 and Hay 1 for 12. The Colts' innings opened very badly, two wickets going in the first over. Hamilton and Pearson made a good stand, this former playing in fine style for 20, while Pearson hit hard for his 36, the top score of the match. After they left no stand was made against the excellent bowling of Hartley and Ray, the latter of whom took at one time four wickets in seven balls while Hartley kept an excellent length throughout the innings. The fielding of the Veterans was only fair, several easy catches being missed. Hartley had 6 wickets for 42 runs, Ray 6 for 20 and Green 1 for 2. It will be seen from the subjoined score that the Veterans won by 61 runs. The following is the score:—

The Canadian Wimbledon.

In the shooting on Monday at the Dominion Rifle Association matches in Ottawa, Capt. Dennistoun won a $4 prize with a score of 18, and Corp. A. Biade a $4 prize with the same score, sixth in the list below Capt. Dennistoun, in the Bankers' match. The highest score made in the match was 23.

Cricket at Toronto.

Mr. W. A. Stratton, who played a fair innings in the first match between the Irish and Canadian gentlemen at Toronto, did splendidly in the return match on Saturday. He made the highest score, 44 runs. The Empire says "his innings was an extremely good one," and the Mail says he "played a very fine innings, and richly deserved the hearty reception he got as he walked to the pavilion."

A New Business Man.

The Kingston News of Monday says:—"James Poille, of Muckleson & Co's. establishment, left for Peterborough this afternoon to open a branch store for that firm. The children of St. Andrew's Sunday school gave him a handsome marble clock as a parting gift. Mr. Poille is a first-class business man, industrious, and always up with the times. He will succeed in Peterborough. His numerous friends here regret his departure very much."

Pushing Peterborough Manufacturers.

On Friday Mr. W. Faint, of the Peterborough Mattrass Company returned from a business trip to the east and reports that he closed orders for a large delivery of goods to houses in Ottawa, Prescott, Morrisburg and neighbouring points. Customers who are handling the company's goods in that section of Ontario are very much pleased with the style and finish and have arranged to place orders for future delivery.

At Newnham.

Of a fete at Newnham, Haliburton, held to celebrate the birthday of Mr. C. R. Stewart, the Independent says:—"The programme was varied, and a very large party were highly entertained. A recitation by Miss Archer, of Peterborough, was the most noticeable feature of the evening. It was very finely delivered, and demonstrated the possession of remarkable dramatic powers by the fair artiste. A cleverly arranged tableau gave general delight, in which Miss Martin, of Port Hope Miss Archer, of Peterborough, and Miss Barlee, of Peterborough, took the prominent characters. Miss L. Martin, of Port Hope, sang a song very prettily. The performance concluded with a charade in three acts, in which the principal parts were taken by Mr. Trayes, Mr. McCoukey, Mr. Porteous, Miss Archer and Miss Martin. The large Music Hall was crowded during the performance, which was received with great applause."

The Baseball Match.

The Peterborough and Port Hope nine did not meet on the ground yesterday, but it was no fault of the home team. The treatment which they have received from the Port Hope club was rather shabby. A cricket match has been postponed on account of the baseball club wanting the grounds for the match and all arrangements had been made for the game by the home team, but when the afternoon came there were no signs of the Port Hope and Cobourg men. Word was not even sent explaining the reason of the non-appearance, and has not, been received yet, which shows a most sublime indifference to say the least. The Port Hope Times of yesterday, however, says that "the boys did not go to Peterborough as some of them were unable to get off." Why couldn't they find this out and inform the Peterborough club before hand? A game was played in the afternoon, however, between a team composed of cricketers and a scratch nine. There was considerable sport in the game which resulted in a score of 43 for the cricketers, and 23 for the scratch nine. The batteries were:—Cricketers, Pearson and Ray; scratch nine, Metheral and M. Kincaid.

The Burglar and His Identity.

Nothing new has been brought to light in the search for the burglar since Saturday. It is positively known that the man took the horse and rig, as Mrs. McNern saw him take them, but where he went is still a mystery. It is suspected that the young fellow will, if ever caught, prove to be a local boy, as no man who was not well acquainted with the town and vicinity could have found the road for Cobourg so readily as he must have done to make such good time. Another fact pointing towards his identity is that the vest found in Gough's store the morning after the burglary has been identified by Mr. LeBrun as the one stolen from his store by burglars last spring. Chief Koszel went down to Cobourg yesterday, but no trace of the daring young robber could be found. Postal cards headed "wanted for attempted murder," and bearing a description of the man and the act for which he is wanted, have been sent by the chief to all towns along the line east and west, on American and Canadian sides. Mr. Fitzgerald went over and had a long talk with Mr. and Mrs. McNern Saturday night and the woman said that the young fellow's face was familiar to her and that he told her that he had been in penitentrary and people would not give him work and he had to steal. At first he had said he got his injuries by falling off a train, but Mrs. McNern said "You got them falling through Gough's window," and he then acknowledged his guilt. The young man was seen in the buggy as he turned at Downer's corners and he was then travelling so fast that when he came round the corner the buggy was running on two wheels, and the young men who saw him say they knew him well, as they went to school with him. The name is that of a young man who has already a reputation for such work around here and served a term in penitentiary.

Personal.

Mr. E. A. Pearson, B. A., son of the Rev. M. A. Pearson, has been admitted by the Law Society as a student at law.

R. J. Lillico, of (Bruce Co.) Ont. registered at the Business College yesterday, where he intends procuring a full training in "Finance."

Mr. John Miller, B.A., arrived home from a tour through Europe on Sunday morning. He looks well after his trip. Mr. Miller will go to Toronto to continue the study of law.

The sorrowful intelligence reached Lindsay on Saturday of the death at Cacouna, of Frank, a fine little fellow of 13 years, eldest son of Mr. S. A. McMurtry, manager of the Ontario Bank, Lindsay. The family were spending some time at the Canadian watering place and were joined by Mr. McMurtry early last week. Diphtheria is said to have been the cause of death.

"It seems to me," said Rev. Mr. Murgatroyd, as he helped himself to muffins, "that you young people are well fixed, not actually wealthy, but don't you know, rather comfortable. I see that you have many nice comforts about you which I expect you can well afford. The table setting for instance is neat, tasty, inviting and extremely pretty. Real China too, as you say, what it cost is quite moderate, and I rather fancy that China Hall must be a regular bonanza to people about here. We can't possible do better in the way of prices at Montreal, and I doubt very much if the goods are at all better. Its very convenient to have the place so near and where such an admirable line of things are kept."

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

After the midday meal and a proper period of digestion he walked, sometimes alone, sometimes accompanied by Jean-Marie; for madame would have preferred any hardship rather than walk.

She was, as I have said, a very busy person, continually occupied about material comforts and ready to drop asleep over a novel the instant she was disengaged. This was the less objectionable, as she never snored or grew distempered in complexion when she slept. On the contrary, she looked the very picture of luxurious and appetizing ease, and woke without a start to the perfect possession of her faculties. I am afraid she was greatly an animal, but she was a very nice animal to have about. In this way she was nisse to or was demoiselle; but the sympathy which had been established between them on the first night remained unbroken. They held occasional conversations, mostly on household matters. To the extreme disappointment of the doctor, they occasionally sallied off together to that temple of debasing superstition, the village church. Madame and he, both in their Sunday's best, drove twice a month to Fontainebleau and returned laden with purchases, and, in short, although the doctor still continued to regard them as irreconcilably antipathetic, their relation was as intimate, friendly and confidential as their natures suffered.

I fear, however, that in her heart of hearts, madame kindly despised and pitied the boy. She had no admiration for his class of virtues; she liked a smart, polite, forward, roguish sort of boy, cap in hand, light of foot, meeting the eye; she liked volubility, charm, a little vice—the promise of a second Dr. Desprez. And it was her indefeasible belief that Jean-Marie was dull. "Poor dear boy," she had said once, "how sad it is that he should be so stupid!" She had never repeated that remark, for the doctor had raged like a wild bull, denouncing the brutal bluntness of her mind, bemoaning his own fate to be so unequally mated with an ass, and, what touched Anastasie more nearly, menacing the table chins by the fury of his gesticulations. But she adhered silently to her opinion; and when Jean-Marie was sitting, stolid, blank, but not unhappy, over his unfinished tasks, she would snatch her opportunity in the doctor's absence, go over to him, put her arms about his neck, lay her cheek to his, and communicate her sympathy with his distress. "Do not mind," she would say; "I, too, am not at all clever, and I can assure you that it makes no difference in life."

The doctor's view was naturally different. That gentleman never wearied of the sound of his own voice, which was, to say the truth, agreeable enough to hear. He now had a listener, who was not so cynically indifferent as Anastasie, and who sometimes put him on his mettle by the most relevant objections. Besides, was he not educating the boy? And education, philosophers are agreed, is the most philosophical of duties. What can be more heavenly to poor mankind than to have one's hobby grow into a duty to the state! Then, indeed, do the ways of life become ways of pleasantness. Never had the doctor seen reason to be more content with his endowments. Philosophy flowed smoothly from his lips. He was so agile a logician that he could trace his nonsense, when challenged, back to some root in sense, and prove it to be a sort of flower upon his system. He slipped out of anthomies like a fish, and left his disciple marveling at the rabbi's depth.

Moreover, deep down in his heart the doctor was disappointed with the ill success of his more formal education. A boy, chosen by so acute an observer for his aptitude, and guided along the path of learning by so philosophic an instructor, was bound, by the nature of the universe, to make a more obvious and lasting advance. Now Jean-Marie was slow in all things, impenetrable in others; and his power of forgetting was fully on a level with his power to learn. Therefore, the doctor cherished his peripatetic lectures, to which the boy attended, which he generally appeared to enjoy, and by which he often profited.

Many and many were the talks they had together; and health and moderation proved the subject of the doctor's divagations. To these he lovingly returned.

"I lead you," he would say, "by the green pastures. My system, my beliefs, my medicines, are resumed in one phrase—to avoid excess. Blessed nature, healthy, temperate nature, abhorrent extermination excess. Human law, in this matter, imitates at a great distance her provisions; and we must strive to supplement the efforts of the law. Yes, boy, we must be a law to ourselves and for our neighbors—lex armata—armed, emphatic, tyrannous law. If you see a capricious human rule snuffing, dash him from his box: if he judges, though in a way an admission of disease, is less offensive to me than either the doctor or the priest. Above all the doctor—the doctor and the purulent trash and garbage of his pharmacopœia! Pure air—from the neighborhood of a pinetum for the sake of the turpentine—unadulterated wine, and the reflections of an unsophisticated spirit in the presence of the works of nature—these, my boy, are the best medical appliances and the best religious comforts. Devote youself to these. Hark! there are the bells of Bourron (the wind is in the north, it will be fair). How clear and airy is the sound! The nerves are harmonised and quieted; the mind attuned to silence; and observe how easily and regularly beats the heart! Your unenlightened doctor would see nothing in these sensations; and yet you yourself perceive they are a part of health. Did you remember your cinchona this morning? Good. Cinchona also is a work of nature; it is, after all, only the bark of a tree which we might gather for ourselves if we lived in the locality. What a world is this! Though a professed atheist, I delight to bear my testimony to the world. Look at the gratuitous remedies and pleasures that surround our path! The river runs by the garden end, our bath, our fish pond, our natural system of drainage. There is a well in the court which sends up sparkling water from the earth's very heart, clean, cool and with a little wine most wholesome. The district is notorious for its salubrity; rheumatism is the only prevalent complaint, and I myself have never had a touch of it. I tell you—and my opinion is based upon the coldest, clearest processes of reason—if I, if you, desired to leave this home of pleasures it would be the duty, it would be the privilege, of our best friend to prevent us with a pistol bullet."

One beautiful June day they sat upon the hill outside the village. The river, as blue as heaven, shone here and there among the foliage. The indefatigable birds turned and flickered about Gretz church tower. A healthy wind blew from over the forest, and the sound of innumerable thousands of tree tops and innumerable millions on millions of green leaves was abroad in the air, and filled the ear with something between whispered speech and singing. It seemed as if every blade of grass must hide a cigale; and the fields rang merrily with their music, jingling far and near, as with the sleigh bells of the fairy queen. From their station on the slope the eye embraced a large space of poplared plain upon the one hand, the waving hill tops of the forest on the other, and Gretz itself in the middle, a handful of roofs. Under the bestriding arch of the blue heavens, the place seemed dwindled to a toy. It seemed incredible that people dwelled, and could find room to turn or air to breathe, in such a corner of the world. The thought came home to the boy, perhaps for the first time, and he gave it words.

"How small it looks!" he sighed.

"Ay," replied the doctor, "small enough now. Yet it was once a walled city; thriving, full of furred burgesses and men in armor, humming with affairs—with tall spires, for aught I know, and portly towers along the battlements. A thousand chimneys ceased smoking at the curfew bell. There were gibbets at the gate as thick as scarecrows. In time of war, the assault swarmed against it with ladders, the arrows fell like leaves, the defenders sallied hotly over the drawbridge, each side uttered its cry as they plied their weapons. Do you know that the walls extended as far as the Commanderie? Tradition so reports. Alas, what a long way off is all this confusion—nothing left of it but my quiet words spoken in your ear—and the town itself shrunk to the hamlet underneath us! By and by came the English wars—you shall hear more of the English, a stupid people, who sometimes blundered into good—and Gretz was taken, sacked and burned. It is the history of many towns; but Gretz never arose again; it was never rebuilt; its ruins were a quarry to serve the growth of rivals; and the stones of Gretz are now erect along the streets of Nemours. It gratifies me that our old house was the first to rise after the calamity; when the town had come to an end, it inaugurated the hamlet."

"I, too, am glad of that," said Jean-Marie. "It should be the temple of the humbler virtues," responded the doctor, with a savory gusto. "Perhaps one of the reasons why I love my little hamlet as I do, is that we have a similar history, she and I. Have I told you that I was once rich?"

"I do not think so," answered Jean-Marie. "I do not think I should have forgotten. I am sorry you should have lost your fortune."

"Sorry!" cried the doctor. "Why, I find I have scarce begun your education after all. Listen to me! Would you rather live in the old Gretz or in the new, free from the alarms of war, with the green country at the door, without noise, passports, the exactions of the soldiery, or the jangle of the curfew bell to send us off to bed by sundown?"

THE MARKETS REVIEWED.

Little or No Change in the Prices of Produce and Fruit.

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—Business was quiet on St. Lawrence market yesterday morning, prices remaining unchanged. The supply of fruit was large, apples being $1.50 to $2 per barrel, 25c per peck, and peaches (Crawfords) $1.50 per basket. Grapes are 7c per lb.

Eggs were 14c per dozen, butter 20c for lb. rolls and 18c for tub.

On the hay market the price was $22 per ton; straw was $13. Two loads of fall wheat went at $1 per bushel, and one of oats at 38c.

THE FRUIT MARKET.

Yesterday was a quiet day on the fruit market on the arrival of the lake boats. There was little or no change in prices. Premature Crawford peaches were sold at 75 cents to $1 a basket. Bartlett pears were sold at 75 to 90 cents, and Flemish Beauties at 50 to 60 cents a basket. Blue plums for good qualities found buyers at 70 to 75 cents, and fancy varieties were sold at 90 cents to $1. Champion grapes are about done; they were sold yesterday at 6 cents, and the day of the luscious Concord is at hand.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—wheat and corn nil. Cargoes on passage—wheat and corn very firm. Mark Lane—wheat, corn and flour a turn dearer. French country markets quieter. English farmers' deliveries during past week, 19,763 qrs.; average price, 36s 4d, was 36s 1d. Weather in England wet. Liverpool—Spot wheat firm, corn slow.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Wheat firm, demand fair; holders offer moderately. Corn dull, poor demand. Spring wheat, 7s 11d; red winter 7s 11d; No. 1 Cal., 8s 3d; corn 4s 10d; peas, 6s 6d; pork, 73s 9d; lard, 47s; bacon, L. C., 48s, S. C., 47s 6d; cheese, 46s.

IMPORTERS TO FRUIT EXPORTERS.

Mr. W. N. White, fruit broker, of Covent Garden, London, Eng., has written to his Canadian agents, respecting the handling of apples exported. He intimates that the crop in England, Holland and Belgium will be light and holds forth a prospect of a good demand for Canadian apples. He expects himself to handle double the amount of Canadian apples as compared with last year. He then gives this advice to Canadian exporters: "My experience of apples from Canada is quite opposite to what I have seen stated in your papers. Last year I was receiving apples by the Thompson line and the Allan and also Ross's lines from Montreal to London, and as these three lines are now competing for this carrying trade they try their utmost to bring this class of freight in good order. As you are aware I was receiving a large quantity from the neighborhood of Hamilton and other points in Ontario, and have very strong reasons to regret some apples coming via New York. Just at the finish of last season one of my senders in Ontario finding our market good offered 2000 barrels, shipment of which I advised knowing that the market would still keep good. At that time there was a question whether they would make the connection with the last boat leaving Montreal and they were sent via New York. They were handled in the usual manner, and those 2000 barrels came forward and sold at a loss of £300 on account of their bad condition consequent on the fruit being frozen in transit and before being put on board the steamer. Half these apples been forwarded by one of the lines of steamers leaving Montreal they would have shewn a profit of £400, thus making a total loss on these 2000 barrels of apples on account of shipment via New York instead of Montreal £700."

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her stye of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a nw make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

THE RETALIATION TALK.

YANKEE LIARS DOING A LIVELY BUSINESS AT OTTAWA.

The Dominion Cabinet Not Likely to Consider the Question at all at Present—The Congressional Debate.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—"Special" correspondents of American newspapers are doing a lively business just now, telegraphing long and circumstantial reports of Cabinet meetings which are not being held, and details of what has been decided by Council on the question of retaliation which has not been considered at all. The "liars on space" are having a good time of it just now, but it will be just as well for the intelligent populace to remember that there has been only one meeting of Council, that there will not be another before next Saturday and that it is highly improbable that Council will think it necessary to consider the retaliation question at all at the present time, or until it assumes a more serious aspect than that of an electioneering dodge.

No communication on the subject of the President's message has been received here from the Imperial Government or any department of the Imperial Government. With reference to the policy the Dominion Government may pursue in the matters now in dispute between the United States and ourselves, it may safely be presumed that our Government will continue to take its stand upon the convention of 1819. That is the law at the present time, however much the Americans may not like it.

THE RETALIATION BILL.

Debate in the Washington House Touching the Proposed Measure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The House proceeded to consideration of the Retaliation Bill to-day. Mr. McCreary (Dem., Ky.) yielded a few moments to Mr. Belmont (Dem., N.Y.), who said:

"The measure which is now called up is one of great importance, in which, in common with other members of the House, I take a deep interest. I do so especially because during the last Congress I introduced a similar measure which was adopted by the House. When the President's message was received I was absent. The Committee on Foreign Affairs in the discharge of its duties commenced consideration of the message and the preparation of the report. On my return I thought it but proper that the subcommittee having the matter in charge should make the report and I requested my colleague so to do, knowing that the bill would be in excellent hands. I shall take occasion to give expression to my most hearty approval of this measure and to urge its prompt passage."

Mr. McCreary said that the message of the President sent to Congress on Aug. 23, 1888, placed the administration in a firm and courageous attitude. It was dignified, resolute and courageous and presented a course of action for our Government which was worthy of the approval and support of the American people. While it might have caused some persons to sulk like Achilles, and others to indulge in abuse, the general sentiment was that the President should be upheld in his effort to maintain the honor of the country and the rights of her citizens. This message and the tariff message of President Cleveland should be recorded together in history: one sought to reduce taxes and lighten the burden of the people, the other to maintain the right and dignity of the American citizen, and both would be remembered forever. If the President had resorted to retaliatory measures without any attempt to make a treaty there were those who would have criticised him and perhaps censured him. While the motive which prompted this action might not be understood it is equivalent to giving notice to the country that no treaty which could be negotiated in regard to the Canadian troubles would be satisfactory to a Republican Senate. The time for negotiation was over and the time for retaliation had come. There was nothing left the President but retaliation.

In an exhaustive manner Mr. McCreary reviewed the various treaties between the United States and Great Britain relative to the relations between this country and Canada, pointing out the causes leading to their abrogation, and incidentally referred to the outrageous treatment of American fishermen by Canada. It seemed, he said, clear and conclusive that the time had arrived for action on the part of the United States. The rights of American fishermen should be protected and a stop should be put to a discrimination against our vessels in Canadian canals, which is unjust and in violation of international agreement. The bill provided the legislation now necessary. It was asserted that the President already had power to retaliate, but neither the act of 1887 nor the acts of 1886 or 1864 vested the President with the power with which the present bill vested him, or with the power he ought to have under the circumstances. It was also claimed the power now sought to be conferred on the President was in opposition to the twenty-ninth article of the treaty of 1871. He held that the article was not now in force, but that it was by the terms of Article XXXIII released after ten years.

This was not the first time a President had sent a message to Congress on the subject of our relations with Canada. General Grant had sent a similar message to Congress, but history showed that Gen. Grant followed the same line of policy. The history of the country showed that instead of attempting retaliatory proceedings Gen. Grant had negotiated the treaty of 1871. The only difference was that Gen. Grant had more success with his treaty than President Cleveland had. The question was one of great importance and the time had come when the Government ought to enact legislation to prove to Canada, Great Britain and the world it was in earnest. The power granted to the President in the bill was no stronger than it ought to be. It was time that Canadian wrongs should be resented. The bill under consideration was no war measure: it was a peace measure. The President would exercise the power confided to him intelligently and courageously. The President had a proper appreciation of the dignity and honor of this Republic and any power placed in his hands would be used for the protection of American dignity and rights. He (McCreary) hoped and believed that when the bill was enacted the usual good judgment of the English and Canadian authorities would be manifested and all difficulties would be arranged without anything which would break up the cordial relations which had existed for many years between Great Britain and the United States. The President would be supported by the people of the United States without regard to party. There would be no division but the men of the South and North would stand shoulder to shoulder to defend American rights and honor. [Applause.]

Mr. Hitt (Rep., Ill.) next addressed the House and commented upon the fact that the President's message had been received with partisan applause, and that one Democratic member had declared it was a good campaign document. The gentleman from Kentucky (McCreary) connected the message on the fisheries with what was known as the free trade message. It was an apt combination. The treatment of our fishermen and the tendency toward free trade had gone hand in hand since the day of the inauguration. By joint resolution both Houses had resolved to give notice of the termination of the fisheries article of the treaty. Everybody had known of that action for two years. It was only after the beginning of the new administration when discussion took place between the British Minister and our Government looking to a renewal of the arrangement. The news filled Canadians with joy and the American fishermen with dismay. The Canadians greatly encouraged by what had been done by our Government, now began a course of vexatious tactics to secure them free trade in fish which they believed they would secure indirectly if not directly. The commission of outrages on our fishermen was begun. The whole story was one of wrong and outrage—wrong unredressed and insult unavenged. Congress had taken the matter up and passed the Retaliation Act. It stood on the statute books and none of the powers conferred by it had been exercised.

Mr. Hitt proceeded to attack the Chamberlain-Bayard treaty and quoted Sir Charles Tupper as saying in a Canadian official journal that Mr. Bayard had asserted to him that the convention was a step towards freer commercial relations, and that the President, the House and the Democratic party would at once march in the direction Canadians desired.

Mr. Hitt then went into an argument to show that Article XXIX of the Treaty of Washington had not been abrogated, and stated that last year the President had approved of the Belmont bill which contained an express recognition of the twenty-ninth article.

Mr. Chipman (Dem., Mich.) said the bill was in the pathway of duty and he would vote for it.

Pending further debate the House adjourned.

Mr. Phelps and Mr. Belmont will speak on the subject to-morrow

The St. Clair Flats Canal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—In the Senate, Mr. Cullom (Rep., Ill.) offered a resolution which was adopted calling on the Secretary of War for information as to the channel ordinarily used for the navigation of the Detroit River and the St. Clair Flats and whether its waters are within the jurisdiction of the United States or Canada.

"THE COLONIES."

Sir Charles Tupper to Reply to the Toast at the Cutlers' Banquet.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Sir Charles Tupper's speech at the Cutlers' banquet in Sheffield on Thursday, in reply to the toast of the Colonies, is expected with interest in view of possible references to the latest phase of the fishery dispute. Sir Charles has just returned from his Scotch tour in good health, and received many congratulations on his elevation to a baronetcy.

Bank of British North America.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Bank of British North America meeting was held yesterday. The report declaring an interim dividend of thirty-five shillings was adopted. The chairman thought the general trade prospects of Canada were improving, though the Ontario harvest was unsatisfactory.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Sir John and Party Leave for Beaverton This Morning.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—Sir John Macdonald, Hon. C. H. Tupper and Hon. G. E. Foster left by the Canadian Pacific Railway train this morning for Beaverton.

R. J. Mackintosh, representing the firm of Eli, Collins & Hale, of St. Louis and Philadelphia, had an interview yesterday with the Commissioner of Customs, the object being to ascertain the proper rates of duty on feathers in different conditions in which they are imported.

A Brutal Father.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 5.—A warrant was issued by the Magistrate last week for the arrest of a prominent citizen for ill-treating his children, but so far he has eluded the police and the warrant is still in their hands. He came home a few nights ago and taking his child beat her in a most brutal manner. At another time he rushed into the house in a drunken frenzy and with a pair of scissors cut off the little girl's blonde hair. At times he would throw her victuals on the floor and make her eat there.

The Grand Trunk's Oldest Driver.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 5.—Henry Mayo, the oldest engineer on the whole Grand Trunk system, died in Belleville on Saturday. In October, 1854, Mr. Mayo was engaged by the Birkenhead, England (who was building engines for the Grand Trunk), to come to Canada and work for the contractors in constructing the road. Mr. Mayo ran the first train after the road was completed from Kingston to Brockville.

Four Deaths in the Sea.

HALIFAX, Sept. 5.—The 16-year-old son of John P. Chetwynd went bathing in the northwest arm Monday and was drowned. Captain Graham fell off the wharf at Pictou the same night and was drowned. The 2-year-old daughter of Joseph Killen was drowned at Londonderry mines by falling into a well. John Pierre, aged 28, was drowned at East Dover by falling out of a boat.

Bit off His Tongue.

STRATFORD, Sept. 5.—A son of Alexander Campbell, Elma, fell on the barn floor and nearly bit off the half of his tongue, which happened to be protruding through his teeth at the time. It was stitched together by Dr. Hamilton of Atwood, and the lad is likely to retain the use of the member.

Released to Die.

WATFORD, Sept. 5.—About six weeks ago the Minister of Justice granted an order for the release of Ernest Roberts of Watford, who was serving a twelve years sentence in Kingston Penitentiary on a charge of burglary and arson. Roberts died at his home the other night of consumption.

Struck by Lightning.

BOWMANVILLE, Sept. 5.—The barn and outbuildings on Lot No. 12, 5th Con., Darlington, owned by Mr. Luke Martin of Port Hope, and occupied by Mr. William Walkey, were set on fire by lightning and totally destroyed. Loss $500, no insurance.

OFF TO MEET STANLEY.

AN ENGLISH EXPEDITION FOR THE DARK CONTINENT.

The Scheme has been Kept a Profound Secret—But Some of the Facts Concerning it are Now Revealed.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Six Englishmen, who will sail from Zanzibar next Wednesday, will probably be the first to meet Stanley, if he is alive, or the first, at any rate, to send authentic information if he is dead. The news of the despatch of this expedition has been kept a profound secret here and is not known as yet to more than a dozen people besides the men going. But the contracts are signed, and nearly 800 hired natives are waiting for the party at Zanzibar. It is in charge of Lieutenant Swaine, of the English army, an officer with many years' experience in the India survey service. Before Lieutenant Weismann gets ready to start from Germany, or the other explorers who talk of going to Africa to look for Stanley get their plans formed, these men will be on the east coast of Africa, about 600 miles from Stanley's objective point, and right in the neighborhood of where he will reach the east coast, if he reaches it at all.

This new expedition is made such a mystery of by the gentlemen who originated it that it is impossible to-night to learn exactly what the mission is. But these facts were given me by one of the party: Some time before Stanley started on the Emin Pasha relief expedition the Sultan of Zanzibar granted the concession of an immense piece of territory on the east coast of Africa to an English corporation. His grant covers over 50,000,000 of acres, bounded by the German possessions on the south near the River Rovuma, and by the Wanda on the north. The western limit is not fixed, but extends at least to Lake Stanley, where supplies are waiting for Stanley. The grant includes the port of Mombassa, one of the best harbors on the east coast, and the easiest point for Stanley to reach when traveling to the east coast after reaching Emin Pasha.

The president of the company owning this grant is William McKinnon, one of Stanley's most intimate friends and supporters and chairman of the Emin Pasha expedition committee. McKinnon is President of the British India Navigation company and one of the richest men in England. A large proportion of the funds for the Emin Pasha expedition, as also of the present one, came out of his pocket. Before Stanley left he knew of this concession to McKinnon's Company, studied its boundaries and became much interested in it. Since Stanley left England McKinnon and his friends have been busy getting a royal charter for the grant. It will be issued to them next Wednesday, when the news will be officially gazetted here and become public property, but not before Lieut. Swaine and his party will be well out to sea and other expeditions forestalled. One of the gentlemen interested in the expedition told me that the purpose of the expedition was not to relieve Stanley, but to explore the grant, and to endeavor to develop the rich trade of the interior. He added that the concession was the best spot on the east coast of Africa, and that it was in the hands of men with money enough to bring out its resources.

GOSSIP OF EUROPEAN COURTS.

Emperor William's Impending Visit to Rome Annoying the Vatican.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Queen is settled at Balmoral till the third week in November, and among the royal visitors expected there are the Empress Frederick and three young daughters, Prince and Princess Christian, Princess Louise and Princes Alexander and Joseph of Battenburg. The Prince of Wales left Hamburg yesterday. He will stay at Gmunden with the Duke of Cumberland for a couple of days on his way to Vienna. He will remain in Styria and Hungary till about Sept. 27, when he returns to England. The Queen has lent Abergeldie Mains, near Balmoral, to Princess Frederica, who will reside there five weeks.

Emperor William's impending visit to Rome causes annoyance and irritation at the Vatican. Prince Bismarck has had to write a private letter to the Pope informing him that the trip was undertaken solely from military considerations, because His Majesty is visiting all his allies in succession. It was hoped at the Vatican that the Emperor would meet King Humbert at Castle Monso, near Milan. His grandfather so far respected papal susceptibilities as to meet the king at Milan, while the Emperor of Austria visited King Victor Emmanuel at Venice, and has postponed a long promised visit to Rome. The etiquette to be followed when the Emperor visits the Pope is being arranged by Prince Bismarck and Monsigneur Galimberti, the nuncio to Vienna. The arrangements are similar to those adopted when Crown Prince Frederick was received by the Pope while staying at the Quirinal in 1883. Emperor William will stay in Rome six clear days. There is to be a review of 40,000 troops, a regatta on the Tiber, horse races, a gorgeous display of fireworks on Mount Pincio, and illumination of the Forum and Coliseum with electric lamps and Bengal lights.

The Emperor of Russia is earnestly endeavoring to bring about a reconciliation between the Duke of Cumberland and the German Government, and has requested the Emperor Francis Joseph, the duke's most intimate friend, to exert his influence. Emperor William is anxious for a settlement and has offered far more liberal terms than Prince Bismarck approves of. But the duke much resembles George III., and is obstinate about his hereditary rights. The Duke of Cumberland is already one of the richest royal personages in Europe. He can afford to regard the Court of Berlin with scorn.

The Queen of Portugal is taking a course of baths at Gastein, where she occupies the imperial apartments in the Bad Schloss, in which the Emperor and Empress of Austria recently resided for a month.

Lord Dufferin has been obliged to have recourse to an amanuensis. Some intimate friends in England sadly miss the charming letters he used to write. He has suffered of late from a contraction of the tendons of the fingers in both hands. A first operation performed was not successful and the malady showed itself again in the right hand. It became necessary to make so deep an incision that the surgeons administered chloroform. Lord Dufferin went through a dinner and state ball afterward with no evident sign of suffering except carrying his arm in a sling.

If we may trust the accounts presented at the last meeting of the National league association, it is not flourishing. The weekly balance sheet showed receipts of £98 10s., and the sums voted to evicted tenants £23.

Ingersoll Cheese Market.

INGERSOLL, Sept. 5.—This week 21 factories offered 2504 boxes of July and August. Sales reported: 234 boxes @ 8½c, which was the highest price offered on the market for July cheese. Nine buyers were present and thirty factories represented.

Quarrelsome Fakirs.

GUELPH, Sept. 5.—Curley Fields, Tom Craig and Alex. Bunyan started on the train to attend the Mitchell races, where they were going to run a wheel of fortune and sweat board. On the way Craig and Fields quarreled and pounded each other's heads and were put off the train and locked up.

THE CANALS.

UNDER the heading of "universe expedients" the Toronto Mail, which for some time has been a persistent advocate of United States interests, discusses suggestions which have been made regarding ways in which the threatened retaliation on the canals could be parried. In the article it refers as follows to a suggestion made by the REVIEW:—

"One of the propositions looks to the immediate construction of the Trent Valley canal as a means of relief. This waterway if completed would certainly render the route via the St. Clair and Welland canals less of a necessity than it is, seeing that it would give an independent exit from the upper lakes. Thus, to some extent, it would parry the blow which retaliatory tolls at St. Clair would aim at the business of transporting by water. But it is well to reflect upon the expenditure the undertaking would precipitate. Mr. George Laidlaw estimates that the canal can be built for twenty-five millions of dollars. This is a good round sum. Looking at the matter from a purely business point of view, it would pay us better to drop our discrimination than to pay so high a price for the small advantages which flow from it. It is only fair to observe that other estimates of the probable cost of the Trent canal run as low as ten millions of dollars; but ten millions is a consideration not to be lightly thought of. Unless we wish to throw money away we should rather discontinue the discriminating toll of eighteen cents upon vessels passing to United States ports than expend even this smaller sum upon an enterprise which, after all, can but imperfectly protect us from the discrimination which the existing scale of tolls on this side of the line invites."

The Mail, you see, wants to be quite fair, and therefore, while assuming that the completion of the canal would cost $25,000,000, it says that "other estimates" have placed the cost as low as ten millions. Its fairness is only assumed, for the fact is that no one, except Mr. Laidlaw, has estimated that the cost of the work to be done would be as high as ten millions, and only one estimate placed the cost of the whole canal—the completed and uncompleted portions—at near that figure. There has been more than one official estimate of the cost. Mr. Rubidge's estimate, supplemented by figures furnished by Mr. Page and the expenditure made, was nearly $10,000,000, and when it is known that both these engineers are anything but partial to the work, and that they could not be suspected of trying to lower their estimate, it is amusing to see the Mail talk of twenty-five millions. Why did it not take Mr. Laidlaw's higher estimate at once and say $75,000,000? It might as well have done so. It also ignores other official estimates of the cost of the work. Mr. Stark, C.E., placed the figures at less than $4,000,000, but the Toronto organ of United States interests—the most brazen copperhead of the Canadian press—suppresses all but what it thinks will serve it purpose.

The advocacy of this work does not, as the Mail assumes, rest solely on the danger of retaliation. It was advocated and money was expended upon it long before Mr. Cleveland was heard of as President and before the Washington treaty expired. The advantages expected to accrue to local business and through traffic have been the basis of the arguments in favor of the canal, and of this the Mail cannot be as ignorant as it pretends. The fact, however, that this waterway would give an exit from the upper lakes independent of United States canals and removed from United States influence—one that would pass through the heart of the Province—is well worthy of consideration. In the face of the unfriendly attitude of the United States the Trent Valley Canal assumes additional importance, and this bearing of the question, we repeat, should not be lost sight of when the Commissioner's report is considered.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

REVIEWS.

ST. NICHOLAS.—"A Perfect Youth's Library" is what one calls St. Nicholas its bright and varied pages will back up the assertion. So clean, so fresh, so joyous, so interesting. It is captivating by its handsome appearance and most engrossing in perusal. The September number is a especially happy one. Its twenty-eight articles furnish a recherche menu for the young reader, and of which—the menu—we can only mention a part. Here is the delightful story for boys, "Two Little Confederates," and "Some Stories about California Lions," both of great interest. "What Dora Did" is a tale of the heroic rescue by a Dakota girl of her father during a blizzard. "Little Ike Templin" is continued and grows in interest. "Broken Adrift" is a capital tale and "The Mischievous Knix" is a pleasing story for little people. The whole number is filled with splendid reading that cannot but have a good influence on the boys and girls who read. For sale by all booksellers and by the Century Co., Publishers, New York.

Over an Embankment.

Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, just as the heavy rainstorm came on, an accident occurred which narrowly missed being attended with loss of life. A boy employed at Mr. R. White's livery was driving a lady from Toronto along Water-st. in a covered buggy, and just as they came to the Goose Pond gully a lady came onto the bridge and as she did so she put up a parasol. This sudden action caused the horse to stop and as the lady and parasol continued to advance towards him he shied to one side and boy, carriage and horse went over the embankment, down into the water, which is deep here on account of the gully having been filled in considerably. When the horse first started the lady with great presence of mind jumped from the buggy and thus saved her life, for if she had gone down into the water with the buggy and horse the chances are she would have been drowned. Mr. Robt. Gibbs happened to be driving by with a party in his hack, and he immediately went to the assistance of the horse and rig. The harness had to be cut and it was with great difficulty that the animal was extricated. The buggy was not damaged much, and the horse also escaped serious injuries, but every strap of the harness is cut. The lady's cloak was in the buggy at the time and was fished out of the water this morning. There should have been some protection against such an accident and now this will undoubtedly be done. The town may have to foot the bill of damages.

Returned after many Years.

Mr. Adam Clotworthy, who left Peterborough twenty six years ago, has returned to town. He has lived in British Columbia, principally in the Caribou district, engaged in mining and lumbering. Mr. Clotworthy finds many changes in Peterborough since he left it. Property owned by him and which was then considered almost out of the town, is almost in the centre now and has risen highly in value. He is visiting his brother, Mr. James Clotworthy, George-st.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Probabilities.

Fresh to strong north and northwest winds, fine weather, slightly lower temperature.

A Cynical Opinion.

A doubtful authority says that a smart bonnet is a thing of beauty and a joy for at least three weeks. It enables a woman to go to church with a soul full of peace, for an American cynic has said that "the consciousness of being thoroughly well-dressed confers on a fashionable woman a comfort that religion is powerless to bestow." This may apply in American society but not in Canadian. However the matter may rest, it is comforting to the ladies to reflect that at the golden lion millinery department the freshest and most stylish fall millinery is at hand and the skill of the staff equal the best city establishments.

Hard to Please.

Constable Adams last night arrested a man who was found asleep on the soft side of a lumber pile. The man said he was a tanner by trade, and at the Police Court this morning he was discharged without any trial. When placed in the cells he complained of the accommodation, saying he was a great deal more comfortable on the the lumber pile.

The Warsaw Milk Case.

At Toronto on Tuesday, before Chief Justice Armour and Justice Falconb ridge, Mr. E. B. Edwards obtained an order nisi to quash a conviction made by Geo. Edmison, P.M., of the County of Peterborough, in the case of Queen vs. Wasson, under the Ontario Statute of last session, respecting the supplying of milk to cheese and butter factories on the ground that the statute is ultra vires in that it deals with criminal law and the procedure in criminal matters, both of which are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament, and on the further ground of the want of any evidence to convict. This appeal will be of great interest if a decision is given on the constitutional question, as it will have effect throughout the Province.

A Trip to Koshkabogamog.

The northeastern end of Stoney Lake is not much frequented by campers or excursionists. The scenery comprises some of the best views on the Stoney Lake waters. There is the Koshkabogamog (Blue Mountains) and a little further north the mica mines. The locality is well worth a visit. In fact one cannot say that he is conversant with the geography of the lake unless the trip has been made. Here is the opportunity. The steamer Crusier will extend her regular trip as far as the head of the Lake on Thursday next, Sept. 6, to enable parties who may wish to visit the Koshkabogamog and the mine. It will be necessary for parties to take tent and provisions and convenience to remain all night. The boat will return for excursionists on the following day. Fare for the round trip from Lakefield 60 cents, children half-price. Tickets can be procured at J. J. Turner's, at Menzies' bookstore and at the boat. Train leaves Peterborough at 8.35 a.m. Steamer leaves Lakefield immediately on arrival of train from Peterborough. 2d51

A Runaway Accident.

A runaway accident occurred last evening in Ashburnham in which Thos. Ganey miraculously escaped with no very serious injuries. Mr. Ganey lives in Ashburnham and runs a barber shop at 178 Hunter-st. About six o'clock he left his home to drive to town and when at the corner near Calcutt's brewery the horse took fright and dashed down the street and hill until near the bridge, when the buggy turned on one side and its occupant was thrown out. Mr. Ganey in falling struck a telegraph pole, but, strange to relate, he sustained no further injuries that a cut on the chin. The shock, however, caused unconsciousness and Dr. Halliday was summoned, but found no bones broken. Mr. Ganey will be able to resume his tonsorial duties in a few days. The horse was not injured, but the buggy, which was a covered one, had its top pretty well smashed up and a spoke knocked out of one of the wheels. The rig belonged to Nevin's livery stable, Charlotte-st. It was a miracle that the accident did not result more seriously.

A Buyers' Experience.

As he threw a large parcel of goods into the waggon and drove off to Warsaw he related his experience. I went into the store—Bayeur's old stand where Gough's are selling off the stock. What stock? Why boots and shoes, of course. The place was fairly jammed, and no wonder. I expected to get a few things cheap, but, great scissors! I picked up a few pairs and they were so dirt cheap that I knew I'd struck a bargain. What kind of boots, eh? Well, a couple of pairs for the wife, a pair for Mirandy, a pair general purpose kind for John, five pair for the small ones and two pair nice soft leather for mother. I had something of a tug to get served and lost my chance to get home in the stage. Don't care much, for I've saved about seven dollars, and don't you forget it. Its a spanking fine place to buy and things are cheap every time. Take care o' that crossing. Yes, as I was saying, those Goughs are going to make things just hum now they've coupled onto the shoe trade. They've knocked out all the other fellows in clothing. Suit I got on came from their store. Big name, you bet. Known all over the country. Children out our way at school add them to the list as the eighth wonder. Big name in clothing and they'll make the welkin ring with boots and shoe advertising and back the statements up with solid facts. G'lang there and let me off at the crossing. 2d53

The Rev. M. L. Pearson, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, left last night for Winnipeg to attend the annual meeting of the Methodist Central Board of Missions. The duties of the Board are to fix the salaries of the general secretary and his assistants employed in the mission rooms, adjudicate on all matters pertaining to the missions, which are scattered through the Dominion of Canada, also Bermuda, Newfoundland and Japan, and are known as Domestic, French-Canadian, Indian and Foreign Missions, which include missions to the Chinese in British Columbia. The income this year has exceeded all former years, having reached $220,000.

Photographing Under Difficulties.

The excitement occasioned by the Gough burglary cast the robbery of Ball's tailor shop on the 27th of August into insignificance and it was almost forgotten that the boy Roach, who was arrested near the spot where the goods were found, was still held in gaol here on suspicion of being connected with the job. This morning ended the week for which he was remanded, but he will be held for eight days longer pending inquiries and efforts that will be made to find out his history and reputation. About eleven o'clock Chief Roszel brought the boy down to Mr. G. J. Early's photograph gallery to have him photographed. The young fellow, however, objected to having his image placed on tin and kept his head on the move until the chief held his head and the result was that a pair appeared on the card. The boy finally allowed a pair of very good photographs of himself to be taken, and one of these will be sent to Toronto for indentification.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

THE TOWN COUNCIL TO BE ASKED FOR AN $800 GRANT.

A Half Holiday Granted—Music Classes to be Given a Trial—A New Inspector Appointed.

The Board of Education met last evening in the Board room, Mayor Stevenson, Chairman, presiding. There were present:—Messrs. Dumble, Denne, Kendry, A. Rutherford, Weir, Wrighton, English, T. Rutherford and Dr. Burnham.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

THAT $4,000 GRANT.

An informal discussion arose in reference to the $4,000 asked from the Town Council next year, and Mayor Stevenson explained that the Council had absolutely refused to put the sum on the rolls, and said that the case of London had been cited, where the council had refused to put a sum on the rolls under similar circumstances and had been supported by their attorney, and in which case the Board had to submit it to the people and levy their own rate and send out collectors to collect it.

COMMUNICATIONS AND ACCOUNTS.

A communication was read from Mr. Alex. Marting, Secretary of the Department of Education, inquiring what action had been taken towards making the improvements recommended by the Inspector.—Received.

An account from John Lasher of $4 50 for work done.—Referred to Chairman of Property Committee for investigation.

Account from E. Appleton & Co. of $12.—Received.

Mr. DUMBLE made a verbal report stating that Mr. Ellis had accepted the position of teacher in the Institute.

ANOTHER GRANT WANTED.

It was moved by Mr. KENDRY, seconded by Mr. DENNE,—That the Secretary of the School Board be instructed to ask the Town Council for the sum of eight hundred dollars to meet and pay for the improvements now being made at the Central School in addition to former demand.

The motion was carried.

The MAYOR said he had been asked if the Board would allow the children to have a half holiday on the 27th to enable them to see the exhibition. The holiday was granted.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS.

On motion Mr. Parker, of St. Paul's church, addressed the Board in reference to the teaching of singing in the Collegiate Institute. A fee could be charged by the Board, he said, and a salary paid to the instructor. He thought it would cost the school about $300 a year. The fees would be about $2 for advanced pupils and $1 for beginners.

Mr. DUMBLE favored this suggestion. Singing was a nice accomplishment. It brought pleasure into homes and had a refining influence. Where music was taught in this way it enabled those who could not have a teacher come to the house for private tuition to obtain a knowledge of music. They could try it for six months and see how near the fees would come to paying for the instructor. He was decidedly in favor of this movement and he therefore moved that Mr. Parker be employed for six months at a salary of $300 a year to instruct the scholars in music after school hours and that a fee of $1 per term be charged.

OBJECTIONS TO THE SCHEME.

Mr. A. RUTHERFORD was in favor of music and singing but he did not think it proper to bring in a report such as this before they considered the expenditure. Besides there were a number of teachers in town and this would interfere with them getting their livelihood and he would oppose it. He favored referring it the Committee on Appointments.

Mr. DUMBLE said he snatched at the chance, for here was an opportunity for all the children to get a knowledge of music and he saw no risk in trying it for six months.

Mr. DENNE favored letting Mr. Parker try it for a month to see what the result would be.

Mr. LONG, headmaster of the Collegiate Institute, said music was on the regular programme and this would also assist Sergt.-Major Rundle in his drill classes as some of the movements were done with music.

Mr. DUMBLE said here they had not given any attention to such accomplishments. In the American schools they gave a very good education in music and the result was seen in the homes. He had suggested the devoting of Friday afternoons to recitations, debating and singing and these will have a good influence on all the scholars.

The matter was allowed to drop with the understanding that Mr. Parker be given a room and allowed to try the experiment for a month.

THE INSPECTORATE.

Mr. DENNE inquired if the inspector was improving in health and if he was able to attend to his duties.

Mr. DUMBLE said he might state that he had been talking with a Toronto teacher who had told him that the inspector and teachers met and discussed and compared their different methods of teaching subjects—a sort of model school—and this resulted in good results. The speaker said he thought new modes of teaching would be introduced and the teachers would not continue following the same methods all the time.

The motion for the appointing of an inspector pro tem during the illness of Mr. Stratton was suggested, and the Board went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Dumble in the chair.

MR. TILLEY TO BE EMPLOYED.

The committee arose and reported as follows:—"That Mr. Stratton, in view of his long services as Inspector of our public schools, be relieved of duty, that he be paid his salary to the end of the year and that Mr. Tilley, Inspector of Public Schools for Durham, be employed as inspector of the public schools at a salary of $200 a year."

The board adjourned.

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

MANITOBA'S MISFORTUNE.

A CONSIDERABLE PORTION OF THE WHEAT CROP FROSTED.

Conflicting Reports Received at Winnipeg but Very Probably One-quarter of the Wheat Is Partially Damaged.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—While reports regarding the damage to crops conflict materially there is no use denying the fact that the loss sustained is much heavier than at first expected. Sir William Howland, who has just returned from an extended visit through the province, says, however, that the reports are greatly exaggerated, and he is taking some fine samples east. The full results will probably not be known till threshing.

The Sun says: "Local wheat reports received in the city are conflicting. A reporter was informed by a gentleman of repute yesterday that all the crops around Emerson and Dominion City were secure and unharmed by the frost. To-day, however, grain buyers state that the frost has done considerable damage east of Dominion City."

Conflicting reports such as the above come from all over the country, but it is safe to estimate that a very large proportion of Manitoba's crop is unfrosted and under such circumstances the large bulk of the wheat will be m rketed as No. 1 Manitoba hard under the revised standards.

From Another Correspondent.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—The balance of the reports received here is undoubtedly to the effect that considerable damage will be done by the frost say that one-quarter of the wheat will suffer partial damage. But the total cash received for the whole crop will still be more than last year because of the higher prices.

The Ogilvies and other wheat buyers have been scouring the country for the best information, and they spare no pains. The Board of Trade is alert and wakeful at this time and Mr. Bell, the secretary, is indefatigable.

This year's barley is of marvelously fine quality, plump and bright, and from this on barley will count as a staple crop in the Prairie Province.

Oats are simply immense, both as to quantity and quality.

QUEBEC POLITICS.

A Cabinet Reconstruction Impending—A Contemplated Redistribution.

QUEBEC, Sept. 5.—The advent of autumn is reviving interest in the local political situation and notwithstanding all denials it is well known that the Mercier Government is on the eve of reconstruction. This is confirmed by Mr. Mercier's personal organ, L'Electeur, which, while declaring that the rumors are premature, admits that the changes have been definitely decided upon, that Hon. P. Garneau's resignation is actually in the hands of the Premier, that he is to be succeeded by Hon. L. P. Pelletier, and that Hon. J. Langelier is also to enter the Cabinet, but whether as Attorney-General, or Commissioner of Crown Lands, is not certain, one report having it that he is to take the place of Hon. A. Turcotte, and the other, which is by far the most likely, that he is to succeed Hon. Mr. Duhamel, who is to receive the position of Assistant Provincial Secretary, vice Jolicoeur to be superannuated. Another report has it that Mr. Dennis Murray, Clerk of the Feace, is to be appointed Joint Judge of the Police Court with Judge Chauveau. In the event of Mayor Langelier entering the Ministry, Dr. Rinfret will vacate the seat for Quebec Centre in his favor and be raised to the Legislative Council.

The same paper has an article this morning condemning the maintenance of the principle of dual representation in the Legislative Council.

Another important announcement of Premier Mercier's policy is given when it is stated that he contemplates a redistribution of the seats. The scheme is to form three more constituencies in Montreal and have no less than six representatives in Parliament of the metropolis. Two constituencies will be formed out of the Counties of Chicoutimi and Saguenay, Richmond and Wolfe and Drummond and Arthabaska which only send one representative to Parliament at present. It is also the Premier's intention to add to the County of Laval two or three parishes which now form part of Terrebonne.

Her Excellency wore a robe of grey velvet with bead embroidery, ornaments, diamonds; Hon. Isabel Stanley wore white lace and a pearl necklace; Mrs. Bagot wore black velvet trimmed with jet and pink, ornaments, diamonds; Miss Lister wore blue tulle; Mrs. Earle black and grey, ornaments, diamonds; Miss Barrett black tulle with salmon ribbons.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING EPPS'S COCOA BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack whenever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her stye of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a new make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

J. C. TURNBULL.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

THE QUEBEC CIRCUIT COURT ACT TO BE DISALLOWED.

The London Capitalists' Petition re the Quebec Debt Conversion Act Under Consideration.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—The rumor was fully circulated here to-day, based on a telegram from Montreal, that the Circuit Court Act passed at the last session of the Quebec Legislature, and under which Mr. Mercier recently appointed two judges, had been disallowed, but no confirmation of the rumor could be obtained to-night. Your correspondent, however, has reason to believe that there is ground for the rumor.

It is stated that the attention of the Militia Department having been called to the letter which appeared in The Toronto World, signed "George H. Douglas, Lieut. 24th Kent Infantry," dwelling upon the possibility of war with the States and suggesting that "our prime move would be the capture of Detroit," an official communication has been sent to Lieut. Douglas requesting an explanation of his attaching to his signature his rank in the Canadian militia. The Department would not interfere with Douglas writing as a private individual, it is the ventilation of his warlike feelings in connection with his rank as a volunteer that is called in question.

The memorial of London capitalists, forwarded through the Imperial Government, asking the Canadian authorities to veto the debt conversion bill passed by the Quebec Legislature, and which practically means repudiation, has been received here and is under consideration.

Major Anderson, engineer of the Department of Marine, will leave in the course of a few days for Lower Traverse, St. Lawrence River, for the purpose of locating two stationary piers there to take the place of the present light ships. The work will be very expensive and probably cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

The Department of Justice forwarded to-day to the prison authorities at Moutreal a release for the daughter of an Ottawa citizen, who went astray. She has promised to lead a new life and her father has consented to care for her.

Col. Irwin, Inspector of Artillery, who has just returned from an official tour of inspection in the Maritime Provincec, reports a marked improvement in the force.

On Monday next the Exchequer Committee will take up the claim of the Government against the city for $2400 arrears due on certain coal wharves.

Hon. C. H. Tupper and Hon. G. E. Foster left to-day for Beaverton to participate in the political demonstration there to-morrow. Sir John Macdonald, who intended also to be present, was detained at the last moment by pressing public business.

THE FROST IN MANITOBA.

Not Much Certain Can Be Known About the Damage Yet Awhile.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6.—As to the effect of the frost on the wheat the truth is that not much certain can be known about it until reports from the threshing machines begin to come in. The cylinder and the concave will tell the story sure. Still there are buyers and their agents who are now on the tramp and examining with eager eyes what there is to be seen, and some of these are no fools at the business either.

Ontario people will admit not many better judges of the situation are to be found than Sir Wm. P. Howland who is now here just after an extensive drive over the prairies, and whose opinion is, as stated in the despatches yesterday, that the reports of losses are greatly exaggerated.

People in the east will scarcely believe it, but it is a fact that for information as to weather, both immediately past and to come, people here are wholly dependent upon Uncle Sam's probabilities office at Washington, or say rather, on the enterprise of the Winnipeg papers and the vividness of the American associated press. This is astounding to think of. In a few days deputations will wait upon Mr. Greenway to see if he has any influence with the powers that be in Ottawa in the matter.

To-day the air has appeared softer and not so much like frost that would be dangerous, though somewhat chilly.

A Winnipeg Press Opinion.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6.—The Sun says that the exact position of the crops is not learned. Damage has been done in some localities by the frost and continued cold weather makes it probable that more injury will be done to grain. At the same time there is reason to believe that the reports made as to the extent of the damage are greatly exaggerated and that a considerable portion of this year's crop can be saved in good condition.

It is almost certain that with the higher prices and the larger area under cultivation the farmers will receive more money than last year.

The Latest News.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6.—Later—It is the talk here now that half the wheat is damaged to half its value. That would be a loss of one-fourth of the total.

No Quorum in the U. S. Senate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Senate took a vote on the passage of the Chinese bill late yesterday afternoon. Thirty-two votes were recorded in favor of its passage and none against it. As there was no quorum, and no likelihood of getting one, the Senate then, without disposing of the bill, adjourned.

Proposed Ship Canal in England.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The provisional committee appointed to enquire into the advisability of building a ship canal between Liverpool and Birmingham, has made a report favoring the project and recommending that immediate steps be taken to obtain from Parliament the necessary power.

A party of Canadian Pacific surveyors are on their way to Battleford.

LONDON TALK OF THE DAY

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S ALLEGED FONDNESS FOR CONVIVIALITY.

A Remarkable Burial Scandal—Labby's Comments on Customs and Politics—The European Prospect Peaceful.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The announcement which recently went the rounds of the papers, that Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria had consented to be one of the godfathers of Emperor William's infant son and that he would go to Potsdam to attend the christening, excited the utmost astonishment in Germany, and when a court contradiction appeared the report was regarded as a practical joke. Emperor William and the Crown Prince were excellent friends during several years, and they regularly exchanged visits. But Rudolph is a priggish young man who appreciates the fact that he has a very delicate constitution, whereas William, like the Czar, is fond of Rabelaisian entertainment generally and particularly of champagne suppers which last till daylight. This difference in their tastes and habits has increasingly diminished the cordiality of their relations.

A burial scandal of a remarkable nature has just disturbed the peace of Croydon. A man died in the infirmary on the same day as a woman, and the former was to be buried by the parish and the latter by relatives. By some inexplicable bungling the bodies got mixed, with the result that the woman was put into the man's coffin and the man into the woman's and the mourning relatives of the latter followed the wrong body to the cemetery. The mistake transpired after the funerals and the bodies were exhumed and transferred. The officials have been severely censured by the parish guardians.

I have more than once commented on the absurdity of the prudish custom which prohibits persons of opposite sexes from bathing together at English watering-places, even if they are husband and wife or brother and sister. Last week the consequences of that preposterous rule were strikingly exemplified. At Cross Haven a young married lady named O'Connor was bathing there while her husband, who was not allowed to accompany her, sat on the rocks. She was suddenly carried beyond her depth and drowned before her husband could rescue her. It is certainly not too much to say that if the continental system had been in vogue at Cross Haven this deplorable accident would not have occurred. The notion that a woman in a bathing dress is an indecent object or that for her to bathe with a male relation or friend would be improper, is one of those peculiarly nasty ideas which only occur to prudish people.

The ventilation of Irish questions has had one unquestionable effect. It has sent a considerable number of intelligent and observant Englishmen over to Ireland to study things themselves. With a good many of these pilgrims I have chanced to come into contact and am sorry to say that, with few exceptions, the view they bring back is one of utter and hopeless despair. They maintain that Ireland is verily sick unto death; that she has been so long shamefully and brutally misused; so wholly and cruelly neglected and brought low down; so completely drained of blood and strength and recuperative power, that never can she recover. They declare that they saw in Ireland nothing in repair except the roads, more roofless gables than roofed houses, half ruined towns surrounded by crumbling stores, and empty and dilapidated warehouses, fairs and markets badly attended, sheep and cattle of inferior quality and poor quantity—nay, the very soil of the country spent and exhausted. "Home Rule or no Home Rule," says one traveler, "Ireland is done for. It would take a hundred years to pick her up."

The European prospect was decidedly warlike a few weeks ago to those behind the scenes, but peace now appears assured, at least for the next three or four years. While the papers were absorbed in speculating upon the results of the German Emperor's visit to Russia they entirely forgot Rome, which has really been the political center of late, and the game which was there being played was quite overlooked. Prince Bismarck had undoubtedly hinted to Signor Crispi that Italy would do well presently to quarrel with France; and, supposing that war had broken out between the two countries, Germany's opportunity would have arrived. Signor Crispi has displayed amazing want of tact, and has muddled matters by playing his cards far too fast, and altogether in so clumsy a manner as to reveal the object of his game to all Europe. I hear from a reliable correspondent in Germany that Prince Bismarck, much exasperated at the stupidity of the Italian Premier, who has been sharply snubbed by the Chancellor, is now more than ever annoyed that the Emperor should have insisted upon making an expedition to Rome this autumn.

The audience at this year's Bayreuth performances have been much larger than in any previous summer, and there was a remarkable increase in the number of English and American visitors. The total expenses of the seventeen performances amounted to $85,000, but there is considerable surplus profit. HENRY LABOUCHERE.

A Horrible Murder.

AGENDA, Kan., Sept. 6.—A horrible affair is reported from the neighborhood of Guide Rock, a small town just over the Nebraska line. John Baker, while feeding a threshing machine on the farm of a man named Weeks, was accidentally cut on the hand by the band cutter by a boy. In a rage he grasped the boy and deliberately fed him into the machine, feet first. The boy's screams attracted the attention of the other hands, but before they could interfere the boy's body had half disappeared in the machine. The enraged men seized Baker and hanged him to the straw carrier.

Belligerent Windsor Officials.

WINDSOR, Sept. 6.—For some time there has been bad blood between certain town officials and it culminated in two fisticuff combats, in the first of which Fred. Davis, son of Ald. Davis, struck Waterworks Engineer Hall a terrific blow on the eye. Hall struck back and for a minute or two a vigorous round was fought, after which bystanders interfered. After Hall's injuries were attended to he walked into the Waterworks office and attacked Ald. Davis. A lively scrimmage ensued and both men were bleeding freely when separated.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Warrants Issued for the Wandering Jew—Broker Cox' Bail Increased.

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—The development in Central Bank affairs yesterday was the issue of two warrants against 'Roland Israel Gideon Barnett, (the "Wandering Jew") on a charge of defrauding the bank out of some $10,000 before its collapse. Barnett was last heard of in London, Eng., on July 21.

It is whispered that an agreement has been arrived at between the city and the University authorities in reference to the Queen's park difficulty.

Broker Cox was in the Police Court yesterday to answer the second charge against him. No evidence was offered, nor were the arrangements completed for his release on bail, which was increased on the new charge by $16,000, himself in $8000 and two sureties in $4000 each. He comes up again to-morrow.

A Bull Movement in Trunk Stocks.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—A somewhat marked bull movement in Trunk stocks took place this week. Preference were 2½ higher on the week.

THE MONTREAL BUCKET SHOPS.

Warrants Against Paquette and Hanrahan & Co. Issued Yesterday.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—The war against the bucket shops, so long impending, seems at last to have come to a crisis here. Two warrants were issued yesterday by Judge Desnoyers, one against J. C. Paquette and the other against Hanrahan & Co. The warrants accuse Paquette and Hanrahan of keeping a bucket shop, contrary to statute, and empowering all police officers to raid their premises. The information was laid by a citizen who claims to have been swindled at one of the establishments.

The lifeless body of Narcisse Dagenais, a quarryman employed at Vallieres quarry at Cote St. Louis, was found in another quarry at 6.30 yesterday morning. He is supposed to have fallen into the quarry, which is 28 feet deep, at a late hour while crossing an embankment on his way home. Dagenais was 57 years of age and has been employed at Vallieres quarry for 30 years.

In the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday Edmund Berard was found guilty of neglecting to provide for his wife and family. Sentence, however, was suspended on his promise of paying $5 weekly to his wife and to discontinue drinking.

The Committee of Investigation appointed by Temple Emmanuel to investigate the charges brought by Mrs. Schynman against Rabbi Marks of improprieties has concluded its labors and prepared a report which says that after examining witnesses and hearing the denial of the reverend gentleman and there being no proof in corroboration, the charge made is not proved and he is freed therefrom.

A young son of Mr. Dupuy, seed merchant of this city, who was on a shooting expedition on the Upper Gatineau with a friend, was accidentally shot in the back by his comrade and is not expected to live.

The city detectives have been busily engaged trying to find S. O. Dupree, cashier of the Lyons Bank of Lyons, Kan., who is supposed to have left Lyons with some $100,000 of the bank's funds and directed his course towards Montreal.

HE TOOK FRENCH LEAVE.

A New Edinboro Parson Disappoints His Expectant Bride at the Altar.

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—The little village of New Edinboro is in a high state of excitement over the sudden collapse of a wedding which was to have taken place in St. Bartholomew's Church last evening between Rev. Marc Ami, Pastor of the French Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Graburn, widow of the late Captain Graburn of the Marine Department.

The engagement of the couple, both of whom are well on in middle life, was announced some time ago and was strongly opposed by the friends of the clergyman, who, for a while, resisted the pressure, but it is said that when he was officially informed that his marriage would not only result in his losing his living here, but in his being expelled from the Presbyterian Church he gave in and one of last evening's papers announced that he has left on a visit to France.

This, however, does not appear to have been known to the bride and her friends who assembled at the church, and great indignation was expressed when it was found that the prospective groom had changed his mind at the last minute. Legal proceedings are spoken of.

HER LIFE FOR HER CHILDREN.

Mrs. Grant's Terrible Death at Winnipeg—An Embezzling Canvasser.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Grant who was badly burnt Tuesday night, died yesterday morning. She sacrificed herself to save her sleeping children whom she awoke and took to a place of safety while her own clothes were burning. The youngest child narrowly escaped sharing her terrible fate.

A temperance convention is to be held at Regina to protest against the concessions recently made and proposed to the liquor traffic.

The contract for grading the Red River Valley Railway into the city was let yesterday to J. D. MacArthur, to be completed in a week.

Mayor Lewis, a well-known politician, has skipped the country to avoid arrest on a charge of embezzlement made by The Sun newspaper for which he was canvassing.

There was a suicide in Woodlands yesterday, but no particulars have been received.

A Chicago Workman's Terrible Fate.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Louis Larsen, a workman for Crane Brothers, yesterday crawled into an iron cylinder used for the piston of a hydraulic elevator to clean it. He took with him a lighted candle and built a fire of benzine. In a short time the cylinder was filled with inflammable gas. An explosion followed and the man was enveloped in flames which filled the entire cylinder. The workmen were attracted to the spot by his cries but it was impossible to get at him, and enough water could not be at once procured to quench the flames. His companions were therefore compelled to stand helpless and listen to the burning man's cries until they were stilled by death.

Pitched Through a Railway Bridge.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 6.—Two miles west of Middleton, a loaded freight car jumped the track as the train was approaching a trestle bridge near that place. The bridge is 40 feet high and the car struck it with such force as to break it down, thereby allowing a couple of cars, as well as the caboose to pitch into the gulf below. Conductor Peacock was seriously hurt externally by going through the bridge. He was brought here and grave doubts are entertained of his recovery. The collapse of the bridge caused a delay of traffic for some hours.

An Italian Knife Stabber.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 6.—An ugly fight took place between a couple of Italians on the Fort William road, near the west angle, ending in a stabbing affray. Jas. Ross and Calabere De Ross, both Italians, were seen by Ed. West at the place mentioned, fighting desperately. All at once Ross pulled a large knife and gave his opponent a fearful stab in the forehead, inflicting a horrible gash. De Ross fell down and Ross continued to stab him, cutting both his hands in a horrible manner. West sprang to the rescue and pulled off the cowardly villain. Ross was subsequently arrested.

They Cannot Serve Two Masters.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—The telegraph operators along the line of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad are in a state of anxiety over the recent order from the company to sever their connection with the Order of Telegraphers or vacate their position. It is reported that the company has been making propositions to accomplish this for the past three months, and has secured men to fill every vacancy likely to occur under this order.

A Montreal Forger.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—Auguste Mely was arraigned yesterday charged with forging the name of Galibert Brothers, manufacturers, to a cheque for $200. There were two counts in the indictment, another cheque for $200 having also been forged. Mely had given M. Doly, a boardinghouse keeper, the cheque, not in payment for anything, but merely to keep it for him.

Woodstock Cheese Market.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 6.—At the cheese market held here yesterday, 7000 boxes were boarded. The sales were 850 boxes August make at 9 cents.

THE RETALIATION DEBATE

ANOTHER DAY OF TALK IN THE UNITED STATES HOUSE.

Congressmen of Both Political Parties Trying to Make Capital for the Campaign Out of the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The House resumed consideration of the Retaliation bill yesterday, and Mr. Phelps (Rep., N.J.) arose to speak on the subject. He said:

"We will give the President this power and any other additional power he may ask for, but we wish there was more likelihood that he would use these powers now than there was that he would use the original powers of eighteen months ago. The powers were then thought to be ample, and they were. If the treaty stipulations are abrogated, as the President claims, they are sufficient to cut off Canada from all commercial intercourse, foreign and domestic. If they are not, the powers are still sufficient to deprive Canada of all intercolonial or interstate commerce both by sea or land. At the time these powers were granted everybody thought them ample, and nobody since, president or citizen, has suggested that there was not all the power necessary to harass and coerce Canada into good behavior, until Thursday, Aug. 23. Then the President went out alone and shot the rocket of his presidential message into the clear and peaceful air.

"His opinion was that we had no right to tranship our fish, and in order to maintain this opinion and justify Canada in refusing to let us do it he was forced to do and suffer many unpleasant things. He had first to get rid of the 29th article of the treaty of 1871. There were two ways to cancel this: One was to hold that the article was cancelled by infraction when the Canadians refused to perform their duty under it; the other was to hold it was cancelled by formal abrogation with the fisheries treaty. The first was declined. The obligations of the article were cancelled by infraction and everybody knew and acknowledged the fact. The other was indirect and uncertain, but the President chose it. He determined to adopt the belief that it was abrogated. I venture to say that the first inkling Canadian authorities had that the President thought the article was abrogated was when they read the President's message."

The speaker held that the President, under the article which he believed to have been abrogated, was heaping favors on Canadian shippers by land and sea, that they might compete with their American rivals. He referred to the special favors granted the Canadian railways, particularly the facilities extended to the Canadian Pacific in the way of allowing them to carry goods in bond, detrimental to the American railroads, and concluded:

"The President because he would not tell anyone that he thought the twenty-ninth article was abrogated but would keep on executing its provisions just as if it were in force had trouble with not only Canada but everybody else. But these unpleasant things are behind us. If Article XXIX was not cancelled by abrogation, it was by infraction and our hands are free if we wish them to be. The responsibility we are willing to leave with the President. He is now the president of the message—not the president of the treaty. He is no longer the Governor-General of Canada; he is the President of the United States. He no longer takes the Canadian view: he takes the American view. If now he will act, if he will do anything, we will give him everything he asks for, necessary or unnecessary, and the past will be forgiven." [Applause].

Mr. Belmont (Dem., N.Y.) then addressed the House. After referring to the two Republican gentlemen (Hitt and Phelps) who preceded him, and whose opinions he greatly respected, he said, after hearing their arguments on this measure, and remembering that in not one single sentence has either of them declared his intention to vote against the bill, and after hearing such remarks as they have made upon it his only difficulty was to believe that even those who may be politically opposed to the President should in such a grave crisis as this charge upon him motives inconsistent with his duty, so bravely and well performed, to guard and protect the rights of American citizens and maintain the dignity and honor of the nation. He said: "We are not Democrats and not Republicans when confronted by the unfriendly acts of a foreign power."

He added that while he had something to learn from our friends across the aisle about the treaty we might both learn something from our enemies across the border, and he sent to the clerk's desk and had read an extract from a speech of Mr. Ellis in the Canadian Parliament, being a pointed resume of the advantages Canada had gained under the treaty.

Mr. Davis, (Rep., Mass.) followed Mr. Belmont. He said the President had not seen fit to exercise the powers already conferred on him, but he had seen fit to negotiate a treaty, which had been properly rejected by the Senate. He denounced it as part and parcel of the free trade conspiracy. The sheathed sword which Congress had placed in his hands the President did not dare to draw. Nay; he dared not touch the hilt with his nerveless hand! Oh! for one hour of Dundee! Oh! for one day of Jackson or of Grant! [Applause on Republican side.]

The debate was continued by Mr. Cogswell (Rep., Mass.) and Mr. Scott (Dem., Pa.).

THE INTERNATIONAL FAIR.

A Number of First Prizes Captured by Ontario Exhibitors.

BUFFALO, Sept. 6.—The judging of exhibits at the International fair began yesterday morning. Among the judges are A Fanson of Toronto for French coach horses, and Robert Beith of Bowmanville for Clydesdales. Some of the premiums were awarded yesterday.

In the English and Clydesdales, Messrs. Stone and Wellington of Fonthill, Ont., got first prize on their 1-year-old stallion, Active.

Charles Dalgiesh of Chesterfield, Ont., captured first for the 4-year-old and over class with Laird of Logan, and in the same class Messrs. Stone and Wellington of Fonthill got fifth prize with General Benefit.

The Fonthill firm also captured the first prize for the 4-year-old mare Alice.

Thomas Davis' Fatal Folly.

Two Highwaymen.

THE CUP CAPTURED.

The Peterboroughs Play Good Ball and win the Cup.

The Peterborough Baseball Club went to Campbellford yesterday, to play in the tournament for the Father Casey cup, and returned last night, bringing the trophy with them. They succeeded in winning it from the other two clubs entered—Hastings and Campbellford. The Ashley nine of Belleville failed to put in an appearance; still it is a question whether the result would have been changed, the only difference would have been that the boys would have had to play another game.

The Peterborough nine was composed of the following:—Kincaid, s.s.; F. Burnan, 1b; Moore, 2b.; Callahan, c.; Galley, 3b.; O'Brien, r.f.; Cameron, p.; Pearson, 2b; Clark, c.f.

The first game was played between Hastings and Peterborough. The game was called about 11.30 and seven innings were played by Hastings and six by Peterborough, the score being 11 to 13. Cameron and Galley were in the box for the Peterboroughs and did excellent execution, while Callaghan caught a good game on both occasions. Davey and Billings were the battery for Hastings. The boys all played a good steady game. The score by innings was as follows:—

Peterborough .....2 1 2 4 0 4 x—13
Hastings .....0 2 2 0 5 0 2—11

THE SECOND GAME.

After lunch had been partaken of the Peterboroughs marched out to meet the Campbellford nine. The men all played in the same positions and Cameron and Galley again changed off in the pitching. The battery worked well and victory again was with the Peterboroughs. Beatty and Carson were in the points for Campbellford. The score by innings was:—

Peterborough.....1 0 0 6 3 3 0—13
Campbellford.....0 2 4 1 0 0 3—10

At Hymen's Altar.

A happy event took place last evening at the residence of Mr. Henry Denne, when his third daughter, Miss Polly Denne, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. A. St. A. Smith, accountant of the Bank of Toronto here. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, and was a very quiet wedding, being witnessed only by the relatives of the contracting parties. The couple left last night for Quebec and will visit other eastern cities before their return. The congratulations and best wishes of a large circle of friends will be lavished on the happy pair, in which the REVIEW heartily joins.

Cabinet Ministers in Town.

The 5.57 train on the C.P.R. last evening, brought two of the Government Ministers to Peterborough—the Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and the Hon. J. G. Haggart, Postmaster General. These gentlemen were on their way to Beaverton, where they speak at the demonstration there to-day. They registered at the Oriental, and after having dined, were driven around the town by Mayor Stevenson, who pointed out to them Peterborough's many manufactories, and points of interest. The Ministers expressed themselves as highly delighted with Peterborough as a town, and were well pleased with those of its citizens whom they met. It was expected that Sir John Macdonald and Hon. Mr. Foster would have stopped here on their way to Beaverton this morning, but a telegraph message was received, informing the Ministers that Sir John and Mr. Foster would be unable to come. Messrs. Tupper and Haggart left for Beaverton this morning, and will be in town again to-night, from nine o'clock until eleven, when they will probably be the guests of Mayor Stevenson.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you may depend upon this for certain.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"Dr. Goldsmith last week packed up all his household effects and with his family took their departure for Peterborough where he will resume the work of his profession. By the Dr's. removal we lose one of our best citizens, and a reliable physician who enjoyed a practice which few medical men attain to in a small place. We hope he will succeed well and enjoy his new home."

Mr. Fred. Wood, drug clerk in Dr. Gallagher's drug store will, says the Herald, in a few days leave Campbellford for Toronto to undergo his examination. He will spend a few weeks in Peterborough before going to the city. His position will be filled by Austin B. Hoolihan, late in the employ of Mr. Schofield, druggist, of Peterborough.

New Buildings.

The rubbish on the lot along the bank of the river on Water-st. east of Cavonagh's hotel was being cleared up and burned to-day. Extensive sheds and stables will be erected here for the accommodation of the Cavanagh hotel.

Home once More.

Mrs. Nicholls and Messrs R. Hall, E. H. D. Hall and McGill returned home from Ashbury Park, N. J., last evening. They travelled in a special pullman car and had to make no changes from Ashbury Park to Peterborough. Mrs. Nicholls is much improved in health and stood the fatigue of the long journey excellently. She is improving every day and it is hoped that she will soon regain her wonted health and strength.

Consumption Can be Cured

by proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Petitcodiac, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons with consumptive tendencies." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Another Residence.

Work was commenced this morning to prepare the ground for the erection of a building for Mr. C. Stapleton on Water-st., in front of the Court House park. Mr. Stapleton's present dwelling will be removed and a fine double house built much after the style of Mr. O. C. Rowse's houses on Rubidge-st. The building will cost between $4,000 and $5,000. Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald drew the plans and has the contract for building.

Brevities.

—The cells were vacant last night.

—No police court to-day.

—The regular monthly shooting match at the butts should have been held to-day but was postponed on account of the Dominion Rifle Association matches at Ottawa.

—The Herald learns that the Grand Trunk Railway Co. will change the location of the road through Campbellford, and build a new station, next summer.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steeping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

2ND. The place of the sweet buy and buy, is what our customers say of The Pantry.

A Big Fish Story.

The biggest fish story of the season comes from Bridgenorth. It is that a guest of Fobert's Hotel, on Tuesday morning, while still fishing, caught a maskinonge 4 feet 13 inches in length, weighing 47 pounds and 17 ounces. This story, if true, is wonderful, but not half so wonderful as the gigantic bargain in boots and shoes now being given by Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men, who have knocked the bottom clean out of the boot and shoe trade. They bought on Aug. 22nd. the immense bankrupt stock of boots and shoes of T. L. Bayeur, at 57 cents on the dollar, and they are selling it away below cost. Just fancy—2,500 pairs of men's, women's and children's boots and shoes. The sale is now going on, the rush is tremendous for the bargains, are boundless. This firm have made themselves the uncrowned kings of the clothing trade and to complete their facilities for clothing a man from head to foot, both inclusive, they have added the boot and shoe business. Don't forget that this sound, well-assorted stock of boots and shoes is going at the cheapest prices ever heard of—dead loads of bargains in boots, stupendous snaps in shoes. No more leather-hunting for the people. Come straight to the shop next south of Gough Bros.' clothing store, 375 George-st., and get your boots and shoes for the fall and winter at prices to make you conscience-smitten.

THE BUDGET.

Councillor DAVIDSON said he was rather surprised himself when he found that the rate for 1888 was going to be kept down to 12½ mills. The controllable expenditure of the town was very small, being only $15,164 out of $47,355, the whole amount raised, and $9,500 of this controllable amount had been expended on streets. There was a saving of 2 mills or $839 on the cost of the administration of justice, which was largely due to the saving in the arbitration, and to the fact that no repairs were required to the Court House this year. There was an increase of $400 in the electric light account, $160 in municipal government, $100 in furniture, $250 in fire department, $250 in hydrants, $50 in interest, $100 in insurance, $100 in printing, $200 in real estate, which was repairs to buildings, etc., $350 in special grants, and $790 in water. He explained that there was of $350 in the fire department as this year he did not credit the fire department with the $600 received from Ashburnham, but put it in as direct revenue. Insurance had been made a separate item and the $100 had formerly been placed under the miscellaneous head. The decreases had been in the following accounts:—Canada Temperance Act, $400; elections, $100; gas, $100; heating, $75; miscellaneous, $100; streets and bridges, $300; losses, $200. The teams engaged by the corporations had been charged to different accounts this year. The first $700 team was charged to fire, the second $650 team to water, and the third $125 team to streets and bridges. The whole rounded up made a town rate of 3 mills extra. In the Public school demand, he said, there was a decrease of a mill, in the Roman Catholic Separate school 6-10 of a mill and in the Collegiate Institute 1-10 of a mill. Town debentures showed an increase of 1-10 of a mill which was anticipating six months interest on those now being issued. The general statement of prepared would prove very useful. Parties when tendering for debentures had always asked for the assets and liabilities and they had struck off a statement and had it printed to be handed to parties tendering for debentures. The increase in the whole assessment was $76,010 over last year, of which $26,225 was increase on the Roman Catholic, which made a saving of 5-10 of a mill. The rate would be satisfactory to the town for he had himself expected a ¼ of a mill more. He would move, therefore, the first reading of the by-law fixing the rate for the year 1888.

LOW RATE BUT GOOD TOWN.

Councillor MOORE seconded the motion and complimented Mr. Davidson on his report. No person had any idea what an amount of work it was to prepare the estimates, and both the town and the council deserved congratulations on the condition of affairs shown in the report. The controllable expenses in Peterborough were very small, and he could see no reason with respect to the street—why the grade should be altered, having been already so well constructed, and he thought unless the bed of the creek was correspondingly lowered or deepened it would not be advisable to reduce the grade. In any case he would not advise the lowering of the bridge more than the thickness of the present stone girder beds—namely about eight inches—and in doing this the town should protect itself from future claims for damages that may be resultant on the lowering of the bridge.

THE SCHOOL GRANT.

The council then went into committee of the whole for the adoption of the by-law striking the rate for 1888, Councillor A. Hall in the chair.

Mayor STEVENSON said he must also congratulate Mr. Davidson on his report. The estimates were well prepared and he was highly gratified that the rate had been kept down 12½ mills, but he did not think they were providing for the schools as they should. The Government had ordered certain improvements and unless these were made the town would be called upon to make up the Government grant of $1,400 a year. The Board asked for $800 to tide them over this year and he hoped that the Chairman of Finance could insert that amount in the estimates. If this was not done the Board would have to itself, which was not desirable. They were willing to allow the amount required for the new school building to stand until next year when it could be raised by issuing debentures. He had driven around with the Hon. C. H. Tupper, and had pointed out many requirements, and he thought as the Government had built a new post office and intended building a new custom house that the standard of the school should be kept up, which it could not be if the Government grant was not received.

SHOULD HAVE A SCHOOL.

Councillor KENDRY said that the North Ward should have a new school, as there were from 200 to 250 children unable to attend school on account of the distance in winter. They have had wanted a site for a building and now that a site had been secured the council should not stand in the way.

Councillor DAVIDSON agreed with Councillor Kendry that this ward needed a school, but he objected to the manner of raising the money. He did not want to have to carry over a deficit from year to year. He did in't think it fair to harass the people in order to raise money for a school that one half of them derived no benefit from, when the same amount could be raised for one-half the amount of interest. The School Board should be helped in what they demanded, except the demand for the $4,000. All the Councillors had said it was not in keeping with the rules at the last meeting. He saw by the paper that they were turning the schools into music halls, athletic clubs and drilling classes and he did not think the estimates should be changed for this amount.

DID NOT WANT TO INCREASE THE RATE.

Mayor STEVENSON again strongly presented the Board's claim. He said the improvements being made at the central school could not be done without. He did not want to increase the rate, but if the $800 could be granted it would save the Board carrying the amount over. They had put off building the gymnasium for three years and now the Government had said it must be built. The grant would save the Board paying the interest on the sum.

Councillor KENDRY said, if the grant of $800 was made, the amount for building the school building could be raised by debentures next year.

THE MATTER DROPPED.

Councillor MOORE did not think there was any member of the Council who objected to the building of the school, and said it was only a question of financing. The building proposed to be erected would be used for the next thirty or forty years and the expense should be spread over a considerable time. It should be raised in the cheapest manner and that was by issuing debentures. The town had a surplus which they could let the School Board have until they required it next year.

Councillor KENDRY approved of Mr. Moore's suggestion, and he hoped that he (Moore) would remember this proposal when the matter came up again.

The discussion was then dropped and the clause of the by-law carried without amendment.

THE 5 PER CENT STRAIGHT.

Councillor MOORE, upon the reading of the fifth clause of the by-law which referred to the 5 per cent. interest charged for taxes after the first of December, said this was not right. He had observed that the taxes last collected were men who were well able to pay, but who kept their money in their pockets because of the 5 per cent. straight. To remedy this he would move an amendment to the clause, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS, as follows:—"That the sum of twenty-five dollars be granted to the Peterborough Protestant Home to assist in sending one of the Snelgrove children to the children's home in Toronto."

A motion was carried to the effect that the special constables who served in the search for the burglar be paid on presenting a signed order from the Chief of Police.

Council adjourned to meet on call of the Mayor.

I see that you have many nice comforts about you which I expect you can well afford. The table setting for instance is neat, tasty, inviting and extremely pretty. Real China too, as you say, what it cost is quite moderate, and I rather fancy that China Hall must be a regular bonanza to people about here. To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences, especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia, and other throat and lung trouble. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use, and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Rideon, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"I suppose I should prefer the new," replied the boy.

"Precisely," returned the doctor. "So do I. And, by the same way, I prefer my present moderate fortune to my former wealth. Golden mediocrity! cried the adorable ancients; and I subscribe to their enthusiasm. Have I not good wine, good food, good air, the fields and the forest for my walk, a house, an admirable wife, a boy whom I protest I cherish like a son? Now, if I were still rich, I should indubitably make my residence in Paris—you know Paris—Paris and paradise are not convertible terms. This pleasant noise of the wind streaming among leaves changed into the grinding babel of the street, the stupid glare of plaster substituted for this quiet pattern of greens and grays, the nerves shattered, the digestion falsified—picture the fall! Already you perceive the consequences; the mind is stimulated, the heart stops to a different measure, and the man is himself no longer. I have passionately studied myself—the true business of philosophy. I know my character as the musician knows the ventages of his flute. Should I return to Paris I should ruin myself gambling; nay, I go further—I should break the heart of my Anastasie with infidelities."

This was too much for Jean-Marie. That a place should so transform the most excellent of men transcended his belief. Paris, he protested, was even an agreeable place of residence. "Nor when I lived in that city did I feel much difference," he pleaded.

"What!" cried the doctor. "Did you not steal when you were there?"

But the boy could never be brought to see that he had done anything wrong when he stole. Nor, indeed, did the doctor think he had; but that gentleman was never very scrupulous when in want of a retort.

"And now," he concluded, "do you begin to understand? My only friends were those who ruined me. Grets has been my academy, my sanatorium, my heaven of innocent pleasures. If millions are offered me I wave them back: Retro, Sathanas! Evil one begone! Fix your mind on my example; despise riches, avoid the debasing influence of cities. Hygiene—hygiene and mediocrity of fortune—these be your watchwords during life."

The doctor's system of hygiene strikingly coincided with his tastes; and his picture of a perfect life was a faithful description of the one he was leading at the time. But it is easy to convince a boy, whom you supply with all the facts for the discussion. And besides there was one thing admirable in the philosophy, and that was the enthusiasm of the philosopher. There was never any one more vigorously determined to be pleased; and if he was not a great logician, and so had no right to convince the intellect, he was certainly something of a poet, and had a fascination to seduce the heart. What he could not achieve in his customary humor of a radiant admiration of himself and his circumstances, he sometimes effected in his fits of gloom.

"Boy," he would say, "avoid me today. If I were superstitious, I should even beg for an interest in your prayers. I am in the black fit; I resemble spiteful King Saul, the hag of the merchant Abudah, the personal devil of the mediæval monk, is with me—is in me," tapping on his breast. "The vices of my nature are now uppermost; innocent pleasures woo me in vain; I long for Paris, for my wallowing in the mire. See," he continued, producing a handful of silver, "I denude myself, I am not to be trusted with the price of a fare. Take it, keep it for me, squander it on deleterious candy, throw it in the deepest river—I will homologate your action. Save me from that part of myself which I disown. If you see me falter, do not hesitate; if necessary, wreck the train! I speak, of course, by a parable. Any extremity were better than for me to reach Paris alive."

Doubtless the doctor enjoyed these little scenes, as a variation in his part; they represented the Byronic element in the somewhat artificial poetry of his existence; but to the boy, though he was dimly aware of their theatricality, they represented more. The doctor made perhaps too little, the boy possibly too much, of the reality and gravity of these lamentations.

One day a great light shone for Jean-Marie. "Could not riches be used well?" he asked.

"In theory, yes," replied the doctor. "But it is found in experience that no one does so. All the world imagine they will be exceptional when they grow wealthy; but possession is debasing, new desires spring up; and the silly taste for ostentation eats out the heart of pleasure."

"Then you might be better if you had less," said the boy.

"Certainly not," replied the doctor; but his voice quavered as he spoke.

"Why?" demanded pitiless innocence.

Dr. Despres saw all the colors of the rainbow in a moment; the stable universe appeared to be about capsizing with him. "Because," said he—affecting deliberation after an obvious pause—"because I have formed my life for my present income. It is not good for me of my years to be violently dissevered from their habits."

That was a sharp brush. The doctor brushed hard, and fell into taciturnity for the afternoon. As for the boy, he was delighted with the resolution of his doubts; even wondered that he had not foreseen the obvious and conclusive answer. His faith in the doctor was a stout piece of goods. Despres was inclined to be a sluggard in the wind's eye after dinner, especially after Rhine wine, his favorite weakness. He would then remark on the warmth of his feeling for Anastasie, and with inflamed cheeks and a tense, flustered smile, debate upon all sorts of topics, and be feebly and indiscreetly witty. But the adopted stable boy would not permit himself to entertain a doubt that savored of ingratitude. It is quite true that a man may be a second father to you, and yet take too much to drink; but the best natures are ever slow to accept such truths.

The doctor thoroughly possessed his heart, but perhaps he exaggerated his influence over his mind. Certainly Jean-Marie adopted some of his master's opinions, but I have yet to learn that he ever surrendered one of his own. Convictions existed in him by divine right; they were virgin, unwrought, the brute metal of decision. He could add others indeed, but he could not put away; neither did he care if they were perfectly agreed among themselves; and his spiritual pleasures had nothing to do with turning them over or justifying them in words. Words were with him a mere accomplishment, like dancing. When he was by himself, his pleasures were almost vegetable. He would slip into the woods toward Acheres and sit in the mouth of a cave among gray birches. His soul stared straight out of his eyes; he did not move or think, sunlight, thin shadows moving in the wind, the edge of firs against the sky, occupied and bound his faculties. He was pure unity, a spirit wholly abstracted. A single mood filled him, to which all the objects of sense contributed, as the colors of the spectrum merge and disappear in white light.

So while the doctor made himself drunk with words, the adopted stable boy bemused himself with silence.

CHAPTER V.

TREASURE TROVE.

The doctor's carriage was a two wheeled gig with a hood, a kind of vehicle in much favor among country doctors. On how many roads has not one seen it, a great way off between the poplars—in how many village streets, tied to a gate post! This sort of chariot is affected, particularly at the trot, by a kind of pitching movement to and fro across the axle, which well entitles it to the style of a Noddy. The hood describes a considerable arc against the landscape, with a solemnly absurd effect on the contemplative pedestrian. To ride in such a carriage cannot be numbered among the things that appertain to glory; but I have no doubt it may be useful in liver complaint. Thence, perhaps, its wide popularity among physicians.

One morning early, Jean-Marie led forth the doctor's noddy, opened the gate and mounted to the driving seat. The doctor followed, arrayed from top to toe in spotless linen, armed with an immense flesh colored umbrella, and girt with a botanical case on a baldric; and the equipage drove off smartly in a breeze of its own provocation. They were bound for Franchard, to collect plants, with an eye to the "Comparative Pharmacopœia."

A little rattling on the open roads, and they came to the borders of the forest and struck into an unfrequented track; the noddy yawed softly over the sand, with an accompaniment of snapping twigs. There was a great, green, softly murmuring cloud of congregated foliage overhead. In the arcades of the forest the air retained the freshness of the night. The athletic bearing of the trees, each carrying its leafy mountain, pleased the mind like so many statues and the lines of the trunk led the eye admiringly upward to where the extreme leaves sparkled in a patch of azure. Squirrels leaped in mid air. It was a proper spot for a devotee of the goddess Hygeia.

TO DEPOSITORS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.

TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent. debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223,69, and on securities of at least double that value.

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her style of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a new make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

SIR CHARLES TUPPER'S SPEECH AT THE CUTLERS' DINNER.

Mr. Chamberlain Eulogized—The Canadian Commissioner Affirms the Dominion's Loyalty to Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Sir Charles Tupper last night replied to the toast of "The Colonies" at the Cutlers' banquet at Sheffield. He referred to the fisheries question, and said that great ignorance prevailed in England in regard to the subject generally. Hon. Mr. Chamberlain had particular and special advantages for judging of the question. It would have been impossible for the Government to have selected a man better qualified for the position and for the discharge of the duties appertaining to the appointment, and with more ability and more uniform discretion. From the reception he had received from Republicans and Democrats alike it was plain that no man could have been more acceptable to the people of the United States.

Canada to-day was face-to-face with the fact that with unanimity the United States would pass a non-intercourse bill. Although the senate had determined that the President should not have the credit of a settlement of the question, in view of the election, yet the President and Administration had sent the treaty down with the declaration that it was a fair and honorable adjustment of existing difficulties.

Without expressing an opinion regarding the message, he might say that all Canada asks is a fair, plain application of the principles of the treaty of 1818. Canada had gone as far as possible for the purpose of maintaining friendly relations with the republic, but the time would never come when the people of Canada, feeling as they did towards the Mother Country, would adopt a policy, fiscal or otherwise, detrimental to the British people.

The Government of Canada would pursue the policy followed on previous occasions—deal with the question with fairness and deep consideration. Certainly from no act of indiscretion on the part of the Canadian Government would difficulty arise from the illogical message of President Cleveland.

AFFABLE BISMARCK.

The Chancellor Is Very Well at Present—A Fine Holiday.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—Prince Bismarck is very well at present and takes much exercise in the open air. He often speaks with great affability to the people whom he meets. On Saturday he asked the boys of a Hamburg school whether they had a holiday, and on receiving an answer that all the Hamburg schools were closed on Sedan day, he remarked with a kind smile: "Sedan day! This is the fourth school I have met to-day. Yes, Sedan is a fine holiday, children. You can often happily celebrate Sedan."

The Empress Victoria, widow of Emperor Frederick, I am informed, purposes leaving Potsdam for England in about a fortnight from the present time. After a stay of a week or two with the Queen, she will return to Berlin, whence she will soon afterward proceed to Rome.

The Greek Crown Prince, who went yesterday to attend a review at Juterbogk, has returned to Berlin. The few weeks which have to elapse before his return to Athens the prince will spend chiefly in Potsdam and Berlin, in the immediate neighborhood of his fiancee, the Princess Sophia. He has to be back at Athens on Oct. 23, the twenty-fifth anniversary of his father's accession to the throne of Greece. With regard to the date of the wedding nothing at present has been settled, nor is it known whether the Princess Sophia will be received into the Greek Church, though this is considered probable. It is quite true that Emperor Frederick, before he died, expressed himself desirous of seeing this union between his daughter and the heir apparent to the Greek throne.

On Monday evening he will leave for Wilhelmshaven, and the next day will review the troops there, and also inspect the ironclads. On Tuesday the Emperor will be present at a grand dinner at Wilhelmshaven, and on Wednesday will return to Berlin in order to welcome the Austrian Archduke, Field Marshal Albrecht, who will then arrive. The Russian Grand Duke Nicholas will arrive at Berlin about the same time. The Emperor will shortly join the Empress and their children at the Schloss Primkenau, in Silesia, where he will have some shooting with his brother-in-law, and probably remain for the celebration of the birthday of the Empress, on Oct. 22. On Oct. 25 it is his intention to be present at the celebration of the 700th anniversary of the building of the cathedral of Stendal, which is famous for its beautiful brick ornaments and painted windows. Prince Bismarck, whose ancestors were Stendalers, will also be there.

Bet $10 on the Red and Lost.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—In the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday when McCloskey, charged with larceny from a gambling house, was brought into court, the handcuffs were so firmly fixed upon his hands that a locksmith had to be engaged to remove them. The gaming table was brought into court and a juror putting $10 on the red lost it. McCloskey was found guilty.

The Heathen Chinee.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—In giving evidence in a case before the Police Magistrate yesterday, Sam Lee, a Chinese laundryman, said he was not sure what a god was and was certain that nothing sworn on the Bible could bind his conscience. He could, however, affirm that what he was saying was true.

Illness of Judge Thurman.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Mr. Thurman has been suffering from a cold for several days. A big demonstration was held in his honor last night at which he attempted to speak, but almost fainted from exhaustion. He had to be conveyed to his hotel in a carriage.

THE SKEENA EXPEDITION

OFFICIAL REPORT TO THE MILITIA DEPARTMENT.

No Casualties of Any Kind—The Trouble in the Governor-General's Foot Guards Settled.

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—The Department of Militia has received a report from the officer commanding the expedition to the Skeena. He arrived at Victoria, B. C., on Aug. 25. No casualties of any kind occurred while the force was absent on duty. At Port Essington they were encamped within about 1½ miles of the village. The ground there was densely wooded, indeed all the ground thereabouts is covered with timber. They cleared a space for their tents and for a drill ground and went into quarters until news could be heard from Hazelton. The corps carried out drill and rifle practice while in camp. The whole country in this vicinity is mountainous. While awaiting orders the officers and men took advantage of the situation to climb the adjacent mountain peaks, some of which were from 4000 to 6000 feet high and snow-capped. The work was of the hardest description and showed the pluck and endurance of those who undertook it. Many wild animals were killed and skins brought back as trophies. The facts are mentioned in the report to show the adaptability of the men for the work they would have been called to do if their services were required to suppress any Indian uprising. During the time the battery was in camp many of the Indians from all parts of the country were assembled at the mouth of the river for salmon fishing and they all appeared to appreciate fully the strength represented by the ships-of-war upon which the force went up to Port Esslington and the strength of the armed force landed from here.

The commanding officer speaks in the warmest terms of the zeal and energy displayed by the officers, non-commissioned officers and men in carrying out their various duties, and the especially good conduct of the force during the whole time the battery was absent from Victoria.

Attached to the report is a capital sketch of the Skeena River. It was executed by a lieutenant in the battery, a graduate of the Royal Military College.

It is understood that the trouble in the Guards has been settled by the officers agreeing to withdraw their resignations for six months and if no further complications arise in that time, not again tendering them. This result is said to have been brought about partly by personal influence on the officers and partly by their patriotism, which would not allow personal feeling to influence them at a time when there was a possibility, however remote, of international complications which might require their presence in the field.

The Department of Customs has decided to enforce a fine of $400 on the American tug Gladiator for towing in Canadian waters. It appears that the vessel had a permit to tow one raft last year, on the strength of which she has been doing other towing.

Cadet Edmund Charles Hamilton from the Royal Military College at Kingston has been appointed Second Lieutenant in the 3rd Hussars, Imperial Army, and William Charles Gifford Henniker Second Lieutenant in the Connaught Rangers.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell left Victoria for Ottawa yesterday, but will stop for a couple of days at Winnipeg.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Livery Stables Burnt at Orangeville—A Lad Crushed in the Ruins.

ORANGEVILLE, Sept. 7.—Jones and Glover's livery stables were burnt yesterday morning at 1 o'clock. Three rigs and six horses were destroyed. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary. The Advertiser lays it to local jealousy and enmity arising out of rivalry in the bus line, and calls upon the mayor to institute an investigation.

A few hours after the fire was subdued the brick gable fell, crushing almost to death a young Irish lad named Wilson, a nephew of Father Jeffcott. No hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Two Oshawa Losses.

OSHAWA, Sept. 7.—Coulthard, Scott & Co.'s agricultural implement factory and W. J. Hare's foundry, with the larger part of the machinery and material in the former and all the contents of the latter, were burned yesterday morning at 3 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $12,000, insurance $9000.

A Big Fire at Midland.

MIDLAND, Sept. 7.—Foster & Beaf, mill, salt block and chromine mills were burned Wednesday night. Mr. Foster estimates his loss above the insurance at not less than $15,000.

Montreal Must Pay for the Accident.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—Judge Mathieu gave judgment yesterday in the cases of J. B. Cadaret v. the city, and A. P. Vanasse, et al., v. the city. It will be remembered that when Cardinal Taschereau visited Montreal two years ago an arch erected by the city at the foot of Jacques Cartier-square broke down, killing an old lady, Mrs. Vanasse, and severely injuring her niece, Miss Cadaret. The children of Mrs. Vanasse claimed $5000 damages and the father of Miss Cadarets $200. The court held the city responsible, and rendered judgment for the full amount claimed by Cadaret, but reduced the claim of Mrs. Vanasse's heirs to $1000.

A Railway Crash.

LIMA, Ohio, Sept. 6.—A passenger train on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago ran into a passenger train on the Lake Erie and Western here. The first was an hour late and was coming in at about forty miles an hour, when the air brakes refused to work. The engine went clean through the Lake Erie baggage car cutting it completely in two. The passengers were badly shaken, a few receiving bad cuts about the head. The Fort Wayne engine left the track. If the Lake Erie had been a second sooner in pulling over the crossing it would have entailed tremendous loss of life, as the passenger cars were full.

A Miracle at St. Anne de Beaupre.

QUEBEC, Sept. 7.—Another miracle is said to have been performed at the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre: A beautiful young daughter of Mr. William Alcrow of this city, fell some five years ago and hurt her knee: it turned into something like a white swelling and she has had to walk with crutches since. She came to St. Anne a week ago and was faithful at her devotions. One morning, having partaken of Holy Communion, she instantly found a change take place as though she could walk. She arose and is now doing well and walking about nicely.

Run Over by a Hose Reel.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—Carle Byre was run over by one of the fire reels during the exhibition on the Champs de Mars and so severely injured that he is not expected to recover. The wheel passed over his neck.

Charged with Arson.

NORWOOD, Sept. 7.—Mr. Robert Fife, a well known and respected resident of the town, has been arrested by a Norwood constable on a charge of arson upon the information of a Belmont farmer.

A Vessel Burglarized.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Sept. 7.—The schooner Prussia was visited by thieves while in this harbor, and three or four suits of clothing and two watches stolen therefrom.

THE BEAVERTON PICNIC.

More Ministerial Speeches on Retaliation—A Calm Tone Adopted.

BEAVERTON, Sept. 7.—The political picnic has become an institution in this country. It will probably remain so for a long time to come. When conducted on the right basis, they are really enjoyable affairs and peculiarly adapted to rural parts. Such an one was held on the outskirts of this pleasant village, romantically situated on the eastern shores of Lake Simcoe, yesterday afternoon. The weather was really beautiful, and the audience were treated to rousing patriotic speeches from Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. G. A. Foster, the new Minister of Finance. The hon. gentlemen devoted the most of their time to a consideration of those two questions that are now attracting so much public attention: The Fisheries and Retaliation.

A letter of regret from Sir John Macdonald at his inability to be present was read after which Mr. Tupper and Mr. Foster spoke for nearly an hour each. Mr. McGilvray, Dr. Montague, Mr. Madill and Mr. Porter were among the speakers also, but they were brief.

Mr. Tupper's speech was mainly an argument against Unrestricted Reciprocity and dealt at length with political issues. He concluded his remarks with an eloquent peroration.

Mr. Foster received an ovation when he came forward. Referring to retaliation he said: "I will not bluster or talk of war. War, I take it, is a terrible evil, and I believe that between the country on this side of the line and the country to the south there is no contingency in which the good sense of the two peoples will allow a war to arise. There are currents of passion and prejudice that ruffle the surface of a people's feelings but do not stir the strong deep current that flows beneath. I believe these two countries will live together in peace and amity. The executive head of the United States has asked for power to retaliate against the people of Canada. I do not know why. The people of Canada have not violated any treaty. [Cheers.] They have only sought fairly and justly to carry out the terms of the treaty. Nor have the people of Canada been averse to modify that treaty in accordance with the spirit of the present age. They showed their willingness to do so by assenting to the treaty of '28, which the Senate of the United States rejected, nor have they shown an unfriendly spirit towards the United States.

The whole course of the fishery negotiation shows the very opposite. They were granted free fisheries without compensation in 1871. They were given six months free fishing in 1885 after the Treaty of Washington expired. Their fishermen were allowed to make their customs entries with the captains of cruisers instead of having to go into port, and the instructions to the commanders of cruisers were always to give the American fishermen the benefit of all doubts. The true cause of retaliation was this, that the Americans wished to modify a solemn treaty and get for the use of their fishermen privileges in our waters which they renounced in 1818, and for renouncing which they gained a thousand miles of our sea coast."

Mr. Foster and Mr. Tupper left the village at 6 o'clock last evening for Ottawa, going via Peterboro.

The Speeches at Nicolet.

NICOLET, Sept. 7.—At the Conservative picnic here yesterday speeches were made by Sir Hector Langevin, Sir Adolphe Caron and a number of prominent political lights. The speeches of the ministers dealt largely with the retaliation question and evinced a firm determination on the part of the Dominion Government to maintain the rights of Canada.

The Cyclone in Cuba.

HAVANA, Sept. 6.—The cyclone of Tuesday last will be long remembered on this island. It was terribly destructive of both life and property. The gunboat Sealtad, lying at Batabano, foundered in the storm and nine of her crew, including her commander, were drowned. Advices from Sagua are that fifty persons lost their lives there while the damage to dwellings and warehouses, to vessels in the harbor and to the wharves is very great. The village of Pueblo Nueva, in the neighborhood of Suega, is literally wiped out. Telegraph wires are badly broken and no news from other parts of the island has been received.

Drowned While Drowning a Kitten.

TILSONBURG, Sept. 7.—A young son of Mr. Thos. Conn went to the pond to drown a kitten. In doing so he fell in himself and was drowned.

21 New Cases and 7 Deaths.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 7.—Twenty one new cases and seven deaths was the official report of the Board of Health for the eighteen hours to noon.

Mrs. Grayburn's Fail Suit.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—An action for $20,000 for breach of promise of marriage has been entered on behalf of Mrs. Grayburn against Rev. Marc Amel.

Canada's Pass on a Single Track.

HAMILTON, Sept. 7.—About 2.30 yesterday morning two Grand Trunk Railway freight trains, one a regular from Hamilton and the other a special from Toronto, collided at Clarkson station a mile or so from Lorne Park. Both engines were completely wrecked, and a dozen cars were more or less wrecked. Engineer McClarty of the train coming east had his shoulder dislocated by falling when he jumped clear of the engine, and two other train men were slightly injured. Except this nobody suffered injury. Both trains had their cars loaded, and the damage to rolling stock and freight cannot be less than $40,000. Traffic from the west was considerably delayed, and it was not until about noon that anything like a free passage could be had for trains.

Ontario Cheese Markets.

KINGSTON, Sept. 7.—At the cheese board yesterday about 1500 boxes were registered, but no sales were made.

AYLMER, Sept. 7.—Two thousand boxes of July and August cheese were boarded here yesterday. No sales reported, 8c. offered for July and 8½c. for August.

LISTOWEL, Sept. 7.—At the cheese fair yesterday twenty-nine factories offered 13,060 boxes, mostly August cheese, of which 6780 were colored and 6280 pale. Market dull, nine buyers present. Sales were: August cheese, 930 boxes at 9c. and 540 at 9¼c., 550 July at 8¼c., 400 part July and August at 8¼c.

Nobody's Child.

HAMILTON, Sept. 7.—Last night Mr. Patrick Earles had occasion to go out into his yard, and while there he was surprised to find a child, about one month old. The babe was well wrapped up in light flannel clothes and had the appearance of being pretty well cared for. There was nothing about the child to indicate or give any clue of how it came there or to whom it belonged.

Removing a Cancer.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 7.—A painful surgical operation has been successfully performed on Mrs. John Moon. It consisted in the removal of a scirrhus cancer, which necessitated the cutting off of the right breast. The patient was put under the influence of chloroform, and, although a nervous person, stood the operation well.

How is a Gravel Pit.

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 7.—A big row occurred in a gravel pit near here between the Italian navvies and a party from the town who went up and tried to run the camp. Clubs, stones and knives were freely used

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

TO BE MOVED THIS AFTERNOON ON THE RETALIATION BILL.

Congressman Scott's Argument in Support of the Measure Concluded—How the Matter Cropped Up in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—In the House yesterday Mr. McCreary (Dem., Ky.) gave notice that he would call the previous question on the Retaliation bill at 4 o'clock today, and Mr. Scott (Dem., Pa.) resumed his argument in favor of the bill. He made an exhaustive review of the action of the Senate on the fisheries question and the debates which occurred thereon in 1883 and 1887, in order to show that the Republican Senators, and especially Senator Edmunds, had a steady and deadly purpose to accomplish to prevent the abrogation of the 29th article of the treaty of 1871. The Retaliation bill of 1887 as reported to the Senate was drafted so as to enable the Republican Senate to denounce the President whether he carried out its provisions or not. In reference to the rejection of the present treaty he challenged any reasonable man to find a case of unjust treatment of American fishermen since 1886 of which that treaty did not provide a safeguard.

At the conclusion of Mr. Scott's speech, the House, at 6.10, adjourned.

Exceedingly Witty and Facetious.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) offered a resolution calling the attention of the President respectfully to the resolution of the Senate of Aug. 28, requesting him to communicate to the Senate copies of all communications addressed by his direction to the Government of Great Britain, remonstrating against certain unfair treatment of American citizens, and requesting him to furnish such information as soon as possible in order that it may be considered in acting on pending legislation.

Mr. Vest (Dem., Mo.) suggested that the resolution lie over till to-morrow because it seemed to contain a sort of implication of intentional delay on the part of the Administration. He presumed that it was not so. It was only nine days since the resolution was adopted. He had no doubt that the Secretary of State could give some good reason for not sending the papers.

Mr. Hoar: "Let it lie over. I think, however, that the Administration might have got its eyes open in nine days."

Mr. Vest: "That remark is exceedingly witty and facetious. I don't know what the facts are."

The resolution was laid over.

THE PARLIAMENT OF LABOR.

A Long Batch of Resolutions on a Variety of Subjects.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress resumed yesterday morning, President March in the chair. These resolutions were adopted:

That the safety of the working classes demands that a law be enacted providing for the proper inspection of stationary engines and boilers, and further that all stationary engineers be legally required to pass an examination and acquire proper certificate of qualification.

That the Provincial Legislature be asked to remove all personal taxes, as the same are an unjust tax on labor.

That this Congress petition the Dominion Parliament to amend the conspiracy laws so as to prevent their application to labor disputes where no actual damage is done to person or property.

That this Congress denounces the unjust and unwarranted action of certain classes of employers in importing, under false pretences, mechanics.

That this Congress demands the abolition of the contract system in national, provincial and municipal works and the institution of a system whereby such public works will be carried on under the direction and supervision of the national, provincial and municipal governments.

That this congress calls upon all labor organizations throughout the Province of Ontario to use their influence to compel local school trustees to enforce the truant clauses of the Education Act.

That whenever tenders are called for by either the Federal or Provincial Governments or any municipality for any public work none should be allowed to tender who have at any time during the preceding twelve months paid less than the standard wages.

That for the purpose of securing efficiency a regular apprenticeship is necessary and should be insisted upon in trades where the same may be practicable.

That the provincial legislatures be petitioned to so amend the Provincial Assessment Act that councils of cities, towns and other municipalities be compelled to publish the assessment rolls annually in the newspapers of the municipality or in pamphlets in time to be submitted to the Court of Revision.

That the deposit required from candidates at Dominion elections is excessive and the law requiring its forfeiture by such candidates as fail to receive a certain proportion of the votes cast is wholly unjust and should be repealed.

That this Congress protests against the practice of bonussing manufacturing industries and demands the passage of an act by the Provincial Legislature making such practice by municipalities illegal.

That the evils of intemperance are so clearly manifest in their "effects" that any practical effort tending to reduce the consumption of intoxicating liquors will meet the hearty support of organized labor.

A motion asking for a Dominion vote on total prohibition was defeated.

That all railway and telegraph lines should be controlled by the Federal Government, and all gas lines, telephone lines, ferry lines and street railway lines should be owned by the municipality in which they are situated.

That such officers as sheriffs, registrars and police magistrates should be elected either by direct popular vote or by the council of the municipalities in which the duties of the office are performed.

That this Congress most emphatically condemn the recent order of the Dominion Government opening the Welland and other canals on Sunday, thereby compelling lockmasters and sailors during a time they should be resting to prepare for the following week's work.

That this Congress call upon the Dominion Government to at once appoint the officers required by the Trades Union Act to give it practical effect, so that labor organizations can take advantage of such act by incorporating under its provisions.

That this Congress appeal to the Attorney-General for the appointment of one or more justices of the peace in the various labor centers of Ontario, recommended by the Executive Committee of this Congress, or upon the recommendation of the various central bodies throughout the Dominion.

That justice and good government demand that no person, corporation, bodies or classes shall be exempt from the payment of any tax which is levied on the rest of the community

That this Congress strongly favor a system of government life assurance.

On ballot Montreal was selected for the next meeting of the Congress, the time to be appointed by the Executive Committee. These officers were elected:

President—J. T. Carey, St. Catharines.
Vice-president—R. Glockling, Toronto.
Secretary-Treasurer—George W. Dower, Toronto.

Executive Committee—Chas. March, A. W. Wright and A. F. Jury, of Toronto, and D. R. Gibson, Hamilton.

The President-elect, on taking the chair, expressed thanks for the honor conferred, and the Congress finally adjourned at 4 p.m.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1888.

MR. LAURIER'S TREACHERY.

UNITED STATES papers are making free use of Mr. Laurier's St. Thomas speech. That was to be expected. But Canadians scarcely expected that any Canadian member of Parliament, leader of a party or Privy Councillor would berate his own country and try to justify an unfriendly and unjust action of a foreign nation, as Mr. Laurier did, even though that member and leader was the man who wished he had been on the banks of the Saskatchewan so that he could shoulder his musket along with Riel. At St. Thomas the leader of the Liberal party said that "the course of the Government towards the United States had been unnecessarily harsh, ever since 1878," and followed this accusation with the statement that "it was little wonder that the Americans were about to retaliate." These were treacherous words. Mr. Laurier saw his country threatened with reprisals, and instead of, like a man of patriotism, standing with his country he makes an attack upon it. His accusations were unjust. The Government has done nothing more than was necessary to maintain Canada's rights, and its action in defending the fisheries has been such that even the Toronto Globe has approved. In the face of this Mr. Laurier went out of his way to encourage—we will not say the enemy—but those who threatened this country.

Commenting on this speech the New York Tribune (Republican) says:—

"In a strong dignified speech to the electors of Ontario, after freely conceding what cannot honestly be disputed, that this country has never entertained the slightest unfriendliness against the Dominion which was not excited by the causelessly hostile conduct of the Canadian Government, Mr. Laurier imputed to Sir Charles Tupper the statement that the Government would find a way to compel Yankees to grant reciprocity. If Sir Charles used these words, it is fortunate that they did not happen to attract attention before he completed his duties in connection with the late treaty."

The New York Times (Mugwump) says:—

"The Hon. Mr. Laurier in a speech at St. Thomas on Monday evening, reminded his hearers that for twenty-five years Canada has taken an unfriendly and selfish attitude toward this country. Its unconcealed hostility to the Union was the real cause of the Reciprocity Treaty."

These are samples of the editorial comments of the United States papers, and they also manifested the pleasure with which they received Mr. Laurier's speech by the headlines they placed over the extracts they gave from it.

The United States blameless—"never entertained the slightest unfriendliness against the Dominion"—and Canada alone at fault in the difficulty—"causelessly hostile" and "unfriendly and selfish"—such is the encouragement Mr. Blake's successor gave to those who are now engaged in threatening the Dominion and "twisting the British lion's tail." Mr. Laurier has been supported in this position by several influential Liberal papers, such as the Hamilton Times, London Advertiser and Ottawa Free Press, although the Globe did not recede from its former attitude of approval of the Government's course.

Mr. Laurier at St. Thomas gave another proof of his unfitness, notwithstanding his oratorical ability, for any important public position and the danger there would be in allowing him to occupy the chief place in the councils of the Dominion.

LINDSAY.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to state that our respected townsman, Mr. Anson Mills, met with a severe bereavement in the death of his little boy, Vernon, on Saturday last. It seems he was playing with a spring board, jumping off it, when he injured himself internally from the effects of which he died in a few hours. The boy was six years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Mills have the sympathy of very many in the town.—Watchman.

A Typical Dress.

London Evening Times.

Our dress is from the Toronto Type Foundry, Toronto, of which Mr. J. T. Johnston is proprietor, and the remarkably handsome typographical appearance of the paper proves that in not accepting the advice offered us in favor of British or American-made type as against Canadian we were right. The Toronto Type Foundry was but recently established, but that it is a live institution, employing the best methods, is evidenced by the appearance of our columns, which testify in this type to the high order of mechanical skill and taste of Canadian workmen. The enterprise exhibited by Mr. Johnston should receive the endorsement of the entire fraternity of printers in Canada, for in the face of the strong prejudice in favor of foreign-made type it required no small degree of pluck to start up such an extensive undertaking as a type foundry, and even still greater ability to produce an article that is excelled by none and in its style equalled by but very few of the old established foundries. The double cylinder press upon which the paper is printed was also supplied by Mr. Johnston, as were also all the other fittings in connection with the mechanical department. In fact, Mr. Johnston was given carte blanche by the proprietors of this paper, and to-day there is no office in Western Ontario better supplied with all the best and most modern facilities necessary to turn out a first-class paper promptly and in the highest style of the art.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Bucket Shop Case—The Queen's Park Muddle Straightened Out.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Mr. Hodgins, Master in Ordinary at Osgoode Hall, yesterday made an important announcement to parties interested in Central Bank affairs. He stated that while he was a judicial officer under the Provincial Government he had been acting wholly under the Dominion Statutes, which gave him a permissive power in matters of this kind, and the jurisdiction that he had exercised had been purely voluntary. And further that he considered that it would be more conducive to the public interest that he should give his attention to the business that was strictly within his province as Master in Ordinary. He would therefore hereafter entertain no original application in connection with the Central Bank unless he was directed or requested by one of the judges to act in the specific case.

John Anderson swore out an information yesterday charging E. S. Cox with fraud. Anderson claims that last December he borrowed $1700 from Cox and gave as security stocks valued at $2250 and that Cox sold the stock a day or two later and pocketed the proceeds. Cox is yet in jail.

In the Chancery Division Court yesterday Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., applied for an order nisi to quash the convictions made by the police magistrate of D. Logan, the manager, George McCoppen, the telegraph operator, and R. Padden, the office boy of Hanrahan's bucket shop. The purpose of this action is to test the validity of the Abbott Act. The order was granted and will come on for argument on Saturday next.

The report circulated regarding Queen's Park is confirmed. Yesterday morning at a meeting in the mayor's office an agreement was submitted and approved, whereby the city gets a lease in perpetuity of the park on condition that they maintain it properly and endow two chairs in the university for $3000 each. The agreement will be submitted to the city council for adoption at a special meeting on Saturday.

A VERDANT KINGSTONIAN.

Tailor Dorland Endorses a Bogus Draft for a Liberal Customer.

KINGSTON, Sept. 7.—A man representing himself to be Rev. M. C. Pullman of Chicago, Ill., arrived here a day or two ago and put up at a leading hotel. He strolled about the city, called in at Livingston Bros.' tailor shop, looked over some cloth, decided to purchase clothing to the value of $70, and directed that the clothes when made should be sent to Smith's Falls. The proprietor stating that it was customary for strangers to make a deposit, the buyer showed a draft for $500, said he would pay the whole bill at once as soon as he got the draft cashed and wanted Livingston to accompany him to the nearest bank. The tailor, however, was suspicious and did not go, and Pullman left the shop.

Later he visited the establishment of Mr. Dorland, where he repeated his former tactics and purchased over $100 worth of clothing. Dorland accompanied him to a bank and endorsed the draft, and Pullman received the proceeds paying Dorland the amount due him. Later in the evening Dorland's suspicion was aroused, and he went in search of his customer, but he had left the city by the 4 o'clock boat for Gananoque. At Gananoque all trace was lost, and it is believed Pullman crossed to the American side.

It is learned that the draft is bogus. It purported to have been issued by the First National Bank of Appleton, Wis., on the Merchants' National Bank of Chicago.

Female Pugilists.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 7.—Two girls in the corset factory here had a quarrel over a lover and decided to settle it in the ring after working hours. Some of the men were brought to see fair play. When the hour arrived the men formed a ring and told the girls that everything was ready. The two feminine principals then rolled up their sleeves and sparred cautiously for an opening, while the men looked on in astonishment at the display of real slugging tactics. They had expected to see a hair-pulling match, but to their surprise the girls fought coolly and vigorously, and, although no rules were observed, no male amateurs could have given a more earnest exhibition of hitting and stopping.

After they had fought about ten minutes and both had been about equally punished the men interfered. The contest was getting too brutal. The combatants protested, and said they wished to settle the matter then and there, but the men were obdurate and compelled them to cease hostilities. They agreed to finish the fight last evening, but were prevented.

Shot for Shouting for Cleveland.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 7.—John M. Willis, the second of the two men shot by Samuel Hare, died this morning. Before his death he stated that Johns yelled "Hurrah for Cleveland," and Hare became infuriated and killed him.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Fancy Peas.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"Wm Brown, a farmer in the township of Clarke, took this spring nine bushels of fancy peas from Mr. Southorpe. The proceeds was seventy-five bushels, leaving sixty-six for his labor, for which he got two dollars a bushel—$132, a pretty good profit. Another farmer in the vicinity of Peterborough did not have such good fortune, and after returning his seed, had only $30 to take home."

Visit to the School.

Dr. W. E. Tilley, who was appointed Public School Inspector for the town, paid his first official visit to the schools yesterday. He went through the different rooms of the Central and ward schools and took notes with a view to future suggestions. Dr. Tilley was formerly Principal of the Lindsay High School, and is Public School Inspector for the County of Durham. While attending to his duties he at the same time pursued his studies and last spring received the degree of Ph. D. He is an educationalist of ability and is a worthy successor to Mr. Jas. Stratton who for so long a time occupied the position of inspector of the schools of the town.

Painting the Town.

The "Montreal Fence Painters" struck town last night and to-day the rapidity and skillfulness with which they slashed the artistic and variegated signs on the rough board fences attracted considerable attention and remark. These painters have been all through the towns and cities of Canada and always leave most noticeable indications of their visit in the decorated fences and buildings. Mr. B. F. Dickens has charge of the men.

A House Broken Into.

Antonio Rebieno an Italian, who is employed at the C. P. R. gravel pits, aroused Chief Roszel out of his bed last night to inform him that his home on Patterson-st. had been broken into some time this week and a number of articles stolen. The articles stolen include a revolver, but their value is not much. The man had been at work all week and upon returning found his house had been entered.

Painful Accident.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Rev. Father Bretherton, the popular curate of St. Mary's, met with a painful accident one day last week, and one that might have resulted much more seriously. While trying to open a bottle of nitric acid through some cause the vial exploded, scattering the acid over him and burning his face severely. Had any of it entered his eyes the sight must inevitably have been destroyed."

Personal.

We regret to learn that Mr. W. H. Hill, of the Sun Life Office, is ill. Mr. Hill returned from Ottawa yesterday and has been confined to the house since.

Mr. Wm. Collins, Secretary of the Central Exhibition, left at noon to-day to attend the Provincial Fair at Kingston, where he will be one of the superintendents. Miss Collins will attend to his duties as secretary during his absence.

Mr. Joe. Phelan, son of Mr. Ed. Phelan, has gone to Ottawa to attend the Ottawa College. Joe will be missed from the goal in the lacrosse match with the Bradfords on the 13th, but his friends wish him all success in his studies.

A Demonstration that is to Be.

The success of the grand demonstration on Monday last has exemplified to the committee of management of the united labor organizations in Peterborough and to the workingmen generally that only good results follow such exertions on the part of the labor element, and Monday's celebration will be insignificant in comparison to what the trades and labor committee propose to carry out next year. They are taking time by the forelock in earnest and intend corresponding immediately with all labor organizations between Toronto and Kingston with a view to having a grand monster demonstration held here on the 3rd September next. It is distant, but the right men have it in hand and it will be a reality and a success too.

A LITTLE CONUNDRUM.

A Nine Year Old Thief Who Understands the Rudiments of Falsehood.

The magistrate frowned down upon a little progeny of nature this morning that was perched on the prisoner's bench and could not restrain a smile. There on the bench, with a school bag still over his back, was little Johnnie Mason, who was arrested for stealing between fifteen and twenty dollars from the till of Mr. E. J. Kidd's boot and shoe store. His parents live on Dublin-st., and have in Johnnie a son who well merits their strictest and most careful parental attention. The boy is nine years old, is small for his age and has a rather bad expression on his little countenance.

The most striking circumstance in little Johnnie's trouble was the straight-forward and brazen manner in which he economized the truth. His abilities in this respect were far ahead of many an old timer in crime. When he was arrested he was taken to Mr. Koutley's store where it was said he had bought a bicycle, and Mr. Koutley immediately recognized in the boy a customer of the previous afternoon who had purchased a bicycle from him. The boy flatly denied this statement and said he never was on a bycicle in his life and never had money enough to buy one. He had a lacrosse and ball in his hand at the time of his arrest and he was taken over to the ten-cent store where it was known he had purchased them. Here again he was recognized and again denied having ever been in the store before. He would not change his story, although he was locked in the cells, until after dark last night, when he acknowledged that he had taken three fives and three or four one dollar bills from Mr. Kidd's till, and also told where the bicycle was hidden. It was wondered what he had done with all the money since Tuesday afternoon, as he did not have a cent on him when arrested, but he stated that he had spent it all on the bicycle, lacrosse stick, ball, candies, etc. This was thought to be impossible, and finally the boy said he had hidden some of the money, and this morning took Mr. Kidd and the Chief out to the north part of the town where he alleged he had hidden it, but upon arriving at the spot there was no money there and he said somebody must have stolen it. At the Police Court this morning he was remanded for a day until he tells where the money is hidden.

The little fellow was a newsboy, and was frequently in Mr. Kidd's store, and that gentleman had taken considerable notice of the boy because he seemed so bashful and quiet and excited his sympathy, and Johnnie was the last boy in town whom he would have accused of stealing.

It was thought that this boy might have been connected with the robbery at the George-st. Church, as he had been trying to get some silver changed for bills, but he says it was some silver he took from the till.

It might be stated that the parents of the juvenile have assisted the police in trying to get a truthful statement from their little son, and appear to be deeply grieved at the extraordinary conduct of the boy, as they are honest and respectable people.

A BALL TOURNAMENT.

Valuable Cups to be Played for at the Central Exhibition.

The directors of the Central Exhibition are arranging for a baseball tournament for the second day of the exhibition, September 26th.

The first prize will be a silver baseball cup, valued at $20, and if more than two two teams are entered a second prize cup, valued at $10, will be given.

The games will be played on the Agricultural Grounds, which are admirably adapted for the purpose and one of the best ball grounds in the Midland District.

The following rules will govern the competition:—Entries must be made before the 20th of Sept., Spaulding's National playing rules to govern.

No clubs will be allowed to play men who, previous to and since Sept. 1st, have not been actual residents of the town or village that the club represents. Clubs will play according to lots. The drawing will take place on Sept. 22nd, and each competing club may name a representative to be present at the drawing.

If necessary play will be begun at 9 o'clock a.m. on the 26th.

The Secretary of the exhibition, Mr. Collins, has sent circulars giving the particulars regarding the tournament to the secretaries of the Campbellford, Hastings, Garden Hill, Port Hope, Lindsay, Millbrook, Cobourg, Uxbridge, Newcastle and other clubs, inviting them to participate.

This tournament will add to the entertainment of the exhibition and will be an interesting and drawing feature.

A PERFECT BEAUTY.

The Emmerson Steam Yacht Launched Successfully.

Last winter work was begun on a steam yacht by Messrs. J. T. Emmerson and brothers, and this morning the result of their work slid off the stocks into the quiet waters of Little Lake a perfect little beauty. The yacht was not built by these gentlemen entirely, the design and frame work being the work of Mr. Stevenson, the gentleman who built the first canoe in Peterborough, but the Messrs. Emmerson did the major part of the work in the hull, the steam fitting, etc., themselves. This morning the yacht was placed on two trucks and drawn to the lake near Peck's old brewery, and after some little difficulty in deciding the best way to launch her the trucks were backed into the water, and, after the stays had been knocked away, the craft shot into the water and floated as prettily as a duck. She is pronounced the neatest craft ever seen here, and the owners and designer have good reason to feel proud of their handiwork.

The yacht is 30 feet long and 6 ft. beam; her lines and bearing are perfect and she has an extremely clean run aft. Below the water line she is painted red and the hull is black with a dark red line running from bow to stern. She is finished inside and partly outside in cherry and has a hurricane deck with canvas sides. She has been christened "Minnehaha," and will carry about twenty-five passengers. The engine in the craft is a new model of a rotary patented by Mr. Chas. Dawson, while the boiler is a horizontal one made by the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

Everything about the boat is neat, her model is perfect and she cannot but help elicite the admiration of all who cast their eyes on her. She was towed up the river this afternoon and will make her trial trip on Tuesday next or perhaps before.

The Marksmen Return.

The team of riflemen who were at Ottawa returned on the early Canadian Pacific train this morning. They had a good time at the capital and did well in the matches considering that they have had little practice with the Martini-Henry rifle and that there were a large number among the competitors who have been at Wimbledon. In addition to the prizes previously mentioned in the REVIEW, which were won by Capt. Dennistoun, Corp. Blade and Mr. Cameron, on Tuesday Mr. Cameron won another prize of $8, standing well up in the Dominion of Canada match. The results in the extra series are not known yet.

That Paddling Canoe Race.

What may be considered a definite challenge in connection with the proposed Nicholls-Wallis paddling canoe race was issued on Thursday. Mr. Jas. Barnard, who represents Wallis in the matter, was in town on Thursday and he was furnished with the following proposition:—That backers of Nicholls would put up a forfeit of $10 to bind the match to be covered by deposit of $10 for Wallis, stakes to be $100 a side, race to be paddled in single hunting canoes on the Little Lake at Peterborough, on any day between the 17th and 22nd of September, Wallis to have the choice of boats, balance of stakes to be put up on Sept 17. Mr. Barnard agreed to write Wallis at once and submit the challenge for his acceptance. It is not likely that Wallis will refuse to make the match as the terms are fair to both men. Considerable interest would attach to the race which would draw a large crowd, as both men are very skilful and speedy paddlers, and the question of supremacy has for some years been a disputed point.

"It seems to me," said Rev. Mr. Murgatroyd, as he helped himself to muffins, "that you young people are well fixed, not actually wealthy, but don't you know, rather comfortable. I see that you have many nice comforts about you which I expect you can well afford. The table setting for instance is neat, tasty, inviting and extremely pretty. Real China too, as you say, what it cost is quite moderate, and I rather fancy that China Hall must be a regular bonanza to people about here. We can't possible do better in the way of prices at Montreal, and I doubt very much if the goods are at all better. Its very convenient to have the place so near and where such an admirable line of things are kept."

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences, especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia, and other throat and lung troubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief, and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use, and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"Have you been to Franchard, Jean-Marie?" inquired the doctor. "I fancy not."

"Never," replied the boy.

"It is a ruin in a gorge," continued Desprez, adopting his expository voice; "the ruin of a hermitage and chapel. History tells us much of Franchard; how the recluse was often slain by robbers; how he lived on a most insufficient diet; how he was expected to pass his days in prayer. A letter is preserved, addressed to one of these solitaires by the superior of his order, full of admirable hygienic advice; bidding him go from his book to praying, and so back again, for variety's sake, and when he was weary of both to stroll about his garden and observe the honey bees. It is to this day my own system. You must often have remarked me leaving the 'Pharmacopœia'—often even in the middle of a phrase—to come forth in the sun and air. I admire the writer of that letter from my heart; he was a man of thought on the most important subjects. But, indeed, had I lived in the Middle Ages (I am heartily glad that I did not) I should have been an eremite myself—if I had not been a professed buffoon, that is. These were the only philosophical lives yet open: laughter or prayer; sneers, we might say, and tears. Until the sun of the Positive arose, the wise man had to make his choice between these two."

"I have been a buffoon, of course," observed Jean-Marie.

"I cannot imagine you to have excelled in your profession," said the doctor, admiring the boy's gravity. "Do you ever laugh?"

"Oh, yes," replied the other. "I laugh often. I am very fond of jokes."

"Singular being!" said Desprez. "But I divagate (I perceive a thousand ways that I grow old), Franchard was at length destroyed in the English wars, the same that leveled Gretz. But—here is the point—the hermits (for there were already more than one) had foreseen the danger and carefully concealed the sacrificial vessels. These vessels were of monstrous value, Jean-Marie—monstrous value—priceless, we may say; exquisitely worked, of exquisite material. And now, mark me, they have never been found. In the reign of Louis Quatorze some fellows were digging hard by the ruins. Suddenly—tock!—the spade hit upon an obstacle. Imagine the men looking one to another; imagine how their hearts bounded, how their color came and went. It was a coffer, and, in Franchard, the place of buried treasure! They tore it open like famished beasts. Alas! it was not the treasure; only some priestly robes, which, at the touch of the eating air, fell upon themselves and instantly wasted into dust. The perspiration of these good fellows turned cold upon them, Jean-Marie. I will pledge my reputation, if there was anything like a cutting wind, one or other had a pneumonia for his trouble.

"I should like to have seen them turning into dust," said Jean-Marie. "Otherwise I should not have cared so greatly."

"You have no imagination," cried the doctor. "Picture to yourself the scene. Dwell on the idea—a great treasure lying in the earth for centuries; the material for a giddy, copious, opulent existence not employed; dresses and exquisite pictures unseen; the swiftest galloping horses not stirring a hoof, arrested by a spell; women with the beautiful faculty of smiles, not smiling; cards, dice, opera singing, orchestras, castles, beautiful parks and gardens, big ships with a tower of sail cloth, all lying unborn in a coffin—and the stupid trees growing overhead in the sunlight, year after year. The thought drives one frantic."

"It is only money," replied Jean-Marie. "It would do harm."

"Oh, come!" cried Desprez, "that is philosophy; it is all very fine, but not to the point just now. And, besides, it is not 'only money,' as you call it; there are works of art in the question; the vessels were carved. You speak like a child. You weary me exceedingly, quoting my words out of all logical connection, like a parroquet."

"And at any rate, we have nothing to do with it," returned the boy submissively.

They struck the Route Ronde at that moment; and the sudden change to the rattling causeway combined, with the doctor's irritation, to keep him silent. The noddy jigged along; the trees went by, looking on silently, as if they had something on their minds. The Quadrilateral was passed; then came Franchard. They put up the horse at the little solitary inn and went forth strolling. The gorge was dyed deeply with heather; the rocks and birches standing luminous in the sun. A great humming of bees about the flowers disposed Jean-Marie to sleep, and he sat down against a clump of heather, while the doctor went briskly to and fro, with quick turns, culling his simples.

The boy's head had fallen a little forward, his eyes were closed, his fingers had fallen lax about his knees, when a sudden cry called him to his feet. It was a strange sound, thin and brief; it fell dead, and silence returned as though it had never been interrupted. He had not recognised the doctor's voice; but, as there was no one else in all the valley, it was plainly the doctor who had given utterance to the sound. He looked right and left, and there was Desprez, standing in a niche between two bowlders, and looking round on his adopted son with a countenance as white as paper.

"A viper!" cried Jean-Marie, running toward him. "A viper! You are bitten!"

The doctor came down heavily out of the cleft, and advanced in silence to meet the boy, whom he took roughly by the shoulder.

"I have found it," he said, with a gasp.

"A plant?" asked Jean-Marie.

Desprez had a fit of unnatural gayety, which the rocks took up and mimicked. "A plant!" he repeated scornfully. "Well—yes—a plant. And here," he added, suddenly, showing his right hand, which he had hitherto concealed behind his back—"here is one of the bulbs."

Jean-Marie saw a dirty platter, coated with earth.

"That?" said he. "It is a plate!"

"It is a coach and horses," cried the doctor. "Boy," he continued, growing warmer, "I plucked away a great pad of moss from between these bowlders, and disclosed a crevice; and when I looked in, what do you suppose I saw? I saw a house in Paris with a court and garden, I saw my wife shining with diamonds, I saw myself a deputy, I saw you—well, I—I saw your future," he concluded, rather feebly. "I have just discovered America," he added.

"But what is it?" asked the boy.

"The Treasure of Franchard," cried the doctor; and throwing his brown straw hat upon the ground, he whooped like an Indian and sprung upon Jean-Marie, whom he suffocated with embraces and bedewed with tears. Then he flung himself down among the heather and once more laughed until the valley rang.

But the boy had now an interest of his own—a boy's interest. No sooner was he released from the doctor's accolade than he ran to the bowlders, sprung into the niche, and, thrusting his hand into the crevice, drew forth, one after another, incrusted with the earth of ages, the flagons, candlesticks and patens of the hermitage of Franchard. A casket came last, tightly shut and very heavy.

"Oh, what fun!" he cried.

But when he looked back at the doctor, who had followed close behind and was silently observing, the words died from his lips. Desprez was once more the color of ashes; his lip worked and trembled; a sort of bestial greed possessed him.

"This is childish," he said. "We lose precious time. Back to the inn, harness the trap and bring it to yon bank. Run for your life, and remember—not one whisper. I stay here to watch."

Jean-Marie did as he was bid, though not without surprise. The noddy was brought round to the spot indicated, and the two gradually transported the treasure from its place of concealment to the boot below the driving seat. Once it was all stowed the doctor recovered his gayety.

"I pay my grateful duties to the genius of this dell," he said. "Oh, for a live coal, a heifer and a jar of country wine! I am in the vein for sacrifice, for a superb libation. Well, and why not? We are at Franchard. English pale ale is to be had—not classical indeed, but excellent. Boy, we shall drink ale."

"But I thought it was so unwholesome," said Jean-Marie, "and very dear, besides."

"Fiddle-de-dee!" exclaimed the doctor, gayly. "To the inn!"

And he stepped into the noddy, tossing his head with an elastic, youthful air. The horse was turned, and in a few seconds they drew up beside the palings of the inn garden.

"Here," said Desprez—"here, near the stable, so that we may keep an eye upon things."

They tied the horse, and entered the garden, the doctor singing, now in fantastic high notes, now producing deep reverberations from his chest. He took a seat, rapped loudly on the table, assailed the waiter with witticisms; and when the bottle of Bass was at length produced, far more charged with gas than the most delirious champagne, he filled out a long glassful of froth and pushed it over to Jean-Marie. "Drink," he said: "drink deep."

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack whenever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her style of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a new make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

DISALLOWANCE IN QUEBEC

THE VETO OF A NUMBER OF ACTS SAID TO BE CONTEMPLATED.

Premier Mercier in Fighting Trim and Humor—The Liberal Chief and his Organs Reticent.

QUEBEC, Sept. 8.—Although there is no doubt that the Federal Government has vetoed the District Magistrates' Act passed at the last session of the Legislature, no official news thereof has been received. Premier Mercier yesterday telegraphed Sir J. S. D. Thompson, asking whether the report was true and received a reply from the Minister of Justice that the matter was now before the Governor-General-in-Council and that Premier Mercier would be notified when a result was reached.

As for the disallowance business it is reported that the Premier has reason to believe that the Jesuits' Estates Bill and the bill relating to the conversion of the debt are also to be vetoed and some hot work may be expected in consequence, as he is in fighting trim and humor. It may be taken for granted that he will not recede from the position he has assumed regarding the three bills in question.

Although the Premier himself and his organs here are very reticent as to the precise course he will adopt when he is officially apprised of the disallowance of the bill, the bellicose tone of L'Electeur yesterday leaves no manner of doubt as to his intention to fight the question to the bitter end with Sir John's Government. Opinions are somewhat divided as to the exact line of resistance he will take up, some houding that he will dissolve and appeal to the province, when he thinks he will carry everything before him and crush the Conservatives almost out of existence in the Legislature; others that he will call the Legislature together at once and re-enact the bill, and others again that he will disregard the veto, put the machinery of the new Court into motion, execute its judgments and thus force the opponents of the measure to test its constitutionally before the higher courts and ultimately before the Imperial Privy Council.

The latter theory finds the most advocates and it is thought that he will bring the resolutions of the Interprovincial Conference and the whole question of the veto powers before the British House of Commons without delay.

The Conservatives of Quebec are some what jubilant over the alleged disallowance, asserting that it is the first step towards Mr. Mercier's overthrow. L'Evenement, last evening, expresses no opinion on the subject, but Sir Hector's organ, Le Courrier, claims that as a consequence of the disallowance Mr. Mercier will have to resign.

The Liberals on the other are intensely indignant over the alleged action of the Federal Government. A leading member said to-day to your correspondent: "I am glad this has happened. It will be the beginning of the end. We will sweep the Tories out of the Province."

From this variety of political opinion one fact at all events may be extracted: that lively times in matters political are at hand in this province.

ANOTHER QUEBEC MURDER.

A Roxton Falls Man Kills Another With a Blow From a Gas Pipe.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—Another brutal affray resulting in the death of a man in this province has to be chronicled. This time the scene of the occurrence is Roxton Falls in Shefford County. The following particulars are given: Between 10 and 11 o'clock the other night a brutal murder was committed in the streets of Roxton Falls in front of Ledoux's hotel. It seems that during the evening, nearly an hour before the murder, two men named Joseph Bonhomme and Joseph Arcouette had a fight, in which the latter was thrashed. Arcouette was something of a bully and fighter, and Bonhomme, who was a powerful man, said that he could lick not only Arcouette but his brother. Bonhomme made his boast good by giving Arcouette a good pummelling. Arcouette took his beating so much to heart that in about an hour he came back where a crowd had gathered in front of the hotel talking to Bonhomme. Arcouette shouted that he was going to kill Bonhomme, and rushing into the rowd, struck his victim a powerful blow on the head with a piece of gas pipe about four feet in length. Bonhomme dropped to the ground, but recovered in a few moments, and finally went to his home, a short distance away. On entering the house he went at once to his room, and throwing himself on the bed exclaimed: "I have received my death blow." He then became unconscious and lingered till 5 in the morning, when he died.

Arcouette was arrested and held till Dr. Gatien of Granby, the coroner, arrived and held an inquest. Dr. DeGrosbois, M.P.P., and Dr. Brodeur made a post-mortem examination and testified that death was caused by the blow on the head. Several witnesses were examined to establish the facts against the prisoner and the jury brought in a verdict of wilful murder against Arcoutte. After the verdict had been rendered, Coroner Gatien made out a commitment and the prisoner was conveyed to jail at Sweetsburg to stand his trial at the October term of the Court of Queen's Bench.

Arcouette is about 30 years of age and does not bear the best reputation, having been a fighter and tough generally. The murdered man was between 40 and 50 years of age and was a respectable man, though he would not run away from a scrimmage.

The Point Edward Tragedy.

SARNIA, Sept. 8.—The jury in the inquest over the death of Wm. Bishop, killed at Point Edward last Saturday evening, returned a verdict last evening of manslaughter against Smith and Burke, the men who were implicated in the row that Bishop had. The jury censured the village council for not having a policeman. Burke disappeared after Bishop's death and his whereabouts is not known. Smith will be arrested.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Broker Cox in Court—Out on Bail—Cost of the New Court House.

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—The cost of the new Court House will be $1,405,034, which is $582,034 in excess of the cash on hand and debentures authorized to be issued. The committe recommend that a bylaw be submittee at the earliest possible day providing for the additional amount.

Broker E. S. Cox appeared at the Police Court yesterday, and evidence was first taken on the second charge of embezzlement of $8000 from the Central Bank. The magistrate expressed the opinion that no evidence had been given to show that the bank gave Cox the money for the specific purpose of retiring the deposit receipts, and a remand was asked for. The $10,000 charge was then gone into and Cox' check for that amount was produced with a receipt on the back undertaking to retire a certain deposit receipt held by James Baxter of Montreal. Mr. Osler, for the prosecution, announced that he did not propose to offer further evidence just then, but that at a future date he would prove that the money was given to Cox for the purpose of retiring a certain deposit receipt and that the prisoner had not so used it. He would also show that after being refused credit by the bank he forced Allan to allow him to increase his indebtedness to $133,178. To the charge of defrauding John Anderson of stocks valued at $2200 Cox pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by a jury. The case was remanded for a week, Cox' own bail being taken for his appearance. In the other cases an adjournment for a week was also had and the bail was reduced one-half. Frank Baby of Lambton Mills and Hardware Merchant Harry Collins of Toronto, went on his bond for $5000 each and Frank Baby and Real Estate Agent Frank Lee for $2000 each and Cox was once more a free man.

Before Judge Falconbridge, presiding in the High Court yesterday, a motion was made in the Ayr poisoning case to admit Catherine Perrin, the wife of the murdered man, to bail on the ground that she would shortly become a mother and that there was no direct evidence of guilt. The Crown not consenting the court refused bail.

The Ontario Government have made these appointments: Charles G. Anderson of Delaware township, Middlesex county, to be clerk of the Fourth Division court of Middlesex in the stead of Charles J. Fox, resigned. Telesphore Rochon of Clarence township, Russell county, to be clerk of the Tenth Division Court of the united counties of Prescott and Russell, in the stead of P. D. McDonald, resigned. John Bruce, of Walkerton, to be police magistrate for Walkerton, without salary, in the stead of Richard Vanstone, resigned. Henry Clay, of Dutton, Elgin County, barrister at law, to be a notary Public for the Province of Ontario. George James Sutherland, of Hensall, Huron county, to be a Notary Public for the Province of Ontario.

RAILWAY RUMORS.

The Manitoba Atmosphere Filled With Reports, Probable and Otherwise.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7.—Railway rumors fill the air, amongst them being that the Manitoba road will lease or purchase the Emerson branch and ask aid from the city to build a bridge over the Red River; that the Canadian Pacific has bought the Manitoba and Northwestern and Northwest Central, thus cutting off the Northern Pacific at Brandon and Portage; that the Manitoba will put on a fast train to St. Paul; that the Hudson Bay promoters are still urging their claims on the Government for the full guarantee of $4,500,000, but that Greenway will not go beyond $2,500,000, and that the probabilities of agreement are slight; and that the Government is considering the advisability of aiding forty miles of the Hudson Bay already built, if it is extended into the city and to Lake Manitoba.

In support of the first rumor is the fact that Biggs, who has been acting as counsel for the Manitoba road, left for St. Paul today, being wired for by the company.

Those interested in the Manitoba and Northwestern deny any knowledge of a sale to the Canadian Pacific.

Wheat at Oak Lake is quoted at 83 cents.

The reports of great damage done to the wheat crop by the frost are contradicted by several gentlemen who have just returned from the country.

The wife of George Young, Dominion Lands agent for Manitoba, died suddenly this morning at Banff. She was a daughter of Contractor Scott, formerly of Toronto.

The display of Manitoba products will leave for Toronto on Sunday.

Mr. McLaren, President of the Bank of Ottawa, has become largely interested in The Free Press, which is now controlled by Luxton.

The Northern Pacific officials arrived tonight over the Red River road.

CUTLERS' BANQUET ECHOES.

Sir Charles Tupper's Speech Attracts a Good Deal of Notice.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Sir Charles Tupper's speech attracts a good deal of notice from the press. Generally speaking the tone of Sir Charles' remarks is warmly approved. The Standard declares that England has a right to expect that the Canadians will be careful not to involve us needlessly in difficulties with foreign powers if it is possible to avoid them by conciliation and legitimate concession. In return Canada is certain to receive the full encouragement and support of Great Britain in resistance to unlawful aggression.

The St. James Gazette admits that Canada's position is perfectly fair and unassailable, but reminds Canada that it is sometimes impolitic and even impossible to take the full advantage of a strong position.

The Bed Was Burning.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—Another fire has broken out in the house of Thomas Boylan, who is at present a prisoner before the Court of Queen's Bench, where he is indicted for arson, having tried to set fire, it is alleged, to the same house. When the fire brigade arrived there it was found that the bed was burning. There have been four fires in these premises within two years.

Grand Trunk Earnings.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—The traffic returns of the Grand Trunk Railway Company for the week ending Sept. 1 were:

HALIFAX, N.S. 8.—Judge Smith's decision in the Shelburne County election case was filed at Shelburn yesterday. It deprives General Laurie of his seat in the House of Commons, but does not disqualify him.

A BIG BATCH OF SPEECHES

BUT NO ACTION TAKEN ON THE RETALIATION BILL.

A Michigan Representative Thinks the President's Policy Would Injure that Section of the States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The House resumed the consideration of the Retaliation Bill to-day. Mr. Rockwell (Dem., Mass.) said that during the recent negotiations between the United States and Great Britain, currency had been given to the unfortunate idea that this country should not go to war on account of a few fish. While the United States should avoid war as long as possible, as a nation holding in its hands the hopes of a world, this great republic should always stand firm for a recognition of its rights and for the protection of its citizens.

Mr. Nutting (Rep., N.Y.) said that some gentlemen on his side of the House thought the President's message was sent to Congress, not because the President really needed the power he asked for, but because it was a time in the juncture of affairs when it might be of assistance to him and to his party. Admitting that this was so, it must be remembered that the questions which now confronted Congress related to international policy. The Canadian authorities had discriminated against American commerce passing through the Welland and other Canadian canals, and the effect of this unfair treatment was that commerce on Lake Ontario was confined almost entirely to Canadian and English vessels. He charged against the English Government that it had collected upon American cereals alone passing through the Welland Canal more than $600,000 and he claimed that to-day under article XXVII of the Treaty of 1871 England owed the United States that amount. During the whole term of the present administration the President had the power to stop this discrimination against American vessels inasmuch as Great Britain had violated the obligation of Article XXVII. In addition to this Congress had a year and a-half ago given him express authority to retaliate. Why was it that the President during the four years of his administration and especially during the past eighteen months had made no attempt to stop the infraction of the rights of the American people? The American Government was to blame for the present difficulty. It had relied upon English honor when the history of nations would show that it was not safe to place reliance on English promises. If the Mills Bill should become law England would have accomplished by her diplomacy and her influence in this country what she had been unable to accomplish by the sword.

Mr. Romeiss (Dem., O.) called attention to the fact that off the mouth of the Detroit River the American Government had extended a channel at the cost of thousands of dollars. That channel was in Canadian territory and might be closed up by the Canadian authorities.

Mr. Hooker (Dem., Miss.) answered the charge that the President had been derelict in not exercising the power conferred upon him by the act of 1887. Prior to that date and at the very time of the passage of the act the United States had been endeavoring to enter into negotiations with Great Britain to settle the question of what are the rights of American citizens. In all probabilities, for this reason the President had not exercised his power, and for the further reason that under the act of 1887 the power of retaliation was limited to exclusion of Canadian vessels from United States ports and did not extend to the restraining of the shipment of goods in bond across American territory. Retaliation to be effective must be thorough, and so the House had thought when it had vainly sought to amend the act of 1887 by conferring upon the President authority to stop transportation in bond. It is the settled determination of the American Senate that there should be no treaty with Great Britain to settle the great question which has vexed the country for nearly a century. It would have been in bad taste for the President, when he was negotiating a treaty, to enforce the act of 1887.

Mr. Cannon (Rep., Ill.) said: "The question now presented, boiled down to a point, was whether American fishermen had rights in common with Canadians. When American fishermen profited by their work it was important that they should be enabled to go into a Canadian port and ship their fish through Canada to American markets. That was what they wanted. That was what they had if Article XXIX of the treaty of 1871 was still in force—as he contended it was. Canada may have mistaken certain rights, which a little boy may attempt to exercise against a big fellow, because he knew that the big fellow was afraid to strike a child, but the big fellow finally gets tired and retaliates." Mr. Cannon read the act of 1887 to show that it conferred plenty of powers upon the President to enable him to put a stop to Canadian wrongs and discriminations. He read an order, signed by the President on March 12, 1887, designating San Francisco as a port of entry for goods in bond, to show that at that time, after the passage of the Retaliation Bill, the President did not think Article XXIX abrogated. Now the President says it had been dead since 1885 and that this man who had towered like a Colossus among all, between sun-up and sun-down, under the wise manipulation and crafty suggestions of the twenty times millionaires, had turned a double somersault and with an anathema against the Canadian Government cried out "Gore! Gore! Gore!" [Laughter.] But nobody would be deceived. Everybody understood that the present Executive was not going to spill his blood in war. The people would not again be fooled. Thank God this was a day of newspapers and school-houses and gentlemen might as well undertake to dip the Atlantic dry with a table-spoon as to fool the loyal masses of the country by any such claptrap. [Applause on Republican side.]

Mr. McMillan: "Are you going to vote for this claptrap?"

Mr. Cannon: "When it is going to be a Chinese policy of terrifying enemies by the beating of gongs rather than by using the tithe of the substance that is in our hands I guess it is patriotic to give the President another hammer." [Laughter.]

Mr. Seymour (Rep., Mich.) said that the Northwest was interested in short and cheap lines of traffic. The extension of power requested by the President would, if given, result in the prohibition by Canada of the transit of American goods through that country. It would not benefit the fishermen but would damage the Northwest and Canada. It would seem that a remedy for the complaint with regard to the fisheries might be found without jeopardizing the interests of the Northwest. If Canadian fish and fishermen had been excluded from the United States the Dominion would have quickly realized its mistake.

After further remarks by Messrs. Adams, White, Kerr and Post, it was agreed that a vote on the bill should be taken at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and pending further debate the House at 5 o'clock took a recess.

Youthful Burglars.

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 8.—A quantity of silverware being stolen from the house of Amelia Carter, suspicion rested upon Gordon Gilroy, Ralph Barker and Hugh Dyer, all young boys about 11 years of age. Baker was arrested and confessed being in the house and implicated Dyer and Gilroy. The articles had been sold to Mrs. Ben Moffatt and Mrs. M. Birch and were recovered with the exception of a few pieces. The boys were all committed for trial.

WHAT CANADA DESIRES.

In the course of the debate on the retaliation bill in the House of Representatives at Washington, Congressman Chipman, of Michigan, is reported to have said that "the honor of the country must be asserted with that decorum which becomes her dignity. She was so strong that she might be forbearing without being suspected of cowardice. It was in that spirit that the United States ought to treat the Canadian people. It was to the interest of both nations that their relations should be friendly." Upon which the Hamilton Spectator remarks:—

Canada does not ask for forbearance or magnanimity. She asks for justice.

Convince us of wrong and we will be swift to repair the wrong and make reparation.

Canada is most earnestly desirous of amicable relations with her neighbors. Not because she fears her neighbors, but because her people wish to be just.

They believe this country has not been either unjust or ungenerous to the United States. They cannot be convinced by heated declaration or general assertion that any injustice has been done. If our neighbors know of anything which has not been made public, it is their duty to furnish the particulars.

Canadians believe the agitation in the United States is in futherance of a scheme to obtain permission for United States fishermen to fish in Canadian waters. Canadians are determined not to surrender that right. They have not the slightest disposition to interfere with United States fishermen who follow their calling in neutral waters. If those vessels will keep out of Canadian waters, or will enter them only for shelter, repairs, wood and water, they will have no cause for complaint.

THE "Uncrowned King" thinks the Canadians "do exactly as they have a right to do." This view will suit the Canadians and may be correct. But in return for their doing "exactly as they have a right to do" President Cleveland proposes that the people of the United States shall "do exactly as they have a right to do." When that is done the Canadians may find doing what they have a right to do less satisfying and Mr. Blaine may find their doing it less admirable.—Detroit Free Press.

But in regard to the fisheries Canada has not only done what it has a right to, but it has done what the United States agreed that it had a right to do. And President Cleveland acknowledged that the Dominion was acting within its rights in preventing United States fishermen from transhipping their catches in bond when he proposed to Congress to purchase that privilege for them by permitting fish from Canada to enter the Republic free.

EXCURSIONS.—Two excursions visited our village during the past week. The first was one from Fenelon Falls, on Thursday, the 30th, which arrived here about noon, and as the baseball club of that place was along a match was arranged between it and the club here, but the game resulted in favor of the visiting club, the score being seven to five. On Friday another large excursion arrived here between nine and ten o'clock in the morning.

PICNIC.—On Saturday, the first Sept., Mr. M. Boyd held his annual picnic for his mill hands. The Beaubocage, with the palace scow Paloma, left the wharf here with a tremendous crowd at 8 30 a. m., and landed at Crowley's Island about 10 a. m., where all spent a very pleasant day either watching the various games or participating in them, till about 5 p. m., where they landed just before dark.

SCHOOLS.—The schools opened here on Monday, the 27th August, with a large attendance in all the rooms.

TOURISTS.—The tourist who were here in large numbers during July and August, have nearly all left for their homes.

ON THE MOVE.—Our local sports are on the move morning and evening since the season for duck shooting came in, but as yet no very well filled bags have been seen.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show an active movement of staple merchandise generally, with improving tendencies at cities where relatively less improvement had heretofore been shown.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 194 and for Canada 30. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 132 in the United States and 22 in the Dominion.

Lady Stanley has promised her aid to the movement for erecting a monument to the men who fell in the Northwest rebellion and will take the scheme under her patronage.

Prof. Wood, the memory fakir, has been acquitted at Cobourg of the charge of obtaining $35 from the pupils of the Collegiate Institute under false pretences.

At Cobourg yesterday John Blakely of the Township of Percy was found guilty of putting Paris green in a neighbor's field to poison his cattle and sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

The North German Gazette confirms the reports of an increase in the naval forces in connection with the scheme to build a canal between the North and Baltic seas.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

Montreal's Gambling By-law.

MONTREAL, Sep. 8.—Two men arrested on the Exhibition Grounds on Labor Day in the act of gambling and brought first before the Recorder and then to the Police Court, were dismissed on the ground that there was no specific law against public gambling. Sub-Chief Kehoe, however, thought differently and started reading up the city by-laws with the result that he proved his memory not to be at fault. By-law 38, sec. 7, reads: "It is forbidden to expose in any street, lane, highway or other public place in the said city, any table or device of any kind whatever it may be, on which a game of chance or hazard is played or to play thereon."

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Mr. Bryce, publisher, Toronto, has issued a Canadian copyright edition of "A Mere Child," a novel by L. B. Walford. A Foot Crushed.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Chas. McConkey, of Bridgenorth, one of Mr. Wesley Kelly's teamsters, says the Chronicle, fell from a load of lumber that he was driving from Bridgenorth to town and the hind wheel of the heavy loaded wagon passed over one of his feet, crushing it severely. His fall was caused by the breaking down of his seat.

The Boy Discharged.

Little Hector Mason again toddled out of his cell, climbed the stairs and perched himself on the bench before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning nibbling at an apple which he carried in his hand. His father and mother were present and after a long talk with the parents, the Magistrate called the boy to him, and, giving him a warning, told the chief to keep his eye on him and bring him before the Court if ever he was caught disobeying his mother or doing anything wrong. Nothing definite could be got from the boy, who tells a different story every hour, and the only thing the Magistrate could do was to discharge him, as he was only nine and at his age could only be sent to the Industrial School, but, as he has parents who are able to take care of him, the child could not be sent to that institution, unless something was paid for his maintenance.

The Meeting for Scotchmen.

To-night a meeting of Scotia's sons and their descendants will be held at the Grand Central for the purpose of considering the formation of a Burns club. It is to be hoped that there will be a good rally of Scotchmen so that the society will come into existence under the most favorable circumstances. The object of the Society is, of course, easily discerned—namely the holding of a meeting every week or fortnight at which Scotchmen and their descendants may meet in brotherly intercourse and keep aglow that patriotic fire and love of country which every proud descendant of the heather clad hills should cherish. A brotherly acquaintance would be a good result of the intercourse of these meetings and the history of old Scotland and its many illustrous men would be made a more familiar subject to many of her sons and descendants. Every Scotchman should attend the meeting if possible.

Madame Janauschek.

At the early age of sixteen years, a young Bohemian actress had won a place of renown upon the stage of her native country. Appreciating the fact that the field for fame was limited in Bohemia, she learned the German language and from leading lady in Bohemia, became soon a widely known star upon the stage. By a brilliant display of genius she soon took the foremost position. Her marvellous powers were at once recognized in Frankfort, and the heralding of rumor and fame was soon followed by the noblest success in all the large cities of Prussia and Austria. The young artiste who had so quickly triumphed was Janauschek. Her early career in America was but a repetition of superb success made upon stage in the other hemisphere. After a wonderfully quick mastery of the English language (in less than a year's study) she again conquered in newly opened fields, and added to the renown of being the foremost of English-speaking tragediennes. Since the reaching of this lofty pinnacle of dramatic honor, there has been no retrogression on her part; but, to-day, as in the past, Janauschek stands undeniably at the very front of exponents of the grand and heroic in dramatic literature. So well has she borne the honors heaped upon her, that, twin-like to her reputation as an artist, is her reputation as a woman—the grand renown of the one shining in perfect response to the noble worth of the other. In her great creation of "Meg Merrilies" she stands without a rival. Madame Janauschek will appear at the Opera House, Peterborough, on the evening of Sept. 21st. 1d57-1w37

COLTS AND VETERANS.

The Veterans Victorious by Twenty-Five of a Majority.

The Colts and Veterans played another game of cricket yesterday afternoon, which resulted in a victory for the "Vets." by a score of 86 to 61.

The Colts went to bat first and had to face the bowling of Hartley and Stirling. Hamilton made a nice 23, but none of the others succeeded in getting double figures and their last wicket fell with the score of 61 runs for the Veterans to get over. This their batters managed to do. Hamilton, Pearson and Anderson were the trundlers for the colts. Two of the Veterans ran up double figures—J. H. Burnham making 17 and F. C. Parke, 15. The score shows that 20 extras helped to swell the runs column of the Veterans and the last batsman was retired with a total for the "Vets," of 86. For the Veterans Hartley secured six wickets and stirling four, while for the Colts Anderson was the most successful bowler, having four wickets, and Hamilton and Pearson had one each, while no fewer than four were run out. The score was as follows:—

A New Church at Chemong.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"On August 31st, Capt. Freemont Crandell gave an excursion to Indian village on Chemong lake, under the auspices of the ladies of Sturgeon Point, for the purpose of aiding in building a union church, which with the concurrance of the ministers of the several denominations will be a great advantage to those who reside there during the summer months. The day although threatening rain in the morning, turned out fine and clear until after their return. The excursionists numbered about 70 persons, who all appeared to enjoy themselves remarkably well. They arrived at Indian village, had dinner, in which all appeared to take an active part, after which most of the party visited the village, took in the sights and public buildings, such as school, church and store, where many of the party purchased fancy articles made by the natives; when all were summoned on board again for the homeward trip, which with the clear and refreshing air combined with the beautiful scenery of this chain of lakes interspersed with islands, whose shores are dotted with cottages, all combined to make it a most enjoyable trip. We called at Oak Orchard for some of our party which remained over to visit friends, arriving home to Sturgeon Point at 4 p. m. The ladies with ever an eye to business held a meeting on board the boat, at which they appointed a building committee and a treasurer to which was handed over the proceeds of the excursion in trust, amounting in all to about $60, which is a clear gain, as Capt. Crandell gave the use of the steamboat free. Too much credit cannot be given to Captain, not only for his generosity on this, but on several other occasions, in which he has heartily co-operation in a good cause."

To the Provincial.

A fine drove of thoroughbred cattle was shipped to the Provincial Exhibition at Kingston to-day. The cattle belonged to Mr. Jos. Redmond, of Otonabee, and consisted of about eleven head, all of which were yearlings and heifers. Mr. Redmond will show them at Kingston, then go to the Industrial at Toronto, and have them here for the Central. He also took his brood mare which has taken prizes for three years at all three shows.

A Close Call.

There was a narrow escape from an accident as the noon train from Toronto was coming into the G.T.R. station here to-day. A man driving a team of horses attached to a lumber waggon was coming down Charlotte-st. and upon seeing the express train tried to pull up his team on the west side of the railroad crossing and seeing that it would be impossible to do this, he gave his horses the whip and crossed the track about a foot ahead of the locomotive. The driver jumped off the waggon so close was the call, and the horses were stopped on the other side. It was a narrow escape, and those who witnessed it turned pale at the sight.

PUBLIC MEETING.—A public meeting of the freeholders was held in the council chamber on Monday night to discuss the advisability of purchasing a suitable site for a village property. The Reeve occupied the chair. The following gentlemen addressed the meeting:—Messrs. Cochrane, G. W. Strickland, Wm. M. Graham, Isbister, Nelson, Griffin, Galvin and Hull, all advocating the lot that is at present leased by the corporation from Mr. A. P. Poussette, as the most desirable site in the village for such purposes. These gentlemen also advocated the building of a brick fire hall, council chamber, clerk's office and lockup, all to be in one building, on the aforesaid site, the lot to cost $2,400 and the building $2,000, steam fire engine and hose reel complete $4,500, and tanks. $400; total $9,500. On motion by Mr. Wm. M. Graham, seconded by Mr. John McWilliams, asking the Council to submit a money by-law to the freeholders of the village to raise the sum of $9,500, to be used in carrying out the aforesaid scheme, which was carried unanimously by the meeting, Mr. John Hull read a statement showing that by debentures scattered over a space of 21 years, it would require on the present assessment 2½ mills on the dollar to relieve all the debentures.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—What our people did on their civic holiday, Wednesday last:—The Orangemen chartered the steamer Cruiser and had an excursion to Stoney Lake, which was well attended. The Foresters Band and friends accepted an invitation by the Captain of the steamer Mary Ellen to a trip to Stoney Lake. Mr. Willie Arnott and his many friends chartered the steamer Dawn and enjoyed a days outing. After the excursion parties had left, the village was even more quiet than on a Sunday.

MATRIMONIAL.—Mr. George Baptie, one of Lakefield's popular young men, left on Wednesday for Belleville, where he was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss L. Huffman. The young lady is well known in the village and is very highly esteemed by her many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Baptie have the sincere wish of your correspondent for their future happiness.

"It seems to me," said Rev. Mr. Murgatroyd, as he helped himself to muffins, "that you young people are well fixed, not actually wealthy, but don't you know, rather comfortable. I see that you have many nice comforts about you which I expect you can well afford. The table setting for instance is neat, tasty, inviting and extremely pretty. Real China too, as you say, what it cost is quite moderate, and I rather fancy that China Hall must be a regular bonanza to people about here. We can't possible do better in the way of prices at Montreal, and I doubt very much if the goods are at all better. Its very convenient to have the place so near and where such an admirable line of things are kept."

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences, especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia, and other throat and lung troubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

Driven to Suicide by Criminal Charges.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 8.—Michael Bach, a butcher, went to his room yesterday, saying he would take a nap, and when next seen was dead, with a bullet through his brain and his pistol lying beside him. Some months ago John Heibach, a shoemaker, accused Bach of criminal relations with Mrs. Heibach. The two men had a fight, and both were arrested. Heibach swore that his wife had confessed to him that Bach was the father of her daughter, who is now 12 years old. He demanded that Bach indemnify him for the money he had expended in rearing and educating the girl. They were talking over the matter when the quarrel arose which led to the fight. Heibach soon brought suit for divorce, in which he repeated the allegations against Bach. A few weeks ago he filed another suit against Bach for $10,000 damages alleged to have been sustained in the fight.

A Reverend Villain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Rev. Jas. S. Greene, 30 years of age, was evicted from the Grand Central Hotel, where he occupied elegant quarters with an innocent bride, on the charge of bigamy preferred against him by a legal wife, who left him a short time ago in fear of her life. He has, it is said, been three times divorced from wives who have died of insanity and broken hearts, and has married six women.

Banker Waldron Off for England.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—It now turns out that Waldron, the absconding banker of Hillsdale, Mich., has sailed for England by the steamship Parisian. A private creditor who had a claim of $5000 had him arrested but allowed him to depart after he had settled the claim. The detectives, however, were unable to locate him. A woman thought to be Mrs. Bidwell accompanied him. He is supposed to have taken $40,000 with him.

Mr. S. R. Balkwell's liabilities are estimated at about $26,000 and his assets at $7000. The charge against Balkwell of attempting to defraud his creditors was opened at the Police Court yesterday morning. Alex. Robertson deposed that he purchased from C. D. Fuller a quantity of cigars, which were invoiced at $1010 for $555 and sold them within a day or two to James Wallace for $606. Chief Newton testified as to the burglary of Balkwell's premises after his arrest, that he saw the wooden bar which fastened the back door had been sawed from the inside. Arthur McGinnis testified that he bought tea from Balkwell, who at first refused but finally accepted his offer, saying he had to raise money to meet paper due on Sept. 1.

The case was adjourned until to-day.

Robbery at Cooksville.

COOKSVILLE, Sept. 8.—Thursday night about 8.30 as Mr. Galbraith of this place, who keeps a general store, was closing for the night two men entered and asked to see some books. When Mr. Galbraith turned to get the goods one of the men seized him by the throat, choking him severely, throwing him down and kicking him several times until he was senseless, robbing him of a gold watch and chain and about $15 in cash. Two suspicious characters answering the description of the robbers were arrested in a bush close by yesterday.

Killed His Family While Delirious.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 7.—James Ford, a farmer near Columbus, while suffering from delirium caused by fever, sprang from his bed seized a chair and killed the youngest child, a babe, and fatally injured his wife, and his 10-year-old son was so badly injured that he will die. It required eight men to manacle the delirious man.

A Close Shave.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—An accident which would probably have been attended with serious consequences was narrowly averted on Wednesday evening just beyond the Wellington bridge, on the line of street cars which runs to Point St. Charles. At this point a side track of the G. T. R. to the sugar refinery crosses the track of the street railway, and as only about two trains pass that way daily people are not so sharply on the look out as they should be. On Wednesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, a car of the street railway had crossed the bridge, and was almost on the G. T. R. track when a locomotive was suddenly heard approaching. The horses reared and the driver put down brakes just in time to stop his car, within a couple of feet of the track. A similar accident was in a like manner providentially averted only about two months ago. The matter will be brought up at the City Council. It is another strong argument in favor of the subway system.

PRACTICALLY UNANIMOUS

THE RETALIATION BILL PASSED BY THE U. S. SENATE.

Only Four Congressmen Vote Against the Measure—Seventy Republicans Numbered With the Democratic Majority.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Discussion of the Retaliation bill was resumed soon after the House met this afternoon and was continued without interruption until 5.15, when the bill was passed by 174 yeas to 4 nays.

Mr. White (Rep., N.Y.) opened the discussion to-day. He favored such retaliation as would retaliate upon the enemy and not upon the people of the United States. The President in his message recommended, and the first section of the bill provided for, the stoppage of the shipment of freight in bond. This would not hurt a hair of the head of a single Canadian fisherman who had been guilty of wrong, but would hurt the Canadians of the western provinces, who had committed no wrong. And while the western provinces must pay more for the transfer of their freight, American workmen would lose $3,250,000 a year if this provision of the bill was enforced. This would be retaliation with a vengeance.

With the second section of the bill, the canal retaliation, Mr. White was in thorough and hearty accord, but he would never vote for a measure which he believed to be detrimental to the laboring men in his district; he would never vote to put a mallet in the hands of any President to beat a Chinese gong who, as he struck the gong, necessarily hit the heads of American workingmen and American enterprise. The proposed legislation was unnecessary, unwise and cruel, alike to the unoffending western Canadian provinces and American workmen, and so clear was he that such was the case that he believed that if a third ballot was taken in each member's conscience, more than half the members of the House would vote against the bill. In this case members were reluctant to take a step which might be misconstrued into a desire to prevent an honest effort to redress long-standing wrongs; but his conviction that the first section of the bill was illogical and wrong was so strong, that if he voted alone he would vote against the bill, though he was heartily in favor of the second section. If the President would stop Canadian fish from coming into this country he would, Mr. White thought, strike the Blue Noses where it would hurt. He favored retaliation that would hurt somebody and make the necessity of it stop quicker.

Mr. Wilson (Dem., Minn.) argued that the Retaliation Act of 1887 was inadequate, and that it would, if enforced, injure this country as much or more than Canada, while the bill before the House was particularly guarded, so as not to destroy the business of the Northwest. The Republicans, he said, with one exception, had denounced the bill, but declared their intention of voting for it. This showed a low state of morals or a lack of independence unbecoming in men who charged the President with pusillanimity. He thought there would be no war, but should the Queen of England and the Empress of India, forgetting the lesson to her ancestors in the past, aim and discharge at us one unfriendly gun from one of her gunboats, he predicted that the echo which it would awaken, would not cease to reverberate before Grover Cleveland, president of the greatest republic on earth, would salute Charles Stewart Parnell as the President of the youngest republic on earth.

Mr. Linn (Rep., Minn.) said that if the bill became a law, the President, with a single stroke of the pen, could cripple or ruin enterprising men in the Northwest, rob Duluth and Minneapolis of half their shipping, and enhance the exactions of Northwestern railroads twenty-five per cent. It was not on account of selfish reasons that he opposed the bill, but because it was conceived for improper purposes, was uncalled for, wrong in theory and an unworthy exponent of the power, dignity and honor of the American people. Retaliation, as sanctioned by the law of nations, should not exceed reasonable satisfaction; the punishment should fit the crime. For the grievance of which American fishermen complained, the fishermen themselves had suggested a proper remedy in forbidding the importation of Canadian fish; but the President had declined to apply that remedy.

Turning his attention to Mr. Scott's speech, Mr. Linn said he had no fault to find with that gentleman being a stockholder and director of the Canadian Pacific Railroad; but when Mr. Scott came here to advocate the passage of a bill detrimental to the American people and favorable to his personal interests as an officer and stockholder in a foreign corporation, it was time to call a halt. If the provisions of the bill were carried into effect, the produce of the Northwest now carried through Canada to New York and Boston would be carried to Halifax, and the object of Mr. Scott, the Canadian Pacific monopoly, and the Tory administration would be accomplished. He pleaded not for Canada or England. He hated England's selfish method of dealing with nations weaker than herself, but he pleaded for American honor. We could not afford to pass laws that would deliver our own people into the hands of a monopoly, and at the same place us in the attitude of bullies. If we had grievances demand redress for them, and if these demands are unheeded, enforce our rights in the spirit of American patriotism and American valor.

Mr. O'Neill (Dem., Mo.) thought the American people had become tired of continual haggling over the fisheries controversy. The cause of the trouble lay with the Tory administration of Canada, and the question should be brought home to the Canadian people in the way pointed out by the President, so they could get rid of their Macdonalds. The President's retaliation message, Mr. O'Neill declared, had reached the people's heart, and when he said it was a magnificent campaign document, he said what every man on the other side believed to be true. However, there was no need to fear war with England, that would mean the loss of India to England and the verification of the prophecy of Thomas Davis, that England's difficulty would be Ireland's opportunity.

Mr. Tarsney (Dem., Mich.) expressed his abhorrence of war and his preference for peaceful methods in the adjustment of differences. But if peaceful methods would not avail then the State of Michigan would take care of Canada and make a couple of Democratic states out of her. The people of Michigan desired peace but it must be peace on honorable terms. Let England and Canada distinctly understand that, though the United States desired peace, it would not under any circumstances submit to an insult. [Applause.]

Mr. Cockran (Dem., N.Y.) said that the address on the other side which had furnished the key-note of the discussion had been the able speech of the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Hitt). To that gentleman and to him alone was due the credit of lifting the discussion to a high level in the plane of parliamentary procedure. But he regretted that while the speech was eloquent it lacked the element of candor and fairness which would have made it one of the greatest productions of this session. The gentleman from Illinois had charged the representatives of the Government in the treaty negotiations with a distinct act of betrayal of American rights, and had said there was an unwritten postscript to the treaty, and that that postscript was an agreement between Secretary Bayard and the Canadian Minister. He had said that the introduction of the Mills bill and vote by which it was passed were part of the conspiracy of betrayal, secretly entered into and carried out with dissimulation and almost with treason. To charge the President with having negotiated a treaty and trying to hoodwink the people into the belief that it was for one purpose, while the Canadians were told it was for another; with treating the United States with dissimulation and extending confidence with the Canadian envoy; with letting the people learn the true character of the treaty from declarations in the Canadian Parliament—this was to charge the President with something graver than treason, with a crime which had no parallel in the history of the executive office of the United States.

There were men on the Democratic side who would be the last in the world to countenance the sale of American interests or American dignity to the British Government. There were men who remembered the Government of Great Britain with feelings which prompted them to anything but an act of friendship; who remembered that the gallows was the illustration of her force and the hangman the apostle of her civilization. Had the gentleman shown a reason which would justify or a temptation which would prompt any American statesman to do such an act as he had charged?

The administration of President Cleveland, the motives which prompted his official acts, needed no explanation to the country. [Democratic applause.] The gentleman from Illinois knew that they needed no explanation because the people believed them to have been prompted by patriotism and inspired by love of country. [Applause.] It would not do at this stage of the campaign to attempt to manufacture campaign thunder of this character for the reason that the people knew how to test its sincerity. [Significant applause on the Republican side.] He regarded that applause with pleasure. He knew to what it referred and he adopted the declaration of the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. O'Neill) that the message was a campaign document, and it was a great one, because it appealed to the intelligence and patriotism of the people whom the President trusted and whom gentlemen on the opposite side seemed to distrust, and whose intelligence they thought they could bamboozle. [Democratic applause.]

Gentlemen need not be mistaken about the effect of their assaults. The sneer they leveled at the President was but a thin disguise for the respect they felt for him. [Democratic applause.] Gentlemen on the other side would say that the President had reached his present degree of success mostly by luck, but they would not assert for an instant that it was encompassed by dishonor, and Republican Senators would declare that never during his incumbence had they been able to invade his privileges and prerogatives. [Democratic applause.] Gentlemen on the other side might say that President Cleveland was not a great man. No one would dare deny that he was an honest man, and he was a great man in the eyes of the country, not because he was a possessor of qualities which lifted him above all others, but because he was a noble type of the American citizen of the land. The Republicans had their uncrowned king; they had their shepherd of the people (he had so many titles that the mind was confused and paralysed in the contemplation of his greatness); but before the American people and at the ballot box he had been vanquished by the simple type of American citizen Grover Cleveland. [Democratic applause.]

It would not do to say that a President who did no act for which his supporters blushed was wanting in greatness. If a man who had risen from the humblest station to the greatest; who had risen by force of virtue—[derisive laughter on Republican side]—and not by sacrifice of it; who had walked in the full sunlight of publicity; who, after four years of administration, found himself renominated by the spontaneous voice of his party; who had never held a trust when those who confided it to him had not sought to extend his term of service; who wielded by the confidence of the people a power far greater than that with which the Constitution clothed him; who found that the party leader whom he had vanquished when yet untried, now fled prudently, if not ingloriously, from a renewal of the conflict; who had no ambiguous acts to defend or unwise epistolary expressions to explain—if this man was not great, then greatness was not a quality which should be encouraged on democratic soil. [Loud and long applause on Democratic side.] Instead of ephemeral, dazzling qualities which among unthinking men went to make up greatness, give him, as a Democrat, the strength and the dignity, the virtues and the intelligence of the President who was in the White House, of the Democratic candidate who would be in it for four years more.

As Mr. Cockran closed, the Democratic side burst into enthusiastic applause and he was immediately surrounded by party friends eager to offer congratulations.

Mr. Bayne (Rep., Pa.) said the President had ample power under the act of March, 1887, to secure American rights. What did he want with more power? Why, that he might throw on to the Canadian railways traffic amounting to perhaps $50,000,000 and take it away from New England railways. And a member of the "kitchen cabinet," a director of the Canadian Pacific and a man whose fortune would be advanced by the gift of that traffic, came here and made a four hours' speech in support of the object to be subserved. The President had not, in his opinion, pursued a dignified and proper course. He believed that the bill should not become a law and he proposed to vote against it. He believed it was a campaign make-shift and he did not propose to vote to allow the President to ruin our railway system and throw the employes out of the work. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. Chipman) had rudely replied when asked a question and had said that the nearer a man approached to a diplomat in appearance the nearer he was to a fool, while the nearer he approached a diplomat in substance the nearer he was to a knave. He (Bayne) had read Chipman's autobiography from the Congressional directory showing that he had participated in the making of an Indian treaty and invited him to classify himself.

Mr. McAdoo (Dem., N.J.), answering The London Standard's boast, said that England's modern ironclads would be as impotent in our harbors as tubs armed with firecrackers. He warned Salisbury that the first British gun fired against New York or Boston would assure the destruction of the British Empire.

Mr. Henderson (Rep., Ia.) charged the President with dishonesty in sending in his message. He was trifling with the American people. American citizens—15,000 fishermen—had been outraged. They asked that their enemies be treated in the same way as they had been treated. The present war head of this nation stood paralyzed and silent. The ears would protrude through the hide. Was Grover Cleveland the great type of American citizenship? God have mercy on the country. He (Henderson) would not touch upon that moral type. He never had. The curtain which had been drawn so carefully around that moral type by eloquent and gifted men he would not raise his hand to touch. He would be kind. But he challenged the Democrats to tear down the curtain around the life of the Republican candidate, Benjamin Harrison. [Applause on the Republican side.] It would stand inspection, public and private. Grover Cleveland might be the Democratic type of American morals and American citizenship, but for him (Mr. Henderson) he would not point the young men of America to him as a model—[hisses on the Democratic side],—to the man who, now bursting with war spirit, had hired a substitute when the land was in battle.

Mr. McMillan: "Where was Blaine?"

Mr. Henderson proceeded, declaring that the model American for 60,000,000 Americans was Benjamin Harison. [Loud applause on Republican side.]

Mr. Caruth (Dem., Ky.) said that anyone listening to Mr. Henderson would imagine that the outrages on American fishermen were of recent date instead of happening during a Republican administration.

The debate having ceased, Mr. White (Rep., N.Y.) moved to recomit the bill to the committee on foreign affairs, with instruction to strike out the first section, but the motion was lost without a division.

The bill was then passed—yeas, 174; nays, 4—the negatives being: Bayne, Dalzell, Ling and White of New York.

The Latest Victim Discovered in Spitalfields Early Sunday Morning Shockingly Mutilated.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The horribly mutilated body of a woman was found early yesterday morning in a yard attached to a common lodging house in Spitalfields. The throat was cut from ear to ear, the body was ripped open, the bowels and heart were lying on the ground, and a portion of the entrails were tied around the neck. This is the fourth murder of a similar character that has been committed recently in this vicinity. All the victims were women of the lowest character. The author of the atrocities remains undiscovered, and the excitement in the immediate vicinity borders upon a panic.

Disastrous Floods in the Old South State.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 8.—On Thursday night the Congaree river rose fifteen feet, overflowed its banks and inundated thousands of acres of cotton and corn lands. For ten days it has rained daily. The wet weather has prevented the opening of cotton and has rotted the fibre in the pod. It is still raining, and cotton buyers estimate that if the rain continues twenty-five per cent. of the crop will be lost. Last night the Congaree was twenty feet above low water and rising. The Broad and Saluda Rivers are also up. The damage will reach over $1,000,000.

Killed While Chopping.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 8.—Mr. James Sumpter, a farmer in Caradoc township, had in his employ a young Englishman named Brock, who came to this country about a year ago, and was endeavoring to earn enough money to bring out his widowed mother. By industry and economy he had nearly succeeded, and the old lady was to join her son this fall. Young Brock had been sent to the bush to cut some timbers and while thus engaged with another man a tree fell on him, killing him instantly. The boy's property will be sent to England.

Brave Men Rewarded.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—The British Consul here has received information that the British Government has forwarded gold and silver medals and other testimonials to Capt. H. M. The Grades May Not be Altered After All.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—The proposed change in wheat grades here will probably never be carried into effect. A Bush Fire That Travelled.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Frederick E. Beardsley, a well-known electrician, was found dead in the rooms of the Denison auto-telegraph laboratory, where he was employed, at 8.30 o'clock this morning. The Daily Review.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1888.

THE PRESENT POSITION.

THE Dominion Government is urged by some of its opponents to again approach the United States at the present time to endeavor to renew negotiations for a settlement of the fisheries question, and it is suggested that reciprocity might be made the basis of the settlement. What is there to encourage Canada to again make advances to the Republic? More than once the Dominion has made overtures for a reciprocity treaty and they have been rejected by the United States. This country agreed to a settlement of the fisheries difficulty which President Cleveland acknowledged was just and honorable, and which the Liberals said conceded everything the United States had contended for, yet it was rejected by that country. At the present time both parties across the lines are vieing with each other in venomous attacks upon Canada, and nothing short of an apology from this country and the tender of the fisheries and all they ask for would have any effect at this time with the United States. The people of this country do not by any means desire their government to do that.

What would be the use of approaching the Cleveland Administration asking for a renewal of negotiations? The two Governments did come to an agreement, and their views of what constituted a satisfactory settlement are known, but the United States Senate refused to ratify the agreement. It would be folly to again submit a similar treaty to that senate, and President Cleveland is not likely to do so, as he and his party have adopted another course, which will not be changed until after the election. This country cannot approach the Senate direct, and it has done what it could with the Administration.

As a matter of fact, the United States Government would not negotiate a reciprocity treaty without the consent of the Senate or Congress. The Globe says that Mr. Bayard informed the British Commissioners that "commissioners appointed without the Senate's consent could not make a treaty which would involve changes of the American tariff." And, bear in mind, President Cleveland asked the consent of the Senate for the appointment of a commission, which was refused, and when he negotiated a treaty regarding the fisheries, the Senate rejected it. The political hubbub will continue across the lines for a couple of months longer, and then it will be known into whose hands the administration will fall for the ensuing four years. Until the excitement and the wire-pulling consequent upon the campaign are over, it is useless to expect a serious consideration of Canadian affairs by United States politicians.

Canada, however, is not in a bad way on account of the rejection of the treaty. It is true that retaliation, so-called, is threatened, but if the shipment of goods in bond through the United States was stopped this country has seaports of its own and railways connecting all parts of the country with them. The business lost to United States ports and railways would fall to Canadian railways and ports, and business would go on as usual. This country can calmly await the outcome of the political game being played across the lines, and if the Republic will consent to a fair adjustment of the disputed points Canada will meet it; but if it refuses to do so and the President carries into effect his proposed retaliation, the Dominion will not be bullied into surrendering its rights.

NORWOOD.

ENTERPRISE.—Messrs. J. Finlay & Son have added a force pump to their establishment, and the senior member has two fountains (the first in Norwood) playing on his lawn. The pump cost in the neighborhood of $300, and will furnish splendid fire protection to the buildings in the immediate vicinity.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

NO FROST ABOUT REGINA

ASSINIBOIA'S WHEAT FIELDS UNHARMED.

A Favorable Report Made to the Council of the Regina Board of Trade—An Immense Stretch of Garden Ground.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10.—I attended a special meeting of the Council of the Regina Board of Trade when a report was made on the conditions of the wheat crop by a committee appointed for that purpose. They were Messrs. D. Mowat, D. W. Bole and M. McNicol, and they were assisted by Mayor Hamilton and Mr. McGaw, buyer for the Ogilvie Milling Company.

They carefully examined a district twenty miles on every side around Regina and reported no frosted wheat anywhere to be seen, having devoted two days to the work.

Last year the Regina district, 22,000 acres estimated under crop, produced 400,000 bushels of wheat and 300,000 bushels of oats, an average over all of 31½ bushels per acre.

The Regina Board of Trade men say their district is never troubled with frozen wheat. It is claimed that a wind blows there which, if not the veritable Chinook, is at all events a true Pacific Ocean breeze, and others besides Regina people confirm the fact that the district is not troubled with frozen wheat. The soil is one immense stretch of garden ground.

On the same occasion the Council of the Board joined Mayor Hamilton and others of the City Council in taking measures for extending a fitting welcome to Mayor Crawford's next excursion of Upper Canada farmers expected the incoming week.

Regina has a number of business men who both look and talk business. Regina, you see, is a Capital City now, and has a perfect right to let the world know it.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, it soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Erratum.

An item in the news columns of the REVIEW on Friday, dated from Norwood, erroneously stated that Mr. Robert Fife had been charged with arson. There was a case before the Magistrates in that village, which arose out of a family dispute as to the ownership of land in Dummer, and a charge of injury to property was laid, Mr. Fife having destroyed a fence on the property. We regret that the telegraphic item referred to appeared in the REVIEW.

The Last of the Season.

Step down the river to-morrow and enjoy yourself. Note the facilities. Let business look after itself. You'll be just as well off a hundred years hence. Posterity will esteem you just as highly. Rev. Father Sweeney's picnic at Jubilee Point is the occassion and the date, mind you, is to-morrow, Tuesday, Sept. 11th. A whole host of attractions has been provided and the day will be one gigantic furore of fun and mirth. If as much fun has ever before been crammed into one day's programme the world has lost sight of it. Secure something to eat and join the crowd and if you go without provender dinner is served on the grounds. Consult the parties to see what you will miss if you stay away.

A Merciless Slaughter.

Search and pursuit of the clever cracksman who went through Gough Bros.' and Stethem's stores is kept up. There was at one time a good chance of securing him, but all at once Gough Bros. lost their interest in the pursuit of the thief—they turned their whole attention to the disposal of the magnificent bankrupt stock of boots and shoes, which they are slaughtering with a merciless and unsparing hand. Prices are of no account—almost anything to sell the goods, though the goods are fine enough to sell themselves; but these hard times, with harvest failure, some extra inducement must be offered to the people. And they have it at gough bros.' Unparalleled low prices for the whole of a $2,500 stock of men's, children's and ladies' boots and shoes. The boot and shoe trade is not their regular business, but they saw a chance for a snap in bargains, and ever on the alert as they are in the public interest they are giving the public the most wonderful run of big bargains ever heard of. This stock must be cleared out and the low prices are doing the business. There is one continuous rush, and the happy populace leave gough's ladened with boots and shoes bought at the most marvelous reductions in price. gough bros.' shoe store, 375 George-st.

THE BURNS CLUB.

The Society Initiated Under Most Favorable Circumstances.

On Saturday evening in room 30 of the Grand Central Hotel there were assembled a number of Scotchmen, met together for the purpose of forming a Burns Club. The attendance was lessened, no doubt, on account of the heavy rain storm, but in beginning a society of this kind the initiative has always to be taken and success assured before the membership roll will assume any proportions. However, on Saturday evening every son of Old Scotia present seemed infused with the proper kind of enthusiasm, and the first meeting augurs well for the future of the Burns Club. The club will not be opposed or in any way interfere with the work of the St. Andrew's Society, and there is no reason why a Scotchmen should not be a member of both and thereby reap the double benefit.

A little before nine o'clock Mr. James Hendry was called upon to take the chair and Mr W. Menzies was appointed Secretary pro tem.

The chairman then made a few remarks and explained the object of the meeting, which was the formation of a Bunns Club. The club would be composed of Scotchmen and their descendants and should meet for the purpose of brotherly intercourse and the enjoyment of Scottish songs, recitations, etc.

Mr. ALEX. MCCALLUM then moved, seconded by Mr. JAMES MCKIM.—"That this meeting resolve itself into a Burns Club to be called the Peterborough Burns Club, the object of which shall be to meet together weekly for the purpose of social intercourse among Scotchmen and to encourage Scottish glee singing, readings, debates and other modes of instruction, and also to co-operate with the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society."

Several of the gentlemen present made short addresses and all were enthusiastic in the sentiment that only good results could follow the formation of the club and the motion was carried amid applause. About seventeen names were then signed as members.

It was not deemed advisable to elect officers or to adopt any constitution or by-laws until a more representative meeting was held, and it was therefore decided to adjourn until next Saturday evening. Now that the club has once been instituted there is no doubt and not the least reason why on Saturday evening next there should not be a large gathering of Scotchmen, when the officers of the club will be elected and club thoroughly organized.

After the adjourument half an hour was most pleasantly spent in songs, and the gathering dispersed all feeling most confident that the future of The Peterborough Burns Clubs would be most successful.

The kindness and liberality of the proprietor of the Grand Central, Mr. J. F. Daly, in giving the club the use of a room in his first-class hotel during the winter in which to hold their meetings gratis, is an act for which the club feels deeply grateful and all present expressed themselves in the warmest terms when speaking of Mr Daly's unsolicited liberality.

Brodie, of Peterborough, Ont., had purchased the Hespeler Woolen Mills, at Hespeler, Ont., lately known as the Harvey & McQuesten Mills, and that he would put them into operation immediately. We learn that in addition to the seven sets of English cards already in these mills, Mr. Brodie will remove to them the three sets of similar cards which he has had in operation in his Peterborough mills. He will manufacture fine flannels, serges and Halifax tweeds as heretofore. In addition to these he has machinery for the manufacture of winceys of various grades, about one-third of all the machinery in his mills being for the manufacture of these special lines. In the cotton department of his works he will manufacture cotton knitting-yarns, beam and chain warps, etc. It is expected that these Hespeler mill will be in full operation in October. Messrs. Lockhart, Millichamp & Co., Toronto, will handle the products of these mills."

BEARS IN THE NORTH.

Five Animals Killed—Four Despatched in Three Minutes—Plucky Conduct.

A correspondent writes as follows from Apsley:—There have been various rumors lately of bears having been seen in the vicinity of the village, but no captures were reported until Wednesday last, when we were somewhat startled by seeing Mr. Alex. McKay bringing in a fine specimen of a three or four year old bruin, which he had killed within sight of here, and, hardly had the eager and curious crowd done viewing the body, when another courier arrived with the news of fresh victories (over these denizens of the forest) achieved by Mr. Thomas Lean who, together with his father, Mr. Jno. Lean, and Mr. Joseph McCauley had succeeded in despatching no less than four bears within the space of three minutes. It happened in this way:—Mr. Joseph McCauley was on his way home from Mr. Lean's in company with a small boy. He had to pass through a piece of woods, which, on entering, he perceived four bears seated in a beech tree regaling themselves on nuts, (Mrs. Bruin and her family). He immediately rushed to the foot of the tree (although he was unarmed) and then despatched the boy in hot haste for Mr. Lean, who speedily appeared on the spot with a Winchester rifle, which it is needless to remark he handled with the coolness and accuracy of an old Kentucky scout. Great praise is also due Mr. McCauley who, with but a limb of a tree, successfully kept the bears from coming down until help arrived, although Mrs. Bruin made three attempts to come at him but without avail. Three more bears have been seen since and Mr. Lean (who is now on the "que vive") expects to be able to chronicle the lucky seven within a few days.

Major Musa Bhai, the leader of the Hindoo contingent who will take part in the Salvation Army anniversary celebration, which will be held next Thursday and Friday, is a native of Ceylon. He first saw the Salvationists in Columbia. He is accompanied by a party of comrades from Southern India and Ceylon. The main object of his visit is to intensify Canadian interest in the work in Hindostan, and to call for aid, both men and women and means, for the prosecution of this important branch of the Salvation war. The Army in the Dominion through the Commissioner has promised twenty officers for India this summer, and already several have volunteered and are awaiting selection. Col. Dawdle, who will also be here, has with him the first musical instrument ever played in a Salvation Army meeting. It is a violin which he prizes very much.

Address to Young Men.

The Y. M. C. A. hall was crowded with men last night at 8.30 to hear the address by Rev. S. J. Shorey to young men. The opening services were conducted by Mr. Geo. M. Roger and Rev. E. F. Torrance. Rev. Mr. Shorey said he would not take a text proper, but would take as a starting point the words from Joshua, "We have not passed this way heretofore and shall not go this way again." No one, he said, would dispute the fact that we had never passed through life before, and just as certain was the last—we should never pass this was again. He referred to the careless manner of some men and warned young men from continuing in their course of sin and folly until they felt that there was nothing left but a wreck of disappointed hopes and blasted ambitions not worth saving. Young men, he said, looked upon the Bible as a book that would throw restrictions athwart their pathways through life, whereas the Bible was the only book that showed and made plain to us the commandments that we must follow in order to gain eternal life. The restrictions and laws would be there if there had never been a Bible. He closed his discourse by appealing to the reason of his hearers and asked them to choose the life they would live. Mr. Roger made a few remarks and the meeting closed with the benediction.

Cricket Meeting.

A meeting of the cricket club will be held at Sam Ray's, this evening, at 7.30. Business of great importance will be brought forward; therefore a large attendance is requested.

Cricket Notes.

There is a meeting of the Cricket Club at Sam. Ray's to-night, when every member is requested to be present.

The Colts and Veterans will play another match to-morrow. They have each won two games, so that this will be the "rubber."

The team go to Toronto on Tuesday, the 18th, to play the East Torontos.

A card was received to-day stating that the Belleville Cricket Club would like to arrange a match for Friday next.

The Lacrosse Record.

The Riversides play with the Bradfords here on Thursday next and the boys should win the game or make a most desperate effort in the attempt, as it will give them second place in the schedule games. A Bradford despatch says:—"On Wednesday Barrie and Bradford lacrosse clubs played their scheduled game here, Bradford winning by 3 goals to 1, this match making Bradford champions of the North-eastern district. The standing of the district is: Bradford, 3 won, 1 lost; Orillia, 3 won, 3 lost; Peterborough, 2 won, 3 lost; Barrie, 2 won, 3 lost. Barrie and Bradford have one draw. Bradford has one more game to play with Peterborough, and would like to meet the Brants, of Paris, or the Torontos."

Rev. Mr. Smyth, of Stratford, occupied the pulpit of the Charlotte-st. Methodist Church last evening and delivered an eloquent discourse to a good congregation.

We regret very much to learn that Mr. W. H. Hill's illness has taken a serious turn. He was removed to a ward in the Nicholls Hospital to-day, where he will receive the best professional care.

How the Mistake Occurred.

It was understood last week that the George-st pulpit would be filled yesterday by Rev. Mr. Lucas, the temperance lecturer, who is to address meetings here this week. Saturday afternoon, however, a telegram was received from Mr. Lucas stating that he would not be able to preach in Peterborough as he was engaged to occupy the pulpit of the Bridge-st. Methodist Church, Belleville. Yesterday in consequence of this Mr. Colbeck preached in the George-st. Church in the morning and Rev. Mr. Davis in the evening. It was considered strange that Mr. Lucas should disappoint the Peterborough congregation, but a letter received by Mr. Dumble this morning explained how the mistake occurred. The temperance people here had negotiated with Mr. Buchanan, of Hamilton, who is Mr. Lucas's manager, and it was arranged with the former gentleman that Mr. Lucus should preach here, but Mr. Buchanan neglected to inform the rev. gentleman that he was expected here yesterday. On Thursday Mr. Lucas was asked to occupy the Belleville pulpit and consented thinking his engagement here began to-night. The blame lies wholly with Mr. Buchanan in not informing Mr. Lucas of the Sunday engagement earlier. Mr. Lucas will lecture on temperance in the Salvation Army barracks this evening and continue here all week.

The Cathedral Choir.

Yesterday at St. Peter's Cathedral, the organ was played for the first time by Miss Emma Ealand, who has accepted the position of organist. Miss Ealand comes from Paris, Ont., and is a skilful and accomplished musician and organist. To accompaniment played by Miss Ealand, Miss A. Dunn and Messrs. M. Tierney and F. Dunn sang a trio, during service, the rendition of which was much admired. We take the following from a late copy of the Paris Review, in reference to Miss Ealand's departure from that town:—"His Lordship the Bishop of Peterborough has been pleased to offer the position of Cathedral organist to Miss Emma Ealand, of this town, and the young lady has gone to Peterborough to essay the duties of this office. Miss Ealand is one of the most clever and accomplished musicians of the galaxy which Paris boasts in the Lauder Sextette Club. If she should, after a trial, decide to accept the position, Peterborough will have gained a decided acquisition to its musical circle as well as to its list of amiable and estimable young ladies."

I see that you have many nice comforts about you which I expect you can well afford. The table setting for instance is neat, tasty, inviting and extremely pretty. Real China too, as you say, what it cost is quite moderate, and I rather fancy that China Hall must be a regular bonanza to people about here. The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"I would rather not," faltered the boy, true to his training.

"What!" thundered Desprez.

"I am afraid of it," said Jean-Marie; "my stomach"——

"Take it or leave it," interrupted Desprez fiercely; "but understand it once for all—there is nothing so contemptible as a precisian."

Here was a new lesson! The boy sat bemused, looking at the glass but not tasting it, while the doctor emptied and refilled his own, at first with clouded brow, but gradually yielding to the sun, the heady, prickling beverage and his own predisposition to be happy.

"Once in a way," he said, at last, by way of a concession to the boy's more rigorous attitude, "once in a way, and at so critical a moment, this ale is a nectar for the gods. The habit, indeed, is debasing; wine, the juice of the grape, is the true drink of the Frenchman, as I have often had occasion to point out, and I do not know that I can blame you for refusing this outlandish stimulant. You can have some wine and cakes. Is the bottle empty? Well, we will not be proud; we will have pity on your glass."

The beer being done, the doctor chafed bitterly while Jean-Marie finished his cakes. "I burn to be gone," he said, looking at his watch. "Good God, how slow you eat!" And yet to eat slowly was his own particular prescription, the main secret of longevity!

His martyrdom, however, reached and end at last; the pair resumed their places in the buggy, and Desprez, leaning luxuriously back, announced his intention of proceeding to Fontainebleau.

"To Fontainebleau!" repeated Jean-Marie.

"My words are always measured," said the doctor. "On!"

The doctor was driven through the glades of paradise; the air, the light, the shining leaves, the very movements of the vehicle, seemed to fall in tune with his golden meditations; with his head thrown back, he dreamed a series of funny visions, ale and pleasure dancing in his veins. At last he spoke.

"I shall telegraph for Casimir," he said, "Good Casimir! a fellow of the lower order of intelligence, Jean-Marie, distinctively not creative, not poetic; and yet he will repay your study; his fortune is vast, and it is entirely due to his own exertions. He is the very fellow to help us to dispose of our trinkets, find us a suitable house in Paris, and manage the details of our installation. Admirable Casimir, one of my oldest comrades! It was on his advice, I may add, that I invested my little fortune in Turkish bonds; when we have added these spoils of the mediæval church to our stake in the Mohammedan empire, little boy, we shall positively roll among doubloons, positively roll! Beautiful forest," he cried, "farewell! Though called to other scenes I will not forget thee. Thy name is graven in my heart. Under the influence of prosperity I become chivalrous, Jean-Marie. Such is the impulse of the natural soul; such was the constitution of primeval man. And I—well, I will not refuse the credit—I have preserved my youth like a virginity; another, who should have led the same snoozing, countrified existence for these years, another had become rusted, become stereotype; but I, I praise my happy constitution, retain the spring unbroken. Fresh opulence and a new sphere of duties find me unabated in ardor and only more mature by knowledge. For this prospective change, Jean-Marie—it may probably have shocked you. Tell me now, did it not strike you as an inconsistency? Confess—it is useless to dissemble—it pained you?"

"Yes," said the boy.

"You see," returned the doctor, with sublime fatuity, "I read your thoughts! Nor am I surprised—your education is not yet complete; the higher duties of men have not yet been presented to you fully. A hint—till we have leisure—must suffice. Now that I am once more in possession of a modest competence; now that I have so long prepared myself in silent meditation, it becomes my superior duty to proceed to Paris. My scientific training, my undoubted command of language, mark me out for the service of my country. Modesty in such a case would be a snare. If sin were a philosophical expression, I should call it sinful. A man must not deny his manifest abilities, for that is to evade his obligations. I must be up and doing; I must be no skulker in life's battle."

So he rattled on, copiously greasing the joint of his inconsistency with words; while the boy listened silently, his eyes fixed on the horse, his mind seething. It was all lost eloquence; no array of words could unsettle a belief of Jean-Marie's; and he drove into Fontainebleau filled with pity, horror, indignation and despair.

In the town Jean-Marie was kept a fixture on the driving seat, to guard the treasure; while the doctor, with a singularly slightly tipsy airiness of manner, fluttered in and out of cafes, where he shook hands with garrison officers and mixed an absinthe with the nicety of old experience; in and out of shops, from which he returned laden with costly fruits, a real turtle, a magnificent piece of silk for his wife, a preposterous cane for himself, and a kepi of the newest fashion for the boy; in and out of the telegraph office, whence he dispatched his telegram, and where, three hours later, he received an answer, promising a visit on the morrow; and generally pervading Fontainebleau with the first fine aroma of his divine good humor.

The sun was very low when they set forth again; the shadows of the forest trees extended across the broad white road that led them home; the penetrating odor of the evening wood had already arisen, like a cloud of incense, from that broad field of tree tops; and even in the streets of the town, where the air had been baked all day between white walls, it came in whiffs and pulses, like a distant music. Half way home the last gold flicker vanished from a great oak upon the left; and when they came forth beyond the borders of the wood, the plain was already sunken in pearly grayness, and a great, pale moon came swinging skyward through the filmy poplars.

The doctor sung, the doctor whistled, the doctor talked. He spoke of the woods, and the wars, and the deposition of dew; he brightened and babbled of Paris; he soared into cloudy bombast on the glories of the political arena. All was to be changed; as the day departed it took with it the vestiges of an outworn existence, and to-morrow's sun was to inaugurate the new. "Enough," he cried, "of this life of maceration!" His wife (still beautiful, or he was sadly partial) was to be no longer buried; she should now shine before society. Jean-Marie would find the world at his feet; the roads open to success, wealth, honor and posthumous renown. "And oh, by the way," said he, "for God's sake keep your tongue quiet! You are, of course, a very silent fellow; it is a quality I gladly recognize in you—silence, golden silence! But this is a matter of gravity. No word must get abroad; none but the good Casimir is to be trusted; we shall probably dispose of the vessels in England."

"But are they not even ours?" the boy said, almost with a sob—it was the only time he had spoken.

"Ours in this sense, that they are nobody else's," replied the doctor. "But the state would have some claim. If they were stolen, for instance, we should be unable to demand their restitution; we should have no title; we should be unable even to communicate with the police. Such is the monstrous condition of the law. It is a mere instance of what remains to be done, of the injustices that may yet be righted by an ardent, active and philosophical deputy."

Jean-Marie put his faith in Mme. Desprez; and as they drove forward down the road from Bourron, between the rustling poplars, he prayed in his teeth, and whipped up the horse to an unusual speed. Surely, as soon as they arrived, madame would assert her character, and bring this waking nightmare to an end.

Their entrance into Gretz was heralded and accompanied by a most furious barking; all the dogs in the village seemed to smell the treasure in the noddy. But there was no one in the street, save three lounging landscape painters at Tentaillon's door. Jean-Marie opened the green gate and led in the horse and carriage; and almost at the same moment Mme. Desprez came to the kitchen threshold with a lighted lantern; for the moon was not yet high enough to clear the garden walls.

"Close the gates, Jean-Marie!" cried the doctor, somewhat unsteadily alighting. "Anastasie, where is Aline?"

"She has gone to Montereau to see her parents," said madame.

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her stye of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a nw make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

TWO SERIOUS ACCIDENTS.

A MONTREALER TERRIBLY INJURED BY A GUN BURSTING.

Bricklayers on Strike—Another Raid on the Bucket Shops—A Supposed Diamond Thief Under Arrest.

MONTREAL, Sept 10.—While Etienne Giroard of this city was on a shooting expedition at St. Barnabe his gun suddenly exploded, penetrating one of his eyes and tearing away a portion of his face.

Michael Dwyer fell from a moving train at St. Henri to-day and sustained injuries from which it is feared he will not recover.

The bricklayers working for the Corporation, in consequence of their pay being reduced from $4 to $3.50 per day, have struck work.

Chief Hughes to-day organized another raid on the bucket shops and made an attempt to catch one of them doing business, but found them all closed.

Kate Moore and three men named Hainey, Rossiter and Dillon were before the Recorder to-day for being concerned in a row in the Gregory House. Hainey was shot in the neck, Dillon was shot in the mouth and Rossiter was stabbed. The injuries are not dangerous. Scalding water was also a weapon used. The woman was fined $8.50 or one month, Hainey and Dillon were fined $10 each or one month, and Rossiter was remanded.

To-day an American looking stranger, well dressed and ablaze with brilliants, entered the pawnshop of J. L. Moss and asked the latter to value a diamond ring which he took off one of his fingers. Mr. Moss' estimate was about $500. The stranger then produced other valuable diamond rings, pins, gold watches, chains and other jewelry and Moss arrived at the conclusion that he wished to trade. Enquiring of him how he came by them Moss was informed that it was none of his business. He then tried to detain him but the stranger skipped out. He was, however, afterwards caught and taken to the police station. He refused to give his name or to state how he came into possession of such valuable property.

The Pitcher case was continued to-day.

A prize fight took place at Quanicasse, Mich., on Sunday, between Martin Shaughnessey of Bay City, and Gaffney of Detroit. The fight was declared a draw, though Gaffney had much the best of it throughout.

The cricket match yesterday at Kingston between the Sawbones and the Kingston club was won by the former by one innings and two runs. The score was, first innings Doctors 81, Kingston 37; second innings Kingston 42.

CLEVELAND'S LETTER.

Comments of the New York Press on the Document.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Referring to the President's letter of acceptance, The Herald this morning says: In his official messages and speeches the President, like Lincoln, has won fame as a writer of eloquence and power. The atmosphere of absolute honesty strengthens and illuminates his style. This faculty of saying what he means is a rare bond of sympathy and power. Mr. Cleveland might have permitted his Administration to speak for itself, and like General Grant been content with a brief, courteous letter of acceptance, but this evil of a great and growing surplus is ever present. It threatens the nation's life. Congress fails to remove it. It will soon be a year since Mr. Cleveland pressed its consideration to the exclusion of all else. Mr. Cleveland having thus far vainly attempted to persuade the Legislature to give the nation relief, appeals to the nation itself—like Jackson he goes before the country on this issue.

The World says: The monstrous injustice of unnecessary taxation and the grave perils of a surplus have not been so strongly set forth in any speech or writing upon the subject as they are in Mr. Cleveland's letter. Upon the other issues of the campaign the letter is equally explicit and sound.

The Tribune says: The President had taken a stand in the December message which he could not retreat from without bringing universal ridicule upon himself and his party. The letter is to all intents and purposes a reiteration of that message with a few bits of protection trimming carefully cut out and basted on by the kitchen cabinet in the hope of catching the eyes of the unwary. There is nothing in it to change the issue as made up between the two great parties.

The Sun says: So far as the able letter published this morning explains or modifies the tariff-smashing message of last December, there is distinct evidence of recent enlightenment on the part of the President.

The Times says: We are deeply mistaken as to the spirit of the American people if this letter does not command general respect and secure the adhesion to it of many voters whose minds have been hitherto undecided.

The St. Clair Flats Canal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A letter was transmitted to Congress from the acting chief of engineers to-day stating that complaints had been made to the department of the temporary blocking of commerce through the St. Clair Flats Canal by the grounding of vessels passing through the canal. He says he understands the grounding of these vessels to be due to the carelessness or obstinacy of the pilots or masters of the vessels and their failure to observe the rules and regulations for the navigation of the Canal established by the Secretary of War. It is recommended that the River and Harbor Act be amended so as to include the St. Clair Flats Canal in the list of navigable streams over which the Secretary of War shall have jurisdiction, with power to provide penalties for the violation of the rules prescribed by him.

A Woman and Money at the Bottom of It.

SARNIA, Sept. 10.—Henry McKillop came over here from Port Huron some time since and opened a confectionery store. He had got in trouble through a libel suit in Detroit in which he was arrested. A Port Huronite named Lodge bailed him and McKillop came to this side. Saturday he went over and his bondsman gave him up. McKillop was then placed in the bastile. The libel suit in Detroit is said to have been occasioned by statements McKillop had published in a Detroit paper and they originally grew out of transactions he had with a Mrs. Stellwagen where several hundred dollars took a mysterious route.

A RIGHT ROYAL WELCOME

LORD STANLEY OF PRESTON IN CANADA'S QUEEN CITY.

Toronto Throws Wide Her Doors to the Representative of Queen Victoria—How the Addresses Poured In.

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—Toronto yesterday did honor to herself and to our new Governor-General, Lord Stanley of Preston. The proceedings were successful in every respect and may be regarded as a happy augury of the Governor-General's term of office. At North Toronto, soon after 7 o'clock in the morning visitors promenaded the neat little station of the Canadian Pacific Railway in readiness for the arrival of the 7.28 train from the capital, by which it was announced His Excellency would travel. Nearly all wore the red rose, the floral emblem of the House of Lancaster. On the arrival of the train the municipal party boarded His Excellency's car and by the Mayor each was introduced to the Governor-General. Lord Stanley graciously received the party. Before arriving at Union Station the Governor-General introduced Lady Stanley, who thanked the officials for their early welcome and in brief yet felicitous terms expressed her pleasure at what she had already seen of Canada. On behalf of the Reception Committee Lady Stanley accepted handsome bouquets. At Union Station there was a large crowd, who cheered the Vice-Regal party on alighting from the train, on entering the carriages in waiting and on arriving at their quarters in the Queen's Hotel. Included in the party were the four sons of the Governor-General, Victor A. Stanley, Arthur S. Stanley, F. C. Stanley, G. S. Stanley; Miss Lister, companion to Lady Stanley; Captain C. Colville, Military Secretary; Lieut. A. MacMahon, Aide.

Preceding the evening ceremonies a torchlight procession paraded the streets.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Diamond Thief Arraigned—The Verdict in the Sloan Case.

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—Charles W. Schnell, alias Eugene Wilks, the man arrested on Sunday night on a charge of bringing stolen property into Canada appeared before the Police Magistrate yesterday morning. Evidence for the Crown was offered by Robert H. Ramsgate, diamond dealer, of No. 10 Maiden-lane, New York, who testified that the prisoner had secured a portion of the property found in his possession from him on false pretences, alleging that he was agent for a big diamond commission house. Ramsgate claimed $1000 worth of the property found with Schnell and the remaining $2000 worth still awaits owners. Schnell pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Friday.

The commandant of the new cavalry school to be established in Toronto has not been appointed yet. In military circles it is believed that he will not be a Toronto man.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner Powell held an inquest at the City Morgue on the body of John Sloan, which was found floating in the bay on Saturday. The verdict was death by drowning, but whether through suicidal mania or accidentally the evidence did not disclose. There was not a particle of evidence of foul play.

Last evening Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Parker celebrated their silver wedding.

Lord Stanley of Preston will formally open the Industrial Exhibition at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Sergeant-Detective Reburn yesterday evening arrested H. L. Howard, a guest at one of the leading hotels, on suspicion that he was a crook and a blackleg. There was nothing about the young man's appearance to indicate that he was crooked. He was well dressed and moved in the best society of young men in the city, and played billiards with "the finest" at the leading hotels. When arrested yesterday evening he asked for God's sake to be let out of the town. The detectives thought him a good riddance and Detective Slemin saw him off on the late train west last night.

Kingston's Show Promises Well.

KINGSTON, Sept. 10.—The fair from all appearances will be an unqualified success. Never before has such a display of stock been seen here. A Human Brute.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.—Detective Trempe and Constable Demers on Saturday afternoon arrested a man on St. Paul-street named Narcisse Blondin alias Avon, on a charge of attempting to rape Adela Perrcault, 11 years of age. It appears that the prisoner, who is 27 years of age, met the little girl on the street one evening and took her into a restaurant and treated her to oysters. He next enticed her to a house on Sanguinet-street under the pretence of giving her wine, and there assaulted her, so it is alleged. He told the girl that if she said anything about the affair to anybody she would be put in jail. However, the matter leaked out and Detective Trempe found the girl after considerable difficulty and got her, with the woman of the house, to make a deposition before the Police Magistrate on Saturday. This accomplished, he, with Constable Demers, set out to find the brute in human form, who was found during the afternoon and taken into custody.

"OLD PROBS."

Conspicuous in Manitoba By His Absence—A Narrow Gauge Railway.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10.—In your Winnipeg despatch printed Friday last it was said: The air is decidedly softer and milder to-day, and a Government report would probably show an extensive warm movement for the west of this but no one here knows. As a matter of fact the warm wind set in at Regina on Friday, the day after the above was written.

Now let Mr. Tupper and Mr. Dewdney lay their heads together and give the Northwest her probabilities which she very much wants and which she deserves as much as any of the rest of us.

This week the wheat talk opens rather better than it did a week ago. It is generally said now that allowing for some falling off in quantity the higher prices will more than make up to the farmers for the smaller quantity. But if you have any influence with "Old Probabilities" just remind him that Northwest people think they have as good a right to his attentions as have those of the East.

Mr. E. S. Galt, son of Sir Alexander, took the east bound train to-night. He goes to England and will be absent a few months. He is General Manager of the Galt or Lethbridge Coal Mines which are on the Belly River south of the Canadian Pacific Railway track. The nearest Canadian Pacific Railway station is Dunmore, which is 651 miles west of Winnipeg and 6 miles this side of Medicine Hat. The mines are reached by an independent narrow gauge railway running 110 miles south from the Canadian Pacific Railway. I have heard it talked of but not mentioned by any one connected with the company that the narrow gauge will soon be replaced by a broad gauge, after which cars will run from the mines to points of delivery without transhipment. I have also heard, though from quite another source altogether, that the narrow gauge was imposed in the first place by Old Country shareholders who seemed to have formed exaggerated ideas as to the suitability of the narrow gauge to Canadian requirements. Now it has to be done over again, as in some other cases of narrow gauge we know of.

THE DAILY COLLISION.

A Freight Crashes Into the Rear Coach of an Excursion Train.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11.—The fourth section of train No. 5, west bound on the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railway, carrying G. A. R. Veterans from Youngstown and vicinity to the national encampment at Columbus, was wrecked yesterday afternoon at Rittman, a small station three miles west of Wadsworth, O. The train consisted of nine cars. The connecting rod of the locomotive drawing a special broke near Rittman and after much difficulty the train was stopped on a curve.

While waiting for repairs to be made a freight train which was following down the grade thundered along at the rate of 25 miles an hour and although warning was given it was impossible to avert the collision. The locomotive of the freight plunged into the rear coach of the special, wrecking four cars, two of them being completely demolished.

The excursionists had notice of the danger and all succeeded in getting out of the cars before the crash came, but as they hurried down the embankment the wrecked coaches rolled down upon them killing two and injuring twenty-five others more or less seriously. Two of the trainmen were also killed.

LIQUOR RESTRICTION.

The Imperial Government Asks Information From Canada.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—It is understood that in view of the liquor restriction agitation in England, the Imperial Government some weeks ago transmitted a despatch to the Government here asking for information regarding the working of the restrictive laws in this country. The information is being now obtained from the different provinces, and it is probable that it will be sent as received, although it is likely to be to some extent contradictory.

AN INCENDIARY FIRE.

Property Valued at Ten Thousand Dolls. Destroyed.

DUNDALK, Sept. 11.—About 1.30 yesterday morning fire was discovered in the store owned by John Connor and occupied by James Edgerton as a liquor store. Despite the efforts of the people the fire spread and soon J. D. Morgan's store and dwelling, C. H. Jewell's furniture workshop, the Ranbury block, occupied by Johnston, jeweler, and James Connor's store and dwelling, were in flames. The total loss is estimated at about $10,000; partly covered by insurance. Jewell's furniture store and Ranbury's store being of brick these buildings were saved, though badly damaged at the back. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary.

A Cayuga Blaze.

CAYUGA, Sept. 11.—About 7.45 last evening the pumping house at the Grand Trunk station was discovered on fire. The alarm was at once given but nothing could be done to save the building or engine. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from the smoke stack or from a passing engine.

THE ISLAND DELEGATES

IT IS SAID THEIR VISIT HAS BEEN POSTPONED.

Their Trip Put Off Indefinitely—The Alleged Reason for the Sudden Change of Programs.

MONTREAL, Sept. 10.—Late this evening a private despatch was received from St. Johns, Newfoundland, bringing the intelligence that the delegates from the Newfoundland Government, who were to have left that place to-day on a mission to Ottawa to arrange terms for the admission of the Colony of Newfoundland into the Canadian Confederation, had suddenly abandoned their intention and postponed the trip indefinitely.

The official reason for this course is not stated, but it is added that the Newfoundland Government is alarmed at the critical condition of affairs between Canada and the United States and prefers to postpone the inauguration of negotiations until the cloud has blown over.

This step is not a cause of much regret to Canadians, as Newfoundland's everlasting dispute with France over the so-called French Shore fisheries is yet unsettled, and while it remains open is a continual menace to peaceful intercourse with the great European republic.

The delegates chosen to represent Newfoundland previous to this sudden change in affairs were Sir James Winter (the Premier) and Hon. E. D. Shea, with Hon. Mr. Monroe and Hon. A. M. Harvey from the Council and Mr. P. G. Scott from the Assembly.

A Pastime That Will Cost His Life.

ORANGE, N.J., Sept. 10.—James Bredamus, a boy 14 years of age, who works in a hat shop, was fooling around a horizontal shaft running 250 revolutions a minute. He had on a rubber apron and held one end on the shaft to show how quickly it could be pulled off when it caught. He did this several times successfully. Notwithstanding the warning of his companions he tried to do it just once more. The end of the apron caught firmly and wrapped tightly around his fingers, and in an instant the poor fellow was whirling through the air. One piercing shriek was all he had time to utter before he was hurled with frightful velocity to one end of the room. When picked up he was unconscious. One arm was completely torn off at the elbow and the hand and arm thrown to the other end of the room. The other arm was mangled almost out of all shape and hung to the stump by a few shreds. His clothes were completely stripped off. On his breast were several gashes caused by projecting nails on the floor when he fell, and he suffered severe internal injuries. He was taken to the Memorial Hospital and the mutilated limbs amputated, and he is in a dying condition from shock and loss of blood.

A Dastardly Attempt at Train Wrecking.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 10.—Meagre details of a fiendish attempt at train wrecking on the Grand Trunk Railway reached this city at a late hour last night. It appears an eastbound freight train, on reaching a point about three miles east of Bothwell, between 8 and 9 o'clock last night, ran into an obstruction, but, as the train was moving slowly, the only damage done was the derailing of the engine. The trainmen, on making an investigation, discovered that two heavy rails had been placed across the track.

The officials here are confident that the object of the miscreants was to wreck No. 55 express for the purpose of plunder, but they were foiled, for that train was from one and a half to two hours late, and the freight had received orders to come on. Had the express been on time in all probability a terrible disaster would have been the result.

A Guardian of the Peace Disturbs It.

POINT ST. CHARLES, Sept. 10.—A policeman named McAllecse got drunk Saturday night and was insulting passers-by and acting in a brutal manner when the police station was notified. Two men went at once to arrest him, but found they had a tougher job than they had bargained for, as the belligerent "bobby" showed fight, and despite their utmost endeavors they could not apprehend him. A further relay was telephoned for and four more men quickly arrived and assisted their confreres. A serious combat ensued. McAllecse, who is a powerful man, used his baton to some purpose, and in the melee that ensued several of the policemen received wounds and had their clothes torn. Finally they overpowered and conveyed him to the station where he was locked up.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1888.

AN ADMISSION.

RECENTLY, referring to the iron industry and the tariff, a Liberal paper—the Kingston Whig—said:—

"There is no reason to believe that smelting would be undertaken under the present order of things—at least in this great mineral district. And why? Because in the first place the tariff is not just what it seems, and in the second place there is no guarantee that it will not be altered or abolished. So iron men say, and they are very shrewd and sensible."

Whether the Whig is right or not as to smelting being undertaken in that district, there is no doubt that it is right as to one reason why the National Policy has not been even a greater success than it has. New industries has been established under the influence of that policy, and the success of the policy led the people to endorse it twice after it had been tried. But the continued assaults upon the system and the boasting that it would be speedily reversed on the part of the Liberals has kept capital out of the country that would otherwise have been employed and given employment in the Dominion.

At the time of the last Dominion election the attacks on the National Policy were moderated and in many places dropped entirely. The electors were told that it was a dead issue and that if they entrusted the Liberal party with office the tariff would not be materially lowered or the protection lessened. But no sooner were the elections over that the old tunes were played, and now that same party is endeavoring to abolish entirely the tariff on importations from the United States. We have known "iron men," as the Whig terms them, to give as a reason why they would not come here to establish new industries that there was a political party opposed to the present fiscal policy which might succeed in having it reversed, and the Whig has evidently heard the same reason given, but we scarcely expected a Liberal paper to admit so plainly that its party had been instrumental in keeping indurtries, with all their attendant advantages, out of the country. It is far from probable that the Canadian people will abolish the National Policy, but it is none the less true that the persistent agitation against it has had an effect on foreign capitalists, and, though it has been a success, it would have been more successful had all Canadians patriotically combined to give it a fair trial.

FROM MANITOBA.

SOURIS, Man., Aug 28th, 1888

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Believing that a great many readers of your valuable paper would like to hear how the crops out in this country are getting along, I thought perhaps I could tell them something about them There is quite a change in them since my last letter, of course the harvest is going to be late, but the growth has been very rapid. There has not been much harvesting done yet, August 24th, but there will be a big strike this week, for the wheat is turning fast. We have had some very hot weather this last week, the mercury getting away up into the nineties. It is reported to have been 110 in the shade at Brandon on the 21st, but the heat is just what we want to hurry up the grain for there is some very green yet, but it was late when it was sowed. I suppose you have heard about the frost out here. True, we have had a couple of cold nights, one on August the 8th and the other on the 16th, and it did a great deal of harm to the wheat and the gardens and the potatoes was hurt some, but I find those who suffered the most were the farms along the flats near the river. The frost appears to go in stripe, we find perhaps 2 or 3 miles the wheat all right and then there will be several farms badly damaged, some so bad that it will not be out, but in this district south of the Souris the grain is not much hurt except a few places. The oats is going to be a very heavy crop, and the barley will be very fair, not much growe out here. Haying is just about finished and was a very good crop, but I believe other grasses will have to be sown before long, for the native grass will run out after much cutting. There is quite a lot of building going on mostly houses and granaries. Mr. McEwan, who was an old resident of the fourth line of Smith, is building a new house on his fine farm of 480 acres, about 12 miles south of Plum Creek. One man out here has built a store house for grain, large enough to hold 10,000 bushels of wheat and expects to have enough to fill it. There has been a lot of Ontario people out here lately; they came out on the excursion which left Toronto a short time ago. Mr. D. W. Dumble paid us a visit last week. I have met several old residents of Peterborough. I might mention Mr. W. A. King who has a fine farm out here, he appears well satisfied with the country and is doing well. Mr. I. and J. Scott, sons of Mr. G. Scott, Smith, have two fine farms of 320 acres each and their crops look well, and escaped the frost. Their wheat will average about 35 bushels to the acre, 135 acres sown.

R N. SCOTT.

Journalistic.

Mr. J. E. Flewwelling, editor of the Canadian Lumberman, has accepted the position of editor of the Chatham Planet, and leaves Peterborough on Friday next. Although his residence in Peterborough has been brief, Mr. Flewwelling has made a circle of acquaintances here who will wish him every success in his new field. As editor of the Belleville Ontario Mr. Flewwelling made a large number of warm friends in the bay city, who will be glad to hear of his acceptance of this responsible position. During his short sojourn here he has taken charge of the Bible class of the Charlotte-st. Methodist church and will be greatly missed in this sphere. The REVIEW wishes him every success in his journalistic duties.

A Low Rate.

The Port Hope Times says:—"At the meeting of the Peterborough Council on Wednesday night, the rate of taxation for the ensuing year was struck at twelve and a half mills, a very low rate for Peterborough." The rate certainly is low, compared with the rate of other towns and cities—a little more than half—but it is the usual rate here.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Dispute Over Wages.

J. Carlisle vs. J. Montgomery was a non-payment of wages case at the Police Court this mogning. Montgomery owns a threshing machine and had hired Carlisle to run the engine at $1 per day. The dispute arose over a difference of one day and a half in the keeping of the time Carlisle worked, the employer making it 17½ days and the employee having 19 days charged in his book. Police Magistrate Dumble was inclined to take Carlisle's figures as correct and ordered Montgomery to pay the balance of the wages and cost. The costs amounted to $3.85.

A Mistaken Idea.

Some people imagine that in order to get a first class A 1 article in certain lines of goods it is necessary to go to Toronto or Montreal. Among these lines is furniture. Well, the fact has been most practically proven to be otherwise. Mr. A. Clegg is now shipping an order amounting to about six hundred dollars to Essex Centre. Mr. Clarke, the gentleman who gave Mr. Clegg the order, had gone through all the leading furniture establishments in Toronto, and while passing through Peterborough, thought he might as well take a look through some of the stores here. He was so pleased with the goods he saw in Mr. Clegg's and the prices were so much lower that he selected six hundred dollars' worth of goods and they are now being shipped. The order includes a mahogony drawing-room suite, a dining room and bed room suites.

Troubles of a Circus.

Howe's circus has been in trouble several times. While here an Indian employee was shot, and another employee is in gaol here waiting trial on a charge of murder. In Quebec Province there was a wild row at one place between the townspeople and the circus men, and now a despatch from Halifax on Sept. 10th tells the following:—"Howe's Wild West Show, which has been 'doing' Nova Scotia, has turned out to be one of the worst swindles ever seen in the Lower Provinces. A few days ago the manager, one Baylis, gave a bill of sale of the whole concern to one of the employees for salary. The show was at Pictou on Saturday, where Manager Baylis skinned out and the man with the bill of sale took possession. A wild scene followed, and capias followed capias in quick succession. The wageless employees struck and a warrant was issued for the arrest of the man holding the bill of sale, on a charge of gambling at Stellarton. The prisoner deposited $20 for his appearance at trial on Monday, and a few hours later he, too, shipped. At daylight Sunday morning the circus effects were shipped on a special train en route for Point Levis, and the penniless performers were left in Pictou to bewail their fate."

A Success.

The first of a series of public entertainments by the Endeavor Society of the Charlotte-st. Methodist Church took place last evening. The lecture room of the church was well filled and the room presented a very attractive appearance, being tastefully decorated with lace curtains, appropriate mottoes and beautiful decorative paintings. The Honorary President of the society, Rev. S. J. Shorey, occupied the chair and announced as the opening hymn "What shall the Harvest be," following which a short prayer was offered. The programme was a very excellent one and was well received by the audience. The following ladies and gentlemen took part:—Song by Mrs. Logan entitled "When the Swallows homeward fly," which was rendered with great sweetness and effect. An instrumental duet by Misses Jones and Smart was very much enjoyed as was attested by the applause bestowed. A song "Some sweet day," by Mr. Devall was rendered with good effect and heartily enjoyed. A recitation by Mr. Scott, entitled "Katrina's Visit to New York," fairly brought down the house. The song "So the Story Goes," by Mrs. Daly, was so well received that it merited and received an encore. Mrs. Daly then sang "Far Away," with great distinctness of articulation. The vocal duet by Mrs. Logan and Miss Fawcett, entitled "In the Starlight," was well rendered and as well received. The closing song, "The Model Church," was given by Mr. Devall. The Endeavor Society are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment and a large audience for their future entertainments is assured.

TEMPERANCE TALKED.

REV. D. V. LUCAS BEGINS A WEEK OF LECTURES.

The Experience of two Reformed Drunkards—The Liquor Traffic Condemned in the Strongest Language.

Rev. D. V. Lucas opened a week of temperance lectures in Peterborough last evening in the Salvation Army barracks. The rev. gentleman comes to town under the auspices of the local order of Royal Templars. He has been speaking on the temperance question all through Ontario, having just closed a week in Kingston on Saturday last. The opening meeting of the campaign was not attended by any of the local divines, but their absence was accounted for by Mr. Lucas who stated that he expected Rev. Mr. Torrence before the lecture closed, Rev. Mr. Pearson was out of town and the others had engagements elsewhere. Dr. Fife accompanied the lecturer and occupied a seat on the platform.

TWO REFORMED DRUNKARDS.

The meeting opened in Army style with singing and prayer, after which Capt Howell called upon Soldier Mark Spencely to give his experience.

Brother Mark rose and in his own peculiar way told how he had been a victim to strong drink, but now he was rejoicing in the Saviour with the desire for drink completely gone. He amused his auditors by relating several incidents in his experience and sang "We'll roll the old chariot along," in a most powerful manner. That song was what he called his "forty-mile song," having sung it all the way from Apsley to Peterborough when he and two drunken companions were returning from a spree.

Soldier Baker also gave his experience, relating how liquor gradually got the upper hand of him until he was a total slave to this curse, but it was three years since he had given his heart to God and parted with his worst enemy, drink.

REV. MR. LUCAS

said in opening that he did not think they required him in the Army, as he regarded it as impossible for him to say anything better than Brother Mark had already said and he hoped God would bless the brethren in the Army. He spoke of the other worlds in the universe and said it was a question whether the other worlds were inhabited or not. It was just possible, he said, that ours was the only moral battle ground, but look at the other two worlds they knew of. Above in Heaven the angels all rejoice to do His will; below, the inhabitants of that lower region all were of one mind, but here on earth there were

TWO SETS OF PRINCIPLES.

One set was under the control of Jesus and the other set under control of the king of darkness, one lifting up and the other dragging down. These two sets of principles were grinding the people of the world like wheat between the upper and nether mill stones. The battle was now raging, the soldiers were griping each other and who was to be triumphant? His idea was that if there was a straw in his brother's way it was his business to remove it, for he was afraid he might tumble over the straw into hell with his brother. It was not a straw in this case, however; it was a mountain. Was there, he asked, a publican, a man who made or sold liquor in that barracks who had said when Mark was giving his experience, "The

he has run away to join that Army!" If there was he would take his brother by the arm and walk straight into that publican's bar and ask him to his face, "Tell me, before God and your conscience, if this is not a better man than he was three years ago?" If there was a liquor man present who desired to defend his traffic he would gladly give up half his time for that defence. "I say," said the speaker, "to publicans that the business you follow is the business of hell; it is of the devil from bottom to top. Its the biggest card the devil ever played and it is dragging more souls down to hell than any other means under the British flag." People condemned Chinamen for opium eating. Yet a Chinaman injured no one but himself, while the drunkard wounded his wife and children, and if they condemned Chinamen for using one drug, why not condemn those in our own land for the use of another poison? Speaking of the traffic, he said every publican and brewer and distiller knew his

BUSINESS WAS OF HELL,

and related several amusing incidents in which liquor men had admitted this fact themselves. The two set principles were moving in opposite directions and the people were what they were both after. Which was the better? Would the liquor traffic lift them out of the gutter and make men of them? No. The brewers and distillers were blinded by the love of wealth. When the abolition of slavery was agitated one hundred years ago by Wm. Wilberforce there were hundreds of people who could not see that it was wrong, but to-day from the Queen on the throne to the humblest subject, all would say: "Slavery wrong? Why of course it is." Wilberforce had shown that in this case it was also the god of wealth that stood in the way. The opposition of distillers and brewers was easily understood, but those people who had no particular interest, but who seemed to say "Well, while you pull this train on I'm going to hold it back," would only be put down as not being "all there." It was he was engaged in, the speaker said, for while he loved the Lord Jesus Christ first, he loved his country with a patriotism equal to any man's. Liquor traffic had never done anything for this country. No land, no town, no Peterborough or Toronto, no Brockville or Montreal were prospered by the liquor traffic, but they prospered in spite of the liquor traffic and they would be a great deal more prosperous without it at all. The boy with a lump or swelling on his side would grow as the years passed, but it was not the deformity that made him grow, and, he said, of all the excrescences and of all the things fastened on to this world by the devil the liquor traffic was the worst. The country would be grander and the young people grow up nobler without liquor. All should press every power God had given them into the service and although obstacles were in the way, they were going to overcome. As the tide on the seashore appeared to recede when it was coming in, and thus deceived them, so it was with all moral innovations. No matter how much they should be discouraged now, the tide was coming in and would sweep the accused drink from out the land.

Capt. Howell then made an earnest address and the meeting dispersed with the doxology.

Rev. Mr. Lucus will deliver another lecture in the Charlotte-st. church this evening.

"So you're off for Vancouver in the morn'ing," said old John Stubborntwist, the manufactur'r, "and what's that you've there you're roping up so tightly"? "That" said his nephew as he yanked the rope a trifle tighter and followed with his eyes a trousers button that rolled across the carpet, "that is about as much for $75.00 as I ever got. This trunk is chuck full of China and Glass goods and we've enough to last the next five years unless a tornado gives the house a whirl, which is'nt probable. I know a good thing when I see it and I've invested some money with China Hall. Fine place to buy, mighty fine assortment—just hold that end while I secure this knot—fine assortment, beautiful goods and prices that fairly knock Toronto cold. Wilson's the stuff, and folks should buy at home. I'd do the same only the fact is at my home there is'nt anything to buy but Chinamen and silver mines and I don't want either.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"All is for the best!" exclaimed the doctor, fervently. "Here, quick, come near to me; I do not wish to speak too loud," he continued. "Darling, we are wealthy!"

"Wealthy!" repeated the wife.

"I have found the treasure of Franchard," replied her husband. "See, here are the first fruits; a pineapple, a dress for my ever beautiful—it will suit her—trust a husband's, trust a lover's taste! Embrace me, darling! This grimy episode is over; the butterfly unfolds its painted wings. To-morrow Casimir will come; in a week we may be in Paris—happy at last! You shall have diamonds. Jean-Marie, take it out of the boot with religious care and bring it piece by piece into the dining room. We shall have plate at table! Darling, hasten and prepare this turtle; it will be a whet—it be will an addition to our meager ordinary. I myself will proceed to the cellar. We shall have a bottle of that little Beaujolais you like, and finish with the Hermitage; there are still three bottles left. Worthy wine for a worthy occasion."

"But, my husband; you put me in a whirl," she cried. "I do not comprehend."

"The turtle, my adored, the turtle!" cried the doctor; and he pushed her toward the kitchen, lantern and all.

Jean-Marie stood dumfounded. He had pictured to himself a different scene—a more immediate protest, and his hope began to dwindle on the spot.

The doctor was everywhere, a little doubtful on his legs, perhaps, and now and then taking the wall with his shoulder; for it was long since he had tasted absinthe, and he was even then reflecting that the absinthe had been a misconception. Not that he regretted excess on such a glorious day, but he made a mental memorandum to beware; he must not, a second time, become the victim of a deleterious habit. He had his wine out of the cellar in a twinkling; he arranged the sacrificial vessels, some on the white table cloth, some on the sideboard, still crusted with historic earth. He was in and out of the kitchen, plying Anastasie with vermouth, beating her with glimpses of the future, estimating their new wealth at ever larger figures; and before they sat down to supper, the lady's virtue had melted in the fire of his enthusiasm, her timidity had disappeared; she, too, had began to speak disparagingly of the life at Gretz; and as she took her place and helped the soup, her eyes shone with the glitter of prospective diamonds.

All through the meal, she and the doctor made and unmade fairy plans. They bobbed and bowed and pledged each other. Their faces ran over with smiles; their eyes scattered sparkles, as they projected the doctor's political honors and the lady's drawing room ovations.

"But you will not be a Red!" cried Anastasie.

"I am Left Center to the core," replied the doctor.

"Mme. Gastein will present us—we shall find overselves forgotten," said the lady.

"Never," protested the doctor. "Beauty and talent leave a mark."

"I have positively forgotten how to dress," she sighed.

"Darling, you make me blush," said he. "Yours has been a tragic marriage!"

"But your success—to see you appreciated, honored, your name in all the papers, that will be more than pleasure—it will be heaven!" she cried.

"And once a week," said the doctor, archly scanning the syllables, "once a week—one good little game of baccarat!"

"Only once a week!" she questioned, threatening him with a finger.

"I swear it by my political honor," cried he.

"I spoil you," she said, and gave him her hand.

He covered it with kisses.

Jean-Marie escaped into the night. The moon swung high over Gretz. He went down to the garden end and sat on the jetty. The river ran by with eddies of oily silver, and a low, monotonous song. Faint veils of mist moved among the poplars on the further side. The reeds were quietly nodding. A hundred times already had the boy sat, on such a night, and watched the streaming river with untroubled fancy. And this perhaps was to be the last. He was to leave this familiar hamlet, this green rustling country, this bright and quiet stream; he was to pass into the great city; his dear lady mistress was to move bedizened into saloons; his good, garrulous, kind hearted master to become a brawling deputy; and both be lost forever to Jean-Marie and their better selves. He knew his own defects; he knew he must sink into less and less consideration in the turmoil of a city life; sink more and more from the child into the servant. And he began dimly to believe the doctor's prophecies of evil. He could see a change in both. His generous incredulity failed him for this once; a child must have perceived that the Hermitage had completed what the absinthe had begun. If this were the first day, what would be the last? "If necessary, wreck the train," thought he, remembering the doctor's parable. He looked round on the delightful scene; he drank deep of the charmed night air, laden with the scent of hay. "If necessary, wreck the train," he repeated. And he rose and returned to the house.

CHAPTER VI.

A CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION, IN TWO PARTS.

The next morning there was a most unusual outcry in the doctor's house. The last thing before going to bed, the doctor had locked up some valuables in the dining room cupboard; and behold, when he rose again, as he did about 4 o'clock, the cupboard had been broken open and the valuables in question had disappeared. Madame and Jean-Marie were summoned from their rooms, and appeared in hasty toilets; they found the doctor raving, calling the heavens to witness and avenge his injury, pacing the room barefooted, with the tails of his night shirt flirting as he turned.

"Gone!" he said; "the things are gone, the fortune gone! We are paupers once more. Boy! what do you know of this? Speak up, sir, speak up. Do you know of it? Where are they?" He had him by the arm, shaking him like a bag, and the boy's words, if he had any, were jolted forth in inarticulate numbers. The doctor, with a revulsion from his own violence, set him down again. He observed Anastasie in tears. "Anastasie," he said, in quite an altered voice, "compose yourself, command your feelings. I would not have you give way to passion like the vulgar. This—this trifling accident must be lived down. Jean-Marie, bring me my smaller medicine chest. A gentle laxative is indicated."

And he dosed the family all round, leading the way himself with a double quantity. The wretched Anastasie, who had never been ill in the whole course of her existence, and whose soul recoiled from remedies, wept floods of tears, as she sipped, and shuddered, and protested, and then was bullied and shouted at until she sipped again. As for Jean-Marie, he took his portion down with stoicism.

"I have given him a less amount," observed the doctor, "his youth protecting him against emotion. And now that we have thus parried any morbid consequences, let us reason."

"I am so cold," wailed Anastasie.

"Cold!" cried the doctor. "I give thanks to God that I am made of flerier material. Why, madame, a blow like this would set a frog into a transpiration. If you are cold you can retire; and, by the way, you might throw me down my trousers. It is chilly for the legs."

"Oh, no!" protested Anastasie; "I will stay with you."

"Nay, madame, you shall not suffer for your devotion," said the doctor. "I will myself fetch you a shawl." And he went upstairs and returned more fully clad and with an armful of wraps for the shivering Anastasie. "And now," he resumed, "to investigate this crime. Let us proceed by induction. Anastasie, do you know anything that can help us?" Anastasie knew nothing. "Or you, Jean-Marie?"

THE BALTIC AGROUND.

She Runs on the Rocks of the North Channel in a Dense Fog.

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 11.—The steamer Cambria, of the Canadian Pacific Railway line, on her arrival yesterday morning brought word that the steamer Baltic, Captain Tait Robertson, of the Collingwood line, was aground high and dry at One-Tree Island, in the North Channel, near Clapperton Island. It is stated that the vessel at the time was under a full head of steam and in a fog was doing her best to make up lost time when she struck on the island. The accident happened on Friday night at 11.30, and the steamer Cambria, hearing of the accident, ran up to the assistance of the Baltic, but could do nothing for her. All the passengers are safe, though they were badly scared by the accident. It is thought that the vessel can be pulled off and will be found not much the worse for her mishap.

The island on which the Baltic lies can only be found on the new charts as Elm Tree or Elm Island, commonly called One-Tree Island by sailors.

The latest report brought down by the Mercor is that the Baltic is badly logged, both arches broken and a strong southeast wind pounding her on the rocks. She has been scuttled and lies in about five feet of water forward and some seven feet aft.

Dent whalebones can be restored and used again by simply soaking in water a few hours and then drying them.

CORSETS!

Every lady purchasing CORSETS and wishing to get the Best Article for the least outlay, should visit TURNBULL'S, as he always keeps in stock the Best Makes from all the leading manufacturers. Some makes are peculiarly adapted to suit a particular style of figure. Below we enumerate a few lines from which you can select in any size from 18 to 30. Larger sizes procured on short notice.

THE YATISI CORSET

is modelled from a design of one of the most celebrated Parisian makers. It gives a lady that easy and grace so much admired in French ladies.

The YATISI CORSET owing to the peculiar diagonal elasticity of the cloth will fit the wearer perfectly the first time worn, no matter what her style of form is, either long or short waisted. To ladies wishing to lace light and not feel uncomfortable at the bust or hips they are indispensible.

The YATISI CORSET does not stretch at the waist; requires no breaking in; fits comfortable the first time worn, as it gives to every motion of the wearer. It will outlast any of the old style rigid Corsets.

The YATISI CORSET can be worn ten days and if not found satisfactory in every respect the money will be refunded at TURNBULL'S.

THE CORALINE CORSET

What is Coraline? Coraline is composed of a bundle of stiff and very elastic fibres like bristles tightly bound with strong thread. Coraline contains no sizing of any kind but its stiffness exists in the natural fibre and is permanent. Look for the Coraline Corset at TURNBULL'S, every pair stamped.

BALL'S CORSETS.

These Corsets need no breaking in—invalids can wear them with ease and comfort, as they do not compress the vital parts of the wearer. They fit a great variety of forms owing to their peculiar construction—they are very durable. They have the endorsement of every physician who has examined them. Every pair warranted—the money refunded if not satisfactory after wearing them three weeks, at TURNBULL'S.

THE PARISENNE.

The PARISENNE is a new make which is becoming very popular. It is something after the style of the old French Corded Corset—is shorter waisted than most of the other makes, which makes it adapted for a stout figure.

Everything desirable in the Corset line always to be found at TURNBULL'S at prices that are never beaten.

J. C. TURNBULL.

A NEW BARLEY QUESTION

WHICH IS AGITATING THE GRAIN MEN OF THE NORTHWEST.

Why Not Try to Find a Market for the Canadian Crop in England, Where there is No Duty, Instead of in the States?

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—The barley question is among the greatest that have lately arisen above the horizon in this new country. Whether the Canadian seller or American buyer pays the duty Winnipeg grain men are not agreed. In the meantime it is asked:—Why not try to find a market in England where there is no duty at all! Are there not men in Montreal, Toronto or Winnipeg enterprising enough to try the experiment of a shipment or two to England?

It seems as if the discovery had been but newly made, but it must now be considered certain, that the prairie soil and the sun that shines on it will produce excellent malting barley as well as No. 1 hard spring wheat. In no other country in the world is there such extent of soil, with durable substance to it, capable of carrying heavy crops of barley as in the Canadian Northwest.

As for what makes the price of barley circumstances are not now what they were years ago. Then York State, Ohio and Michigan, with their large product, fixed the price. While the farmers of Upper Canada sent their share it was too little of the whole to influence the price very much, but now the time is drawing near when the barley production of Canada's prairies will be so immense as to make the price, not only for Canada, but for the United States too.

The authorities who hold that Canada must always remain too small a fraction in the problem to put prices either up or down, are invited to take this into their serious consideration. It might be reasonable for people to reflect that the case being altered alters the case, and that the entrance of the vast Canadian Northwest into the situation has created a new one. Things are changed now, they are not what they were before.

What other event of magnitude, equal to the development of the Canadian Northwest as an agricultural influence, has been so contemptuously ignored by the school which sees no moving cause of any account except those that are from the States? The discovery of this Canadian Northwest is "a big thing" and great consequences of some kind must result. Henceforth Canada's production will help to make the price of barley.

Winnipeg Railway Rumors.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—Another grist of railwa rumors is afloat, amongst others that the Canadian Pacific Railway will extend the Glenboro branch to the Souris country, heading off the Northern Pacific, and that the latter will penetrate the northwestern portion of the province, and if unable to secure running rights over the Manitoba & Northwestern a new road will be built to Rapid City.

The purchase of the Northwest Central is also contemplated.

The Northern Pacific has purchased a part of the old Grace Church property, and the station will be located on the corner of Water and Main-streets.

Seven Negroes Killed in Revenge.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 11.—A negro camp meeting was in progress near the residence of a Mr. Milburn, and they obtained drinking water from his well. The water being almost exhausted, Milburn took the bucket away from the well and refused to let the negroes have any more. One of them started into the house to take the bucket and was shot and wounded by Milburn. That night the negroes surrounded Milburn's house and fired over 100 shots into it. The next day a crowd of masked white men went to the negro meeting and shot and killed seven negroes who were supposed to have been ringleaders in the attack on Milburn's house. No arrests have been made.

Buried Over a Bridge.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 12.—The large Michigan Central Bridge over Kettle Creek, just to the west of the city, was the scene of another most deplorable accident yesterday morning, whereby Henry Smith, track foreman of a portion of the St. Clair branch, lost his life. Smith had been in the city and was returning home on a track velocipede. There was a dense fog hanging over the bridge, and almost before Smith could realize his position he was struck by an engine and hurled to the ground below—a distance of 70 feet. When picked up life was extinct. He leaves a widow and large family of small children.

A Girl Caught on a Wheel.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Zelia Perrin, who is employed at the Montreal Woolen Mills, was the victim of a serious accident. It appears, that she was walking near a wheel, when her arm was suddenly caught by the belt, the wheel of which was then running at about 300 revolutions a minute. Before the machinery could be stopped, and the poor girl, who is but 17 years of age, removed from her perilous position, the whole of the skin of one of her arms was completely torn off, and she was rendered insensible, having also received several other injuries.

Disastrous Floods in Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 12.—The rivers Xeuil, Guadelfeo and Granada have overflowed their banks, causing great destruction to property in the adjacent country. Villages have been destroyed and bridges swept away. The people have become panic-stricken and have taken refuge in the mountains. Many persons have been drowned and twelve corpses have been recovered.

Grace Knocked Out by Delaney.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Jack Grace and Jack Delaney engaged in a prize fight early yesterday morning at Baychester. Delaney was the victor. Grace had his nose spoilt, two teeth knocked out and both eyes closed. Delaney was not hurt.

AN ABSURD STATEMENT.

CABLED FROM NEW YORK TO LONDON.

The Times and The Great Mackenzie Basin —Sir Charles Tupper and Sir George Stephen.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—An absurd statement has been cabled here from the New York correspondent of the Standard to the effect that Canada would be put immediately in a state of thorough defence and the Imperial Government asked to give a grant of several millions sterling for strategical and other purposes. The statement is quoted and made the most of by the evening papers, but is regarded by all persons conversant with Canadian affairs as utter rubbish and beneath contempt.

The Times recently referred sceptically to the facts and figures of Dr. Schultz' report of the great Mackenzie basin. It has since received fuller information and published two lengthy articles yesterday. Editorially it congratulates Canada upon the good fortune of the discovery of a round million square miles of great resources.

Sir Charles Tupper has promised to attend the autumnal meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Cardiff on the 25th inst.

Sir George Stephen is still in Scotland, and it is learned has already felt much benefit from the rest and relief from his presidential labors and cares. He shortly returns to London.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

Sir John Opens the Show—The Premier's Reference to Retaliation.

KINGSTON, Sept. 12.—The exhibition was formally opened yesterday by Sir John A. Macdonald, before a vast audience. Touching on retaliation he said that maybe Canada would have to look to its own resources in view of the action of the United States. "Canadians," he said, "are to be excluded for no act of theirs. Well, if they will not allow us to trade with them we can trade with ourselves. We are not afraid or dismayed at any threatened attempt to hamper our commerce or cripple our resources. The effect will be the same as was shown after the abrogation of the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854. It showed that we could rely upon our own resources. While we should like to continue to trade with our neighbors in the freest manner we can afford to do without it and can afford to wait with calm self-respect the out-come of the matter."

Miss H. Baker of Syracuse, N.Y., created a feeling of delight when she rushed to Sir John's side and grasping his hand declared, "I am a loyal American subject, but I can tell you we don't mean to shut the door against you, we are going to open it wide."

Sir John laughed and said: "I am sure you won't against such a good-looking fellow as me."

MAILS TO THE WEST INDIES.

A Direct Service From Halifax to be Established.

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—The Postmaster-General has decided upon a step which will be a cause of satisfaction to all lovers of Canadian progress. The people of the Maritime Provinces have for a long time past been asking that mails for the West Indies be sent by direct steamer from Halifax or St. John, instead of via New York. Hon. Mr. Haggart has decided to meet the wishes of the Maritime Province people, and the new service will be inaugurated on Saturday, when the steamer Alpha will carry all West Indian mails direct.

Extensive Fire in Thamesville.

THAMESVILLE, Sept. 11.—A fire occurred here this morning totally destroying the entire beautiful brick block known as the Spackman Block. The ground floor was occupied by G. F. Spackman with three general stores. The upper flats were occupied as tailor and dressmaking shops and Masonic Hall. The losses are as follows: Spackman's on building $10,000, insurance $3000, stock saved; building occupied by John Wonnacott as residence and general store, loss on building $3000, stock and household furniture totally destroyed, loss unknown. Insured; a frame building occupied by Dr. Swisher as offices and by Wonnacott as ice cream and refreshment rooms, loss unknown. The fire originated in Wonnacott's store, but the cause is unknown. Mayhew's Hall and the stables of the Western Hotel, owing to the stillness of the air and the incessant and well-directed labors of the firemen, were saved. This is the most extensive fire suffered by this village for many years.

Death of a Beamsville Octogenarian.

BEAMSVILLE, Sept. 11.—One of the oldest of the old men of the village of Beamsville, William Walker, aged 80 years, died this morning. Mr. Walker appeared to be in his usual good health up to the last day or two. He was on the streets yesterday, though not quite well, and was up and dressed, with the help of his aged wife, this morning. After lying down again he said he would get up, and sat on the side of the bed. While Mrs. Walker was helping him to put one of his shoes on he fell backward and died.

The Kaiser at Bremerhaven.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Emperor William arrived at Bremerhaven yesterday and proceeded to the yacht Hohenzollern. The streets were thronged and there was great enthusiasm.

Ingersoll Cheese Market.

INGERSOLL, Sept. 12.—At the cheese market yesterday 8100 boxes July and August were offered, and 550 sold at 8 cents. Seven buyers were present. The market was dull.

A Wedding Tour Cut Short.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—The wedding tour of A. Sydney Ben of Mobile, Ala., was cut short yesterday when he was arrested on a capias at the Windsor Hotel. The capias was issued at the instance of Hon. Peter Mitchell, who alleges that defendant is indebted to him to the amount of $600 which he lent him in St. John, N.B., some years ago and for which he held a draft until last August when it was destroyed in The Herald building fire.

A Fire on Shipboard.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A fire broke out in the coal bunkers of the steamship Pembroke Castle, plying between Southampton and Cape Town. Ten coolies were smothered to death by the coal gas and six seamen who tried to rescue them were nearly suffocated and are in a precarious condition. The fire was extinguished before it extended to other parts of the ship.

Choaked to Death by a Mill Gear.

GETTYSBURG, Sept. 12.—Nervin Deardorff, only son of Christian Deardorff, about 20 years of age, was caught in the gearing of his father's mill, eight miles from this place and choaked to death. The mill had been running but a short time.

A Belleville Blaze.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 12.—Parmelee's roofing and paving works were burned yesterday afternoon, only the office and tool room being saved. Loss $2,000, insured in the Mercantile for $1,000.

Ten Men Killed in a Tunnel.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 12.—A premature explosion of a blast in the south face of the Wicks tunnel on the Montana Central Railroad south of here yesterday killed ten men and seriously wounded five.

METHODIST MISSION BOARD.

Proceedings of Yesterday's Session at Winnipeg—Encouraging Reports.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 11.—The General Board of Missions of the Methodist Church met in Grace Church this morning, Dr. Williams presiding. Rev. T. G. Williams was elected minute, and A. J. Donly, journal secretary. Rev. Mr. Starr was asked to take part in the proceedings of the board, owing to important matters to come up concerning British Columbia, including the action to be taken regarding the establishment of two or more industrial schools for Indians.

Dr. Douglass proposed to take into consideration appropriations for domestic missions and afterward appropriate to other departments of the work the balance of the funds. Drs. Sutherland and McLaren opposed this method and the proposition was laid on the table for the time being.

The result of the Parsonage Aid Fund shows that in three years there has been a saving of over $11,000.

After a lengthy discussion the Niplssing District was placed back on an equal basis with that of the other districts.

The Secretary's annual report shows a membership gain during the year of 10,000, the communicants now aggregating 46,442. The total revenue was $219,480 and expenditure $195,470. Reports from Japan are most encouraging. The Chinese work in Victoria is progressing fairly. The Indian work continues to receive careful attention, but it had perplexing features, the policy of the Government and the Church being such as not to make Indians self-reliant, yet the spiritual results of the missions were fairly prosperous. There has been no marked advance in French work. Home work prospered, there being 397 domestic missions.

The annual missionary meeting held tonight was largely attended.

The City Council have invited the delegates to a lunch and a drive around the city.

A RANK FAILURE.

A Furniture Concern Dissipates $16,000 of Oshawa's Money.

OSHAWA, Sept. 12.—Messrs. E. H. Heaps & Co., furniture manufacturers, whose failure on Saturday created such a sensation here, have made an offer to their creditors. The offer is 25 cents on the dollar to be paid within 30 days. It is probable that the creditors will accept the offer, seeing that they do not stand much chance of getting any more out of the estate.

E. H. Heaps came out from England in 1886. In September, 1887, he purchased the factory formerly occupied by the Oshawa Cabinet Company. He also purchased the handsome residence of Mr. T. N. Gibb, agreeing to pay for both properties the sum of $21,000. The town granted him a loan of $10,000 for ten years without interest, secured by mortgages on the above mentioned property, which property was exempted from taxation. At the time of his advent Mr. Heaps represented himself to be worth $104,000.

It was a surprise to his creditors when they were called together to find that Mr. Heaps' liabilities were $19,000 and his assets $5,000, this transformation act taking place all within one year.

Stabbed by a Former Suitor.

BELLEVILLE, N.J., Sept. 12.—While Mrs. George Marshall sat by an open window in her house she heard footsteps in the yard and called to her husband, who was in another room. Before he could reach her a man reached in at the window and seizing her by the shoulder drew a large knife. With an oath he hissed: "I'm going to kill you." He then began slashing her with the knife. Mrs. Marshall's screams hastened her husband and other members of the household to her side, but she was only able to articulate, "The window, the window!" and then fell in a fit. Blood was streaming from the cuts in her arms and she was bruised about the face by the ruffian's fist. Friends of the Marshalls say that the assault was made by a rejected suitor, but they decline to give his name. Mrs. Marshall is 24 years old, is very pretty and is in a delicate condition. Fears are entertained that she will not survive the freight, as she has been unconscious almost all the time since the assault was made.

The Woman and the Man Both Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—George Zintel, a wood-turner, age 21, took Anna Haas to call on some friends at a tenement-house. After considerable beer had been drunk, Anna annoyed Zintel by making advances to him, and he ran away into the street. She thought that he had gone to his parents' rooms, which were on the third floor, and accordingly went there and burst in the door. The father, Andrew Zintel, ordered her to leave the room, but she refused to go. He then seized her and forced her out upon a wooden balcony which ran along the outside of the building. In the struggle which ensued the railing of the balcony gave way and the two fell headlong to the pavement. Mr. Zintel died while being taken to Bellevue Hospital, the base of his skull being fractured. The back of the woman's head was completely crushed, and she also died at the hospital about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The son was just returning to the house when the fatal fall occurred.

Shot His Girl and Himself.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill., Sept. 12.—John Server and Josie Ferrell are prominent young people of this town. They have been keeping company a year, but Server was not a favorite with the girl's family, and in order to break up the attachment she was sent for three months to Metropolis, Ill. She returned last night and was invited out for a walk by Server. A moment later five pistol shots were heard, and the neighbors found the bodies of both lying bleeding in the road. Sever was dead and the girl was dying.

A Fatal Gambling Quarrel.

AUBURN, N.Y., Sept. 12.—James Corbitt and Patrick Flynn, a gambler, spent the greater part of the night in a gambling room and about 3 o'clock yesterday morning got into a row and Flynn gave Corbitt a terrible beating. Corbitt went and got his wounds dressed and then started for home and met Flynn, who again attacked him. Corbitt drew a small pistol and fired, the ball striking Flynn in the abdomen. Flynn has been for years a notorious ruffian, drunkard and gambler.

The Wrong Man Suffers for a Murder.

CORNING, N.Y., Sept. 12.—John King was shot and killed by an Italian laborer in a drunken row about a woman. The murderer and his companions fled, pursued by officers who arrested one of the men. They were met on the way to Corning by a crowd that became ungovernable, and charged on the prisoner with clubs and stones, beating him into insensibility. The woman says that the wounded man is not the one who did the shooting.

Judge Tree's Promotion.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The President yesterday nominated Lambert Tree of Illinois, now Minister to Belgium, to be Minister to Russia.

A Cool Burglar.

WINDSOR, Sept. 11.—While Mr. Thos. Dow, Grand Trunk Railway station agent and family, were temporarily away from home, their residence was entered by a burglar and all the most valuable male garments carried off. The burglar had very coolly undressed himself and left his old [illegible]

GEN. HARRISON'S LETTER.

A VERY PRONOUNCED DECLARATION AGAINST FREE TRADE.

The Principle of Protection Squarely Advocated—The Tariff Question the Issue of the Campaign.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 12.—General Harrison's letter accepting the Republican nomination for the presidency was given to the press last night. The General says:

"That the declaration of the Chicago convention upon the questions that now attract the interest of our people are so clear and emphatic is a matter for congratulation. There is further cause of congratulation in the fact that the convention utterances of the Democratic party, if in any degree uncertain or contradictory, can now be judged and interpreted by executive acts and messages and by definite propositions in legislation. This is especially true of what is popularly known as the tariff question. The issue cannot now be obscured. It is not a contest between schedules, but between wide-apart principles. The assault upon our protective system is open and defiant. The legend upon the banner may not be 'Free Trade,' it may be the more obscure motto, 'Tariff Reform;' but neither the banner nor the inscription is conclusive, or indeed very important. The assault itself is the important fact.

"The Republican party holds that a protective tariff is constitutional, wholesome and necessary. We do not offer a fixed schedule, but a principle. We will revise the schedule, modify rates, but always with an intelligent provision as to the effect upon domestic production and the wages of our working people. We believe it to be one of the worthy objects of tariff legislation to preserve the American market for American producers, and to maintain the American scale of wages by adequate discriminatory duties upon foreign competing products.

"A proper reduction of the revenue does not necessitate and should not suggest the abandonment or impairment of the protective system. The methods suggested by our convention will not need to be exhausted in order to effect the necessary reduction. We are not likely to be called upon, I think, to make a present choice between the surrender of the protective system and the repeal of the internal taxes. The surplus now in the treasury should be used in the purchase of bonds."

The letter denounces the importation of foreign labor under contract, but says that if the protective tariff is removed it will be found to make but little difference whether the cheap laborer is across the street or over the sea. Laws for the prevention of pauper and criminal immigration are favored, as also the exclusion of alien races, like the Chinese, whose ultimate assimilation is neither possible nor desirable. A free ballot and a fair count in all elections is demanded. More liberal appropriations in aid of common school education are favored. The General declares against combines and trusts, advocates civil service reform and goes on to say:

"Our relations with foreign powers should be characterized by friendliness and respect. The right of our people and of our ships to hospitable treatment should be insisted upon with dignity and firmness. Our nation is too great both in material strength and moral power to indulge in bluster or to be suspected of timorousness. Vacillation and inconsistency are as incompatible with successful diplomacy as they are with national dignity. We should especially cultivate and extend our diplomatic and commercial arrangements with Central and South America. The hardships and risks that are necessary incidents of the business should not be increased by an inhospitable exclusion from the near lying ports. The resources of a firm, dignified, and constant diplomacy are undoubtedly equal to prompt and peaceful solution of the difficulties that now exist. Our neighbors will surely not expect in our ports a commercial hospitality they deny to us in theirs."

LORD STANLEY OF PRESTON.

The Exhibition at Toronto Formally Opened by His Excellency.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Lord Stanley's visit to Toronto practically terminated yesterday. Commencing at 9.45 in the morning he had a round of varied duties till the evening was well advanced. But His Excellency and his gracious lady were equal to the occasion, and both won golden opinions wherever they appeared.

Ten o'clock found the large drawing-room at the Queen's Hotel crowded with members of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society. President J. L. Hughes read their address to which Lord Stanley replied in fitting terms.

The party then proceeded to the University where Sir Daniel Wilson read an address. His Excellency, replying, said that amongst the many addresses which had been presented to him there was none which he received with more pleasure than that which proceeded from the University which had been foremost in this Dominion in the cause of learning, and which had ever made use of its opportunities to extend still wider education throughout Canada.

Visits were next paid to Osgoode Hall, the Normal School and the Public Library.

In the afternoon the Governor-General formally opened the Industrial Exhibition, and in the evening the address of the Lancashire lads and lasses was presented at Ald. Hallam's residence. Fireworks and illuminations wound up the proceedings.

Four Times a Bigamist.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Jacob Larding, alias Harry Gillespie Nelson, but more familiarly known to the frequenters of concert saloons as "Bud" Harris, is wanted by the Gloucester authorities on the charge of bigamy. In 1877 he was employed at Snyder's Garden in Atlantic City. While there he married Belle Cushing, a well-known variety singer. He soon left her and went to Wilmington and from there to Baltimore. In Baltimore, it is said, he married the daughter of a well-known liveryman. When the father of the girl learned the occupation of his newly-made son-in-law he drove him from his house and "Bud" left Baltimore. He next turned up in New York. He was employed in The Allen's dive on Bleecker-street and in the Brighton Concert Garden.

While in New York he married another woman, whom he deserted and returned to Philadelphia. While here he was again married and lived with this wife for about two years. When Director Stokeley closed the dives Harris found his occupation gone. He went to Gloucester and secured employment as a singer in McGade's pavilion. One day he met Lizzie Glennen, of this city, who was visiting some friends in Gloucester. After a brief courtship he married her. Mrs. Harris No. 5 being in her turn deserted, laid complaint and Harris' history became known.

Growing a Tree in his Windpipe.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12.—Alvey Clabaugh, a youth of about 12 years, residing with his father in Frederick, Md., about four years ago swallowed a persimmon seed, which was supposed to have lodged in his throat, and which at times caused him considerable inconvenience. Recently it became quite painful, and a doctor was called in who stated that the seed was sprouting where it had lodged in his windpipe.

They Think the Song Immoral.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—There has been a big war in W. A. Mestayer's "Kitty" company which culminated here in the retirement of Manager Slocum, who will be succeeded in the management by Mestayer. Slocum cut out of the play a questionable song and dance by Miss Jennie Williams, which the public had branded as immoral, and from this sprang the row.

BOMBASTIC SPEECHES.

THE debate in the United States House of Representatives upon the new retaliatory bill must have caused many citizens of that Republic to blush for its public men. There were in several of the speeches evidences of good sense and ability, but when these men descended to rant, buncombe and bombast the exhibition was all the more humiliating. On the last day members on each side of the House vied with each other in attacks upon Canada and England, and the insulting language they directed towards Great Britain would not be tolerated in the assembly of any other country than the United States and would scarcely be allowed to pass by any other country than Great Britain, patient in the knowledge of her honor and herstrength

Mr. White, of New York, was one of the four men who voted against the bill, but he was careful to explain that he did so because he believed that the proposed retaliation would not hurt "the enemy," meaning Canada, and he wished to "strike the 'bluenoses' where it would hurt." Mr. Wilson, of Minnesota, professed to abhor war, but said that a gunboat from England would scarcely have time to reach their shores "before Canada would be part of the United States." But that was not enough for Mr. Wilson to say. With martial mein and warlike fire in his eye (or was it with a wink and a smile in his sleeve?) he declared that if one unfriendly gun was fired the echo would not cease to reverberate "before Grover Cleveland, President of the greatest republic on earth, would salute Charles Stewart Parnell as the president of the youngest republic on earth." The insult in such a speech is almost lost sight of in contemplation of the utter silliness of it. England would only have time to fire one solitary gun before she would be deprived of Canada and Ireland! Not only that, for Mr. O'Neill came forward with the declaration that a war with the United States would mean the loss of India to England. Poor old Isle; the great eagle would snatch her baldheaded in several places! The latter gentleman wanted retaliation "in order to show the Canadians that they must get rid of their Macdonald." Mr. O'Neill had evidently read Mr. Laurier's St. Thomas speech and naturally concluded that were the Liberal leader in office the United States would at once secure all that it wished for—our fish, our markets and part of the government of this country, with good hopes of securing the balance. Mr. Tarsney, of Michigan, took a jaunty view of war, and while desiring peaceful methods said that if they did not avail "then the State of Michigan would take care of Canada and make a couple of Democratic states out of her." Mr. Cochrane, of New York, made a speech that showed that he was a man of some ability, but he, too, was not above twisting the lion's tail vigorously. Perhaps he thought it harmless amusement; perhaps he believed Great Britain understood the reason for such bombast, but in that case the humiliating position of the public men of the United States is more strongly emphasized. "The British lion might love to roar," he said, "but for many years she had shown no disposition to claw." A remark as witty as it was elegant! But Mr. Cochrane further said:—"There were men who remembered the Government of Great Britain with feelings which prompted them to anything but to an act of friendship, who remembered that the gallows was the illustration of her force and the hangman the apostle of her civilization." A remark that was followed by applause.

All through these speeches, filled with venom towards everything British, there was not the least attempt to show that Canada had wronged or attempted to wrong the United States; not the first argument to prove that this country had gone beyond her just rights or treaty stipulations in protecting her interests. Any argument the speakers permitted themselves to indulge in was directed towards showing that their party was the proper one to occupy the White House, but not a word as to the causes that led to the retaliatory measures.

We do not believe there is danger of war. We believe that the complications brought about by the selfishness and partizanship of United States politicians will yet be adjusted; but Canadians would do well to mark the tone of these speeches. Would this country be wise, as a separate country; would it be prudent, as a part of the British Empire, to enter into closer relations with the United States than is necessary? Nay, would it be safe for this country to in any way place itself in the hands of a country the public men of which are animated by such a spirit? Canada should try to live at peace with its neighbors; to trade with them so far as it is in the interest of this country to do so; but further than that it should not go. Canadians have a great country of their own, and their attention should be directed to building it up and making it prosperous, and it making themselves as much independent of foreigners and self-reliant as possible.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether rising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Milk Takes a Tumble

The horse attached to Stothart's milk cart became frightened on the west end of Charlotte-st. this morning while its driver was in a house delivering his milk and dashed down the street at a most terrific rate. The cart was smashed to atoms and, of course, the milk cans were tumbled into the road and the precious liquid split. The horse continued his mad career for some distance but was finally caught uninjured. This is not the first time the same gentleman has suffered from runaways.

A Medical Man Married.

Dr. Collins left Tuesday morning for Cobourg where he was this morning united in marriage to one of Cobourg's fair daughters in the person of Miss Ellie O'Neil. The event was not very widely known in town and the doctor will be elected to receive the congratulations of his friends upon his return. He was met at Hastings by his sister who accompanied him to Cobourg to witness the interesting ceremony. The happy couple will take a tour to Toronto and other places before returning to town.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger airl passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and noby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good cloths are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so in far knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its good cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

JUBILEE POINT.

Father Sweeney's Picnic a Success—The Peterborough Contingent.

Father Sweeney's picnic at Jubilee Point on Tuesday was a grand success. There were about one hundred and fifty left here at 8 o'clock in the morning and arriving at Jubilee Point about noon they found that the Point had already been taken possession of by the excursionists from Hastings, Burnley and Harwood and the Peterborough people increased the number to nearly five hundred. Dinner was served in the hall and the wants of every one were attended to.

In the afternoon a good programme of sports was gone through with, liberal prizes being offered in all the events. The dancing platform was the centre of amusement for a large number of poung people and the light tantastic was tripped to their heart's content. The music was furnished by an orchestra from Peterborough under the management of Mr. McIlmoyle. An Indian band was on the goounds and played several airs. This band is known as Prof. Crow's and consists of himself and his family of five. The Irish jig competition was one of the best features of the day, two Peterborough ladies, Miss Highland and Mrs. Fisher, giving an exhibition which it would be difficult to have equalled. The former lady was awarded the prize. The shooting match between Messrs. Robt. Muncaster and P. D. Doran did not take place, as neither of the gentlemen could possibly attend the picnic. The Peterborough contingent arrived home about 8.30 in the evening and reported having had a splendid day and spoke highly of the smooth and successful manner in which the affair was managed.

The Otonabee Farmers

Picnic to Jubilee Point will take place on Thursday, September 13th, per steamer Golden Eye. Mr. Peter Hamilton has generously presented one of his celebrated ploughs worth $14, to be drawn for at Jubilee Point. Prizes have also been given for winners in games by Messrs. F. Kelly, Gough Bros., H. LeBrun, P. D. Doran, Fortye & Phelan, J. Hackett and Elliott & Tierney. 5d56

The Timber Trade.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"The work of timber ratting at this port has been completed for the season. The amount of timber rafted was 13 drams, which would average 35,000 feet each, making a total of 455,000 feet. This work employs a considerable number of men and causes the expenditure of a large sum for wages, &c. It is one of the benefits conferred upon the city by the Midland Division, and its magnitude is certain to increase."

Expensive Pasturage.

James Job was up at the Police Court this morning charged with allowing his cow to run at large. It was said the cow had got into a neighbor's garden and destroyed a patch of cabbages and done other damage. Job said he was doing his best to sell the animal and could not get any pasture. The Magistrate, however, thought the property of citizens should be protected and fined the owner of the unruly bovine $2 and costs—$4.85. Another case of the same kind was laid over till Monday.

A Sad Visitation.

Charles Osgoode, a pattern maker in the Peterborough Lock Works, who boards at the C. P. R. Hotel, was stricken with a paralytic stroke about three o'clock this morning. Mr. Osgoode has been complaining lately of not feeling well, but nothing serious appeared to be the matter. The last few days, however, he was feeling much better than he had for some time and retired last night in the best of health and spirits. About three o'clock he awakened his wife, feeling the paralysis coming on. Medical aid was at once summoned and the doctor speaks most hopefully of the case and expects that he will bring the unfortunate man around again all right. The stoke affected the right side, which is completely paralysized. Mr. Osgoode is a married man with no children and is about forty years of age.

The Opening Cannonade!

Friends! Canadians!! Countrymen!!!

To live and get gain is the object in this life of most people. Some are successful. Many are not. Wealth comes as often by saving as by making. In fact things have arrived at such a pass that it is mighty hard to make anything that is anything like a decent amount of money over and above expenses. Here is where Gough Bros get in their work. They come as the benefactors of the multitude, the annihilators of big prices, the moguls of the selling trade, the potentates and pontiffs, the artitors of what and how goods shall be sold. Kindly tickle yourselves for five minutes, and read the following with laughing faces. Goughs have bought another stock. They have bought another immense bankrupt stock of prime boots and shoes, at 50c. on the dollar. Just think of it—try to realize it! $6,000 dollars worth of boots and shoes thrown on the market at gift prices. Here is a sample—3,000 pairs men's boots at 50cents per pair! 2,000 pairs ladies' boots at 50 cents per pair! 1,000 pairs children's boots at 25cents per pair! Look out for the rush next Saturday. At a certain hour gough bros. will sell a certain line of men's boots, worth $1 25, at 25c. per pair. What more can be wanted? The grain market may bust, cheese may collapse, ruin may stare you in the face, but while you have one quarter to rub against another you can boot and shoe yourself at gough bros.' the popular benefactors, 375 George-st., Peterborough.

ARMY ANNIVERSARY.

The Demonstration in Peterborough—An Interesting People.

The local corps of the Salvation Army have preparations all completed for the grand demonstration here Thursday and Friday. It is six years since the flag was hoisted and the first shot fired in Canadian soil and the progress and almost incredible advancement made during these six years well merits a demonstration on the part of the soldiers. The celebration will not be confined to the Army people alone, for there are a large number of citizens who recognise the good work the Army has done and who will join most heartily in their anniversary.

Apart from this, however, the programme which has been arranged embraces attractions of such a novel character that there is not the least doubt but that the Army barracks will be the chief centre of attraction during the next two days. Commissioner Coombs, of Toronto, chief commander in Canada, Colonel and Mrs. Dawdle, of Gen. Booth's headquarters, England, Major and Mrs. Bailey and a large number of officers from outside stations will be present and address the meeting. A Hindoo contingent will also take part in the demonstration, and these converted sons of India's benighted strand will excite no little interest. They are five in number and their names are as follows:—Major Musa Bhai, Lieut. Horatula, Lieut. Devasepa, Lieut. Muthabaranun, who are all natives of India, and Staff Capt. Leed, a Scotch Lady, who has been in India twelve months engaged in army work and has returned accompanied by these native converts to enlist officers for India. The Hindoos will appear in native costume—ponderous white turbans, long scarlet jerseys, white shirts and cream colored scarfs. One of them carries an Oriental drum, resembling a liquor keg, which he plays with his fingers. They will sing songs and speak in their native tongue, an interpreter translating their words for the benefit of the audience. The experience of these people cannot fail to prove interesting.

The demonstration and gathering will probably be the largest ever held in Peterborough and will arouse an interest in the army work which could not be managed in any other way.

Lacrosse Meeting.

The Y. M. C. A. Lacrosse Club will meet in the Association rooms at nine o'clock tonight, when all members should put in an appearance, as there will be business of importance discussed.

Baseball.

The Hastings Star is angry because the Central Fair directors have stipulated that the members of the baseball teams taking part in the tournament must be residents of the places they represent. This stipulation was not aimed at any particular club by the directors, but was, we believe, intended to make the matches genuine and to prevent professionalism.

The Hastings Star says:—"Arrangements are in progress for a baseball tournament to take place here at an early day to which teams from Belleville, Peterborough, Campbellford, Warkworth, Norwood and other places will be invited. Designs for valuable trophies are under consideration and the occasion promises to be a most interesting one."

No Retaliation Among Canoeists.

The correspondent of the Ottawa Free Press writing from the Canoe Association meet held at Lake George, jocularly refers to the fact that very pleasant relations exist between the American and Canadian canoeists, and adds referring to the election as commodore of Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers, of Peterborough:—"It is in place here to mention a recent occurrence which goes far to prove the reality of the feeling existing between the American and Canadian members of the A. C. A. While the President and his senators were treading under foot our Fishery treaty and crying out for retaliation against Canada, the members of the A. C. A., two-thirds of whom are Americans, were polling at Lake George a unanimous vote for the election of a Canadian to the highest office in the Association. The gentleman elected is not only a Canadian but a lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian militia. Even Gen. Ben. Butler's son voted for him."

THE SCOTT ACT REPEAL

REV. MR. LUCAS SPEAKS ON THE SCOTT ACT.

When we Have Not a Shot Gun Hold on to the Poker—The Halton Repeal—Figures Showing What the Act has Done.

At a few minutes past eight o'clock when Rev. S. J. Shorey, chairman, rose to announce the opening hymn in the Charlotte-st. Methodist Church, the building was about half filled with an audience in which ladies were in the majority and which had assembled to hear Rev. D.V. Lucas give the second lecture of the series which he is here to deliver in the interest of temperance.

Rev. S. J. Shorey, after a short prayer, made a few remarks stating that he had observed in the newspapers that Mr. Lucas intended telling the people why the Scott Act should not be repealed, and then called upon the lecturer.

Rev. Mr. Lucas began his address with the words "of course should not be repealed." There was not a Christian man who should be absent from the polls on the day the vote was taken. He had gone 400 miles to vote for the Scott Act. He was in Montreal and had told his friends before he started for Grimsby that he felt that he was going to throw away his vote, but he wanted the Lord Almighty to see that his right hand had put in a vote for the Scott Act. More harm was done from want of thought than anything else. If a mad dog was coming in to bite his child and he only had a poker to drive him off with, would he throw away the poker because he had not a double-barrelled shot gun? No, he would hang on to the poker and defend his child with that. There had come into their midst a curse that was worse than a mad dog. Far better that their children should be bitten by a mad dog than that they should go down to a drunkard's grave and a drunkard's hell. Some said the Scott Act was a failure because there was

LIQUOR STILL SOLD.

Well, the speaker asked, is the law against murder to be thrown from the statute books because there were murders committed? God had never made a law that was a perfect success, yet where was there a man who would think of blotting any of them out. They could take any law on the statute book and it was the same. If they were not all failures, why was the Scott Act? He had been out of the country for some time and upon returning he saw there had been backsliding in Ontario, but down in New Brunswick and the Eastern Provinces where Sir Leonard Tilley and other grand men had fought the battle they were true to the cause. He spoke of the work of Sir Leonard Tilly in the temperance societies in New Brunswick and said it was the influence of these men they wanted in Ontario.—He had travelled up and down the country and knew as much about the working of the Act as anybody. The law might be broken, but how were they going to get at it? He would give some figures that would show

WHAT THE SCOTT ACT HAD DONE.

In 1881 there was manufactured in Canada two million gallons more of liquor than in 1880; in 1882 there had been 750,000 gallons more than in 1881, and in 1883 it was 50,000 gallons more than in 1882. The river was increasing every year. Then the Scott Act began to come into force and the river was checked. It became less and he had read while in England in a Canadian paper where Sir Chas. Tupper had stood up in the House and said that during the past year the manufacture of liquor had fallen off two million gallons in this country. Would any man tell him the Act was a failure with these figures before him? Referring to the Halton repeal the speaker blamed the repeal to the struggle between the two political parties. But he made the predictition that if the Scott Act remained unchanged for three years that it would be re-adopted in Halton. Ground had been gained in Halton, for where there had been 65 applications for and 42 licenses granted before the Act, only 27 applications had been made and 18 granted since the repeal. He was willing to discuss the question with any man who dared to come before an audience, from the standpoint of political economy or any other. Some had said that they had not the right to withhold licenses. If they had the right to license they had the same right to withhold. He wanted to know if he had no right to consider the protection of his body, and pointed out the dangers men were exposed to through drink making demons of men. Had he no right to protect the morals of his children, the speaker asked, and he dwelt on their temptations thrown in the way of boys in the saloons and the influence of hearing and being accustomed to such blasphemous language as they must hear from drunken men in passing along the streets. Speaking of the habit in France and Italy of everybody taking their wine, he said he had asked men in Paris and Naples and they had told him in both cities that drunkenness was on the increase and that the strength and kinds of liquors was being increased. He condemned and said that God never intended a man to muddle his brain for even half an hour, for they would all have to give an account for every minute of their lives. Must the children go on under the influences he had metioned forever? It was a wrong that the Christian Church should rise up and blot out and he wanted them to go to the polls and vote as they thought God would want them to vote. He referred to those men who were saying they believed in Prohibition but not in the Scott Act and said he had had to contend with them. There were always men who would object to everything. He referred to the ministers who were in the habit of "taking a little," but said that throughout the whole land the Methodist ministers were a solid body of teetotalers, and Presbyterians were standing out for temperance. Bishops and men in high places in all the churches were coming out and saying drink was a terrible curse, and all these forces would come together and overcome. They should struggle on determined and in the right and, though hell rose up against them, they would triumph. To-morrow night he would tell them why the Temperance cause

WOULD ULTIMATELY TRIUMPH.

The Scott Act was a good weapon to fight the mad dog with and if it was not a double-barrelled shot gun they would hang on to the poker. Their opponents gave them credit for being more faithful than they believed themselves. He then read a paragraph written by the liquor men themselves in which it was stated that the work of the inspector and detectives of Peterborough had been more zealous than in any other city in the Dominion and that the hotel keepers had paid in fines an average of $468. When the people foolishly surrendered in Halton through being mixed up in the excitement of elections, the liquor men had said themselves that they had reached the end of their rope and that had they lost the battle they would have fought the Act no longer. So, he said, it was evident that if the temperance people had made a stand there would have been no violation of the Act there to-day. He read a printed circular issued by the committee for the repeal asking for funds to carry on the repeal campaign. Mr. Lucas closed with an appeal to the audience to contribute towards defraying the expenses of this week's meetings.

A collection was taken up and the doxology brought the meeting to a close.

Mr. Lucas speaks this evening in the George-st. Church, and, as he said, will tell why temperance will ultimately triumph.

Relieved by Death.

James Reardon, a well known bricklayer in town, who has been a great sufferer from a cancer in his throat, was relieved from his sufferings by death on Tuesday. It will be remembered that some time ago Mr Reardon made application to the Town Council to be sent to the hospital for incurables, but his request was not complied with. He has been able to be around the streets all the time and was out on Monday. The deceased was an unmarried man. The funeral takes place to-morrow.

A First Class Company.

Of the Star Theatre Co., which opens in Bradburn's Opera House next Monday evening, the Napanee Beaver prints the following:—"The Star Dramatic Campany has been occupying the boards at the Opera House this week to constantly increasing houses as their reputation became known. They came in with so little of the ordinary flourish that expectations were by no means high in regard to them, but those who attended the first night were so enthusiastic in their praise that the following evening the house was well filled, and each evening the crowd has increased. The repertoire of the company includes some of the most popular plays now before the American public. The company itself is one of unusual talent, with the special advantages of uniformity and skill in management. Mr. Quinn, himself, is admittedly the best actor that has appeared here for years, his talents being suited to the most varied styles of drama. Probably his strongest character was that of Wilfred Denver, in "Silver King." In the emotional passages of the play he was simply superb. Miss Florence Lytelle the leading lady has a fine stage appearance and as an actress has marked elocutionary talent. The most pleasing feathre of the company, because so exceptional, is the uniform excellence of the support. Messrs. Howard, Hallock and West are all talented actors, while Miss Gertrude Berkerley gives her parts the prominence of leading roles. Mr. Whitlock, the comedian, is amusing without vulgarity; and is one of the most popular members of company. Little Georgie, who took the part of "Cissy Denver," in the Silver King, is a perfect marvel. He was not only perfect in his lines, which were of considerable length, but acted his part with ease and intelligence. The stage management is also to be commended. In every respect the company is worthy of our most encouraging words, their business deal being as satisfactory as their acting. We bespeak a hearty recertion from the Stars wherever they may appear."

Brevities.

—A parade of the 57th Battalion is called for to-night.

—The Murray-st. hill in front of the Central School is being graded.

—The old telephone poles are being removed from the streets.

—The fence decorators at the corner of Ghorge and Charlotte-sts. attracted quite a crowd to-day.

—The Roman Catholic Church at Young's Point held a picnic to-day. A number of Peterborough people went up to attend.

—A horse with harness on but minus any buggy, dashed up George-st. this morning, and created the greatest excitement of the day.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back, headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

WEDENSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"Not I," replied the boy, steadily.

"Good," returned the doctor. "We shall now turn our attention to the material evidences. (I was born to be a detective; I have the eye and the systematic spirit.) First, violence has been employed. The door was broken open; and it may be observed, in passing, that the lock was dear indeed at what I paid for it; a crow to pluck with Master Goguelat. Second, here is an instrument employed, one of our own table knives, one of our best, my dear; which seems to indicate no preparation on the part of the gang—if gang it was. Thirdly, I observe that nothing has been removed except the Franchard dishes and the casket; our own silver has been minutely respected. This is wily; it shows intelligence, a knowledge of the code, a desire to avoid legal consequences. I argue from this fact that the gang numbers persons of respectability—outward, of course, and merely outward, as the robbery proves. But I argue, second, that we must have been observed at Franchard itself by some occult observer, and dogged throughout the day with a skill and patience that I venture to qualify as consummate. No ordinary man, no occasional criminal, would have shown himself capable of this combination. We have in our neighborhood, it is far from improbable, a retired bandit of the highest order of intelligence."

"Good heaven!" cried the horrified Anastasia. "Heart, how can you!"

"My cherished one, this is a process of induction," said the doctor. "If any of my steps are unsound correct me. You are silent? Then do not, I beseech you, be so vulgarly illogical as to revolt from my conclusion. We have now arrived," he resumed, "at some idea of the composition of the gang—for I incline to the hypothesis of more than one—and we now leave this room, which can disclose no more, and turn our attention to the court and garden. (Jean-Marie, I trust you are observantly following my various steps; this is an excellent piece of education for you.) Come with me to the door. No steps on the court; it is unfortunate our court should be paved. On what small matters hang the destiny of these delicate investigations! Hey! What have we here? I have led you to the very spot," he said, standing grandly backward and indicating the green gate. "An escalade, as you can now see for yourselves, has taken place."

Sure enough, the green paint was in several places scratched and broken; and one of the panels preserved the print of a nailed shoe. The foot had slipped, however, and it was difficult to estimate the size of the shoe, and impossible to distinguish the pattern of the nails.

"The whole robbery," concluded the doctor, "step by step, has been reconstituted. Inductive science can no further go."

"It is wonderful," said his wife. "You should have been a detective, Henri. I had no idea of your talents."

"My dear," said Despres, condescendingly, "a man of scientific imagination combines the lesser faculties; he is a detective just as he is a publicist or a general; these are but local applications of his special talent. But now," he continued, "would you have me go further? Would you have me lay my finger on the culprits—or rather, for I cannot promise quite so much, point out to you the very house where they consort? It may be a satisfaction, at least it is all we are likely to get, since we are denied the remedy of law. I reach the further stage in this way. In order to fill my outline of the robbery, I require a man likely to be in the forest lding, I require a man of education, I require a man superior to considerations of morality. The three requisites all center in Tentaillon's boarders. They are painters; therefore they are continually lounging in the forest. They are painters; therefore they are not unlikely to have some smattering of education. Lastly, because they are painters, they are probably immoral. And this I prove in two ways. First, painting is an art which merely addresses the eye; it does not in any particular exercise the moral sense. And second, painting, in common with all the other arts, implies the dangerous quality of imagination. A man of imagination is never moral; he outsoars literal demarcations and reviews life under too many shifting lights to rest content with the invidious distinctions of the law."

"But you always say—at least, so I understood you"—said madame, "that these lads display no imagination whatever."

"My dear, they displayed imagination, and of a very fantastic order, too," returned the doctor, "when they embraced their beggarly profession. Besides—and this is an argument exactly suited to your intellectual level—many of them are English and American. Where else should we expect to find a thief? And now you had better get your coffee. Because we have lost a treasure, there is no reason for starving. For my part, I shall break my fast with white wine. I feel unaccountably heated and thirsty today. I can only attribute it to the shock of the discovery. And yet, you will bear me out, I supported the emotion nobly."

The doctor had now talked himself back into an admirable humor; and as he sat in the arbor and slowly imbibed a large allowance of white wine and picked a little bread and cheese with no very impetuous appetite, if a third of his meditations ran upon the missing treasure, the other two-thirds were more pleasingly buried in the retrospect of his detective skill.

About 11 Casimir arrived. He had caught an early train to Fontainebleau and driven over to save time, and now his cab was stabled at Tentaillon's, and he remarked, studying his watch, that he could spare an hour and a half. He was much the man of business, decisively spoken, given to frowning in an intellectual manner. Anastasie's born brother, he did not waste much sentiment on the lady, gave her an English family kiss, and demanded a meal without delay.

"You can tell me your story while we eat," he observed. "Anything good today, Stasie?"

He was promised something good. The trio sat down to a table in the arbor, Jean-Marie waiting as well as eating, and the doctor recounted what had happened in his richest narrative manner. Casimir heard it with explosions of laughter.

"What a streak of luck for you, my good brother," he observed, when the tale was over. "If you had gone to Paris you would have played dick-duck-drake with the whole consignment in three months. Your own would have followed, and you would have come to me in a procession like last time. But I give you warning—Stasie may weep and Henri ratiocinate—it will not serve you twice. Your next collapse will be fatal. I thought I had told you so, Stasie? Hey! No sense?"

The doctor winced and looked furtively at Jean-Marie; but the boy seemed apathetic.

"And then again," broke out Casimir, "what children you are—vicious children, my faith! How could you tell the value of this trash? It might have been worth nothing, or next door."

"Pardon me," said the doctor. "You have your usual flow of spirits, I perceive; but even less than your usual deliberation. I am not entirely ignorant of these matters."

"Not entirely ignorant of anything ever I heard of," interrupted Casimir, bowing, and raising his glass with a sort of pert politeness.

"At least," resumed the doctor, "I gave my mind to the subject—that you may be willing to believe—and I estimated that our capital would be doubled." And he described the nature of the find.

"My word of honor!" said Casimir, "I half believe you! But much would depend on the quality of the gold."

"The quality, my dear Casimir, was"—And the doctor in default of language, kissed his finger tips.

"I would not take your word for it, my good friend," retorted the man of business. "You are a man of very rosy views. But this robbery," he continued—"this robbery is an odd thing. Of course I pass over your nonsense about gangs and landscape painters. For me, that is a dream. Who was in the house last night?"

A Fatal Religious Argument.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 11.—John Tuttle, a religious crank, boarded a steamer at Wilsonpoint yesterday and got into an argument with the crew. He was ordered to leave and Edward Belleview was leading him away when Tuttle struck him with a heavy cane, nearly severing his ear from his head. Belleview picked up a shovel and struck Tuttle on the head. Tuttle died this morning.

The Maine Elections.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Chairman Calvin S. Brice of the National Democratic Committee has telegraphed National Committeeman Sewall of Maine, that if the Republican party, with all the advantages they had in Maine, could make no gains over 1884, when the Democrats carried the country, the latters' success in November would soon be assured.

MURDER OR SUICIDE.

A MANITOBA ICELANDER FOUND WITH HIS THROAT CUT.

Ninety Cents Offered for Wheat at Winnipeg—First Oats Sold at Thirty-Seven—Shot at His Employer.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13.—An Icelander living near Glenboro, who has been missing for several days, has been found with his throat cut and several wounds about his head. It is not known whether he was murdered or committed suicide.

Ninety cents have been offered for wheat. The first oats sold at 37 cents.

Billy Smith of Portage, in an altercation with his employer, fired a pistol at him. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Minister Bowell arrived from the Pacific coast last night and will meet the Northern Pacific officials to-day respecting customs facilities.

CANADA WILL STAND FIRM.

Mr. Chapleau's Speech on the Retaliation Question at Laprairie Yesterday.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—At the Conservative picnic at Laprairie yesterday speeches on the political issues of the day were made by Sir Hector Langevin and Sir Adolphe Caron. Hon. J. A. Clapleau spoke almost wholly on the retaliation question, it being the first time he has referred to it in public. The action of President Cleveland he termed dishonorable, and one which would leave an everlasting stain on the American escutcheon.

The Government's course would be that which would best guard the interests of Canada, but the people might be assured that it would not be a policy of bluster but one of dignity and self-respect.

Great Britain showed a firm determination not to allow Canada to be bluffed and with such backing the Dominion would not fail to stand for her rights.

The Americans have rejected the treaty because it did not suit them, but Canada had pursued a dignified course when the Ashburton and other treaties gave away a part of our heritage and observed the terms of the treaties. What a contrast this was to the policy of the United States.

London's Murder Mystery.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—London is still deeply absorbed in speculation and curiosity over the Whitechapel horror. The strange series of brutal murders that has excited the people from one end of the city to the other is the subject of varied comment and suggestion. Every day finds fresh editorial mention of the crimes in the newspapers, supplemented by numerous letters to the editors containing suggestions pertinent or absurd. The criminal, whoever he may be, remains at large, and the police seem unable to stumble even upon a clue. A new sensation was afforded in the finding at Pimlico of a woman's arm which had been cast up by the Thames on the embankment. The arm had the appearance of being torn from the shoulder and altogether was a ghastly discovery to make at this inopportune time. Very possibly the arm had been rejected by a medical student, and had connection with nothing more tragic than a dissecting table. Londoners, however, are in the humor now to accept the theory of a new tragedy, and this assumption is affirmed by the recent finding at Guilford of a dissevered foot and leg which had evidently been boiled. This Guilford mystery has not been solved, and no explanation of it has yet been offered that is satisfactory. The present excitement over these matters is intense.

A Rejected Lover's Suicide.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 12.—Frank Martin, a barber called at the home of Lina Webber, to whom he had been paying attentions, and committed suicide in her presence. The girl heard he was a married man and told him he would have to stop coming to see her. After she had positively refused to longer receive his visits he took out a pencil and began writing on a piece of paper. When he had finished he pulled out a revolver and holding it to his right temple fired. He fell dead on the floor. The note he left was to his father, and simply declared his intention to commit suicide and asked that no expense be incurred in burying him. Martin was 24 years old.

Death of Astronomer Proctor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Prof. Richard A. Proctor, the astronomer, died at the Willard Parker Hospital, at the foot of East Sixteenth-street, from yellow fever at 7.15 last evening. He came from Oak Lawn, Fla., where he has an observatory, arriving here Monday. The health officers will not state where Mr. Proctor was stopping before he was taken to the hospital. He had engaged passage to Europe.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 13.—On the cheese market yesterday 7000 boxes were offered and sales of 700 boxes effected, with others pending.

THE DOCTORS IN COUNCIL

CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION'S MEETING AT OTTAWA.

The President's Address—Need of a Dominion Medical Register and Uniform Laws Regulating the Practice of Medicine.

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—The 21st annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association was held here yesterday. Among those present were Drs. George Ross, Roddick, Bell, T. W. Campbell, Sheard, Rodger, Alloway and Gardner of Montreal. Dr. Mullen of Hamilton, Dr. Workman and Dr. J. E. Graham of Toronto and all the local profession. Dr. George Ross of Montreal delivered the president's address, which took in a survey of the general standing of the medical profession in the Dominion and the progress of investigation, discovery and the changes in the system of medical education Attention was drawn to the curious complexity of medical legislation in Canada in consequence of each province being free to look after such matters for itself. There is at present no uniformity in respect to matriculation, curriculum or qualification for apretice. The hope was expressed that before long some arrangement might be come to by which at least a Dominion medical register may be established at Ottawa, so that on entry therein it will be possible to practice medicine throughout the Dominion and undesirable confusion removed. He spoke in eulogistic terms of the Banff sulphur springs and considered them far more beneficial for patients affected with phthisis in an early stage, and for those who may be looked upon as disposed to tubercular diseases on account of family tendencies or defective physique, than the renowned Danos-platz in Switzerland.

Dr. Wright of this city addressed the meeting yesterday afternoon.

The members of the association attending the meeting were tendered a banquet last evening in the Russell House by the local profession. The chair was occupied by Sir James Grant who in a short speech welcomed the members of the profession from all parts of the Dominion to the Capital. Speeches in response to toasts were given by Dr. Geo. Ross, Dr. E. J. Graham of Toronto, Dr. A. J. Alloway and A. M. Campbell of Montreal.

BIG RAILWAY SCHEME.

Canada Getting Ready for President Cleveland's Retaliation.

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—It is understood that H. J. Beemer, of the Peterboro and Pembroke Junction Railway, who is at present in Paris, has succeeded in organizing a company of capitalists there, with a capital of over $8,500,000, to complete the Peterboro and Pembroke line from Pembroke to Sault Ste. Marie, to lease or purchase from the Canadian Pacific Railway the North Shore line from Ottawa to Quebec, and to obtain from the Government running powers over the Intercolonial Railway to St. John.

The Canadian Pacific Railway have for some time past found the North Shore road, especially that portion from Ottawa to Montreal, a burden, and it is learned on the best authority that the company are willing to get rid of the whole line from Ottawa to Quebec. She scheme is a large one, and the company includes Hon. J. A. Chaplean, Secretary of State, and prominent men in Canada. The object of this new system of lines is to move western grain from Minneapolis and the Canadian Northwest to the Canadian winter ports for shipment.

The argument used with the Government by the company in securing running powers over the Intercolonial, is that the new system of railroads would be of great benefit to the country in case of the American government adopting a course of retaliation, as the amalgamated lines would make a direct route from the Sault to St. John and Halifax. The Peterboro and Pembroke junction is now completed within three miles of Pembroke, and will be completed to that place before winter sets in.

METHODIST MISSION BOARD.

Basis of Appropriation for the Various Districts—A Contemplated Excursion.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13.—In the Methodist Mission Board yesterday a discussion on the basis of appropriation for Manitoba came up, which was quite animated. It was decided that the basis be as last year, $900 per annum. The basis for Newfoundland was, after considerable discussion, allowed to remain as last year, $800. Why, it was asked, should British Columbia be on a higher basis, $1000, than other sections? Dr. Sutherland stated that living there was much higher than elsewhere, nothing smaller being paid or received for anything than 10 cents. The basis was left as before. The Nipissing district was reconsidered, so as to change the decision of Tuesday. An amendment to raise the basis to $825 was lost.

Much of the time was taken up in discussing the Japan missions but no material changes were recommended.

Letters relating to the "Glad Tidings" mission were referred to a committee.

Dr. Douglass made an eloquent appeal in behalf of a French mission in Eastern Canada.

The City Council invited the members of the board and visitors to take a drive through the city to-day at 2 o'clock.

The Canadian Pacific Railway offered to take the delegates to the Pacific coast and return for $30. The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Manitoba and Northwestern Railway also offered free passage and return to members to any point in Manitoba and west as far as Regina. Arrangements are being made to accept this kind offer.

Singular Accident.

PARIS, Ont., Sept. 13.—A singular accident happened to Robert Alexander, a well-known Adelaide farmer, as he was returning home from Watford the other evening. When about five miles from town it was discovered that the buggy in which he and his wife were seated was on fire, and before they could make their escape Mr. Alexander's clothes were badly burned and his wife's dress damaged by the flames which spread with wonderful rapidity. The carriage was almost destroyed and the horse scorched. No cause can be assigned for the origin of the fire, as Mr. Alexander was not smoking at the time.

Told to Shoot and He Shot.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 13.—A man named Jones got into a fight with a woman at South Pittsburg Saturday night when he ordered his 6-year-old boy to go home, get a pistol and shoot the woman. The lad obeyed the order and on returning with the loaded weapon fired, the ball taking effect in the woman's abdomen. It is thought she will die.

A Blaze at Windsor.

WINDSOR, Sept. 13.—A fire broke out in the second flat of Messrs. Nevrux Bros.' hardware store about 9 o'clock last night, damaging their stock about $500, also the stock of Thos. Board about $200, both covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A Snubbing Line Broke His Leg.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 13.—John Kramer, a young man, while navigating a scow down the canal, was caught in a snubbing line and broke his leg.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney Elected by Acclamation.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13.—Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior, was yesterday elected by acclamation for East Assiniboia.

MOURNED BY HIS CREDITORS.

A Missing Montreal Trader—The Mysterious Diamond Man in Jail.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—H. Norton, a trader in oils and essences, has left this city, leaving a number of creditors behind him bewailing his loss. About a couple of years ago Norton came on from Boston and opened an office here. He took in as a partner a young gentleman to whom he speedily transferred all the experience he possessed in the essence and oil trades, and, as rapidly, in return therefor assumed proprietorship of the partner's capital. Then he made considerable purchases upon which he obtained advances and left for pastures fresh. Norton, who was a widower, has left behind him his little girl, 4 years of age. Friends of the family in Boston have been communicated with and asked to look after her. The exact amount of his liabilities will not be known until a statement is made up by the accountant.

Samuel Johnson, alias T. McPherson, the mysterious diamond man who was arrested in possession of a large number of diamonds was tried before the Recorder yesterday for having in his possession a loaded revolver with intent of doing some one bodily harm and with which he threatened a Mrs. Harris. He was sent to jail for a month.

A lively scene occurred in a case in court in which a Roman Catholic priest was ordered to produce the books of his parish, in an action to render an account brought by a parishioner against one of the church wardens, which he had on a former occasion refused to do. After a lively time between counsel the matter was taken en delibere until to-day.

Embezzler Pitcher's Case.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—In the Pitcher case yesterday, at the conclusion of the Crown's evidence, Mr. Archibald asked that the jury be charged to acquit the prisoner because there was no proof that he brought money into Canada. Another point was that no money had been proved to have been found on him. The notes of the United States were not money, a great number were not even United States national bank notes, and under these circumstances none of the paper came under the term of bank bills. He urged als o that foreign bank bills were not money in Canada; it was questionable whether American gold was current in Canada. His Honor held for the present that American gold having currency in this country was money. The prisoner must proceed with his defence. The court then adjourned till to-day.

THE BOTHWELL WRECK.

Detectives Think They Have the Right Men in Jail.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—G. T. R. Constable Logan and Detective Ryder have returned from the scene of the Bothwell wreck, but expect to make another trip out there. The two men they arrested are now in Chatham jail and will come up for examination to-day. Campbell is believed to be innocent, and therefore only a charge of trespassing on the company's property has been laid against him. McMaster is charged with train-wrecking. He is said to be hardly responsible for his actions, and was arrested on information given by a 16-year-old boy of the neighborhood. The boy said that he and a companion were out driving, and had just got home when they heard the crash. He hurried over, and as he drew near the scene of the wreck he saw somebody in a fence corner.

"Is that you, father?" he asked.

He got no answer, and asked again "What's up?"

"G—d d—n you, don't you give me away or I'll shoot you," was the forcible reply this time. He recognized the speaker as McMaster.

"What's the matter, Mac?"

"You go on home, d—n you. You have no business around here, quick now, or I'll fix you."

So the boy skipped home and didn't dare to go out again till morning, when he told his story. McMaster was arrested, but declared he knew nothing about the rails on the track. It is said he is mischievously inclined, and gets credit for once burning his father's barn. The neighbors say they are glad to get rid of him as he is continually letting the cattle out. McMaster is 35 years of age. Campbell comes from near Dresden, and was visiting his uncle there. His untruthful tongue got him into the scrape.

A Mystery of the St. Lawrence.

QUEBEC, Sept. 13.—The finding of a handsome canoe-shaped skiff off Manicougan by Capt. Robinson of the schooner A. W. C., has been already reported. To-day the report is that on Sunday last a gentleman, with two ladies, out boating at Murray Bay encountered the bodies of three men floating in the St. Lawrence. He at once put the ladies on shore and returned to secure the bodies, but unfortunately they had disappeared. They were well-dressed and evidently young men. Mr. Thom of the yacht Osprey also reports having, on Aug. 25, at 4 a.m., midway between Murray Bay and Goose Cape, passed the deck cabin of a yacht measuring about twenty tons. There were two hatches, one forward and the other aft, both traps being open. A couple of hundred yards westward a cabin door was passed. The wreckage was floating about three miles off shore. A strong gale and heavy sea prevailed at the time, preventing Mr. Thom making closer observation. All these circumstances combined undoubtedly point to some disaster having occurred in the river below, but who the victims are, or the nature of the accident, is as yet shrouded in mystery.

A Burglary at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Sept. 13.—When Jas. Ownes, who keeps a hotel, went to his barroom yesterday morning appearances indicated that it had been burglarized. Mr. Ownes searched around and discovered that a gun, two boxes of cigars and a decanter of wine had been stolen. In company with his son he started out in search of the thieves and caught two darkies named John Brown and Milton Taylor, who claimed to hail from St. Thomas. The prisoners were arraigned at the Police Court and remanded to jail until Saturday. Brown and Taylor are also suspected of breaking into T. A. Wynn's store, 250 York-street, and stealing two pairs of shoes. The shoes were found on them.

The Howe Tragedy.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 13.—The counsel for the defence in the Howe tragedy is making the best use of the time at its disposal, and the friends of the accused openly state that the public will be astounded when the story is told in court of the conduct of the lessees along the river. It is probable that an effort will be made to make out a very strong justification, that the prisoners believed their lives to be in danger and they feared an attack from Major Howe. The county authorities are dumbfounded by the large tax this case will put on the ratepayers, and an effort will be made to induce the province to bear the lion's share of it. The expenses cannot be less than $2000.

Fell Under the Wheels.

RICHMOND, Sept. 13.—Just as the westbound express was leaving Richmond station last evening at 5.15, a young man named John Gandy, a passenger from Sherbrooke, attempted to board the train while moving, and missed his footing, fell beneath the cars and was instantly killed, his body being severed across the chest. He was a brakeman in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Sherbrooke and was on his way to Montreal. He had got off to get some refreshments for some friends who were on the train.

CLEVELAND CONFESSES.

A COMMUNICATION SENT TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

The President Admits that Since March 3, 1887, No Outrages Have Been Committed by Canada on American Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The President sent to the Senate yesterday a communication in response to the resolution introduced by Senator Hoar, calling for copies of all communications which have been addressed by his direction to the Government of Great Britain remonstrating against discrimination against American vessels in Canadian canals. With respect to the inquiry so far as it relates to the canals, the President transmits copies of correspondence between the Department of State and the United States Consul at Ottawa; between the Department of State and the British Minister; copies of the orders of the Canadian officials in regard to this subject and of the answer of the Acting Secretary of the Treasury to the resolution laid before the House on Jan. 23.

On the subject of the correspondence which has taken place with respect to the denial to American fishermen of the right of transportation of fish or other cargoes in bond the President says: "It will be remembered that though the fishing articles of the treaty of 1871 expired on July 1, 1885, a temporary arrangement was made whereby the privileges accorded to our fishermen under said articles were continued during the remainder of that year's fishing season. No instance of refusal by Canadian authorities since July 1, 1885, up to the present time to allow the entry at Dominion seaports of American cargoes other than fish for transportation in bond across the territory of Canada to the United States has been made known to the Department of State. The case of the vessel Novelty, involving among other things a refusal on July 1, 1886, of the right to permit the transportation of fish in bond at the port of Pictou, was communicated to Congress in my message of Dec. 8, 1886, a copy of which I herewith transmit."

The President says the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has been supplied with a list of cases of alleged ill-treatment of our fishing vessels in Canadian waters, and as relating to the subject of the resolution he quotes the following "point in passage" from Mr. Edmunds' report as of interest: "It is of course of much importance that regulations affecting the commercial and other friendly relations between ports and places in the Dominion and the United States should be mutually reasonable and fair. If an American vessel should happen to have caught a cargo of fish at sea a hundred miles distant from some Canadian port from which there is railway communication to the United States and should be deprived of the privilege of landing and shipping its cargo to the United States it would be of course a serious disadvantage and there is, it is thought, nothing in the treaty of 1818 which would warrant such an exclusion. But the Dominion laws may make such a distinction and it is understood that in fact the privilege of so shipping fish has been refused during the last year.

In answer to the concluding inquiry as to what instances have occurred since March 3, 1887, of wrongs to American vessels in the ports of British North America and what steps have been taken in that respect the President says: "Soon after the passage of the act the negotiation, which had been proceeding for several months previously, progressed actively and the proposed conference and the presence at this capital of the plenipotentiaries of the two Governments out of which the since rejected treaty of Feb. 8, 1888, eventuated, had their natural influence in repressing causes of complaint in relation to the fisheries. Therefore since March 3, 1887, no case has been reported to the Department of State wherein complaint was made of unlawful treatment of American fishing vessels on the part of Canada in which reparation was not promptly and satisfactorily obtained by the United States. A single case of alleged unjust treatment of a merchant vessel has been reported since March 3, 1887."

In conclusion the President explains that this was the case of the ship Bridgewater which was made the subject of a communication to the British Government June 22, 1888, and to which no further reply has been received. The case of the Bridgewater to which the President refers is the subject of a communication dated June 21, 1888, from Secretary Bayard to Mr. Edwards. The steamer was disabled by a storm and on April 5, 1887, put into Shelburne, N.S., for repairs, was surveyed and condemned and her cargo discharged. While repairs were progressing the vessel was seized for non-payment of duties, but subsequently unconditionally released. The Secretary says, "a claim for $20,000 damages has been presented to the Government of Ottawa, but the claimant has failed to secure its recognition and has been informed that he has no redress in the courts against the officers of the crown."

THE MINING COMMISSION.

Result of Their Investigations—Ontario's Mineral Wealth.

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—Mr. John Charlton, M. P., chairman of the Mining Commission, was in the city yesterday. Speaking to a reporter he said the commission had made a tour through the region along the north shore of Georgian Bay from Sault Ste. Marie to Sudbury. An examination was first made of the gold mines at Vermillion in Dennison Township, also of the copper mines at Sudbury where very rich copper and nickel were found. The Silver Mountain and Whitefish Lake Silver district were also visited, and Beaver, Badger, Elgin, Porcupine, Silver Mountain East and Silver Mountain West mines were examined and found to be promising properties. The Port Arthur silver district is one of the richest on the continent, and is said by old and practical miners to be far ahead of the silver districts of Colorado.

About 80 miles west of Port Arthur the iron district, which promises to be one of the richest in America, commences.

The investigation of the commission also extended to the Lake-of-the-Woods region, the Rainy Lake region, and the region south of Lac des Milles Lacs, where extensive deposits of iron and rich gold indications were found.

In addition to these discoveries, great quarries of marble and free stone were examined. Further investigation will be made by the commission respecting the iron and phosphate deposits in Eastern Ontario. They will also visit the salt district of Goderich and Kincardine, the petroleum region of Lambton County, and the gypsum deposits in the Grand River Valley. The commission will start for the Madoc region in the course of a few weeks and the work of investigation will probably be completed towards the end of October.

Fatal Accident Near Alvinston.

ALVINSTON, Sept. 13.—A sad accident occurred on Monday afternoon near here, causing the death of the eldest son of Thos. Preece. He was adjusting a belt on a cylinder shaft of a threshing machine, and getting his hand fastened in the belt was carried around the shaft with great rapidity, mangling his arm and body, from the effects of which he died yesterday morning. The family have the sympathy of the whole community.

As a dentifrice, salt and water is very cleansing and also hardens the gums. It will also prevent the hair from falling out.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1888.

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

LECTURE.—Rev. John McEwen gave a lecture on Monday night in the Presbyterian Church, subject, "Ten days at Chautauqua." The chair was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Johnston, who after making a few well pointed remarks, introduced the lecturer of the evening. The rev. gentleman held the attention of his large audience for the space of an hour and a half. All seemed deeply interested in his remarks.

LAKEFIELD CIRCLE.—Next Tuesday night in the Methodist Church the Lakefield Chatauqua Circle will have their first meeting for the forthcoming season, reorganise and make ready for the winter's work. A full attendance is looked for.

THE CRUISER.—The steamer Cruiser will stop running her regular trips in connection with the train on the 18th inst. The boat can be chartered for picnic parties and private excursions at a very low rate after that date. This tidy, safe and fast running craft, has enjoyed a most successful season's run, not missing one connection nor having a single break. The only mishap was the bending of the shaft, which was taken out during one night, straightened and put back in again by the proprietor and the crew, not missing thereby a single connection with the train, which is considered very fast work. Mr. Wright, Capt. Charlie and the crew are to be congratulated on their most successful season's work. Parties wishing to charter the boat will address Capt. Grylls or Mr. Henderson.

SOCIAL.—The Baptists are having a social and entertainment in the P. C. A. Hall tonight (Thursday). They expect a right royal time.

PERSONAL.—Your correspondent was very much pleased to see Miss Alice Strickland out again after her very long illness. The young lady has our best wishes for her future health....Miss Nicholls, of Toronto, is the guest of Miss White....Mr. Bert McWilliams has gone to Toronto....Rev. J. C. Henderson, of Charlotte, is the guest of his brother....Messrs. Casement and Bird are giving a picnic and excursion per steamer Cruiser to Stoney Lake on Thursday.

EXCURSION.—The Methodist Church choir held their annual excursion and picnic to Stoney Lake per steamer Cruiser on Thursday.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.—The regular monthly meeting of the Village Council took place on Monday evening. Present: W. H. Casement, Reeve, Couns. Nelson, Hull, Henderson and Moore. The Clerk read the minutes of a recent special meeting which were passed. Reeve Casement stated that since the last Council meeting a requisition had been presented to him, signed by Mr. Geo. Cochrane and others, asking that a public meeting should be held on the fire question, etc. In compliance with that request a meeting was held and the following resolution passed:—"Moved by W. M. Graham, seconded by J. McWilliams,—That in the opinion of this meeting the Council should submit a by-law for say $9,500, for the purpose of fire protection and purchasing the property at present occupied by the village as a Council Chamber." Moved by Councillor Nelson, seconded by Councillor Moore,—That the report of the committee on fire engine, &c., be referred back to said committee, with instructions to insert $10,000 to purchase fire engine, and to secure a site to build a town hall.—Carried. The report was amended as follows and adopted:—"That a by-law to borrow the sum of $10,000 for the term of twenty years, to pay for engine, appliances and water tanks, purchase mill reserve No. 1, and build engine house and town hall, be submitted to the freeholders for their approval at as early a date as possible." Moved by Councillor Hull, seconded by Councillor Henderson,—That the communication of Messrs. Ronald Graham and McWilliams be received.—Carried. The Finance committee brought in the following report:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee on Finance beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

Isaac Watson, wages	$ 11 25
Wm. Smith	2 50
H. Fitzgerald	1 40
C. Young	116 72
	$131 87

JOHN HULL, Chairman.

The report was adopted, and the Road and Street Committee submitted the following report:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your R. & S. Committee beg leave to report that the tender of Bert McWilliams for lighting, cleaning and filling the street lamps, from July 16 to Jan. 1st, 1889, for the sum of $20 was accepted, no other person tendering.

S. HENDERZON, Chairman.

The report was adopted. By-law No. 144 to borrow the sum of $200 for current expenditure was passed, sealed and signed. By-law No. 146, to close certain streets in the village of Lakefield, and to authorize and open others in lieu thereof, was also passed, sealed and signed. By-law No. 145, to borrow the sum of $10,000, by the issue of debentures, to purchase mill reserve No. 1, erect a town hall, and purchase a steam fire engine and appliances, received its first two readings, and will be submitted to a vote of the electors on Wednesday, Oct. 17th.

Moved by Councillor Henderson, seconded by Councillor Moore,—That the clerk be instructed to write up the advantages of the unused water power, and that the Council would encourage manufacturing industries, and that he advertise the same in the Montreal and Toronto papers, the number of insertions to be specified by the Council, and that he (the clerk) solicit correspondence with any person or persons likely to start an industry.—Carried. Moved by Coun. Henderson, seconded by Councillor Moore,—That the clerk be authorized to procure a copy of Harrison's Municipal Manual and Lytte's Rate.—Carried. The Council then adjourned.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Departure of the Gubernatorial Party—Wedding of a Society Belle.

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—The grand jury yesterday threw out the indictments against Chas. E. Stanbury, indecent assault, and Geo. Armstrong, felonious wounding, and returned true bills against James Lynch and Walter Killer, charged with assault on Policeman Duncan, and Jas. Boyle, feloniously shooting Michael Connors.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the private car Cumberland bore away to Kingston the Gubernatorial party. The big crowd that had gathered at the Queen's Hotel cheered again and again as the carriages drove off to the Union Station, where the Mayor, Aldermen and citizens had assembled. The train was a few minutes late in starting, and in the interval the Mayor and Aldermen, Lieutenant-Governor Sir Alexander Campbell and Colonel G. T. Denison pleasantly chatted with Lord Stanley. At the signal to start the visitors ascended their car, Lord Stanley taking his stand on the rear platform and Lady Stanley and Miss Lister in the doorway, and as the train drew out the cheering of the crowd made the old depot shake again.

Fireman Poynton, injured in the collision on King street is a subject for anxiety to the hospital doctors. The bone of the injured leg below the knee is shattered, and fear exists that the unfortunate fellow will lose the limb.

A boy 7 years old, named Edward Berry, had his foot crushed in the hoist at J. Robertson & Co.'s saw works. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

A coal cart and an express wagon collided at the corner of Bathurst and King streets, and James Brown, the cart driver, suffered the fracture of an ankle. He was taken to his home, 65 Muter-street, in the patrol wagon.

The marriage of Mr. George Horace Gooderham to Miss Cora Maud Northrop, only child of Henry S. Northrop, was solemnized yesterday morning by Archdeacon Boddy, in St. Peter's church.

Charles J. Schnell, the diamond thief from New York, agreed to go back yesterday morning with Detective Heidelburg, and both left at 2 o'clock on the Cibola.

Mr. Louis Beauford Stewart of Banff, N. W. T., has been appointed to fill the vacancy in the School of Practical Science, add Toronto.

A noted thief named Louis Witowski was arrested on the Chicora yesterday afternoon just as she was about to steam out from the dock. A companion jumped overboard to avoid arrest and it is not known whether he was drowned or not as Witowski made a desperate resistance which kept the officers busy for some time. On Witowski was found the greater portion of the proceeds of thefts perpetrated on Tuesday afternoon at the residence of T. H. Carroll and yesterday morning at the house of C. G. Shuttleworth. Witowski made a determined effort to escape from his cell at headquarters, smashing up a wooden bedstead and punching a hole in the ceiling through which he was climbing when discovered.

The receipts for the first two days of the exhibition are $12,823, which is $653 ahead of last year.

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and noby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good cloths are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so in far knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its good cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

The Boy Recognized.

Some information as to the identification of the boy Roach held here on suspicion of robbing Ball's tailoring establishment has been received. Chief Roszel had reasons of his own which led him to believe that the Chicago police would be able to recognize the boy, and he therefore sent a photograph and description of the boy to the police authorities in that city and this morning received a letter from Superintendent of Police Hubbard, of Chicago, which states that the boy's mother lives in that city. The letter also states that it was the cruel treatment of the boy's father that drove him from home, but that his mother says that her son was naturally a good boy. Young Roach was brought down from the gaol to the Police Court this morning and remanded for another eight days to enable the Chief to complete his inquires. The boy says that he never was in Chicago and that his mother does not live there.

We know of no mode of treatment which offers, to sufferers from chronic diseases, a more certain hope of cure than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, this preparation is unequaled

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Arrival of Officers and the Programme Laid Out.

To-day is the sixth anniversary of the Salvation Army's attack on the strongholds of evil in Canada and the local corps are celebrating in consequence. At 8.15 this morning Commissioner Combs, of Toronto, arrived on the Grand Junction from Belleville accompanied by General and Mrs. Dawdle, of Gen. Booth's headquarters, England, Adjutant Phillpot, of Kingston, Adjutant Vanallen, of headquarters, and the Hindoo contingent consisting of Staff Capt. Leeds, a Scotch boy who has been for twelve months engaged in Army work, and four native converts of India. The party of officers were met at the station by the band, Capt. Howell and his lieutenants and soldiers. A procession was formed headed by a van in which were Commissioner Combs and his party, including the Hindoos. Much curiosity has been excited by their dark-skinned converts, who appeared in native costume and who will take part in the services this evening. There has been quite an influx of officers from the outposts in this district and a grand time is expected to-night.

This afternoon at three o'clock a holiness convention was held in the barracks in which all the officers and soldiers took part. It was open to the public, but the attendance of outsiders was, of course, small, as the services were more for soldiers than any one else.

A parade will be held to-night and at 8 o'clock a grand Jubilee will be held in the barracks, at which all the officers will take part and a most interesting programme gone through with. The admission is ten cents.

Friday morning at 9 a. m. and 1.30 p. m. an officers council will be held and in the evening another immense evening meeting.

The 57th Battalion paraded at the drill shed Wednesday evening, when all the companies were represented. No. 2 Company had the best turnout, the others all being smaller. Prizes at the Provincial.

At the Provincial Exhibition held in Kingston the following from this district have won prizes:—Messrs. Dundas & Grandy, of Springville, took three first prizes, two seconds, and one third on Clydesdales. Mr. Joseph Redmond, of Otonabee, took first prize for mare and foal (agricultural), first prize for Durham 2 year old bull and first prize for steer calf under one year. Mr. Lister, of Lakefield, took third prize for a shorthorn cow.

Y.M.C.A. Events.

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will take place on Tuesday, September 25th, when the annual reports will be presented. The ladies of the Y.W.C.T.U. intend serving a tea in the Association rooms at six o'clock on that day for members of the Association. The anniversary series were announced to be held on the 25th but this was an error of the types, as they will not take place until the 27th in St. Paul's church, when Rev. Dr. Stafford, of Toronto, will deliver an address.

Three Horses Killed.

On Sunday night last Mr. Wm. Clarke, of Springville, had three valuable horses killed by a C.P.R. train. The road runs through Mr. Clarke's farm and, although the company have a fence along their track, it is of barbed wire and an animal can run into it before seeing it and consequently break it down. This must be the way the horses got onto the track in this case. The three horses were valued at between $350 and $400, and will be a severe loss to Mr. Clarke. The C.P.R. people will probably pay some damages.

THE FINAL TRIUMPH.

Rev. Mr. Lucas' Third Lecture—Mr. Dumble on the Scott Act.

Mr. D. W. Dumble occupied the chair at the temperance meeting on Wednesday—the third of the Rev. Mr. Lucas' series. The lecture room of the George-st. Methodist Church was well filled. The Rev. G. H. Davis led in prayer in the opening exercises.

MR. LUCAS' ADDRESS.

Mr. Lucas said the subject of the evening was the final success of temperance principles. He had no doubt of their success, but he wished their triumph to come as quickly as possible. The first question to ask was, were they right? If they were they should keep their minds and hearts stirred up with a living faith and a zeal that knew no end. He referred to aged public men—Mr. Gladstone, Sir Wm. Fox, of Australia, and Mr. Neal Dow, of Maine—working yet as if young. No man had a right to take his ease. All should work to elevate the race and promote the things that were good. Though evil fought good, truth, civilization and manliness would triumph in the end. Did the liquor traffic tend to elevate men? They knew it did not. Temperance advocates were called fanatics, but the same terms had been used to disparage all leaders of moral reforms. More sin, he said, came out of the liquor traffic than out of anything else on earth, and he wished to be able to say, if it still existed when he came to the great judgment, that it was not his fault. Upon them responsibility was laid, and it made it necessary for them to use every means within their power to advance their principles. That responsibility involved total abstinence from that which would cause their brother to stumble; it involved a right use of their money, of their time and of their votes. The young ladies had a work to do, and he warned them to never marry a young man who used liquor. Liquor was no respecter of persons, but pulled down the highest as well as the lowest. Eternity, the whole of eternity, with all the pens that angels could provide, could not write the devilishness that liquor had wrought. It was the greatest evil under the British flag. That right hand (holding it up) would be cut off before it would deposit a ballot for a friend of the liquor traffic. The evil could be cured—any evil could be cured—so long as a God of righteousness sat on the throne in heaven. They did not know all that was in their General's mind, but if when He gave the order to charge they obeyed He would give them the victory. "Nil mortalibus ardui est," wrote the Latin poet Horace. There was nothing too hard for mortals to attempt, with the aid of God, and old Bacchus must come down as Jupiter had been pulled from his throne.

THE POLICE MAGISTRATE SPEAKS.

Mr. DUMBLE said they had had the Dunkin Act here, but it failed because its machinery was not perfect. Then they got the Scott Act, which he thought a very perfect Act, but the people had failed in the administration of the Act. When the Act first came into force half the fines were given to the informer, which provided the sinews of war. The Dominion Parliament took away the half of the fine, and that was the first blow. Then there came a decision from a judge, whose sympathies got the better of his judgment, that a man could not be compelled to give evidence to convict himself. That made the enforcement difficult, but the decision was overruled, and then the same Parliament changed the law so that the difficulty was renewed. There was a section of the people who were for various reasons hostile to the Act. Councils and Mayors were hostile, and if Mayors, Councils and Governments were hostile to the punishment of thieving, would the law against that crime be a success? The Scott Act, as practically in force to-day, was a high license act. He would rather see an honest license act than one in the present shape. He believed prohibition would be a wise thing; and if a vote came to-morrow for the repeal of the Scott Act he would hesitate to vote for the repeal, because he would hold up his hand for anything that would lessen the evil. Although he might know it would only be a license act, he would vote against repeal to show he favored prohibition. He thought it was their duty to vote to-day exactly as they had done before. He believed there was an advanced sentiment and a stronger desire for prohibition. He said the Scott Act was not a failure, for just in proportion as it was enforced in Peterborough, crime diminished. If there was more drinking now it was because the authorities said to the dealers, "Sell all you can, for we intend to get as much out of you as we can in fines." He argued for prohibition, and complimented the lecturer.

A vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer and a collection was taken up.

Mr. LUCAS referred to the society of Royal Templars and commended their temperance work and insurance system. He announced that he would next night in the Baptist church tell them how "to run a hotel."

Brevities.

—There were no arrests last night.

—The mail service between Belleville and Peterborough is getting still better. The Belleville papers of Monday reached here to-day.

—The steamer Golden Eye took the Otonabee farmers picnic to Jubilee Point this morning. A good programme of sports had been arranged and several valuable prizes were to be competed for.

—A sale of town lands was held by Mr. T. Hurley yesterday. Bidding was spirited for a time but the top figures were not anything like fair prices. It is understood that no sales were made.

—The habit of some merchants and others on George-st. of throwing waste paper out on the street should not be allowed. Not only does it make the principal street look disgraceful, but a runaway may yet be the result.

by proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Petitcodiac, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons with consumptive tendencies." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Colts and Veterans.

These elevens met again yesterday, but owing to the fact that only eight of the Veterans turned up, three of the best men being absent, the match was not very interesting. For the Colts Hamilton and Pearson both batted well, and they also did all the bowling for their side. Pearson's analysis being especially noteworthy. For the Veterans Stirling batted a long time for his runs, seeing 5 wickets fall. He along with Parker did the bowling also, the last named bowling especially well, although he did not get so many wickets. The fielding of the Veterans was quite up (or down rather) to their ordinary miserable form. Score:—

BENSFORT.

Correspondence of the Review.

FALL SEEDING.—The farmers have finished their seeding of fall wheat. A very large acreage has been put in, encouraged no doubt by the good crop this year and the prospect of better prices in the future.

POLITICAL MEETING.—There was a Liberal political meeting held in Bensfort on Tuesday evening of last week. The audience was very small, only about 30 persons being present. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Stratton, M. P. P., and Mr. Stone, of Peterborough. Private invitations were sent through the mails to the Conservatives in the vicinity, but very few responded to the call. The speakers remarks are reported to have been very mild, which gives the impression that the idea of the meeting was to rope in a few of the weak Conservatives.

A WILD CAT.—The wild cat has again put in an appearance. Some young nimrods who were out coon hunting one night last week, discovered the feline and treed him. After reliewing their breech loaders of grape and canister a few times, pussy decided to change his quarters, which he did by quietly descending the tree and leaving the scene of operations, thereby nonplussing the brave hunters by his audacity in refusing to remain to be shot at any longer. Pussy has not been seen or heard of since.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. Stephens, former teacher in S. Sec. No. 3, has gone to attend the Normal at Ottawa.... Miss Maggie Lawson, of Bobcaygeon, has entered upon her duties as teacher in the school vacated by Mr. Stephens. She has already gained the good will and confidence of the scholars under her charge.... Master Fred. Truscott has gone to resume his studies at Norwood.

CATTLE KILLED.—An east-bound freight train ran into and killed three cows belonging to Mr. M. Ryan, at Birdsall's crossing, on Monday morning.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—One of those happy events which usually happen but once in a lifetime to favored mortals, was celebrated on Wednesday afternoon, of last week, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Jackson, of our village; in the giving away in marriage, of their youngest and only remaining daughter, Miss Maude Jackson, to Mr. D. W. Anderson, of Toronto. The guests, of whom there were many from a distance, began to gather shortly before noon, and at one o'clock, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. A. Thomson, after which the company sat down to a sumptuous repast, after which the bridal couple left by train, going via Belleville, to Niagara Falls and Chicago. The bride was handsomely attired in white satin, trimmed with silk lace and orange blossoms. She was supported by Miss McClelland, of Bensfort, and Miss Duncan, of Castletown, both of whom were becomingly attired in white cashmere. The groom was assisted by Mr. Massey, of Toronto, and Mr. Elliott, of Warkworth. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were untiring in their efforts to please their guests, and they succeeded admirably. The presents to the bride formed one of the prominent attractions, the quality and quantity being much admired. The guests accompanied the happy couple to the station, and as the train steamed out, they got a hearty send-off, with showers of rice, old boots, etc., a few torpedoes on the rails, making a final salute.—Star.

WETHER NOTES.—August, our principal harvest month, has seen our fields once more wearing their fall appearance. The month has been warm and although considerable rain has fallen, everything being so dry through the summer it showed very little effect. The hottest day was on the 6th, the thermometer standing at 95 degrees at 3 p. m. in the shade. Our coldest was on the morning of the 28th, it standing at 49 degrees, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 64 degrees. Rain fell on 12 days to the depth of 2 inches and 74-100 of an inch. We had 4 thunder storms, the severest being on the 16th, falling nearly one inch of water. Still again have we to chronicle considerable frost. On four mornings our old friend visited his former haunts, doing considerable damage to vegetables and garden stuff. There was fog on one morning, but no auroral lights to notice, which seems strange, but there has indeed been few streaking, dancing and leaping across the horizon during the the summer. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, namely:—West, 6 days; south-west, 13 days; east, 3 days; north-west, 5 days, and north, 4 days.

BASEBALL PICNIC.—A large number attended the Allandale baseball picnic and match with the Norwood B.B.C. on Friday last near Allandale. A very pleasant time was spent in dancing and at the match. The Norwood "Cyclones" were too much for the Allandale "Comets" by a score of 30 to 13. Keene ought to be able to get up a team and play Allandale on show day. [NOTE.—The Keene boys might refer to a short letter under the head of Lang.—ED. REVIEW.]

Don't Wait

Until your hair becomes dry, thin, and gray before giving the attention needed to preserve its beauty and vitality. Keep on your toilet-table a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor—the only dressing you require for the hair—and use a little daily, to preserve the natural color and prevent baldness.

Thomas Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky., writes: "Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best hair-restorer in the world."

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delavan, Ill.; "but after using a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became black and glossy."

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1888.

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"None but ourselves," replied the doctor.

"And this young gentleman?" asked Casimir, jerking a nod in the direction of Jean-Marie.

"He too"—the doctor bowed.

"Well; and, if it is a fair question, who is he?" pursued the brother-in-law.

"Jean-Marie," answered the doctor, "combines the functions of a son and stable boy. He began as the latter, but he rose rapidly to the more honorable rank in our affections. He is, I may say, the greatest comfort in our lives."

"Ha!" said Casimir. "And previous to becoming one of you?"

"Jean-Marie has lived a remarkable existence; his experience has been eminently formative," replied Desprez. "If I had to choose an education for my son, I should have chosen such another. Beginning life with mountebanks and thieves, passing onward to the society and friendship of philosophers, he may be said to have skimmed the volume of human life."

"Thieves!" repeated the brother-in-law, with a meditative air.

The doctor could have bitten his tongue out. He foresaw what was coming, and prepared his mind for a vigorous defense.

"Did you ever steal yourself?" asked Casimir, turning suddenly on Jean-Marie, and for the first time employing a single eyeglass which hung round his neck.

"Yes, sir," replied the boy, with a deep blush.

Casimir turned to the others with pursed lips, and nodded to them meaningly. "Hey?" said he; "how is that?"

"Jean-Marie is a teller of the truth," returned the doctor, throwing out his bust.

"He has never told a lie," added madame. "He is the best of boys."

"Never told a lie, has he not?" reflected Casimir.

"Strange, very strange. Give me your attention, my young friend," he continued. "You knew about this treasure?"

"He helped to bring it home," interposed the doctor.

"Desprez, I ask you nothing but to hold your tongue," returned Casimir. "I mean to question this stable boy of yours; and if you are so certain of his innocence, you can afford to let him answer for himself. Now, sir," he resumed, pointing his eyeglass straight at Jean-Marie, "you knew it could be stolen with impunity? You knew you would not be prosecuted? Come! Did you, or did you not?"

"I did," answered Jean-Marie, in a miserable whisper. He sat there changing color like a revolving pharos, twisting his fingers hysterically, swallowing air, the picture of guilt.

"You knew where it was put?" resumed the inquisitor.

"Yes," from Jean-Marie.

"You say you have been a thief before," continued Casimir. "Now how am I to know that you are not one still? I suppose you could climb the green gate?"

"Yes," still lower from the culprit.

"Well, then, it was you who stole those things. You knew it, and you dare not deny it. Look me in the face! Raise your sneak's eyes, and answer!"

But in place of anything of that sort Jean-Marie broke into a dismal howl and fled from the arbor. Anastasie, as she pursued to capture and reassure the victim, found time to send one Parthian arrow—"Casimir, you are a brute!"

"My brother," said Desprez, with the greatest dignity, "you take upon yourself a license"—

"Desprez," interrupted Casimir, "for heaven's sake be a man of the world. You telegraph me to leave my business and come down here on yours. I come, I ask the business, you say 'Find me this thief!' Well, I find him; I say 'There he is!' You need not like it, but you have no manner or right to take offense."

"Well," returned the doctor, "I grant that; I will even thank you for your mistaken zeal. But your hypothesis was so extravagantly monstrous"—

"Look here," interrupted Casimir; "was it you or Stasie?"

"Certainly not," answered the doctor.

"Very well; then it was the boy. Say no more about it," said the brother-in-law, and he produced his cigar case.

"I will say this much more," returned Desprez: "If that boy came and told me so himself I should not believe him; and if I did believe him, so implicit is my trust I should conclude that he had acted for the best."

"Well, well," said Casimir, indulgently. "Have you a light? I must be going. And, by the way, I wish you would let me sell your Turks for you. I always told you it meant smash. I tell you so again. Indeed, it was partly that that brought me down. You never acknowledge my letters—a most unpardonable habit."

"My good brother," replied the doctor blandly, "I have never denied your ability in business; but I can perceive your limitations."

"Egad, my friend, I can return the compliment," observed the man of business. "Your limitation is to be downright irrational."

"Observe the relative position," returned the doctor with a smile. "It is your attitude to believe through thick and thin in one man's judgment—your own. I follow the same opinion, but critically and with open eyes. Which is the more irrational? I leave it to yourself."

"Oh, my dear fellow," cried Casimir, "stick to your Turks, stick to your stable boy, go to the devil in general in your own way and be done with it. But don't ratiocinate with me—I cannot bear it. And so, ta ta. I might as well have stayed away for any good I've done. Say good-by from me to Stasie and to the sullen hang dog of a stable boy, if you insist on it; I'm off."

And Casimir departed. The doctor that night dissected his character before Anastasie. "One thing, my beautiful," he said, "he has learned one thing from his five years acquaintance with your husband: the word ratiocinate. It shines in his vocabulary like a jewel in a muck heap. And, even so, he continually misapplies it. For you must have observed he uses it as a sort of taunt, in the case of to ergotise, implying, as it were—the poor, dear fellow!—a vein of sophistry. As to his cruelty to Jean Marie, it must be forgiven him—it is not his nature, it is the nature of his life. A man who deals with money, my dear, is a man lost."

With Jean-Marie the process of reconciliation had been somewhat slow. At first he was inconsolable, insisted on leaving the family, went from paroxysm to paroxysm of tears; and it was only after Anastasie had been closeted for an hour with him, alone, that she came forth, sought out the doctor, and, with tears in her eyes, acquainted that gentleman with what had passed.

"At first my husband, he would hear of nothing," she said. "Imagine! if he had left us! what would the treasure be to that! Horrible treasure, it has brought all this about! At last, after he has sobbed his very heart out, he agrees to stay on a condition—we are not to mention this matter, this infamous suspicion, not even to mention the robbery. On that agreement only,—the poor, cruel boy will consent to remain among his friends."

"But this inhibition," said the doctor, "this embargo—it cannot possibly apply to me?"

"To all of us," Anastasie assured him.

"My cherished one," Desprez protested, "you must have misunderstood. It cannot apply to me. He would naturally come to me."

"Henri," she said, "it does; I swear to you it does."

"This is a painful, a very painful circumstance," the doctor said, looking a little black. "I cannot affect, Anastasie, to be anything but justly wounded. I feel this, I feel it, my wife, acutely."

"I knew you would," she said. "But if you had seen his distress! We must make allowances, we must sacrifice our feelings."

"I trust, my dear, you have never found me averse to sacrifices," returned the doctor very stiffly.

"And you will let me go and tell him that you have agreed? It will be like your noble nature," she cried.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1888.

A LIVELY CAMPAIGN.

MASS MEETING OF MONTREAL EAST LIBERALS.

Speeches by Premier Mercier, Hon. Mr. Laurier and Others—Resolutions Denouncing the Recent Veto Adopted.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—The Liberal campaign in Montreal East was inaugurated last evening by a mass meeting at St. James Market-square to denounce the federal veto of the District Magistrates Bill. Mr. Mercier made the speech of the evening. The bill had been vetoed, he said, because it came from a French and Catholic province and not from a Protestant and English one. The veto by which Mr. Barry had been deprived of his judgeship was an insult to the whole Irish race and they should rise in their might and denounce it.

The magistrates would remain in office until the courts decided whether his Government or the Federal Government were right. Quebec was not going to be menaced and would fight the Dominion to the death.

Hon. Mr. Laurier described disallowance as a slap in the face for the Province of Quebec. The veto was a relic of barbarism, and the people should rise against Federal usurpation of power. He said that the people of Quebec would not forget the insult to their race by the Regina tragedy.

Hon. François Langelier, M.P., mayor of Quebec, and prospective member of the Mercier Cabinet, reviewed the events of the rebellion of '37-'38 and hinted that a necessity for another rising was approaching.

Mr. David, M.P.P., followed with a short address, and resolutions denouncing the action of the Federal Government were adopted.

The Nationalist candidate will be chosen this afternoon. All signs point to one of the liveliest election campaigns ever seen in Canada.

THE NEWS IN LONDON.

WORK CUT OUT FOR THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Michael Davitt's Letter Warmly Approved by Radicals in General—The Home Rule Cause Apparently Advancing.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—When the Parnell Commission begins its investigation an application will be made for the release of Mr. Dillon to enable him to prepare his defence and appear at the hearings either as one of the accused or as witness. Applications will also be made by Mr. Parnell and 84 Parnellite members of Parliament to compel The Times to deliver the details of the charges against each of them, together with the names of the other persons mentioned in the act providing for the commission. The commission will be asked to compel The Times to produce the originals of the letters published by it and to make affidavit regarding all documents on the subject held by Mr. Walters. The question of the appointment of an American Commission will be raised at an early date. The Times has obtained summonses to compel Mr. Parnell and others to make affidavits to documents in their possession, also summonses to ensure the attendance of leading members of the National League.

Mr. Davitt's Statement.

LONDON, Sept. 14—Mr. Davitt writes to the Secretary of the Parnell Commission that he never sanctioned the publication of his statement and did not know that anybody intended to publish it. He admits the authenticity of the document. The Press Association affirms it had assurances that the statement was prepared by Mr. Davitt for the commission, and that he had no objection to its being published.

Reported Elevations.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Star reports that Hon. W. H. Smith will be raised to the peerage with the title of Viscount Henley and that Mr. Goschen will become Conservative leader in the House of Commons.

Fun in the Family.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Radicals in general warmly approve of Michael Davitt's letter. They have long been disgusted with the political procrastination of the Liberals. The inactivity of the situation which they are forced to occupy is what galls them and they hail with delight the sharp words of the Irish patriot who refuses longer to keep back the hot words of indignation that the scenes in Ireland impel him to utter. Many of the Nationalists never willingly gave their adhesion to the Liberal method of conducting the Irish warfare for independence, and are still strong believers in the policy of returning blow for blow. To them Michael Davitt's words are welcome. It is unfortunate, however, that any break should come now, when to all appearances the home rule cause in England is growing stronger. Resort to violence again on the part of the Irish would alarm English electors and the Irish cause would be greatly retarded. Such is the opinion of the more Liberalized Nationalists. The Davitt supporters accuse The Daily News of a political flabbiness which irritates even moderates. The probable outcome of the quarrel will be the establishment in London of a Radical morning newspaper modeled on the lines of The Star.

AN ELEVATED INTRODUCTION.

Mrs. Weiss Gives Birth to Twins on the Steps of an "L" Station.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Something of a sensation was created at the Coroner's office yesterday when the following police bulletin came fluttering in:—

"Coroner wanted at Manhattan Hospital. Born, twins."

A case of "born, twins" is out of the usual order at the Coroner's office. There was an instantaneous rush made for the hospital by inmates of the office to see what the mysterious bulletin meant. The ambulance surgeon was not long in explaining.

Shortly after nine o'clock in the morning, while people were ascending the steps of the Ninth-avenue elevated road at 155th street, a woman about 30 years old was prostrated by illness on the first landing. An ambulance was summoned, and when it reached her there were two babes to place in it by her side. Both were born dead. The woman, who could not speak English, proved to be Mrs. Emma Weiss, the wife of a German farmer living in Yonkers. She had been in this country but three months. Mrs. Weiss was transferred to Bellevue Hospital. The bodies of the infants were sent to the Morgue.

Shot Herself at Fourteen.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14.—Minnie J. Brown, fourteen years old, stepdaughter of Samuel H. Allen, of East Providence, killed herself yesterday in her brother's room in the family cottage on King-street. She shot herself in the right temple and was dead when found. A note addressed to her brother read:—"Goodbye—bye—bye. God bless you, Bert, and keep you from harm. I sleep to-night above."

The only cause that can be assigned for the act is chafing over the restraint imposed by her mother, who had forbidden a desired visit to another town, as the girl's services were required at home. Allen did not know that his stepson had a revolver. Bert had some dime novels, which his sister read.

The Hudson Bay Road.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 14.—The Hudson Bay road has made another offer to the Government which includes the building of 110 miles to the lake this year. The Government has decided to give a guarantee for $2,500,000, and it is thought the company will accept in anticipation of the action of the Northwest Council passing legislation pledging itself to aid the road.

A Treacherous Beggar.

HAMILTON, Sept. 14.—A tramp went into the barroom of the Allison House on Stuart-street about noon yesterday and asked Mr. Allison for a free drink. He was refused because he was already the worse of liquor. He then became very abusive and was ordered out. Shortly after when Mr. Allison was standing near the outer door the tramp rushed in and dealt him a fierce blow over the head with a stick. Luckily Allison had a thick felt hat on, but the blow inflicted a severe scalp wound which bled freely. The tramp followed up his assault, but the chandelier caught the uplifted stick and prevented further injuries. Mr. Allison picked up a walking stick and went for his assailant, who ran out and fell down the high flight of steps, lighting on the sidewalk on his head. He received a very bad scalp wound and was rendered insensible. The patrol wagon took him to the hospital, where he was too much used up between the liquor and the injury to tell his name.

A Knife Duel in a Schoolhouse.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 14.—Yesterday a schoolhouse near Perryville was the scene of a horrible knife duel. The teacher, William Clinton, had whipped one of his pupils, a 14-year-old girl, with a small switch. The brother of the girl sent Clinton word that he would meet him at the schoolhouse and whip him. Yesterday morning the young man came into the schoolroom to execute his threat. Clinton drew a knife, as did his antagonist. The men grappled, stabbing each other in a frightful manner. Some of the older pupils interfered and succeeded in getting their knives from them and separating them, but it is believed that both were mortally wounded.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Mysterious Case of Attempted Suicide—Three Broken Legs.

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—Yesterday morning a stranger called at Dr. Riddell's, Parkdale, and stated that he had tried to commit suicide. He had a serious wound on the side of the head caused by a bullet. On examination the doctor found and extracted the bullet and dressed the wound. On being pressed, the man gave up the revolver and the doctor immediately went out and gave it to Chief of Police Quinn. Together they returned to the surgery, but the man had disappeared.

A party of Troy firemen to the number of 51, accompanied by a band of 21 pieces, visited the city yesterday.

John McClelland, aged 49, fell off his milk wagon yesterday afternoon, breaking his thigh. Phebe Duff, aged 50, fell down a pair of stairs yesterday and injured the cap of her left knee. James Bastedo, one of the Italians at work on the Canadian Pacific Railway's Don "spur," fell off a wagon yesterday and had his left leg broken.

In the Court of Appeal yesterday the appeal of McLeod Stewart, mayor of Ottawa, against a judgment of the Queen's Bench Divisional Court was argued. Quo warranto proceedings have been taken to unseat Mayor Stewart on the ground of bribery. Judge Rose issued the writ, which the Queen's Bench refused to set aside, and proceedings are now in progress before the County Judge of Carleton. The contention is that the writ should be granted because bribery is not a ground under the Municipal Act on which to unseat a mayor. The point is a very fine one and the court reserved its decision.

A boy of 15, sobbing bitterly, presented himself at the Mayor's office yesterday. He told His Worship that his name was John Stack, and that his parents lived at 517 Rideau-street, Ottawa. He claims that on Monday night two bigger boys shoved him into a box car and made him make the journey with them to Toronto. He tried to get away several times, but they held him a close prisoner until they got into Toronto, about daylight yesterday. He was starving and had had nothing to eat, according to his story, since the day previous. The Mayor relieved his pressing wants and handed him over to Inspector Archabald for that officer to make enquiries about him.

Waldo E. Barnes and Theodore S. Barnes, two brothers who for a couple of years have been keeping a livery stable here, skipped across the line yesterday, leaving numerous mourning creditors. They are said to have had an unsavory record in Providence, R.I., before coming to Toronto.

At the fifth annual convention of the Ontario Undertakers' Association yesterday these officers were elected: President—J. Gibbard, Napanee, by acclamation; Vice-Presidents—W. P. Power, Bowmanville; S. Hogg, Paisley; F. Rosar, Toronto; F. A. Latshaw, Dundas; E. Miller, Kincardine; Treasurer—J. B. McIntyre, St. Catharines, (re-elected); Secretary—W. H. Hoyle, Cannington (re-elected); Executive Committee—W. H. Stone, Toronto; Mr. Bradshaw, Stratford; Mr. Stephenson, Clinton; Mr. Knott of Port Perry; D. Belleghem, Peterboro. C. A. Blatchford of Hamilton, and the Secretary were chosen as delegates to the N. F. D. A. convention, which meets at Baltimore on Oct. 4.

At the exhibition yesterday Aeronaut Williams and his parachute dropped from a balloon at a height of 3000 feet. In about nine minutes he landed in the lake. The increase in receipts for the first three days over last year is $1272. A. C. Pearcy of Suspension Bridge is going to shoot the whirlpool rapids this afternoon in his famous boat the Water Lily, and if he comes out successful he will be at the exhibition tomorrow.

HE MET HER IN COURT.

A Doctor's Encounter With a Patient Who, He Says, Robbed Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Pretty, red lipped, bright eyed Nellie Buchner, who attempted to commit suicide on Friday night last by taking rat poison at her home, No. 319 East Fifty-seventh street, was before Justice Ford in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday.

Dr. Marcus Markiewicz, of Broome-street, who saved Nellie's life the night she took poison and who had not seen her since, was in court. He went up to her and shook hands with her.

Then, as he looked closely at Nellie, he uttered an exclamation of surprise.

"Why," said he "you are the woman who stole my watch a year ago, ain't you?"

"No, I'm not," answered Nellie, looking at him curiously, "but I remember you coming to the house one night."

The Doctor said further that on Aug. 20, 1887, he was summoned to No. 45 Chrystie-street to attend a woman who was dying. Nellie was in the room with the sick woman. He took off his coat and vest to perform an operation on the sick woman. When he went to put them on again he found his $300 gold watch and chain gone, and Nellie was nowhere to be found. The Doctor offered Nellie $50 if she would tell him where his watch was, but she persisted in saying she had never seen it.

She was held for examination.

Sudden Recovery of a Bedridden Woman.

OSHKOSH, Sept. 14,—Miss Emma Bennett resides with her brother, William Bennett, a farmer near this city. For nine years past, Miss Emma, who is now 32 years old, has been a bedridden invalid. Her disease was called consumption of the blood. During her nine years' confinement she has not uttered a loud word. Part of this time she was able to lisp in a faint whisper. Frequently she was thought to be dead. For upward of three years one side of her body was paralyzed, rendering her still more helpless. While the family were at dinner, suddenly from the sick room came the sound of a full round voice singing strongly and sweetly the words: "He rose, He rose, He rose from the dead." The startled family rushed into the bedroom, and there was the sick girl sitting in bed singing. She asked to be helped to her feet, saying that she felt that she could walk, and she did walk across the floor. She said she felt as though she had risen from the dead.

The Doctors at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—The Dominion Medical Association resumed its sitting here yesterday morning. Dr. Henderson of Kingston, in a short address, assured the meeting that the Ontario Association would do all in their power to assist in carrying out the ideas promulgated by the Dominion Association. During the afternoon papers of a purely technical nature were read by Drs. Howard of Montreal, Graham of Toronto, Osler, Graham, Brussels, James Bell, J. Sterling, A. Lapthorn Smith and Wm. Gardiner of Montreal, Campbell of Seaforth, Walker of Hamilton, Playter of Ottawa, Sheppard and Buller of Montreal. The association will probably conclude their sittings to-day.

Arrival of Immigrants.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—The Dominion liner Montreal has arrived with 200 immigrants from Liverpool. Of these 35 remain in the city and the remainder have left for the west. The party comprised about 30 French farmers, all possessing private means, who are going into Manitoba, and were forwarded through Mr. Marguette's agency.

DOINGS IN THE DOMINION.

A HAMILTON LAD'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Another Case of "Didn't Know It Was Loaded"—The Wages of Labor and Cost of Living.

HAMILTON, Sept. 14.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock last evening William R. D. Grant, son of William Grant, printer, was sitting on the fence in front of Mrs. O'Neil's residence, corner of Picton and John-streets, conversing with some acquaintances, when they were joined by William Harte, son of Mr. Patrick Harte, and Frederick Crofton. The former had a double-barrelled shot gun in his hands, which he had borrowed from a young man named Williamson for the purpose of going out hunting. Harte did not know that the gun was loaded, Williamson not having being present when he obtained the gun to inform him of the fact; but he had noticed, by lifting the hammers, that there was no caps on the nipples, and left the gun at what is known as half-cock.

After conversing a short time Harte raised the gun to his shoulder and pointed toward a telegraph pole which stands near the corner. An explosion almost immediately followed, and this so frightened Harte, assisted perhaps by the kicking of it, that he dropped the muzzle, when the second barrel went off, the whole charge passing over young Grant's head, and entering Mrs. O'Neill's house in a nearly compact mass, the concussion breaking several panes of glass in the window. It is thought that none of the shot entered Grant's vision, but, that his wounds were inflicted by the powder and wadding.

Dr. Wallace was in attendance shortly after the accident and pronounces the wounds very serious but not necessarily fatal, unless erysipelas or inflammation sets in. Young Crofton, who was standing alongside of Harte, had the rim of his hat blown off and his cheek burnt by the powder. The accident was undoubtedly the result of the careless use of firearms, but of course none can be seriously blamed. The doctor in attendance expressed the opinion that no fatal result will likely ensue, but that young Grant will be unable to use his eyes for some time.

Labor and Cost of Living Statistics.

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—The report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries for 1887 has been issued. One part deals with labor and the cost of living in Ontario and is based upon reports from 2981 males and 322 females over the age of 16 and 41 males and 10 females under that age.

According to these reports the average yearly earnings of the males with families were $426.75, which was $1 higher than the average for the four years 1884-87. With extra earnings, and earnings of wives and children, the total average income of these families was $449.61. The days of labor averaged 237½, so that each day's pay averaged $1.70. The cost of living for each of these families was $412.80, and the average savings of each was $36.81 for the year.

The whole 3354 of male and female workers, old and young, were employed on an average 263.21 days each and earned an average of $371.87. The average savings of each amounted to 44.76. The yearly wages of each worker are less by nearly $3 than the average of the past four years, and the average savings are less by nearly $5.

A Circus Breakdown.

QUEBEC, Sept. 14.—Howe's circus arrived at Levis yesterday morning and was attached by the G. T. R. for $900. A number of the employes have also taken out seizures for wages. One of these, a negro fire-eater named Cooper, was appointed guardian by the bailiff, who executed his seizure for $65. When the bailiff left, a man named Griffin said to be a brother of one of the circus proprietors, took up a coupling pin and brutally belabored Cooper about the face and head, breaking his jawbone and otherwise injuring him. He was sent to the hospital and a warrant issued for the arrest of his assailant, who has taken his departure and cannot be found.

Fire in the Windsor Waterworks.

WINDSOR, Sept. 14.—Fire broke out about 9 o'clock last evening in the Windsor waterworks building, supposed to have caught from a passing Grand Trunk Railway engine. The main building, in which the pumps and engine are placed, was pretty badly damaged, but the machinery itself was not injured. The boilers were enclosed in a frame building adjoining the engine and pumping room and this building was completely destroyed, causing a lot of burning timber to fall on the boilers, damaging them $300 to $500. The coal sheds adjoining the boiler building were completely burned, including a small quantity of coal.

A Mysterious Disappearance.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 14.—Mr. Wm. Boutelle, a contractor and builder has disappeared. All manner of search had been made without success when a letter written by himself to his wife was received, purporting, by the envelope, to have been sent from Newport, Vt., but neither dated nor signed. He briefly states that he is not well, but hopes soon to be better. No clue can be got in or about Newport. Mr. Boutelle has lately complained of sleeplessness and talked, acted and looked strangely the last few days previous to departure, so it is more than probable that he is in a deplorably demented condition.

Married the Groomsman.

DURHAM, Sept. 14.—A young lady named Miss McDonald, an only and orphan child, with considerable property coming to her at an early date, was to have been married to Edward Bryan, a worthy swain of Varney. He visited Durham to get a license and a clergyman, but only reached his home two hours after the minister. In the meantime the bride to-be, annoyed by his delay, had gone off with the groomsman. In spite of all entreaty she would not come back, and surrendered the dress and shoes which the intended bridegroom claimed as his property. The next day the groomsman and the bride were married at Hanover.

The Fatal Lock-Jaw.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—Ten days ago Joseph Lavois, 20 years of age, was at his work in one of the warehouses, when a heavy plank, with a protruding nail in it, fell on his foot. The wound quickly healed up, but yesterday it broke out afresh, and the poor man was seized with tetanus. No hopes whatever are entertained of his recovery.

The Threshing Machine Again

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—A farmer named F. Corbeil, from Terrebonne while engaged feeding a threshing machine had his arm suddenly caught by it and so dreadfully mangled that he had to be taken to the hospital, where a portion of the injured member was removed by the house surgeon in the institution.

DEATH OF MRS. HOPKINS.

One of Peterborough's Oldest Inhabitants Gone.

Death has removed from our midst one of Peterborough's oldest and most respected inhabitants in the person of Mrs. Jane Hopkins, relict of the late Daniel Hopkins, who died at the family residence, Weiler-st., this morning at the advanced age of seventy-two years. The labors and anxieties of a well-spent life had worn the cog-wheels of life until they ceased to turn, and the flickering fire of the kind old heart was extinguished for ever after her alloted three score years and ten had just been passed, without any pain or sickness.

Mrs. Hopkins was the daughter of the late James Donnelly, of Smithtown, and was born in the County of Cavan, Ireland, in 1817. She came to this country with her parents in 1827 and settled in Smith. In the year 1835 she was married to the late Daniel Hopkins who preceded his partner in life through the dark portals seven years ago. It is almost fifty years since she came to Peterborough to reside, coming here about five years after her marriage. The first year of her married life was spent on their farm at Smith and the next four in St. Catherines, when Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins returned to Peterborough and have resided here since.

Mrs. Hopkins was the mother of five children—three sons and two daughters—of whom Mrs. W. A. Morrow, Mrs. Geo. A. Cox and Daniel G. Hopkins survive her. She had always been a member of the Methodist church, and could look back to the first days of Methodism in this district when Peterborough of to-day was a town of the future.

Wartike William's Words.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—At the dinner given at the officers' club at Wilhelmshaven last evening, the Emperor, in a speech returning thanks for the toast to his health, expressed his satisfaction at the manner in which the navy executed the manœuvres. He dwelt upon the importance of the torpedo service and said that, although arduous, it was the best school for young officers. He was convinced that the navy would soon be equal to the task of defending the coasts of the Fatherland. The army and navy would always act in concert for its welfare.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Timber Limits Offered for Sale and Withdrawn Because of Low Bids.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—The timber limits belonging to Mr. White, of Pembroke, were offered for sale in the Russell House, yesterday afternoon. Among the lumber kings present were Messrs. James McLaren, John Bryson, M. P., and others. The limits are situated on the Black, Coulonge and Ottawa rivers and consist of 241 square miles. The first block put up was the Coulonge limit of 50 square miles. The first bid on this was $20,000. Bidding was slow and the limits were withdrawn at $33,400. The limits on the Black River, 101 square miles in extent, were also withdrawn, the highest bidding being $54,540. Twenty square miles on the Ottawa River were withdrawn, highest bid, $5000. One hundred square miles on the Jaenne de Terre were withdrawn, at $30,000, and twenty square miles on the Hebreux river were withdrawn, the highest bid being $8000.

The Chaudiere lumbermen are experiencing difficulty in getting their log drive down the Ottawa River owing to low water. The principal portion of the log drive is now sixty miles above Des Joachims rapids, about 150 miles from Ottawa, where in all probability it will have to winter as the water on the rapids is so low that the crib containing provisions for the men cannot pass over. The result will be that the lumber firms at the Chaudiere will have no logs to begin next season's cut at the mills.

BUSY BURGLARS

Break Into Edwin Pass' House at Hamilton and Steal Jewelry.

HAMILTON, Sept. 14.—When Mrs. Pass, of No. 103 Walnut-street south left her residence shortly before 7 o'clock last evening to bring her husband, Mr. Edwin Pass, jeweler, his supper to the store on South John-street, she did not think her movements were being watched by burglars. Such, however, must have been the case, for when Mr. and Mrs. Pass returned home soon after 9 o'clock they found that the back kitchen window had been broken and opened. All the drawers in the house were ransacked and a lady's diamond set, and lady's engagement ring (two diamonds and three rubies) were stolen. These articles were in a bureau drawer, which had not been locked. A purse containing $4 was also carried off. Mr. Pass has no idea who the thieves were. It is probable that the burglars thought Mr. Pass kept his money and a large quantity of jewelry at his house. In this they were mistaken. The argus-eyed detectives have the case in hand.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and noby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good cloths are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so in far knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its good cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

We are about tired of waiting on Valleyfield and if we can arrange elsewhere we would do so. One of our firm intends going west about the 17th of the month, and if you think it advisable to stay over and see you let us know, and oblige yours, etc.' The Mayor has replied asking the gentleman to stop and talk the question over. The firm in question are a comparatively new one, are worth about $20,000, and employ fifty skilled workmen all the time, besides boys."

HOW TO RUN AN HOTEL.

Rev. Mr. Lucas' Fourth Lecture—Coffee Houses in Liverpool and Melbourne.

The fourth of the Rev. Mr. Lucas' series of temperance meetings was held in the Baptist Church on Thursday evening. There was a fair attendance. The Rev. P Clifton Parker presided, and the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., occupied a seat on the platform and took part in the opening exercises.

Rev. Mr. LUCAS said that he had considered the excuses given for selling liquor and there was not much in them. It had been said that an hotel could not be run without liquor. What was an hotel? What was it for? The fundamental idea of an hotel was a place where a weary traveller could rest, and get necessary wholesome refreshments. Liquor sellers, he said, were law breakers above any other class in the community. In the average hotel the fundamental idea was almost lost sight of, and it was difficult for the travellers to rest on account of men living near the hotel and who did not need it at all. A hotel could be run without liquor just as a boot store was run without it. If the meals in a hotel were given without profit because of the liquor selling privilege, the purchaser of intoxicants paid for part of the diner's dinner, but the hotel could be run as easily without liquor. Hotel keepers felt that there was a distance between them and God. He explained the working of the coffee houses in Liverpool, which, started from philanthropic motives, were now a good paying investment. He told of a large temperance hotel in Liverpool, the Shaftesbury House, where intoxicants were not allowed on the premises and the proprietor held family prayer every morning. It was successful and a quiet, orderly, Christian home. All the best hotels in Melbourne, Australia, were temperance hotels—called coffee palaces—and paid well. He had dined, slept and staid in those hotels and never heard in them a profane or an ungentlemanly word. He would like to see such hotels in Canada, and suggested the formation of a company for the purpose, with 100,000 shares of $5 each. The hotels would need to be conducted on the best principles, with every comfort, and with Christian managers called of God to run hotels. The taxpayers were burdened by those who patronized the liquor selling places. The people of Canada. Sir Leonard Tilley had said, derived a revenue of $5,000,000 from liquor selling and it cost them $20,000,000 to collect it. The public would be better served and the country would be better if liquor selling was stopped and meals and lodging was paid for as boots were. They must not drop the Scott Act. He had met the Police Magistrate of Halton to-day. He asked him how things were in Halton, and the Magistrate replied "in a bad way" and expressed the opinion that Halton would re-adopt the Scott Act to-morrow if it could. The speaker urged his audience not to blot the law out, but to try to lift the people up to it. "Hold fast to the law," he said, "use what weapons you have, and in time you may get better."

While the collection was being taken up, Mr. Lucas urged the audience to attend next night. The attendance was not as large as it should have been, and he asked them all to come out again.

Rev. Mr. PARKER said they all believed the Scott Act was not enforced as it should be, but he hoped they would still vote for it, as with a license law as much liquor would be sold and unlicensed places would exist. He hoped they would have the Scott Act for another three years and soon have total prohibition.

The meeting closed with the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Torrance.

Personal.

Mr. J. Miller left this afternoon for Toronto, whe he will pursue his study of law in the office of a city firm.

The Toronto Mail says:—"Mr. Louis Beauford Stewart, land suveyor of Banff, N. W. Prof. Galbraith, who had charge of these duties heretofore, will in future devote himself chiefly to developing the work in applied mechanics. Two courses of lectures on different grades can now be established in different subjects which will render the work of the school more flexible." Mr. Stewart is well known in Peterborough, where he has a large number of friends and relatives. He was educated at the Peterborough schools and at the Port Hope High School. The position he has been appointed to is an important one and one he will worthily fill.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

THE HINDOO CONVERTS PROVE TO BE A BIG ATTRACTION.

Testimonies of the India Natives—An Immense Audience—John Carlisle Sends out an Officer—Other Subscriptions.

The Salvation Army meeting last night in connection with the anniversary celebration proved to be a "big go," and the proceedings were most interesting to the immense audience which filled the barracks. The presence and testimony of the Hindoo contingent was a novel departure, a similar feature only having been presented once before. Just considering the missionary aspect of the meeting it may truthfully be said that those people who take an interest in and who are giving of their means to support and aid in mission work would have gleaned considerable instruction from as well as greatly enjoyed the testimony of these converted Hindoos. There are three men and one lady in

THE CONTINGENT.

Major Musa Bhai has rather good features and possesses a very intelligent face. He speaks English fluently and sings well. The Major is the chief advocate of the Army mission in India. Lieut. Horatula is short in stature and has more of the pronounced Hindoo stamp on his face, but his "Hallelujah" and "Praise God," were always accompanied with a most happy expression of countenance. He speaks little English. Lieut. Devasepa has bushy black whiskers and is a well built man and sings in a rich, strong voice. Lieut. Muthatarunn is a high caste India lady and has a rather pleasing expression. She also speaks good English. Staff Capt. Leeds, the Scotch lady who has been living in India for twelve months past, was present. She has an expression on her pale face which speaks of the sacrifices and trials she has undergone on the burning sands of India. These were all dressed in native costume and Horatula carried his Oriental drum slung before him. There were also three others on the platform in Hindoo costume. These were Adj. Vanallen, Capt. Langert and Lieut. Wood, who have volunteered to go out to do battle in India.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

A large number of officers and soldiers from the district outposts were in town, and about 7.30 a procession was formed at the barracks and paraded the streets. A van surrounded by torches containing the Hindoo contingent led the procession, and was followed by the band. Then came the officers and soldiers. Many of the soldiers carried torches and transparencies, and singing and "volleys" enlivened the line of march. The barracks being reached an immense crowd of people besieged the doors and soon the commodious and attractive barracks was crowded to overflowing. The officers and soldiers took their places on the soldiers' gallery at the southern end of the building and Adjutant Bolton prepared the audience and soldiers for the entrance of Commissioner Coombs and the Hindoo contingent by asking that they be received with a "volley." Upon the appearance of the Commissioner, followed by Major and Mrs. Dawdle, Staff-Capt. Leeds and the Hindoo contingent the soldiers rose and volley after volley in quick succession was fired, the band joining in with loud blasts, and a more enthusiastic welcome could not have been given Lord Stanley.

On the platform were the following officers:—Commissioner Coombs, Toronto; Col. Dawdle and Mrs. Dawdle, England; Adj. VanAllen, Toronto; Adj. Philpott, Kingston; Lieut. Clark, Kingston; Lieut. Wood, Toronto; Capt. Langert, Toronto; Capt. Rowan, Tweed. While in the soldiers gallery the following visiting officers occupied seats:—Capt. McKee, Lieut. Smith, Bobcaygeon; Capt. Cameron, Cadet Junkin, Brighton; Capt. Gale, Lieut. Westmore, Campbellford; Capt. Smith, Cannington; Capt. Vale, Lieut. Pelett, Cobourg; Capt. Oram, Cadet Young, Fenelon Falls; Capt. Lightowler, Hastings; Capt. Wiggins, Lieut. Thompson, Kinmount; Capt. Grant, Lieut. Ball, Lakefield; Capt. Cook, Lieut. Stalliker, Lindsay; Lieut. Stockton, Cambray; Capt. Hotell, Cadet Laird, Millbrook; Capt. Webber, Norwood; Capt. Way, Oakwood; Capt. Kemp, Cadet Boyler, Omemee; Capt. Howell, Lieut. Omerod, Cadet Barr, Peterborough; Capt. Macklin, Lieutenant Barker, Lieut. Purdy, Port Hope; Capt. Carey, Lieut. McKinnon, Port Perry; Capt. Carwardine, Cadet Hendricks, Warkworth; Capt. Sandy, Omemee.

Commissioner Coombs spoke a few words of thanks and then announced the opening hymn, during the singing of which the Hindoos danced in their peculiar way to the music. Lieut. Horatula was asked to follow with prayer. The Hindoo delivered in a most earnest manner a brief prayer in Hindoo, being interpreted by Major Musa Bhai.

Commissioner Coombs and Major Dawdle followed with a duet, "Who's That Knocking at the Door," in the chorus of which the audience joined. The Commissioner then offered up a brief prayer.

Lieut. Horatula next sang "I have heard of a Saviour's love," in his native tongue. The Hindoo before beginning his song gave in very broken English a short testimony, and was aided in his speech by Commissioner Coombs. He said he was glad to meet the people and that he had got a religion that made him happy. He made an appeal in his simple but earnest manner that the light might be sent to his fellows, who were poor and could not pay the expenses of missionaries. The men worked eleven hours a day in his country and only got fifteen cents a day, and that sometimes in corn or rice, while the women only got six cents. A collection at a meeting in India was good when they got five cents.

Major Dawdle read a part of the 121st Psalm and most earnestly expounded on the truths contained therein, telling the way God had guided and preserved them in his work.

Lieut. Muthatarnun sang, in her native dialect the familiar hymn, "On the cross of Calvary," and then in good English spoke of the condition of her countrywomen and made an earnest appeal for help to rescue the suffering women of India. She represented the Zarenna women of southern India. There were special missions, she said, set apart for the Zarenna ladies of India, but the rules governing the women were so strict that they were not attended with much success. She thanked God that Jesus had saved her and was keeping her from sinning. Before she was saved she was afraid of dying and had never seen anybody who was living a good pure life. They were a most miserable people. But the Salvation Army had come to their home and told them there that they could all be saved and enjoy happiness. She had watched their deeds to see if they acted what they testified, and had been satisfied and had given her heart to God and was rejoicing. She said she could not by the laws of her country go out and speak to the people, and told how she was compelled to give up her jewels, which meant that she had become a widow or lost caste. She had been in the Army twelve months and was anxious to give this peace to her countrywomen, who were praying to the sun and moon and crying "Who will come and help us," and closed by begging those who had the advantages to sacrifice something for this work.

AN ADDRESS ON INDIA.

Major Musa Bhai sang a hymn in Hindoo and then delivered an address which for language and earnestness would do credit to many an educated Englishman. He said he felt his own unworthiness and weakness, but he was glad that his aim was only to glorify Jesus. No doubt the people when looking at their Oriental costume were reminded of the heathen country which they represented. The words of a converted heathen in speaking of the needs of his or her country possessed more force than the words of any one else. They represented more than 250,000,000 heathens out of the 800,000,000 on the earth. This was fifty times more than the population of Canada. All these people, he said, were sitting in darkness. Some might ask what sort of darkness? Was it a darkness to which the people wanted to stick? No. People in other lands seemed to have such a limited idea of what the heathen's religion was and what he wanted. They thought the heathen wanted a little civilization spiced with the nineteenth century religion to be a nation for God, but when they went to India they found men intelligent enough, even among the lowest classes, to stand their ground against the most educated clergymen. The Hindoos believed in a God, a heaven and hell, and thought there must be a change of heart and that was the reason they went to superstitions and worshipped idols and walked all the way to the Ganges to bath in what they called the holy river. They also wore wooden shoes with sharp spikes pointing upwards in them, going about beating their breasts and crying "O, God give us a change of heart." Others cut themselves and went about crying unto the God of creation for help. "Can your religion help them?" he asked, and if so would they not send it to his countrymen. Some would say they had missionaries. Yes, they had forty missionary societies, but they had done comparatively nothing. He then referred to the missionary work in India by the societies and said the work was not what what it should be among a nation that was under conviction. He attributed this lack of great success to the fact that a feeling of prejudice existed in the Hindoo mind against a foreigner dressed in European costume and to the ritual and service of the missioners of different denominations. What the Hindoo wanted was a practical religion. There was not a single converted heathen who held a responsible position in the churches—not one native bishop in India. There were two reasons given for this, first that the Hindoo was not intelligent enough and second that he COULD NOT BE TRUSTED.

The first had to be proven, and as regarded the second, he said that if a religion was which was called a true religion, could not make a man so that he could be trusted, it would be better to confine it to Canada. He did not wish to exalt any one nation, but simply to tell the truth, knowing that he would have to account for all he said to God. The Salvation Army not only confessed they were all one whether rich or poor, black or white, but put it to practical proof. The great success of the Army work done to the fact that the Salvationists lived as the natives did, walked in their bare feet, lived in huts, slept and ate as the Hindoos and presented a practical religion such as the Hindoo was longing to receive. He spoke to the bad influence the manner of living and habits of many of the European residents, who were worse than the natives themselves. In fact when a native or a Mohommaden began to drink brandy and eat beef, he said, they were called "Christians" and were not recognized, and this stood in the way of the success of the missionary society. He referred to the British soldiers and the bad effect their lives had on the natives who would hear them paying in service on Sunday and then acting like the devil himself all week.

There was a gulf between them and without this being bridged they could make no headway. The only way to accomplish this was to follow the example of the Saviour and go right among them and adopt their habits. In conclusion he addressed the three officers who had volunteered to go out and told them he guaranteed them no salary, no bungalow, no servants, but he would give them a new begging vessel with which they would have to beg their meals. These begging vessels are used by the priests and the Salvationists in begging their meals. They take one and stand in front of a house until it is filled with rice, when they make their meal and then use the vessel as a valise for carrying their traps in.

PETERBOROUGH SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Commissioner Coombs then stepped forward and stated that the twenty who had volunteered to go out to work in India would travel steerage. They done this so that instead of one officer going for $500 five might go steerage for the same amount. He then called upon any who would give $100 to send an officer to India to hold up their hand. One hand went up, that of Mr. John Carlisle. The Commissioner then stated that the expenses of an officer was $25 a year, and asked who would support an officer for a year. One lady gave $25 and then several other subscriptions of one and two dollars were handed in, amidst great rejoicing on the part of the Hindoos. Quite an amount was realized. Mr. Carlisle handed in his $100 and a volley was fired by the rejoicing soldiers.

A CONVERTED ROBBER.

Lieut. Horatula then gave his experience in Hindoo and was interpreted by Major Musa Bhai. He grew very earnest while speaking of his conversion and would gesticulate wildly, jump into the air, run up and down and could not fail but create amusement although the man's earnestness was most evident. He told how glad he was he had met the Army and spoke of his great happiness. His conversion took places under peculiar circumstances. He went to the house of a "leading man" with the intention of robbing the house, but found the Army people there and listened to their testimonies, and began to feel the power of the Lord and what a sinner he had been and finally was converted. His mother went to see the Army and was also converted, and out of the gang of twenty-five robbers of which he was chief, twenty-three had been saved and were now in the Army. After three and a half years he was still rejoicing.

Mrs. Dawdle offered up a fervent prayer and the meeting closed with the benediction.

There was an officers' council at 9 a. m. and 1.30 p.m. to-day and another meeting will beheld this evening in the barracks.

Unseated By a Girth.

A young lady while enjoying a canter accompanied by a young gentleman was thrown from her horse on the cemetery road near the Little Lake. The girth of the saddle became loosened and, the saddle slipping round, unseated the young lady none too gently. However, she arose from the dirt apparently uninjured, and after having the girth adjusted, made off again.

Brevities.

—The police on duty these nights have to exercise their lungs nor grain nor muscle. There were no arrests last night again.

—A butcher boy dropped a fine roast of beef out of the back of his cart on Simcoe-st., just in front of the Mayor's office, and drove on without noticing his loss. He probably scratched his head a little when he went to deliver his meat.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth it relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether rising from teething or otherwauses 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow'sSoothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

It is extremely interesting to visit some of the leading manufacturing houses in Toronto. Perhaps the most interesting and surprising of them all are the extensive Ornamental Stained Glass and Decorative works of the McCausland & Son. It is from this establishment that the finest windows have come for the principal edifices, throughout our country.

Don't Wait

Until your hair becomes dry, thin, and gray before giving the attention needed to preserve its beauty and vitality. Keep on your toilet-table a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor—the only dressing you require for the hair—and use a little, daily, to preserve the natural color and prevent baldness.

Thomas Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky., writes: "Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best hair-restorer in the world."

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delavan, Ill.; "but after using a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became black and glossy."

The Treasure of Franchard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

So it would, he perceived—it would be like his noble nature! Up jumped his spirits, triumphant at the thought. "Go, darling," he said nobly, "reassure him. The subject is buried; more—I make an effort, I have accustomed my will to these exertions—and it is forgotten."

A little after, but still with swollen eyes and looking mortally sheepish, Jean-Marie reappeared and went ostentatiously about his business. He was the only unhappy member of the party that sat down that night to supper. As for the doctor, he was radiant. He thus sang the requiem of the treasure:

"This has been, on the whole, a most amusing episode," he said. "We are not a penny the worse—nay, we are immensely gainers. Our philosophy has been exercised; some of the turtle is still left—the most wholesome of delicacies; I have my staff; Anastasie has her new dress; Jean-Marie is the proud possessor of a fashionable kepi. Besides, we had a glass of Hermitage last night; the glow still suffuses my memory. I was growing positively niggardly with that Hermitage—positively niggardly. Let me take the hint. We had one bottle to celebrate the appearance of our visionary fortune; let us have a second to console us for its occultation. The third I hereby dedicate to Jean-Marie's wedding breakfast.

CHAPTER VII.

THE FALL OF THE HOUSE OF DESPREZ.

The doctor's house has not yet received the compliment of a description, and it is now high time that the omission were supplied, for the house is itself an actor in the story, and one whose part is nearly at an end. Two stories in height, walls of a warm yellow, tiles of an ancient ruddy brown diversified with moss and lichen, it stood with one wall to the street in the angle of the doctor's property. It was roomy, draughty and inconvenient. The large rafters were here and there engraven with rude marks and patterns; the handrail of the stair was carved in countrified arabesque; a stout timber pillar, which did duty to support the dining room roof, bore mysterious characters on its darker side, runes, according to the doctor; nor did he fail, when he ran over the legendary history of the house and its possessors, to dwell upon the Scandinavian scholar who had left them. Floors, doors and rafters had made a great variety of angles; every room had a particular inclination; the gable had tilted toward the garden, after the manner of a leaning tower, and one of the former proprietors had buttressed the building from the side with a great strut of wood, like the derrick of a crane. Altogether, it had many marks of ruin; it was a house for the rats to desert; and nothing but its excellent brightness—the window glass polished and shining, the paint well scoured, the brasses radiant, the very prop all wreathed about with climbing flowers—nothing, but its air of a well tended, smiling veteran, sitting, crutch and all, in the sunny corner of a garden, marked it as a house for comfortable people to inhabit. In poor or idle management it would soon have hurried into the blackguard stages of decay. As it was, the whole family loved it, and the doctor was never better inspired than when he narrated its imaginary story and drew the character of its successive masters, from the Hebrew merchant who had re-edified its walls after the sack of the town, and past the mysterious engraver of the runes, down to the long headed, dirty handed boor from whom he had himself acquired it at a ruinous expense. As for any alarm about its security, the idea had never presented itself. What had stood for centuries might well endure a little longer.

Indeed, in this particular winter, after the finding and losing of the treasure, the Desprezes had an anxiety of a very different order, and one which lay nearer their hearts. Jean-Marie was plainly not himself. He had fits of hectic activity, when he made unusual exertions to please, spoke more and faster, and redoubled his attention to his lessons. But these were interrupted by spells of melancholia and brooding silence, when the boy was little better than unbearable.

"Silence," the doctor moralized—"you see, Anastasie, what comes of silence. Had the boy properly unbosomed himself, the little disappointment about the treasure, the little annoyance about Casimir's incivility, would long ago have been forgotten. As it is, they prey upon him like a disease. He loses flesh, his appetite is variable, and, on the whole, impaired. I keep him on the strictest regimen, I exhibit the most powerful tonics both in vain."

"Don't you think you drug him too much?" asked madame, with an irrepressible shudder.

"Drug!" cried the doctor; "I drug! Anastasie, you are mad!"

Time went on, and the boy's health still slowly declined. The doctor blamed the weather, which was cold and boisterous. He called in his confrere from Bourron, took a fancy for him, magnified his capacity, and was pretty soon under treatment himself—it scarcely appeared for what complaint. He and Jean-Marie had each to take medicine at different periods of the day. The doctor used to lie in wait for the exact moment, watch in hand. "There is nothing like regularity," he would say, fill out the doses, and dilate on the virtues of the draught; and if the boy seemed none the better, the doctor was not at all the worse.

Gunpowder day the boy was particularly low. It was scowling, squally weather. Huge broken companies of clouds sailed swiftly overhead; raking gleams of sunlight swept the village, and were followed by intervals of darkness and white, flying rain. At times the wind lifted up its voice and bellowed. The trees were all scourging themselves along the meadows, the last leaves flying like dust. The doctor, between the boy and the weather, was in his element; he had a theory to prove. He sat with his watch out and a barometer in front of him, waiting for the squalls and noting their effect upon the human pulse. "For the true philosopher," he remarked delightedly, "every fact in nature is a toy." A letter came to him, but as its arrival coincided with the approach of another gust he merely crammed it into his pocket, gave the time to Jean-Marie, and the next moment they were both counting their pulses as if for a wager.

At nightfall the wind rose into a tempest. It besieged the hamlet, apparently from every side, as if with batteries of cannon; the houses shook and groaned; live coals were blown upon the floor. The uproar and terror of the night kept people long awake, sitting with pallid faces giving ear.

It was 12 before the Desprez family retired. By 1.30, when the storm was already somewhat past its height, the doctor was awakened from a troubled slumber, and sat up. A noise still rang in his ears, but whether of this world or the world of dreams he was not certain. Another clap of wind followed. It was accompanied by a sickening movement of the whole house, and in the subsequent lull Desprez could hear the tiles pouring like a cataract into the loft above his head. He plucked Anastasie bodily out of bed.

"Run!" he cried, thrusting some wearing apparel into her hands; "the house is falling! To the garden!"

She did not pause to be twice bidden; she was down the stair in an instant. She had never before suspected herself of such activity. The doctor meanwhile, with the speed of a piece of pantomime business, and undeterred by broken shins, proceeded to rout out Jean-Marie, tore Aline from her virgin slumbers, seized her by the hand and tumbled down stairs and into the garden, with the girl tumbling behind him, still not half awake.

The fugitives rendezvoused in the arbor by some common instinct. Then came a bull's eye flash of struggling moonshine, which disclosed their four figures standing huddled from the wind in a raffle of flying drapery, and not without a considerable need for more. At the humiliating spectacle Anastasie clutched her night dress desperately about her and burst loudly into tears. The doctor flew to console her; but she elbowed him away. She suspected everybody of being the general public, and thought the darkness was alive with eyes.

BANKERS.—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce
SOLICITORS.—Dumble & Leonard.

TO DEPOSITORS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.

TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent. debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223.69, and on securities of at least double that value.

By the Laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS.—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate Security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest. WHAT CAN I AFFORD ?

Every day of the week this query is the preliminary part of nearly every purchase made. People will not have what requires a large outlay of money. Everybody seems to be at the mercy of an unaccommodating pocketbook.

What Are We Going to Do About It ?

In the very nature of things we have to do just what you want us to do. We are at your dictation in all matters that are regulated by the proportions of supply and demand. In short we will take for our goods which means our regular and low prices for every line in the shop.

We sell every needed article in the Line of Groceries and Housekeeping Supplies. With us, your money will go as far as it possibly can in purchasing goods. Give us your trade and make a trial.

JULY'S INLAND REVENUE.

A TOTAL OF $585,146 FOR THE MONTH.

Prof. Saunders' Estimate of the Loss Caused by the Early Frosts in Manitoba—A Schooner Seized for Smuggling.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—J. E. C. Bodley, formerly secretary to Sir James Dilke, is in the city. His visit to Canada is made with the view of studying our constitution in all its bearings. Mr. Bodley lunched with Hon. C. H. Tupper yesterday, and last evening dined with Sir John and Lady Macdonald.

Prof. Saunders of the Experimental Farm has made a careful enquiry into the damage done to the Manitoba wheat crop by the frosts. After a careful estimate made from reliable data he says 50 per cent. of the entire product has been frosted but the greater part of the affected grain will market at from 30 to 40 cents per bushel. It is conceded by prominent grain dealers in the west that the excess of export values this season will be something over $2,000,000, so that at the very worst the Manitoba farmers will have a good year. Experiments with the Ladoga wheat have been successful, and there is every prospect that ere long the farmers of the Northwest will be relieved of a great deal of anxiety now caused by the action of early frosts.

A schooner has been seized off Nova Scotia by Special Officer Bogue for smuggling. The offence seems to have been committed when the vessel was owned in Pictou, the present owners being entirely blameless.

Hon. John Costigan leaves Monday for New Brunswick to participate in the ceremony of turning the first sod of the Tobique Valley Railroad in the County of Victoria.

The Canadian Gazette to-day contains the balance sheet of the Bank of British North America for the year ending June 30, 1888.

The unrevised statement of Inland Revenue accrued during the month of July, 1888 is:

Spirits	$333,421
Malt	32,172
Malt liquor	6,327
Tobacco	152,463
Cigars	51,827
Petroleum inspections	1,743
Manufactures in bond	2,106
Seizures	161
Other receipts	5,015
Total	$585,146

Letters patent of incorporation have been issued to R. H. Smith & Co., with a capital stock of $75,000, to manufacture steel saws, etc., at St. Catharines.

The return of Mr. John Waldie for Halton is gazetted.

A proclamation is published disallowing the act to amend the law respecting District Magistrates, passed by the Quebec Legislature last session.

The Canada Accident Assurance Company has received a license to transact the business of accident insurance in Canada. H. O'Hara of Toronto is chief agent and the head office is also in Toronto.

Parliament is further prorogued until Oct. 29.

BURGLARS AT VALLEYFIELD.

One of the Thieves Leaves His Little Finger Behind.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—During the night from Saturday to Sunday last, some thieves broke into the store of Mr. John H Wilson, in Valleyfield. They blew open the door of the safe with powder and made their escape with some $100 in silver and bills. The little finger of one of the thieves was blown off by the explosion, and found on the floor. It is the only clue to the perpetrators. The police of Montreal and Sorel have received instructions to watch the movements of a certain Sorel man who was in Valleyfield on the night of the burglary.

A Train Wrecker's Confession.

CHATHAM, Sept. 15.—John McMaster and John Campbell, the two young men who were arrested last Monday charged with being implicated in the attempt at train-wrecking near Bothwell, were brought before the Police Magistrate yesterday morning. The only evidence against young Campbell was his own contradictory statements which he made to the officer when first placed under arrest, and he was allowed to go under suspended sentence. The evidence against the half-witted McMaster was conclusive enough to warrant the Magistrate in sending him for trial. He afterwards confessed that he was going to drive some cattle home, when he observed a pile of rails lying on the side of the track, and the thought struck him that it would be fun to slide one of them across the track and see the train try to run over it. He carried this momentary resolve into effect, and had no sooner done this than the freight came in sight. His first impulse led him to regret his action, and he immediately set to work to remove the obstruction. But he found it a more difficult job than sliding it on, and fear of detection made him give up the effort as the train neared and before he had removed the obstruction. The prisoner will most probably be removed to an inebriate asylum.

A RED HOT FIGHT IN PROGRESS.

Montreal East Liberals Choose A. E. Poirier as Their Standard-Bearer.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—At a meeting of Liberals and Nationalists last evening to select a party standard-bearer to contest Montreal East, Mr. A. E. Poirier was chosen. It will be remembered that at the last session of Parliament Mr. Poirier was dismissed from the post of Commons translator, largely through the influence of Mr. Chapleau, on the ground that he had insulted the French Ministers in the previous election campaign. Now he thinks he has his chance to get even with the Secretary of State, and believes he will be elected.

Both Mr. Laurier and Mr. Mercier were at the meeting and delivered speeches on topics of the times. The fight is going to be short, but it will be red hot from start to finish.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

The Hoffman House Suicide Declared to be Seebohm, the London Dramatist.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Hoffman House suicide is thought to be Edwin V. Seebohm, the London dramatist. Editor Fynes, of The Clipper, thinks this is so because he knew of the man and heard some months ago that he was going on a tour around the world from London. Mr. Fynes said yesterday: "The tab on the suicide's coat bore that name and one of the satchels bore the letter 'S,' while on a piece of underwear the letter 'E' was embroidered in red silk. I have little doubt but that it was poor Seebohm who killed himself," said Mr. Fynes in conclusion. Mr. Seebohm was a fair dramatist and the author of several plays. He is the author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which was produced at the Prince of Wales' Theatre, London, last February.

No Chance Against a Circus.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—It was only a little telegram—a very little telegram, in fact—but the frown on Senator Plumb's face darkened repeatedly as he sat in his seat and read and re-read it. It appears that the Senator and Representative Peters had agreed to address a political gathering at Wichita, Kan., on Sept. 17, on the issues of the day. It was their intention to leave today, but the telegram caused them to change their plans. This is what the telegram contained:—

"Don't come, Barnum's circus is billed for same day. You can buck against the Democrats successfully, but our people would rather go to h— than miss a circus. Better fix upon another date."

CASUALTY ON THE B. & O

A PASSENGER TRAIN JUMPS A SWITCH AT ANKNEYTOWN.

And Runs Into a Freight, the Engine of Which Explodes, Covering the Passengers with Steam and Hot Water.

MANSFIELD, O., Sept. 14.—The Baltimore and Ohio north-bound passenger train, No. 9, due at 5.55 a.m., jumped the switch this morning at Anknеytown siding, twenty-five miles south of this city, and collided with a freight train on the siding. The mail car, followed by the express car and two day coaches, struck the engine and rolled over on their sides, badly wrecked. Almost immediately the freight engine—a camel-back—exploded, throwing wreckage in all directions. The two coaches contained 110 passengers, nearly all returning from the encampment at Columbus. The hot water and steam from the boiler poured into the coaches and those passengers that had not been hurt by broken timbers were scalded.

The engine of the passenger train, which with two express cars had safely passed the switch, was immediately taken to Independence and Belleville and the doctors in those places were taken to the wreck. All but four or five were out of the broken coaches when the doctors arrived. Mrs. Edward Valentine of Chicago and F. Luckens, the express agent, were firmly pinned under the wreck. Harry Tomlinson, the freight engineer, was standing on the side track next to the passenger train and was found between the engine and boiler of his engine with the front part of his head blown off. He was unmarried and resided with his mother at Newark. David Wilson, the baggage master, was found all doubled up alongside of the freight train with his neck broken and skull crushed. He leaves a wife and two children at Sandusky. Mrs. Edward Valentine of Chicago and William Grinsley of Shawnee, a brakeman on the freight train, cannot live. The dead men were laid on cots alongside of the track and the wounded were taken to houses near by.

The wrecked train consisted of engine, two express cars, two day coaches and two sleeping cars. The only persons injured were in the day coaches. The sleepers did not leave the track. The injured number 32, three of whom are likely to die.

MORE ABOUT HINDOOS.

A PETERBOROUGH YOUNG LADY WHO GOES TO INDIA.

The Hindoos draw Another Immense Crowd—More Money Raised for the Work—Addresses by the Natives

Shortly after seven o'clock last evening the Salvationists again paraded, headed by the Hindoo contingent, and the noise of the enthusiastic soldiers could be heard a considerable distance farther then they could be seen. The order of procession was the same as on Thursday night and the crowd that was on the streets was far greater. As the parade turned up Simcoe-st. on its way to the barracks a rush was made by the crowd for that building and a regular jam took place at the entrance. The seating capacity of the edifice proved to be inadequate and a large number were compelled to rest themselves during the services by standing. The soldiers' gallery was crowded with blood and fire warriors and the platform was occupied by the Commissioner, Major Dawdle and the Hindoo contingent, the first named officer having charge of the meeting.

The proceedings were much the same as on Thursday night, and, as on that occasion, the appearance of the Commissioner and Hindoos was the signal for the most uproarious volley firing. Mrs. Dawdle opened the meeting with a fervent prayer and a hymn was then sung. Capt. Grant, of Lakefield, sang in a sweet voice a hymn, and was assisted in the chorus by the soldiers.

A VOLUNTEER FOR THE WORK.

Adj. Vanalien, of Toronto, was then called forward by the Commissioner and was introduced by Major Musa Bhai as an officer who had volunteered to go out into the India work. The Major said he would promise his friend no salary, no bungalow, but would guarantee him a begging vessel with which he could beg his meals. Adj. Vanalien made a brief address in which he said he was glad God had given him the power to do His bidding. It was just as hard for him to throw off all his old customs and adopt the Hindoo dress and habits as it would be for any of the audience, but he had the power given from God and could go out in the fear of Him.

Lieut. Horatula, the little man who seems to be made of India rubber and whose movements are as quick as a cat's, sang a native song and accompanied himself on his oriental drum. The air was as wild and unmusical to the ears of the listeners as his words were unintelligible.

The song of Horatula was followed by the testimony of Lieut. Devasepa, whose words were interpreted by Major Musa Bhai and who introduced the lieutenant as an ex-leader of the Buddhist Salvation Army. Devasepa said he praised the Lord for the opportunity to speak to them. Before he met the Salvation Army he had not known that there was a God, as he had been a Buddhist and, therefore, an infidel. He told how, when the army came to his village, he had persecuted them and tried to drive them from the place, but could not succeed. He finally adopted the plan of forming a Buddhist Salvation Army and it was while trying to find out how to carry on his meetings by attending the Salvation Army that he was saved. It was nearly two years ago, he said, and he was still praising God.

THE SCOTCH-HINDOO.

Commissioner Coombs then introduced Staff-Capt. Leeds, as the Scotch-Hindoo lady. Staff-Capt. Leeds said this was a large meeting but in India her experience was that ever night the hall was crowded and the people were listening on the streets to hear a little about the God of the Salvation Army. She could not tell what a wonderful work the Army had done in India, but she had brought some of the fruits in the persons of her dear comrades. She spoke of the terrible condition of the Zeanna ladies who, when the Army first went to India, were not allowed to hold communication with any one, not even a doctor, but she said that since the Army went there and adopted the Hindoo habits and dress they had been able to go into their houses and were doing a good work. She said the object of her visit was to get volunteers for the field and made a most earnest appeal to her auditors to help in this work.

A PETERBOROUGH CONVERT FOR INDIA.

Captain Mary Langtry was then introduced. Miss Langtry has a sweet face and voice, but looks rather delicate for the labor and sacrifice for which she has volunteered. She was one of Peterborough's first converts and Commissioner Coombs called her the Canadian Hindoo. The Captain made a short address, telling of her happiness in the work. Peterborough had been her starting place in her new life and now, as this was the first town she had visited with the contingent, Peterborough was her starting point for India. Her heart had gone out to the suffering millions in India. She closed by asking the prayers of all Christians in her behalf.

Major Musa Bhai, the Hindoo orator, delivered another powerful address in behalf of his benighted countrymen. The one object of his life, he said, was to work for Jesus, and he told of the great joy and happiness he experienced in the work. When a heathen was converted he went in for Jesus body and soul and he gave an incident showing how, when once under the power, the converted heathen was true to his Jesus under the greatest trials. He could give many such instances proving this fact and he would ask if such people were not worth saving. He referred to the immoral lives of the British soldiers in India, and he said as that country was a British colony, Canadians had an interest in it and if they had any sympathy in them they would aid in the work of saving his countrymen. He called for all those who would volunteer to go out as crusaders against the darkness of of India to rise up. Six males and one female soldiers responded to the call.

GOOD SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Commissioner Coombs then asked if there was a person present who would pay the steerage passage ($100) of Capt. Langtry to India. To this there was no response. He then asked if anyone would give half the the passage ($50), but again no hand was raised. Then he called for $25, the expences of an officer in India for one year, and there were three responses—Mrs. Nathan Taylor, Mrs. S. A. Davis and Mr. D.W. Dumble each volunteering to support an officer for a year. Several one and two dollar donations were recived and a collection was also taken up to aid the fund.

Lieut. Horatula in broken English gave a short testimony. His command of English enabled him to talk something like this: "Good Jesus; very good Jesus: hallelujah! Jesus very good; come get saved."

Lieut. Mutharanun gave an exhibition of a Hindoo dance, which consisted of going round in a circle to the time of a rather unmusical song. She gave a short testimony after her song.

Lieuts. Horatula and Devasepa gave a Hindoo dance, the step in which differed slightly from our waltz and the singing accompaniment of which sounded rather wilder than the ordinary concert singing. Horatula told the audience in his native tongue, Major Musa Bhai interpreting, that this was a dance and song of praise to God that they gave in India to attract people to listen to them. In a most forcible and gesticulating manner he told of his conversion.

The audience rose and sang "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," and the meeting closed with the benediction.

The Commissioner and the Hindoos went to Toronto to-day and quiet and something like tranquility will again reign in Army circles.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and nobby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good clothes are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so far in knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its goods cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Changes.

The Marmora correspondent of the News Argus says:—"This is a world of changes. A. J. Hipperson, who has spent three years here in the tinsmith and hardware business, has disposed of it to the Dempsey Bros., who are well known in these parts. Mr. Bettes, who worked for Mr. Hipperson, has gone to Peterborough. It is also rumored that P. H. Pearce and his father-in-law Mr. Aaron Cox, of Peterborough, have bought the business of J. W. Pearce, who will in future look after the lumbering interests of himself and T. P. Pearce."

Transatlantic Business.

Messrs. Porter Bros., carriage makers, are establishing a good business on the other side of the ocean as a result of the recent visit of Mr. James Stewart, the bookkeeper of the firm. While there Mr. Stewart arranged with Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Glasgow, Scotland, to act as agent for the firm and Messrs. Porter Bros. have received from him an order for a dozen of their O.B. & S. carts. This is a good order, but is believed to be only the commencement of an extended European business, for, in addition to the sales in Scotland, Mr. Thompson writes that he intends to introduce the carts into England and push them there. He believes they will do a large trade in them in both countries, as the carts have taken well. The dozen carts will be shipped by the Allan line on Sept. 19th. This is another evidence of the enterprise and push of the firm of Porter Bros., who continue to do a good business, and they will endeavor to get a good hold on this European trade. The extended business will, in addition to the direct benefit to the firm, be of advantage to the town and country.

THE SCOTT ACT.

Rev. Mr. Lucas Talks About the Success of the Act.

There was a small attendance at the lecture room of St. Paul's Church on Friday evening when the Rev. D. V. Lucas gave his fourth lecture. The Rev. E. F. Torrance presided. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, Dr. Fife leading in prayer.

Rev. Mr. LUCAS said he proposed to say something about the successes of the Scott Act. He referred to the educational work temperance people were required to do. The Scott Act, he said, had done good and would continue to do so if they used it to the best advantage. In Halton, where he was born and reared, he had seen the effect of the taverns. There had only been three murders in that county since it was organized, and everyone of them was the result of liquor. One brother shot another while drunk, and when the wounded brother recovered he shot his own daughter on the doorstep. One died in the penitentiary, the other came out and soon after shot his wife and beat the brains out of another woman. Another man shot a girl and another killed his mother. All these were the result of the traffic. He also spoke of suicides in the county and other outcomes of liquor. They should not circumscribe their judgement by judging general principles from what they saw themselves. When this Act had been in force three years in Halton, he found that in Wentworth there had been 1736 persons convicted of crime, in Wellington 573, and in Halton, where the Act had been in force, only 39. In Wentworth there had been 666 convictions for being drunk and disorderly, in Wellington 235, and in Halton only 3. He combatted the argument that the Scott Act was only prohibition for a county by telling a story the point of which was that one prohibition county was better than none, and that it might lead others to adopt the law. In Fredricton, N.B., they had had the Scott Act for ten years. It had increased the value of property; he never saw a more orderly people than in Fredricton and he did not see a drunken person there. There had been violations of the law, as there had been violations of the law against murder, but there was not as much liquor drunk as before. The consumption of liquor in the Dominion had decreased by two million gallons and the decrease of revenue had necessitated a higher tax on tobacco. In Brockville six months after the Scott Act was adopted the police, he was told, had nothing to do, and the fine had been reduced one half. The Christian community ought to combine and see that the law was enforced. In Halton the Scott Act had improved the moral tone of the county and decreased crime 60 per cent. The Scott Act had been the means of making men sober, and had decreased the treating custom. He urged them to hold to the Act.

Rev. Mr. Torrance pronounced the benediction and the audience dispersed.

A NOCTURNAL BLAZE.

Sheds Burned and two Hous's Badly Damaged.

The first fire that has called the services of the brigade into requisition for some time took place last night. The alarm was sounded shortly before eleven o'clock, just as the crowd was coming from the Salvation Army meeting, and the brilliant illumination attracted an immense concourse of people to the scene. The fire broke out in a woodshed attached to the roughcast house on Hunter-st., just west of Bethune st., occupied by Mrs. Mayhew. The fire was not observed until it had obtained a good start and the building, which was an old one, went up with a sudden puff. The brigade turned out promptly, but before their arrival the row of sheds were a mass of seething flame. It was thought that the large roughcast house on the corner of Bethune and Hunter-sts., which was unoccupied, and the dwelling house to which the shed belonged would also fall victims to the flames, but when the firemen got two powerful streams to play on the burning mass they soon had it under control. The brigade are entitled to much credit for the effectual way in which they did their work. The two adjacent houses were badly damaged, the water causing the most, but the firemen succeeded in confining the fire almost entirely to the shed.

The property is known as the Rowe estate, but Mrs. H. Grundy had just completed the purchase of both houses, at least the bargain was to have been completed to-day, and, as the preliminaries had all been arranged, the property practically belongs to Mrs. Grundy. The sheds destroyed were probably worth about $150 and the damage to the two dwellings may be in the neighborhood of $1,000. The loss will be covered by insurance. Mrs. Mayhew will be a slight loser, as her furniture and effects were all hustled out into the street and are, therefore, more or less damaged.

The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary.

The "Y."

The regular meeting of the "Y" will be held in their hall, George-st., on Monday evening the 17th inst., at 7.30. Old and new members cordially welcomed.

A Threshing Record.

Mr. Andrew Young has made a record for himself among the farming community. On Friday, Sept. 4th, at the farm of Mr. A. Carver in North Monaghan, he thresbed in one hour of the morning 156 boxes of fall wheat, and during the remainder of the forenoon, 77 boxes of barley and 435 boxes of oats.

Institute Literary Society.

The first exercises in connection with the Collegiate Institute Literary Society were held on Friday afternoon, when an hour was devoted to the programme Miss O'Brien and Master McWilliams each read an essay, and Miss Brown and Sergt.-Major Rundle gave readings. A debate took place on the subject, "Resolved, that Novel Reading is Productive of More Harm than Good." The judges were Miss Ames and Messrs. Dodds and Sargent. The debaters were, on the affirmative Messrs. Elmhirst and A. Carveth; on the negative, Misses Dover and Fife. The decision was in favor of the negative. The next debate will be held on Thursday afternoon.

Central Fair Decorations.

Here is the opportunity to make a fine impression. Large numbers of strangers will visit town during the Central Fair Let the town look its best. Clap on holiday attire. A pleasing feature of the decorations could be made by merchants brightening up the upper windows and fronts of their premises. The lower story—it may be remarked—will be generally well attended to, including Gough Bros., who are alive to the benefit of making a good impression, and just now boots and shoes are the goods they are pushing. The stock is splendid and new. $6,000 worth of boots and shoes now being sold to the public at prices within reach of the lightest pocket. Mens', womens' and childrens' boots and shoes of all kinds form the attraction. Everybody has the buying fever and nothing will cure it but a visit to Gough Bros., 375 George-st. Marvellous bargains. Stock bought at 40 cents on the dollar, as good as gold, and sold at the same cheap rates. The goods are first-rate quality; nothing is cheap but the prices. Come and see at 375 George-st.

Janauschek.

This great tragic actress will appear at Bradburn's Opera House Friday evening, Sept. 21st, in her greatest success, "Meg Merrilies." This great play is a dramatization of Sir Walter Scotts famous novel "Guy Mannering," and as a drama it is worthy of its celebrated author. Janauschek is conceded by all the critics of America to be the greatest exponent of the heroic school now on the stage. The company is first-class in every respect and numbers some eighteen ladies and gentlemen of recognized ability. We clip the following from the Philadelphia News:—"Meg Merrilies" is identified in the mind of most American play-goers with the fame of the greatest of American actresses, Charlotte Cushman, whose greatest character in her latter days was the Gypsy heroine of Scott's novel. Such a character as "Meg" is limited in its range and provides less scope for variety of presentation than most well known dramatic heroines. If this were not the case, and if Cushman had not already pre-empted the reputation to be achieved by a performance of "Meg," Mme. Janauschek's performance of the same character at the Chestnut-Street Opera House last night would entitle her to the same credit Cushman won. In fact Mme. Janauschek's performance is all the better for standing comparison with Cushman. It was a great performance, resembling, but unlike Cushman's. The great Czech actress puts more tenderness and human sympathy into the character and was less a witch in appearance than Miss Cushman. There have been few greater bits of acting or of elocution than Mme. Janauschek's rendering of the famous lullaby. In fact, the whole conception and performance were marked by a clear, vigorous and intense sympathy which found its highest expression in her desire to be laid to rest at the door of her ruined sheiling. The play was produced with the songs and music which give it the character of a musical melodrama, and its quaintness had a pleasant flavor. Mme. Janauschek was loudly cheered and recalled several times." 1d63

THE VETERANS VICTORIOUS.

The Colts Fail to Bat Hard Enough—Another Game to be Played.

The Colts and Veterans played another match game of cricket yesterday, which resulted in a victory for the "Vets," by a score of 120 to 66. The Veterans went to bat first and ran up their 120 in very good style, Quirk succeeding in making the top score with 27 runs opposite his name. Salisbury made a nice 21 and Minore stayed in for 18. The bowling of the Colts may be seen by a reference to the analysis. The Colts went to bat with the feeling that they were beaten, but managed to run up 66 runs before their last wicket fell. The bowling of Stirling, Minore and Parker for the Veterans was fair and the Colts went out in quick order although Hamilton and Anderson each secured 17 runs and Hay 15. The analysis of the Veterans' bowling was not kept. The score was as follows:—

More Prizes at the Provincial

In addition to the prizes won at the Provincial Exhibition, Kingston, previously mentioned in the REVIEW, Mr. Timothy Walsh, of Asphodel, won two first prizes for butter, and Mr. S. Staples, of Cavan, took first prize with his coach stallion "Lord Sudley." Mr. Jas. Redmond sold, while at Kingston, his two year old shorthorn bull "Oliver Mowat" to Mr. James Russell, of Richmond Hill.

Railway Notes.

The Lindsay Post says:—"The workmen in the G. T. R. shops at Lindsay presented Mech. Supt. J. D. Barnett with a highly complimentary and finely-illuminated address Tuesday evening on the occasion of his removal from this division to Stratford. Mr. Barnett's relations with the men have always been most pleasant and satisfactory. Mr. Barnett is promoted to a most responsible position, probably the second in the mechanical service of the company, a position for which his fine scientific attainments as well as practical skill renders him admirably fitted. Mr. Storer presided on the occasion of the presentation. The address was read by Mr. McAdam. A few neat speeches were made. The greatly increased traffic on the Midland resulting from the purchase of the Northern has necessitated the enlargement of the engine house at Lindsay the first year after its completion. The old Victoria round house is being pulled down and the brick removed to the engine house for the purpose of building an L, or addition to the northern side to be used for offices and store-rooms. These are now under the main roof and removal to the wing will give considerable more room. The day is not far distant when another enlargement will have to be made into which the machinery can be moved, so as to provide more room, or a few hundred feet will have to be added to the length of the building so as to provide sufficient stable room for the iron horses that here do congregate, and that now have to be left outside."

Tents for Port Perry Fair.

At many of the largest and most important American fairs the practice of erecting large buildings to cover in exhibits is being discontinued. Instead, use is made of large tents which serve the purpose of shelter and can be removed from the destructive effects of the weather when not required. This plan seems to be coming into use in Ontario for this week Mr. J. J. Turner, the local tent and awning man, received an order which he is now executing for the directors of the Port Perry Exhibition. Two large tents are required over 40x60 ft. and one 14x30 ft. These are to be shipped as soon as completed and will serve well their turn and Turner.

Personal.

Mr. J. E. Flewwelling, who has been editor of the Canadian Lumberman for the past two months, left town to-day to take charge of the editorial department of the Chatham Planet.

The Lindsay Post says that at the annual meeting of the Woman's Mission Circle of the Baptist Church of that town "the Rev. P. Clifton Parker, of the Peterborough church took the chair and delivered a short opening address in his usual happy manner."

The Lindsay Warder says:—"The many friends of Captain Hill, of Peterborough, general agent of the Sun Life Insurance Company, will regret to learn of his illness. Captain Hill attended the rifle matches in Toronto, but the first day complained of illness. He also with several other fine fellows from Peterborough attended the Ottawa matches, but was so ill as to have to return. We trust he may speedily recover from the fever."

THE Featherbone Corset is guaranteed to give perfect ease to the wearer. O. G. Rowse has the sole agency for Peterborough. d62tf

Don't Wait

Until your hair becomes dry, thin, or gray before giving the attention needed to preserve its beauty and vitality. Keep on your toilet-table a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor—the only dressing you require for the hair—and use a little daily, to preserve the natural color and prevent baldness.

Thomas Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky., writes: "Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best hair-restorer in the world."

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delavan, Ill.; "but, after using a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, it became black and glossy."

THE TIMES ON "TRUSTS."

COMBINES AS A FACTOR IN UNITED STATES POLITICS.

The Thunderer Denies Blaine's Statement About Trusts in England—The Cobden Club and the Presidential Election.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The Times takes "Trusts" as a subject for a leader. It begins: "A question in the presidential campaign, which has started into great importance, is the attitude of the two great parties in the United States toward trusts or combines—those modern forms of commercial monopoly beneath which consumers both in the United States and in Canada are groaning. Mr. Blaine has declared in an off-hand way that combines are largely private affairs with which the public has nothing to do, but in this opinion Mr. Blaine will find few supporters amongst his own party. As for the Democrats their position is well defined in President Cleveland's last manifesto. Both parties are pledged to attempt to break down the great combines.

"The only difference in principle between the Democrats and the Republicans seems to be that the Democrats assert that a high tariff makes trusts possible and resolutely refuse to attack them by special legislation. The Republicans answer that the greatest monopolies in the country are those not affected by the tariff—the Standard Oil, the Western Union telegraph and the anthracite coal combination companies. The whole field of commerce in the States is now honeycombed with these trusts. No industry is too vast and few too humble to repel trusts. There are petroleum, cotton, steel rail, coal, wheat, whisky, lard, milk and salt trusts, and even an ice trust."

The Times then gives an admirable history of trusts with a capital catalogue of them, and thus concludes: "Mr. Blaine informed a Republican audience the other day that England was plastered over with trusts, yet the 'combine' has not yet obtained any appreciable footing in this country."

Nobody here appears to have heard of the existence of such a paper as The English Iron Era, quoted in Republican campaign circulars in the States as saying: "The Cobden Club is trying to raise a large sum of money to be spent in furthering the free trade propaganda in the United States. Lord Brassey has given £1000, others less, and the hat is going round." Certainly it is not mentioned in the latest press directories.

Of course there is no truth in the statement that the Cobden Club is raising money to further free trade in the United States. On the question whether the adoption of free trade by other nations would be beneficial or not to England, the members of the Cobden Club are divided. Many think, and the opinion is shared by that eminent free trader Mongredien, that England will positively be benefited by being the only free trade nation.

The current number of Iron has no reference to the American tariff. Indeed, the English trade papers generally seldom refer to the subject.

In view of the excitement created by the publication of an alleged statement by Michael Davitt, the publication of an explanation of the bogus interview would seem to be in order. When Frank Hugh O'Donnell was preparing his case against The Times his solicitor wrote to Davitt requesting him to write a succinct history of his connection with Fenianism, Parnellism, etc., in order that O'Donnell might judge of the character of the evidence Davitt would give if he should be called as a witness in the plaintiff's behalf. Davitt complied with the request and was not summoned as a witness for obvious reasons. When O'Donnell's case collapsed Davitt's statement was filed away in the solicitor's office with a mass of other unused documents. During the absence of the solicitor on a holiday trip one of the clerks in his office made a copy of Davitt's letter and sold it to a news agency, which published it as an interview. This explanation is authorized by Davitt, who is now in London completely fagged out from his recent labors.

John Morley has gone to Hawarden at Gladstone's request to consult with the ex-premier concerning Davitt's attitude, and an effort will probably be made to induce the latter to specifically define his position to the leaders in order that they may know positively whether he may be regarded as a friend or an enemy.

Explosion of a Powder Magazine.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 15.—Yesterday afternoon the magazine on Two Brothers' Island, Esquimalt, exploded, sending up a dense volume of smoke, and demolishing the wooden building. Stored in the magazine were 300 pounds of powder in cartridges, 22 shells charged, and eight not charged, together with a quantity of fuse and gun tackle. The fire was caused through the keeper burning brush on the island. No one was injured.

Forger Dingman Remanded.

PRESCOTT, Sept. 15.—C. L. Dingman, who is under arrest at Ogdensburg charged with forging orders for fruit trees on Stone & Wellington of Toronto, was remanded again yesterday until to-day. Extradition has been applied for.

The Seal Catch.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Sept. 15.—The sealing schooner Triumph has arrived at Victoria from Behring's Sea with 2500 skins. She reports seal plentiful but the weather during most of the trip was very rough. An American cutter came alongside the schooner once but made no attempt at seizure. The American gunboat Thetis was also sighted near Ouraa. It is expected that all British Columbian vessels will make good catches this season.

We know of no mode of treatment which offers, to sufferers from chronic diseases, a more certain hope of cure than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, this preparation is unequaled

Poisoned With Toadstools.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Edward Perryman, of Toronto, who has been staying in the city on a visit, has died from eating toadstools. Mrs. Perryman went to market on Saturday and purchased some mushrooms, which she brought to the house where she was staying. On Sunday she took ill. Dr. Cousens was called in at once and suspected the true state of affairs, but in spite of every effort the unfortunate woman died in terrible agony. The remains were taken to Toronto. The police are looking after the party who sold the supposed mushrooms.

Fined for Diluting Milk.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 15.—W. G. Wilson, of East Zorra, appeared at the Police Court here yesterday afternoon, charged with supplying milk diluted with water to the East Zorra and Blandford factory. Wilson, who is a wealthy farmer, acknowledged having added to the milk which he sent to the factory the rinsings of the milk pails, amounting to from a pint to a quart. The lactometer, however, showed a greater proportion of water than could be accounted for by the presence of the rinsings. He was fined $50 and costs.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION IN A CLEVELAND FLOURING MILL.

Two Employes Known to Have Lost Their Lives—Four Others Severely Burned and Injured—Seven Men Missing.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16.—A fatal explosion occurred at the mill of the National Milling Company, on Merwin-street, early Saturday morning. The mill took fire and was destroyed, entailing a loss of $125,000, on which there was an insurance of $75,000. There were eighteen men in the mill at the time of the explosion. One, Peter Geirman, perished in the flames. Four others, Joe Vamiel, Wm. Straw, Sterling Barber and John Blake, were seriously burned and injured. Six men escaped without injury. Seven others are unaccounted for, and it is thought at least three of them are dead in the ruins.

A $100,000 Blaze at Spokane Falls, Wash. T.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 17.—A disastrous fire occurred at Spokane Falls, Wash. T., Saturday night. The flames were first discovered in a small chop house and despite the most strenuous efforts of the fire department, the fire spread with great rapidity. Over a block was destroyed. The loss is about $100,000, with an insurance of $25,000. No one was injured.

Furniture Factory Burned.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 17.—Roseman & Roeder's furniture factory at Tacoma was destroyed by fire Saturday night. Loss $40,000; insurance, $8000.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—At 8.30 this evening fire broke out in a building owned by John McWhorter in the fourth ward. It was occupied by Francis Flood and his family. Spokane Falls' Big Blaze.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 15.—Fire last night at Spokane Falls, W. T., destroyed fourteen frame business houses and dwellings. Large brick business blocks and hotels in the vicinity were slightly damaged.

Two Women Wedded.

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 15.—A supposed man named Miller, who with his alleged wife and child had lived near Sioux City, Ia., several years, was convicted last May of horse stealing and sent to Fort Madison. In the hospital there it was discovered that Miller was in fact a woman and she was sent to the Anamosa Prison. Miller's reputed wife was hunted up and the child supposed to be hers was found to be the child of people named Moe. It was taken from her and restored to its parents. The woman claims to have married the Miller woman, supposing she was a man, and to have lived with her as a wife to cover up the Miller woman's deception.

He Was Mortal Like Other Men.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 15.—Word has been received here by cable that Bishop David D. Patterson, head of the religious sect known as the Children of Zion and founder and pastor of the church in this city, died in Southern France Thursday morning, while on his way from Palestine to Glasgow. The church called Bishop Patterson the "Eye of Jehovah" and one of the sect's strong beliefs was that he would never die. He leaves a widow and four children in this city.

A Very Pious Ruffian.

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 16.—Peter Rodenhauer, who barricaded himself in his house Friday night and, with a Winchester rifle and two shot guns, defied arrest for violation of the fishing laws, has been captured. He is a devout churchman and started yesterday morning to say his prayers at St. Francis church. He was armed with his double barreled shotgun, but at an unguarded moment he was seized and disarmed. At a preliminary examination he was sent to jail in default of $5000 bonds.

Colored Ravisher Lynched.

RALEIGH, N.C., Sept. 17.—A mob composed of 100 negroes entered the jail at Whiteville, Columbia county, last night, having the jailer at the muzzles of their revolvers to give up the keys, and took out Sherman Farrier, colored, and hanged him. He was accused of outraging Mrs. Sasser, an aged white woman, on Aug. 26. On his breast a card was pinned with the words: "We will protect our women. Beware!"

A Supposed Dynamiter Caught.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Charles J. Bodenieck is held in the Central Station on the charge of having in his possession a quantity of explosive matter without being able to show any license. LONDON POLITICAL NEWS

BOTH SIDES GETTING READY FOR THE HUSTINGS.

Talk about a Conservative Change of Leadership—The Parnell Enquiry Began—No Clue to the Recent Murders.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—London after being emptier than usual during the past three weeks, begins to fill again. Political gossip is again rife, the autumn campaign on both sides being organized. Nobody has made speeches on the Unionist side since Parliament rose, save the Duke of Rutland. Mr. Gladstone has been almost alone on the Home Rule side. This week all this will be changed. Lord Hartington's party have organized a great agitation and everybody in the party who can speak has been pressed into service, the leaders for great political demonstrations, the minor men for clubs and rural meetings.

The Gladstonian agitation begins after the meeting of the Birmingham Liberal Federation, a few weeks later. The arrangements respecting it have been somewhat disturbed by Mr. Davitt's unexpected appeal. It was originally intended, with Mr. Parnell's consent, that the agitations in England and Ireland should be conducted on separate lines, incidents of coercion being used in Ireland as well as evictions. Mr. Davitt and Mr. O'Brien, joined, I am told, by the Sullivans, agreed that the movement must show greater solidity, and that resistance to evictions must be approved and aided by English oratory. The temporary reluctance on the Gladstonian side is likely to be overcome, and, in consequence, the case of the Irish tenants will again be taken up by the Gladstonians. Much personal feeling has been caused by the incident, the Gladstonian land-owners being still reluctant to accept the Plan of Campaign. But the irritation will wear off, and Mr. Davitt will practically have his own way. Mr. Davitt feared that the Gladstonian line would discourage resistance to evictions. His protest will, using his own language, "remove the handcuffs and substitute the shield for them."

Mr. Smith, returning to town, was not found very eager for Parliamentary duty, but ready to go on, no successor to him being discoverable, unless Lord Hartington agrees to resign his independence. The Tories will not have Mr. Goschen and at present prefer Mr. Balfour, who swears he will not leave Ireland until his task is accomplished or his failure clear. Lord Hartington is sagely silent and is likely to remain so until the crisis actually occurs. There is no truth in the rumors that Mr. Smith is to go to the Upper House and that Mr. Goschen is to take his place, nor is there any ground for saying that Sir Michael Hicks Beach is to become a peer. He is too poor for a peerage.

It will be an odd result of all this talk and trouble, if Lord Randolph Churchill comes back. He and Lord Hartington have had some communings together lately. Lord Hartington once did not trust him politically, but is now said to be almost an admirer of Lord Randolph's audacity and pluck, and may even recommend him to Lord Salisbury for re-entrance into the Cabinet.

The preliminary meeting of the Parnell Commission was held on Monday in a most inconvenient court, too small even for the press. A decision is to be taken as to the order of proceedings. Sir Henry James is not, I hear, to appear actively in the case, being the Attorney-General at the time of the Kilmainham Treaty and the Phœnix Park murder. He knows officially too much, and is responsible for advice as to many things denounced by The Times as improper. The inquiry will take at least three months. Mr. Parnell himself demands a Commission of Inquiry to go to America, and taking evidence abroad will greatly delay the result.

There is not the slightest clue to the Whitechapel murders, and the new Chief of Detectives is attacked as unfit for his post. Dr. Anderson is full of apocalyptic sentiments, a very good, tender-hearted mystic, but not the man to discover or inspire Lecocq. Sir Charles Warren is also attacked, but he says he means to hold on, even if a colonial appointment is offered to him. Mr. Matthews' resignation is demanded very vigorously, but there is not the slightest idea of getting it. The town meanwhile is settling down to regard Whitechapel as too distant greatly to disturb it. In the East End, however, the panic is producing a crop of extraordinary stories—men with repulsive aspects who peer at children and show the gleam of knives from their pockets. There is great relief at the discovery to-day that no new crime has been committed. It was half expected the murderer would choose last night for a new piece of fiendish cruelty.

TO RESCUE STANLEY.

Various Plans Discussed in London—News of Disaster Expected Daily.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Ministers within reach are likely to meet in informal cabinet almost immediately to consider the Congo expedition. Major Barttelot was a young man, not so well known in society as either his elder brother or his father. But Sir Walter is known to everybody, and the fate of his gallant son moved society to the core. There is a great unofficial discussion as to the amount of assistance England lends to the expedition. The initiative is with King Leopold in the Congo business; it is his experiment. There is no news of measures likely to be taken by him. The English endowment for Mr. Stanley comes from a private association of wealthy people, known as the Emin Bey Relief Committee, the largest subscriber to which is Lady Burdett-Coutts. It is probable that a new expedition will be organized, in part by this committee, with the assistance but without the formal responsibility of the War Office in London. Mr. Stanley's fate is regarded, outside a very small circle of optimistic experts, as certain. The news of a disaster is expected daily. Few African experts still hold the belief that he is the white man in Bahr-el-Gazelle.

I talked to an experienced African traveler this week. He assured me that no single man of an expedition like Mr. Stanley's would have failed to attempt to get round Khartoum by the back door, if he was in possession of Mr. Stanley's opportunities. Nevertheless, the public believes Mr. Stanley to be lost. Ways and means of reaching him are greatly discussed. The Spectator proposes a balloon, laughs at the danger, and declares that if a balloonist fell amid savages he would be regarded as a god, and would receive information and aid on all hands. This rather wild suggestion is not generally accepted. Mr. Baldwin has not yet been communicated with, but the fact that such a scheme is discussed shows how greatly the public mind is moved by the assassination of Major Barttelot.

More Explorers For The Congo State.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 16.—Capt. Becker starts to-day for the Congo. He proposes with 200 men, to explore the northern and eastern regions of the Congo State. It is hoped that he will hear something of Stanley.

The Lightning's Antics.

ALGONA, Ia., Sept. 16.—Laura Watson was struck by lightning yesterday. Her hat was burned from her head, two large holes were burned through her water-proof and clothing, and her back was badly scorched. One of her shoes was torn from her foot and thrown several feet. She was badly shocked but will recover

PERCY'S PERILOUS VOYAGE.

He Succeeds in His Attempt To Navigate the Niagara Rapids.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 16.—Charles Alex. Percy made his second perilous trip through the rapids this afternoon. The boat with Percy sitting on top was towed out from the old Maid of the Mist landing at Suspension Bridge, N.Y., to the centre of the stream at 4.45 o'clock. He did not enter the trap door until the boat was passing under the cantilever bridge when he quickly jumped inside and the trap door closed. After getting into the whirlpool his boat made two complete circles, the latter bringing the boat close to the Canadian shore where men with ropes secured it to the bank. Percy was at this point none the worse of his trip and rested about an hour.

Just before it became dusk, he made another start for Lewiston through the lower rapids which are considered the more dangerous of the two, especially when as now the river is low. It was some time before he got out of the pool. After passing out and down the rapids his boat struck a flat rock. Percy, in order to get his boat off the rock, got out on top to shove it off. No sooner had he the boat extricated than a large wave struck the boat and he and the boat were precipitated into the rapids. He held on to the handle of the trap door but soon the angry rapids separated him and the boat. He then commenced swimming the large waves as best he could. They tossed him hither and thither for about a mile, at times knocking him partly unconscious and most of the time he was submerged, until he reached the calm water near Lewiston. He then commenced calling for help. His cries brought several boats out to his rescue. He was picked up completely exhausted. At midnight he was doing as well as could be expected and to-morrow, if able, will cross the lake to Toronto.

PLAYING AT WAR.

Kaiser William Taking the Stiffness Out of His Soldiers' Joints.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—Invested with as much of the pomp and circumstance of war as can be associated with an experiment, the mimic campaign around Munceyberg proceeds vigorously. The Kaiser's enthusiasm has infected the officers and men. All reports concur as to the admirable behavior of the troops, the display of masterly tactics by the generals and the splendor of the campaign as a spectacle. The public is surfeited with these accounts and the Kaiser's playing at war has ceased to interest the people, yet the whole nation is gratified to see that his untiring physical energies are equal to his zeal. Any doubt arising from unfriendly rumors regarding the Emperor's health has been dispelled. He is everywhere on the field at critical moments and attends to the minutest details. The battle ended he groups his officers around him and gives a critique on the day's manœuvres.

The press states with lively satisfaction that the Emperor coinciding with the general official effort to suppress the use of the French language has ordered that the menus be couched entirely in German. The word "menu" becomes now "speizkarten."

The Kalnoky-Bismarck conference opens to-day. Count Kalnoky left Vienna yesterday. He will be the guest of Prince Bismarck for several days.

WINNIPEG WIRE WHISPERS.

Fatal Accident—The Hudson Bay Proposition Yet in Abeyance.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 17.—Johnny Gazell, a newsboy, was run over by a street car Saturday night and so seriously injured that he died yesterday morning.

The Methodist Mission Board concluded its labors shortly after midnight Friday.

No answer has been given to the Hudson Bay Railway by the Government yet, the previous announcement being premature.

It is stated by Solicitor McNaught of the Northern Pacific that the agreement made by the Norquay Government with the Manitoba Central was cancelled and he has no fears of a lawsuit.

The reduction of the tariff of fees of the land titles system comes into force to-day.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney is expected to go east to-day.

Governor Royal passed through the city on his way to Ottawa Saturday.

Six thousand sheep on the Cochrane ranche will be sold here shortly.

Mrs. W. J. Reesor died Saturday.

WAR IN SAMOA.

Tamasese, Germany's Protege, in Danger of Losing His Throne.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A despatch from Aukland says: Advices from Samoa say that the natives have rebelled on account of an attempt made by Herr Brandeis, a German official, to induce them to confer the name of Malietoa upon Tamasese and also because the taxation imposed upon them was excessive. Herr Branders, at the head of a force of Samoans, who favor the pretensions of Tamasese, has had an encounter in the bush with the rebels and seven of his force were killed, the rebels losing but three men. Many of the combatants were wounded. Herr Brander's force numbers 1400 men, while that of the rebels is 3000 strong. The deposition of Tamasese is inevitable unless Germans lend him active support.

Stabbing Affray at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—This afternoon about 4 o'clock during an affray on Merrick-street near the Market-square a young man named Thomas Moylan was stabbed in the side with a knife. Moylan was trying to stop a fight between a couple of men when another man, a friend of the fighters, stepped up and stabbed him. The wound is a deep one and will likely prove serious. The man who did the stabbing has not yet been arrested. It was done so quickly Moylan was unable to recognize his assailant.

Fifteen Hours In a Vault.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Joseph Cannon, the young man who was imprisoned in a vault in the unfinished building of the Keystone National Bank, in consequence of a friend playfully pushing the spring latch-door shut while Cannon was inside, was liberated at 8 o'clock yesterday morning after having been a prisoner for fifteen hours. He is comfortable, but was badly frightened.

Jacksonville's Death Roll.

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 17.—The official bulletin for the 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. yesterday reports: New cases 74, deaths 9. Total cases to date 995, deaths 120. This evening a corps of 14 nurses sent by Harry Miner arrived from New York.

Drowned in a Tub of Water.

WINDSOR, Sept. 17.—A 20 months' old son of Charles Schurich, second engineer on the steamer Garland, while playing in the yard accidentally fell into a tub of water and was drowned when found by his mother.

Mrs. George Offspring's Triplets

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 17.—The death is announced of Mr. Thos. Dorrity, one of the oldest residents of Niagara, at the age of 84. He was born in Ireland, but came to Niagara when a boy.

Mrs. Geo. Offspring, of Port Robinson, a day or two ago gave birth to triplets, two boys and a girl. One died shortly after birth. The other two are healthy and likely to live.

A Big Failure at Halifax.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Calvert Bros. of Halifax, woollen factors, have failed with liabilities of £120,000.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION

AN ALLEGED INTERVIEW WITH THE DOMINION PREMIER.

The Canadian Authorities Will Do Nothing, but Await Developments—Canadians Becoming More Self-Reliant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The Sun to-day prints a column and a half special from Blakeley Hall, dated Ottawa, purporting to be an interview with Sir John Macdonald touching the fisheries question. The Premier is represented as talking in the line of his Kingston speech already published in The World, saying that the Dominion authorities will do nothing but await developments, and that Canadians are becoming more self-reliant. Mr. Hall also states that Sir John said the Canadians desired Cleveland's election and feared Blaine.

A Breach of Treaty Stipulation.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—At the request of Sir John Macdonald a number of Ottawa gentlemen who are in the forwarding business have submitted to the Dominion Government for transmission to the Imperial authorities information as to the manner in which they have been treated in their business with the New York State canals. It is stated that forwarders in other parts of the Dominion have been requested to state their experience also. One Ottawa forwarder, in his letter to the Government, says that the Erie canal has been closed against his vessels, despite the stipulation in the Treaty of Washington, by which the United States Government undertook to urge upon the State authorities the advisability of making the State canals free to canal vessels.

It Is True.

ALBANY, Sept. 16.—Regarding the dispatch that the State canals have been closed against Canadian vessels despite the Treaty of Washington, Deputy-State-Engineer Wurtelle says that it is true that no Canadian bottom can come through the State canals. The reason of this is because the State of New York has never been urged to comply with the Treaty of Washington. The canals have always been closed against Canadian vessels.

Beginning to Use our Own Ports.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—The possible enforcement of the retaliation bill by the United States Government is having the effect of inducing all local importers here to boycott Boston and New York ports in shipment of goods from England. Until this season nearly all winter shipments for merchants here came via Portland and a large percentage of summer shipments via Boston and New York. With one or two exceptions the wholesale houses here have instructed their shippers in England to ship all orders in future via Halifax and Montreal.

THE FASTER'S FAD.

Dr. Tanner Promulgates a Startling Theory—Can Man Hibernate?

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Dr. H. S. Tanner, who became famous eight years ago by fasting for 40 days, arrived here yesterday from New Mexico. He is apparently in perfect health at present, he eats two meals a day in summer and one meal a day in winter. In an interview he said he had been in New Mexico for four years, pursuing investigations into the subject of suspended animation or counterfeit death. He is convinced that large numbers of people are annually buried alive all over the world, and from his study of various cases and the records of societies on the subject in Holland and elsewhere he is convinced that so subtle is the principle of life that no one can undertake to say that it is extinct until decomposition, the only sure sign, has set in. He declares that the dead in this country are buried with indecent, with criminal haste, and that burials of persons who are not absolutely dead are murders.

The doctor is also pursuing another branch of semi-suspended animation, viz.: hibernation. He declares that bears and other hibernating animals do not use their lungs during the hibernating season, and he is convinced that man can hibernate. He refers to the long trances of the Hindoo adepts, accomplished through long seasons of wasting, and declares it to be his belief that these trances are merely seasons of hibernation. The doctor says he is studying with a view to making some experiments in this line, and that the time may come when he may permit himself to be sealed up in an air-tight coffin and laid away until such time as he shall designate for it to be opened.

Sandbagged and Robbed.

DETROIT, Sept. 16.—An extensive robbery was committed in this city between 1 and 2 a.m. yesterday by two burglars, W. H. Traves, builder and contractor, being the victim. Mr. Traves had drawn money from the bank and made collections the day previous and when he retired for the night he had over $2000 in cash in his pocket book. The coat containing the pocket book hung over a chair and at the hour named Mr. Traves was awakened by his daughter talking in her sleep and looking up saw a man walking off with his coat. Mr. Traves grappled with the burglar and together they rolled down stairs, where the second burglar, who was engaged in ransacking the drawer of a secretary, sandbagged Mr. Traves and thus secured the safe retreat of the burglars with their booty. Although he received serious injury the victim of the assault and robbery is now pronounced out of danger.

Oers Barothy's Suicide.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 16.—From a letter written on the day of his death by Oers Barothy, who committed suicide at Chicago last week, it appears that his crime was not caused by unrequited love, but was in recognition of a pledge given to kill himself. Three years ago he had a quarrel with a Hungarian army officer, challenged him to fight a duel and the challange was accepted, the conditions being that each party was to draw one of two balls, the person to whose lot the black ball fell to kill himself on the third anniversary of the quarrel.

Charged With Fraud.

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—Emanuel Wolfe, a traveller, living at 91 Jackson-street east, was up at the Police Court yesterday on a charge of fraud preferred by W. V. Todd of Toronto. It is claimed Wolfe sold non-union cigars to a saloon-keeper named Brush representing to him that they were union-made, and the cigar boxes bore the trade mark of the International Union. The case was adjourned.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1888.

MR. S. WHITE NOMINATED.

THE Conservatives of Cardwell in a largely attended convention unanimously nominated Mr. R. S. White as a candidate for the House of Commons. This constituency was opened by the lamented death of the late Hon. Thomas White, and, at a convention formerly held, Mr. Robert Evans, a resident of the county, was chosen as the standard bearer. Mr. Evans, however, retired from the field at this convention, and, Mr. White being nominated, other candidates withdrew and Mr. White was the undivided choice. Mr. White is the oldest son of the late Hon. Thos. White and is editor of the Montreal Gazette.

The Cardwell Conservatives have by this action united on a standard bearer who is a worthy son of a worthy sire. It was not only because the candidate is a son of the late member for Cardwell that he was chosen, although no doubt that fact had some influence, for Mr. White, though a comparatively young man, is a man of ability. His newspaper experience, as in the case of his father, has made him thoroughly acquainted with public affairs, and he enters public life well fitted for the duties of the position. Should he be elected, and we have no doubt from Cardwell's splendid record that he will, Mr. White will be a representative that will do the constituency credit.

THE PROPOSED RETALIATION.

THE Montreal Gazette points out that members of Congress who took part in the debate on the retaliatory bill appear to have held the opinion that inter-state traffic in bond through Canada was to be suspended, but that the President's message and the bill do not contain anything to support that view. A statement compiled by Bradstreets, the Gazette continues, enables us to ascertain the character and extent of the Canadian transit trade through American ports. It reached its highest value in 1883, $69,115,338, and last year amounted to $33,692,606, of which $11,504,721 represented exports through United States ports, and $22,187,885 imports into Canada through the same channels. Of the total sent from the Dominion $1,684,730 was shipped from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, $9,606,175 from Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and the Northwest Territory, and $213,816 from British Columbia. Of the shipments of foreign merchandise to Canada through American ports $1,621,748 went to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, $19,930,296 to Quebec, Ontario, etc., and $639,841 to British Columbia. The greater part of this movement in each direction consisted of merchandise dutiable under United States tariff laws, the total receipts from Canada amounting to $11,019,335 dutiable, as against $485,336 free of duty, and the shipments to $21,054,501 dutiable and tonly $1,133,584 free. Of the $9,606,175 worth of goods exported from Quebec, Ontario and the Northwest through American ports, nearly one-half, or $4,197,000 consisted of wheat and flour, $1,734,000 of cheese, $652,675 of beans and peas, $453,300 of cattle, and $628,600 of butter and meats. From Nova Scotia two-thirds of the exports consisted of bleached cotton cloth $789,250, and fish $441,300, while from British Columbia the export was made up almost wholly of fish. The import trade into Canada in bond through the United States comprises every class of goods purchased in Great Britain and Europe; in fact nearly one-half the imports of Canada, from other countries than the United States, come in by these channels. The spring stocks of wholesale dealers, for instance, are brought in during the winter months through Portland, Boston and New York, and it is in respect of this commerce that the principal inconvenience from the suspension of the bonding privilege would be felt.

Bradstreets goes on to point out that the greater part of this "intransit" trade is carried on through the ports of New York, Boston, Portland, Eastport, Burlington, Niagara Falls and Port Huron. Of the total of $1,684,730 received from Nova Scotia last year, $827,609 was entered at Eastport and $763,071 at New York. Of the entries of $9,606,175 from Quebec, Ontario, etc., the Vermont district, of which Burlington is the port of entry, received $4,766,108, Niagara Falls $2,114,141 and Portland $1,887,556. San Francisco and Port Townsend received the greater part of the imports from British Columbia. In like manner, of the transhipment of $1,621,748 worth of foreign commodities to Nova Scotia, etc., $711,816, went from the Niagara Falls district and $656,550 from the Burlington district. The shipments to Quebec and Ontario, amounting to $19,930,296, went $11,115,336 from New York, $5,522,732 from Portland, and $2,248,619 from Boston. The trade is thus shown to be divided among the American steamship lines running to and from the British provinces, the railroads entering Canada from New England, the New York railroads crossing the boundary at Niagara Falls and Buffalo, and the various lines in Michigan.

The suspension of the transit in bond privileges now threatened means that a foreign trade averaging about $40,000,000 annually must thereafter be conducted wholly through Canadian ports. That a temporary loss and inconvenience would be inflicted goes without saying, for if the traffic could now be conducted as advantageously, by way of Halifax and St. John, these ports would long since have obtained a larger share of the trade than has fallen to them, but the loss would not be a deadly one at the worst, and the inconvenience would steadily disappear, as better facilities for traffic are provided by Canadian railways and seaports. The displacement of $40,000,000 of trade is a serious matter to contemplate, but large interests in the Dominion would unquestionably be promoted, and any temporary sacrifice involved is better to be borne than the surrender of treaty rights under pressure of coercion.

by proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. A Wet Sunday.

Rain fell yesterday in torrents. It was a steady down pour. Daylight found the rain falling and it continued to fall with only brief intervals during the whole day. Gardens, lawns and fields were thoroughly soaked. The quantity is said to have scaled by rain gauge nearly as much as all previous showers of the season combined. As a consequence the local churches were comparatively deserted and the pastors preached, particularly at the morning services to slim congregations. It is likely now that the clouds have shed their superfluous moisture that fine weather will prevail during the week of the Central fair.

Wanted to go to Gaol.

Mrs. Johnston, well known around town and the widow of the late "Gobbler" Johnston, made her appearance at the Police Court this morning and requested Police Magistrate Dumble to send her up to gaol on a charge of vagrancy. The Magistrate refused to do this and told the woman that she had better apply to the House of Providence for admittance. Mrs. Johnston said she had been there and would not go back again, but would rather go up to gaol. Her request was not complied with.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings healt and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

Prizes at the Provincial.

Among the exhibitors from this section at the Provincial Fair, at Kingston, who gained prizes was Mr. S. Staples, of Cavan township, who exhibited his English coach stallion, "Lord Sudley." The horse was much admired and took first prize in his class against all competitors. In addition to this last it may be said that the stallion took first prize at the Toronto Fair of 1887, and first at the Western Fair, at London, in 1886. This remarkable record of successes places the horse at the top of his class without question.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and nobby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good clothes are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so far in knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its goods cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

A Difference of Three Dollars.

There is a difference of three dollars between a Saturday and a Sunday drunk, at least John Fry probably thinks so, and all exuberators may take warning accordingly. On Saturday afternoon Chief Roszel ran in Patrick Ryan for being drunk and he was fined two dollars at the police court this morning. Yesterday John Fry was arrested also for drunkenness, but the Police Magistrate fined him five dollars, so that to get drunk on Sunday is a liberty which costs a man three dollars extra—and so it should.

Central Exhibition Directors.

The directors of the Central Exhibiton met in the Council committee room on Saturday afternoon. Tenders for the refreshment booths were awarded, Mr. R. R. A motion was passed sanctioning the carrying out of the baseball tournament at the Exhibition which was published in THE REVIEW some time ago. Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., was requested to prepare and read an address to the Hon. Mr. Drury, Minister of Agriculture, upon his arrival here on the second day of the fair. Secretary Collins was authorized to send members tickets to all subscribers of one dollar and over. Several other minor matters were discussed and the directors adjourned to meet on Saturday next.

Star Theatre Co.

The Lindsay Post of Sept. 14th says:—"On Monday night the Star Theatre Company opened a week's engagement in Bradburn's Opera House with "The Galley Slave," being greeted by a large and representative audience. The good impression made by this company is evidenced by the fact that each succeeding performance was, if possible, better attended and more favorably commented upon. This was especially so Wednesday evening, when "The Silver King" was presented. Mr. T. J. Quinn, manager, as Wilfred Denver, proved himself to be an actor of brilliant conception and great adaptability, his emotional passages being superb. Miss Florence Lytelle, as Nellie Denver, evinced the well trained actress, investing her parts with a reality as striking as it is rare. The general support was excellent throughout. Thursday evening the "Two Orphans" was presented to a full house. The Star Theatre Company will play a three nights' engagement here, commencing this Monday evening. Obituary.

General sympathy is felt for the affliction that has overtaken the family of our esteemed townsman Mr. Jas. Best in the death which occurred this morning of an only daughter, Edith, an estimable young lady, in her 18th year. The immediate cause of death was consumption, from which she had suffered during the last ten months. The breavement is a sore one and will create a vacancy in the family circle. She was a member of St. John's church and had taken great interest in the services and church work. The funeral will take place on Wednesday next, with interment at the Little Lake Cemetery.

THE Featherbone Corsets are absolutely unbreakable. You can get them at Rowse's Trade Palace. d62tf

An Accomplished Musician.

The Brockville Times, speaking of Miss Emma Ealand, of Paris, the new organist at the cathedral, says:—"Miss Ealand was one of the six young ladies who composed the Lauder Sextette of the hilly town. The six were highly accomplished musicians and in the few years of the club's existence they did much to raise the tone of the town, by the giving of recitals. A member of the Times staff has had the pleasure of being present as a couple of their entertainments, and one of these, 'An evening with Chopin,' will long be remembered. Miss Ealand's influence in the musical community of Peterborough will doubtless be strongly felt. Sympathy for Paris and congratulations for Peterborough are in order."

Bill Poster and Secretary.

A rather good joke is told on the Kingston Whig man. He looked up one of the Peterborough delegates at the Provincial Fair last week and had some conversation with him and called the Peterborough man's attention to the fine and ample grounds in which the fair was being held. "We've a better ground at home," said the Peterborough citizen, "a capital ground for a one-horse town." The Whig man was still a doubting Thomas, and said he had heard a different story from the Secretary of the Peterborough Fair, whom he had met in the city the week previous. "That can hardly be" was the reply, "for I am the secretary, and I haven't said any such thing." Notes were compared when it was found that the Whig man had taken Peterborough's enterprising bill poster, Mr. E. C. Hill, for the secretary. There is something in a good appearance and address after all.

Organization Progressing.

There was a fair attendance at the meeting of the Burns Club on Saturday evening. The officers for the first term were elected and the Society placed upon a running basis. Now that this has been done and when the committee appointed to draft the by-laws by which the club will be governed have presented the result of their labors there will be a means provided for spending one evening in every week during the winter in a profitable and most enjoyable manner which should be embraced by all Scotchmen. In addition to the study of Burns and other illustrious Scotchmen, a glee club will be formed for the practicing of Scottish glee singing, and every young man should be interested in this feature of the club's programme. The officers elected last evening were as follows:—

PRESIDENT.—Jas. Hendrie.

REV. D. V. LUCAS

Delivers Four Addresses on Sunday—Two Temperance Meetings.

The pulpit of the George-st. Methodist Church was occupied yesterday morning by Rev. D. V. Lucas, who delivered an earnest and interesting discourse to a fair congregation.

Though the day was most dark and dismal and a drizzling rain was falling, at four o'clock in the afternoon a fair sized audience assembled in the Opera House to hear an address on temperance by the same rev. gentleman. Dr. Fife was elected to act as chairman and after the opening exercises introduced the lecturer with a few remarks. Rev. Mr. Lucas in opening said he would not speak of the Scott Act as last week's meetings had only been preliminary, and that the ground would all be gone over again before the fight came off. He said the people would have to be educated on the subject, and he was certain that if the Government offered Prohibition to the people they would not accept it until they had been educated up to it. He referred to those people who favored the prohibition of all intoxicating liquor except for Sacramental purposes. The rev. gentleman said there was no more connection between intoxicating liquor and the Sacrament than between heaven and hell, and held that the word wine was never used by the Apostles when writing of the Lord's Supper. There were two kinds of wine referred to in the Bible, just the same as there were two kinds of death, physical and spiritual and two kind of life. He spoke to the boys and girls present warning them against moderate drinking. He showed from the evidence of insurance men that a moderate drinker did not live as long as a teetotaller, and claimed by the testimony of thousands of doctors that the moderate drinker was more apt, through the weakening of the muscles of the heart by the action of the poison upon them, to succumb to any disease with which he might be stricken down than a man who never used liquor at all.

EVENING MEETINGS.

Rev. Mr. Lucas in the evening occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Church and gave a practical and lengthy sermon on the words, "For none of us liveth to Himself,"—Romans, 14-7. At the conclusion of the services in the church the reverend gentleman hurried to the Opera House to address a meeting that had been called to meet at 8.30. The Opera House was crowded and Rev. Mr. Lucas delivered a most earnest address, the most of the points in which, however, have already been published. He exhorted the people to lead temperant lives, and speaking of the Scott Act he said they wanted Prohibition, but in the meantime, they should not allow the Scott Act to go. The only way to get Prohibition was to unite and say to the legislators, "Gentlemen, we want Prohibition and if you won't make laws to suit us we'll put you on the outside and put there those who will." The Tories would do nothing and the Grits were afraid if they did they would not have any chance of getting into power, and if they were in power they would be afraid to do anything unless they would be put out. He referred to the correct and able manner in which his lectures had been reported by the press and said he had never in any place been given better reports. There was one error that had been made in one of the papers in reference to the figures he gave of the manufacture of liquor and he wished it would be corrected.

The statement he referred to was made by him in the Charlotte-st. church, on Tuesday evening last, and what the REVIEW reported him as saying then, and we believe it is the same as the statement made last evening, was as follows:—"In 1881 there was manufactured in Canada two million gallons more of liquor than in 1880; in 1882 there had been 750,000 gallons more than in 1881, and in 1883 it was 500,000 gallons more than in 1882. The river was increasing every year. Then the Scott Act began to come into force and the river was checked. It became less and he had read while in England in a Canadian paper where Sir Chas. Tupper had stood up in the House and said that during the past year the manufacture of liquor had fallen off two million gallons in this country."

The lecturer closed by saying that the tide was coming in and would eventually sweep this terrible traffic from out our land and he promised that he would drop into Peterborough again when the people had awakened to there duty and their would be a most enthusiastic time. The meeting closed with the benediction.

Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably regulate the bowels.

A Card.

The Star Theatre Co. closed a week's engagement here last Saturday night. This is undoubtedly the best company that has appeared here for some time. Their plays gave the best of satisfaction. The costumes, scenery and stage sittings grand. I can recommend them as a first-class company; nothing to offend the most fastidious.

The party will drive to the residence of Mr. Stratton where lunch will be partaken of. Hon. Mr. Drury will be escorted about town and afterwards driven to the fair grounds, the band accompanying. His Correct Standing.

We have been requested to state that it was by error in facts reported that J. H. Sanderson was stated as having failed in Latin on Queen's College matriculation. His name stands about half way up the list which consists of matriculants at Queens, Victoria and Trinity. There have been no failures in classics so far this year.

Beating Their way on the C. P. R.

Eight young tougins from town thought they would like to go up to Toronto and take in the Exhibition, and, as the fare was something to be considered, they decided to travel in the cheapest manner possible, and, therefore, took a "tramps' Pullman." They broke into a bonded car at the station here and stowed themselves away for a ride to the Queen City. However, the train had only got to Pontypool when the conductor observed the live freight he was carrying, but the gang were all lucky enough to escape except one who was locked in the car and taken to Toronto. Upon arriving in that city it is said that the yard man allowed the prisoner to make his escape. The seven who escaped at Pontypool had to walk back to town yesterday. The names of some of the young men are known.

NAVIGATION.—Owing to the long continued drought, the water has got so low in the river and canal here, that the Esturion cannot come into the wharf, but has to land about a half a mile above Petrie's mill. She only make one trip per day, leaving here at 8 a.m. and arriving at 6.30 p.m.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—The Rev. Mr. Carmichael, from Norwood, commenced a series of special services in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday the 16th inst., and purposes continuing them for the whole week.

SPRINGS LOW.—On account of the dry season, a number of the wells have failed here. Owing to the scarcity of water in the river it is with difficulty the grist mill is run, and Mr. Boyd's saw mill can only run two gangs, and that only during the day, for want of water.

BEARS.—For some reasons, probably on account of their numbers, bears are unusually numerous. Two were seen around Mr. Frank Kelly's, Vernjam, and one shot Mr. Chas. McIlmoyle, of Harvey, while cradling in his field of oats, came upon a large bear quietly sitting on his haunches, eating the heads of an armful of oats. A party of hunters chevied a bear out of Mr. Kelso's woods, but were not successful in killing it. Mr. Richmond, of Harvey, lost a calf that was killed by a bear. At Ingram's School House, the children coming out at recess found a bear in the playground stowing away, with evident relish, one of the children's lunch of bread and jam. Four bears have been killed quite recently at Ball Lake. Last week a gentleman who was out looking for partridge, sat down on a log in Green Bay to take a rest and a smoke. He was disturbed from a peaceful reverie by two cubs, one on each side, planting their paws on the log, and looking him in the face. He was not loaded for bears, and until he moved, the cubs were not aware of his being loaded in any way. It was a mutual surprise, and a general scatter. The gentleman returned in the afternoon for his gun. The cubs had not meddled with it. On Sunday, as Mr. Godfrey and family were about to sit down to dinner, they saw a young bear swim across the river, and land close by the Club Boat House. The little fellow shook himself, and went off past Mr. Richard's cottage, on a sort of a hop and a bound. Several persons went out in the afternoon to try and follow him, and it was reported that Mr. Gunsolus came across him, and being without fire arms, could do nothing but give him a chase for a short distance, and a parting kick for luck. The report was not correct. It is supposed that the failure of the huckleberries causes the bears to get around, and they have to keep their paws out of their mouths, or find the front of their waistcoats unpleasantly close to the back.—Independent.

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1888.

The Treasure of Frachnard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

Another gleam and another violent gust arrived together; the house was seen to rock on its foundation, and, just as the light was once more eclipsed, a crash which triumphed over the shouting of the wind announced its fall, and for a moment the whole garden was alive with skipping tiles and brickbats. One such missile grazed the doctor's ear; another descended on the bare foot of Aline, who instantly made night hideous with her shrieks.

By this time the hamlet was alarmed, lights flashed from the windows, hails reached the party, and the doctor answered, nobly contending against Aline and the tempest. But this prospect of help only awakened Anastasie to a more active stage of terror.

"Henri, people will be coming," she screamed in her husband's ear.

"I trust so," he replied.

"They cannot. I would rather die," she wailed.

"My dear," said the doctor reprovingly, "you are excited. I gave you some clothes. What have you done with them?"

"Oh, I don't know—I must have thrown them away! Where are they?" she sobbed.

Desprez groped about in the darkness. "Admirable!" he remarked; "my gray velveteen trousers! This will exactly meet your necessities."

"Give them to me!" she cried fiercely; but as soon as she had them in her hands her mood appeared to alter—she stood silent for a moment, and then pressed the garment back upon the doctor. "Give it to Aline," she said—"poor girl."

"Nonsense!" said the doctor. "Aline does not know what she is about. Aline is beside herself with terror; and, at any rate, she is a peasant. Now I am really concerned at this exposure for a person of your housekeeping habits; my solicitude and your fantastic modesty both point to the same remedy—the pantaloons." He held them ready.

"It is impossible. You do not understand," she said with dignity.

By this time rescue was at hand. It had been found impracticable to enter by the street, for the gate was blocked with masonry, and the nodding ruin still threatened further avalanches. But between the doctor's garden and the one on the right hand there was that very picturesque contrivance—a common well; the door on the Desprez' side had chanced to be unbolted; and now, through the arched aperture, a man's bearded face and an arm supporting a lantern were introduced into the world of windy darkness, where Anastasie concealed her woes. The light struck here and there among the tossing apple boughs, it glinted on the grass; but the lantern and the glowing face became the center of the world. Anastasie crouched back from the intrusion.

"This way!" shouted the man. "Are you all safe?"

Aline, still screaming, ran to the new comer, and was presently hauled head foremost through the wall.

"Now, Anastasie, come on; it's your turn," said the husband.

"I cannot," she replied.

"Are we all to die of exposure, madame?" thundered Dr. Desprez.

"You can go!" she cried. "Oh, go, go away! I can stay here; I am quite warm."

The doctor took her by the shoulders with an oath.

"Stop!" she screamed. "I will put them on."

She took the detested lendings in her hand once more; but her repulsion was stronger than shame. "Never!" she cried, shuddering, and flung them far away into the night.

Next moment the doctor had whirled her to the well. The man was there and the lantern; Anastasie closed her eyes and appeared to herself to be about to die. How she was transported through the arch she knew not; but once on the other side she was received by the neighbor's wife, and enveloped in a friendly blanket.

Beds were made ready for the two women, clothes of very various sizes for the doctor and Jean-Marie; and for the remainder of the night, while madame dozed in and out on the borderland of hysterics, her husband sat beside the fire and held forth to the admiring neighbors. He showed them, at length, the causes of the accident; for years, he explained, the fall had been impending; one sign had followed another, the joints had opened, the plaster had crackled, the old walls bowed inward; last, not three weeks ago, the cellar door had begun to work with difficulty in its grooves. "The cellar!" he said, gravely shaking his head over a glass of mulled wine. "That reminds me of my poor vintages. By a manifest Providence the Hermitage was nearly at an end. One bottle—I base but one bottle of that incomparable wine. It had been set apart against Jean-Marie's wedding. Well, I must lay down some more; it will be an interest in life. I am, however, a man somewhat advanced in years. My great work is now buried in the fall of my humble roof; it will never be completed—my name will have been writ in water. And yet you find me calm—I would say cheerful. Can your priest do more?"

By the first glimpse of the day the party sallied forth from the fireside into the street. The wind had fallen, but still charioted a world of troubled clouds; the air bit like frost; and the party, as they stood about the ruins in the rainy twilight of the morning, beat upon their breasts and blew into their hands for warmth. The house had entirely fallen, the walls outward, the roof in; it was a mere heap of rubbish, with here and there a forlorn spear of broken rafter. A sentinel was placed over the ruins to protect the property, and the party adjourned to Tentaillon's to break their fast at the doctor's expense. The bottle circulated somewhat freely; and before they left the table it had begun to snow.

For three days the snow continued to fall, and the ruins, covered with tarpaulin and watched by sentries, were left undisturbed. The Desprez' meanwhile had taken up their abode at Tentaillon's. Madame spent her time in the kitchen, concocting little delicacies, with the admiring aid of Mme. Tentaillon, or sitting by the fire in thoughtful abstraction. The fall of the house affected her wonderfully little; that blow had been parried by another; and in her mind she was continually fighting over again the battle of the trousers. Had she done right! Had she done wrong! And now she would applaud her determination; and anon, with a horrid flush of unavailing penitence, she would regret the trousers. No juncture in her life had so much exercised her judgment. In the meantime the doctor had become vastly pleased with the situation. Two of the summer boarders still lingered behind the rest, prisoners for lack of a remittance; they were both English, but one of them spoke French pretty fluently, and was, besides, a humorous, agile minded fellow, with whom the doctor could reason by the hour, secure of comprehension. Many were the glasses they emptied, many the topics they discussed.

"Anastasie," the doctor said on the third morning, "take an example from your husband, from Jean-Marie. The excitement has done more for the boy than all my tonics, he takes his turn as sentry with positive gusto. As for me, you behold me. I have made friends with the Egyptians; and my Pharaoh is, I swear it, a most agreeable companion. You alone are hipped. About a house—a few dresses! What are they in comparison to the 'Pharmacopœia'—the labor of years lying buried below stones and sticks in this depressing hamlet? The snow falls; I shake it from my cloak! Imitate me. Our income will be impaired, I grant it, since we must rebuild; but moderation, patience and philosophy will gather about the hearth. In the meanwhile, the Tentaillons are obliging; the table, with your additions, will pass; only the wine is execrable—well, I shall send for some to-day. My Pharaoh will be gratified to drink a decent glass; aha! and I shall see if he possesses the acme of organization—a palate. If he has a palate, he is perfect."

"Henri," she said, shaking her head, "you are a man; you cannot understand my feelings; no woman could shake off the memory of so public a humiliation."

The doctor could not restrain a titter. "Pardon me, darling," he said; "but really, to the philosophical intelligence, the incident appears so small a trifle. You looked extremely well"—

"Henri!" she cried.

"Well, well, I will say no more," he replied, "Though, to be sure, if you had consented to indue—A propos," he broke off, "and my trousers! They are lying in the snow—my favorite trousers!" And he dashed in quest of Jean-Marie.

Two hours afterward the boy returned to the inn with a spade under one arm and a curious sop of clothing under the other.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack whenever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

A CASE OF SMUGGLING REPORTED FROM FORT M'LEOD.

The Memorial of the Imperial Government Touching the Quebec Debt Conversion Act Forwarded to Lieut.-Gov. Angers.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—It is understood that the memorial received by the Federal authorities from the Imperial Government touching the Debt Conversion Bill passed by the Quebec Legislature has been transmitted to Lieutenant-Governor Angers. The question of disallowance will therefore not come under consideration of Council for some time.

W. Cox Allan, Collector of Customs at Fort McLeod, N. W. T., reports a case of smuggling and seizure made by himself. The smuggler is an ex-member of the Mounted Police and was formerly stationed on the frontier to prevent smuggling.

Father Marsar, Dr. Girdwood of Montreal and Mr. Anthony McGill, the examiners of candidates for the positions of public analyist, held a preliminary meeting on Saturday to arrange subjects for examination, which opens on Oct. 1.

The time for the reception of tenders for the proposed St. Lawrence Canal work expires on Sept. 25.

The Quebec customs authorities have seized a quantity of cashmere hose.

Hon. John Costigan and Hon. John Haggart left for Victoria, B.C., yesterday.

Prof. Saunders of the Experimental Farm has gone to Toronto to attend the Industrial Fair.

Hon. J. H. Pope is expected to return here at the end of the week.

A FATAL RUNAWAY.

One Person Killed and Two Severely Injured.

WALKERTON, Sept. 18.—On Saturday evening, Mr. Abraham Johnson, a prominent farmer of this neighborhood, was driving home, accompanied by his mother, a venerable lady over 80 years of age, when their horse became frightened at the tooting of a steam thresher and ran away, upsetting the buggy and throwing the occupants out. The old lady received such injuries that she died in a few hours. A man named Coulter, who came to their assistance, had his leg broken by the horse. Close by another upset occurred from the noise of the same machine, and a lady named Miss Reid, of Wardshill, had her arm broken.

A Driver's Fatal Fall.

WATFORD, Ont., Sept. 18.—David Zavitz, driver of one of Hill's Strathroy egg wagons, met with a fatal accident while on his way from Arkona to Strathroy, on Thursday afternoon last. A depression in the road caused by some late repairs gave the heavy wagon a jolt, precipitating Zavitz to the ground from his high seat on the load. He was carried into a neighboring farm house where he died on Saturday night. The remains were interred in Lobo on Sunday. He leaves a wife and family.

Mrs. Jackson is the Stake.

NEBRASKA, City, Sept. 18.—Hans Erickson and Abe Johnson live on adjoining farms about ten miles west of here. Erickson is a staunch supporter of Cleveland and Thurman, while Johnson is an equally enthusiastic admirer of Harrison and Morton. During a political argument between them yesterday Johnson offered to bet his wife on Harrison's election. Erickson is a widower, and would not take the bet till Johnson said he had a sure thing, and agreed to bet his wife against one of Erickson's thoroughbred cows. The bet was made. Johnson says he realizes the odds are large, but if he had twenty wives he would be willing to bet them all the same way. Erickson is equally as confident, and says he will continue to take such bets as long as his cows hold out.

Riddled Them With Buckshot.

OPELOUSAS, La., Sept. 18.—Yesterday at Ville Platte Prairie a crowd of armed men rode to the houses of two negroes named Salet and Dedaire and after leading them a short distance from the place riddled them with buckshot. This action is supposed to have been brought about by incendiary language recently used by these two negroes.

Fatal Accident at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—R. J. Elliott, advocate, while walking on the street last evening was struck on the head by the hoof of a runaway horse and sustained injuries from which he is not likely to recover.

Wives for the West.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Twenty-four Swedish maidens, ranging in age from 19 to 25, have arrived at Castle Garden on the steamer Hecla. They came first cabin on the vessel and were put through the Garden as a mere matter of form. All of them came to this country under contract to marry. Four of the party went to prospective husbands in Brooklyn, and the remainder out west. The engagements were made by the aid of photographs and correspondence.

Found a Body Instead of His Ball.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—A boy looking for his lost ball under the sidewalk on Desplaines-street found the decomposing body of a young man. It had apparently been thrust under the walk in the busiest part of the street and had been there a long time. The clothing was shabby and by the side of the body was a paper cap made of a bag such as workmen wear. The deceased was about 17 years old. The case looks like murder. The body has not been identified.

Sharing the Profits with Their Employes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—Charles A. Pillsbury & Co., one of the largest milling firms in the world, have just finished a division of $50,000 among their employes. This has been made in pursuance of a proportionate sharing plan adopted four years ago. For two years there have been no amounts to divide, but the past year has been profitable and the firm keeps its promises.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION

PROCEEDINGS AT ITS FIRST SESSION YESTERDAY.

The Scope and Principle on Which the Court Propose to Conduct the Inquiry Outlined by Judge Hannen.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Parnell Commission opened its first session at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Judge Hannen said the commission held that the inquiry should be restricted to the charges that w made the cause of the O'Donnell-Times action. Parliament also gave them, in on to their special powers, all the powers vested in judges of the High Court of Justice. They proposed in the first instance to make the inquiry as though it were an issue between Mr. O'Donnell and The Times, reserving to themselves the power to call anybody who might be able to throw light on the issue therein involved. The inquiry would be carried on in accordance with the rules of the ordinary courts.

Sir Charles Russell demanded that he be allowed to inspect the letters and photographs bearing on the case and that the commission issue an order for the discovery of the documents upon the authority of which some of The Times' charges were made. He asked that a commission be appointed to take evidence in the United States, and that an order be issued releasing Mr. Dillon from jail so he may give testimony before the commission. He wanted especially to see the Egan-Harris letter, which he claimed was a forgery.

Gouncil for The Times agreed to produce certain letters but objected to the commission's issuing an order for the discovery of documents.

Mr. Parnell here entered the courtroom.

Sir Charles Russell said he did not confine his application to two letters. He wanted to inspect all the letters and documents referred to in the articles on "Parnellism and Crime."

Judge Hannen stated that he had not read them, and said that counsel must inform the court what were necessary, so as to guide them.

Sir Charles Russell stated that one of the many charges published in The Times was that certain Parnellite members of the House of Commons were connected with an illegal association, and were sharers in the crime of murder. One alleged proof of this charge was a letter in which Mr. Parnell approved of a fund—meaning an assassination fund.

Judge Hannen said he understood that The Times would produce all the letters and documents affecting Mr. Parnell and the others against whom it brought charges. If the parties could not agree as to the production of the papers the commission would deal with the disputed points in chambers afterwards.

Mr. Graham then opened the case for The Times. After a review of the history of the "Parnellism and Crime" articles, he said it was now asked that The Times state whence it had derived its information, but if it divulged its source of information the object of the commission might be defeated and its inquisitorial character lost.

Sir Charles Russell insisted that the case should not proceed until the commission decided the question as to the production of all the documents in possession of The Times.

The judges adjourned to chambers to consider the question. In a short time the commission returned, and Judge Hannen asked, assuming the commission thought they had jurisdiction to order the discovery of the documents, what restrictions Sir Charles Russell would claim?

Sir Charles stated that he wanted to know in plain language if The Times charged Mr. Parnell or his associates with complicity in the Phœnix Park murders?

Mr. Graham replied that The Times would produce evidence to substantiate all the charges it had made in its articles on "Parnellism and Crime."

The commission again retired to deliberate. Upon resuming the sitting, Judge Hannen said that the commission having considered the question as to whether it was empowered to order the discovery of the documents, it was of the opinion that it had the power to direct such discovery. The commission would take upon itself the right to consider what documents it would be right for Sir Charles Russell's clients to inspect. The court thought that the details against the persons The Times accused ought to be given. The court had determined to enter thoroughly into the inquiry and follow it out to the end.

DISAFFECTION IN SPAIN.

The Soldiery Dissatisfied and Ready to Rebel.

MADRID, Sept. 18.—The people of Madrid are just recovering from a bad scare. Three nights ago the Governor, expecting a military revolt in favor of a republic, kept the imperial troops under arms all night and extreme vigilance was exercised at the barracks. There was no trouble, however, and if there was any plot brewing it has proved a fizzle. There has been more or less uneasiness, however, for some time past, and it is undeniable that dissatisfaction exists among the soldiery. To what extent the revolutionary spirits prevail cannot be determined, at least by the outside public, and it is only from the anxious attitude of the Government that it is inferred that the army is seriously honeycombed with disloyalty to the present form of administration. Disbelievers in the stability of any kind of government in Spain are cynically pointing out that a revolution is about due, if the country is to keep up its record in throne-changing.

Burglary at Verona.

KINGSTON, Sept. 18.—Alexander Grant of Verona was robbed of between $600 and $1000 on Saturday night. He left his cash box on the safe preparatory to taking it home with him as usual, but he forgot it and when he returned to the shop on Sunday morning the money was missing. Mr. Grant is township clerk and some of the money belongs to the municipality. A blacksmith shop near by was entered and tools with which to burglarize the store secured.

The Servian Cabinet Resign.

BELGRADE, Sept. 18.—The members of the Servian Ministry have tendered their resignations. They will, however, retain their offices until King Milan returns to Belgrade. It is understood that M. Jovan Ristics will become Prime Minister in place of M. Christics.

Railroaders on Strike.

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 18.—The switchmen in the Central yard struck yesterday for an increase in wages. The strikers "killed" two engines and six of the strikers were arrested.

A Way They Have at Russian Fairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 18.—At the close of the fair at Woomnesch a number of peasants pillaged several houses and stole 75,000 roubles from a bank.

Another raid was made by the McCoys on the Hatfield settlement on Friday last, and the West Virginians were worsted.

The widow of a Brahmin villager near Cawnpore recently burnt herself to death upon the funeral pyre of her husband.

Hop picking in the Prince Edward county district is about finished. In quality the crop is excellent, in quantity average.

John N. Wogan, aged 60, the most notorious desperado of Southern Illinois, has been shot and killed by Constable Hall.

FIRES OF A DAY.

A Barber Shop and Tobacco Store Gutted at Galt.

GALT, Sept. 18.—About 3 o'clock yesterday morning fire started in the first story of the barber shop and tobacco store of W. F. Lunn in the Imperial Block. The fire was confined to the front half of the first story, destroying show cases, plate glass windows, etc. Mr. Lunn estimates the damage to stock and fixtures at about $2000, insured for $800 in the London and Lancashire. The building is damaged about $500, fully covered in the same company.

A Sawmill Burnt.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 18.—The saw mill at Glen Levis, owned by W. A. Hungerford, was burnt on Saturday night. Loss $2700; no insurance.

Fire Bugs at Bondhead.

BONDHEAD, Sept. 18.—A fire broke out here at 1 o'clock yesterday morning in an unoccupied house owned by Edwin Walwin. The building was a complete loss, no insurance, supposed to be the work of incendiaries.

Fire at Port Colborne.

PORT COLBORNE, Sept. 18.—The dwelling-house of Eugene Reeb, at the lime kilns, about three miles west, was burned early yesterday morning. The fire was discovered shortly after midnight. The inmates escaped, but part of the contents was consumed. Loss, $1,500, partly covered by surance. Cause of fire unknown.

The Oxley ranch has sent sixteen cars of cattle east.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney leaves for the east today.

An exhibit of vegetables is being collected by the Provincial Government for the London Exhibition.

The Boycotted "Q."

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—The arrival in St. Louis of the first through Chicago, Burlington and Quincy trains over the Wabash tracks was signalized by the refusal of the Brotherhood engineers employed as hostlers to house the Burlington engines and other local Wabash wipers to clean the engines, which are now standing on a side track covered with mud and grease. The boycott did not end here, for when the non-Brotherhood engineers sought board and lodging they were refused on the ground that Brotherhood men would not eat or sleep in the house with them and the men were compelled to come down town for accommodation. The most serious aspect of the trouble lies in the fact that the Burlington has a contract with the Wabash which demands the housing of its engines, and if the Wabash orders its employes to carry out the contract a strike will follow.

Advance in Freight Rates.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The roads that followed the lead of the Pennsylvania in reducing the grain rate to 20 cents, Chicago to New York, are evidently growing tired of the situation. The Baltimore and Ohio has already given notice of an advance to the 25 cent rate to take effect Sept. 15. The Michigan Central and the Lake Shore will give notice of a similar advance to-day. The Chicago and Grand Trunk has given notice that on and after Sept. 25 its rate on dressed beef will be 35 cents a hundred pounds both to New York and Boston. This is an advance of 5 cents on the New York rate, meeting the new rate adopted by the other roads, but the Grand Trunk maintains its differential on Boston business to which the other lines apply a 40 cent rate.

Registration of Letters.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—It is understood that the Postmaster-General has decided not to enforce in the future the regulation under which it has been required that the registration charge made in the case of registered letters should be prepaid by a special registration stamp. Hereafter, therefore, any letter posted for registration, bearing upon it ordinary postage stamps of sufficient amount to cover the charge for registration, in addition to the postage charge, may be registered and sent forward to its destination.

Breaking the News Gently.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—The Independence recently published an article purporting to reflect the views of the German Conservatives to the effect that Prince Bismarck will follow the example of Gen. Von Moltke and resign. The North German Gazette reprints the article merely remarking that the views expressed are not the views of the Conservatives, but rather those of the Liberals. It is supposed the intention of the North German Gazette is to prepare the public mind for a likely event.

Mr. Taillon Made a Judge.

QUEBEC, Sept. 18.—Reliable news was received here yesterday, by wire from Ottawa, to the effect that Mr. Taillon, leader of the Quebec Opposition, has been appointed a judge of the Superior Court. The peaches were portion of a car load which went astray and were sold by auction by the railway to Thomas Burrows. Only one charge was proceeded with, that against James Moffatt. It was contended for the defence that the peaches were not all unfit for use. All the cases were enlarged until this morning.

Wm. Church, who, it was suspected, stabbed Thos. Moylan while the latter was trying to stop a street fight Sunday afternoon, was remanded for trial until Friday. The postponement was due to the inability of the injured man to attend court.

Yesterday afternoon a dead man was found in Royce's grove, Davenport Village. The deceased was apparently about 26 years of age, stout, short, clean shaven, with hair cut close. It was apparently a case of suicide, as a five-chambered double action revolver was found close to the body. One chamber of the weapon was empty, the contents of it having been discharged into the head close to the right temple. The body was quite stiff and had evidently been dead some days.

AN 1812 VETERAN GONE.

Col. Adam Konkle Passes Quietly Away at the Age of 96 Years.

BEAMSVILLE, Sept. 18.—Colonel Adam Konkle, aged 96, died on Sunday morning. He is about the last of the Canadian heroes who fought in the war of 1812 and '15. The gallant Colonel was on the Niagara frontier, and took part in the battles of Lundy's Lane and Queenston. A Woman's Forgeries.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 18.—Kalamazoo, in this State, is greatly stirred up over the discovery of a woman forger in its midst. The amount of her forgeries is as yet unknown. A few days ago a mortgage that had been paid was discovered not to be discharged from the record and in the possession of an innocent purchaser. It was easy to trace the matter back to a young woman named Jennie M. Swetland, who had been employed in the abstract office connected with the office of the Register of Deeds. She was quietly put under arrest and inquiries were started which have resulted in surprising revelations, whose extent is not yet measured. It is found that within a short time this young woman has been systematically taking mortgages left to be discharged, forging transfers to well-known citizens, and then selling them to parties who had means for investment. Perry Sherman, her uncle, has eight mortgages and transfers of some from other people to her, and none are genuine. He is a ruined man, and several other relatives have been duped in a similar manner. Her swindles are said to foot up $10,000, besides a large indebtedness to many merchants. She is plain in appearance and dress, and what she has done with all the money is a mystery. She is in jail awaiting examination.

FREE TRADE AND TRUSTS.

It is one of the favorite fictions of the Liberal papers that trusts can only exist under a protective tariff. Of course the coal ring and other combinations in articles that were free of duty interferred with their argument, but they put that aside and refused to revise their position for trifles like that. The leading Liberal organ not long ago preached a free trade sermon taking the coffee trust in the United States as a test, and when it was pointed out that coffee was free in the United States and dutiable in England the Globe's serenity was not disturbed. A Liverpool paper recently published the following paragraph:—

"Further important steps were taken yesterday to strengthen the operations of the makers' ring in the Staffordshire and Midland iron trade. Some question is beginning to arise whether the restarting of additional mills by outsiders may not weaken the hands of the ring. With the object of preventing this an influential committee was yesterday elected to induce firms not now members of the trust to throw in their lot with the association and so keep up prices. Since the inauguration of the ring prices have risen 15s. per ton."

This is in free trade England, and the iron trust there will scarcely be ascribed to the influence of protection. As a matter of fact, trusts exists in both protectionist and free trade countries—as, for instance, the United States and England—and duty or no duty, protection or no protection, manufacturers or dealers can combine to keep up prices or otherwise influence trade in the articles they produce or handle. When combinations are made which tend to deal unjustly with the public it is wise for the legislators to enquire into their workings. This the Dominion Parliament did last session, though it was too late when the investigation was completed to take further action. If, however, trusts are to be checked by legislative action it is apparent, from the fact of their existence in free trade countries in as an offensive a form as elsewhere, that it must be done otherwise than by manipulating the tariff. The investigation last session showed that Canada was immeasurably more free from evil influences of trusts than the United States, but unrestricted reciprocity would place the Dominion in the hands of the combines of the Republic.

CHANGEABLE.

The Liberal party has shown frequently that it can change its position upon any public question. There has probably been no occasion in the history of political parties where a radical change of front was made with more celerity than that made by the Liberal party on the question of the execution of the leader of the rebellion in the Northwest. Its organs had been crying out for the execution of Louis Riel, they had predicted that he would be pardoned or his sentence commuted, and were prepared for an onslaught on the Government. But the Administration did not interfere with the regular course of the law, and in a day the sharp turn was taken and the Government was denounced for doing what its assailants had declaired it should do.

When the fishery clauses of the Washington treaty were abrogated, the Government permitted the United States fishermen to have the use of the Canadian fisheries until the end of the current season. For this it was attacked, and the people were called upon to punish it for "giving away the heritage of the people" to the United States. As no new treaty was made the Government took measures to protect the fisheries and cruisers were placed on the service. But the Liberal press was not satisfied, and tales were told of poaching and of inadequate protection. Now, however, there is a change of base, and the Government is attacked for being unnecessarily harsh with the United States fishermen and with, by their harshness, causing the United States to threaten retaliation. That is the present position of the leader of the party—and it is a position that has given great satisfaction in the United States. It is not easy to see, however, how the Government was too liberal, easy and indolent in the preservation of the fisheries, and at the same time too harsh and unnecessarily vigorous in protecting Canadian rights. In fact, they were neither, but the circumstances have changed, and with them the Liberal party has veered around and, while before the Government was said to be wrong in not being too lenient, it is now said to have been wrong because it was too severe. There is this to be said of the former criticism of the Liberal party, that they could then profess to be patriotic Canadians wishing to preserve a Canadian heritage, while now their leader has taken a position calculated to give encouragement to a foreign country that is threatening a commercial war.

The Liberal party can alter its policy and change its base of attack rapidly, but in one thing it is always consistent—in its opposition to the Conservative Government. While its opponents have thus taken first one and then the other side of public questions, the Government has steadily pursued a consistent and careful course in the interest of the country.

Cankers humors of every description, whether in the mouth, throat or stomach, are expelled from the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other remedy can compare with this as a cure for all diseases originating in impure or impoverished blood.

GRATITUDE FOR JOURNEYING AND OTHER MERCIES.

"AND PRESERVED US IN ALL THE WAY." JOSHUA XXIV., 17.

For preservation by the way,
Thank offerings to God we pay,
Through dangers seen and unforseen,
His arm to shield has round us been,
For health and strength to all, and cheer,
For rend'ring native land more dear—
For spiritual blessings given
So bounteously to us by heaven,
For quiet peaceful Sabbath Day,
Unhallow'd by vile mammon's sway;
We gratefully would now proclaim
Thanksgiving to Thy Holy name.
All means would unavailing be,
Unsanctified, O Lord, by Thee,

Suggestive thoughts expression found,
Sight-seeing on viceregal ground,
Heaven's gate is open unto all,
Who eager for admittance call,
Not always so at Rideau Hall,
All's welcome to Immanuel's Land,
Who on the Saviour's merits stand.
In halls of legislature new,
We were repaid by cursory view.
And as Sir John A. was not there,
In turn repos'd upon his chair,
Would politics, till bolder grown,
With dignity sat on the "throne,"
Impromptu speeches made, retir'd,
Forgetful not that we aspired,
To wear a crown with many a gem
Within the New Jerusalem,
Like one rever'd, glad that our eyes
Could look to parents in the skies,
Who liv'd a life unsullied here,
And left a peerless record clear.
Mount Royal, worthy of the name,
May well the tourist's notice claim,
Enraptur'd standing on its height
Cry, "can there be a lovelier sight."
Our hearts were fill'd with gratitude,
As in cathedral grand we stood;
We had been taught the God of grace
In not confin'd to any place,
For in the dim religious light,
We walk by faith and not by sight.
Fail'd to discern the eye of sense,
With unsurpass'd magnificence,
May ravish'd be, but God we praise
And worship Him in simple ways.
When whirling over dread abyss,
No other trust we know save this,
Our Father's eye was guiding us
Through all the way so perilous,
And that the same protecting care,
Of ingles'de was with us there,
When sailing on the mighty deep
From all alarms He did us keep,
And felt His presence near to be,
Who trode the waves of Galilee,
And still'd the raging of the sea,
Atlantic's calm was doubly sweet,
Exchang'd for noisy bustling street
Where surging throngs with business rife
Contended for the gains of life.
What strange emotions fill'd our mind
As Boston harbor left behind,
Some points historic meet our gaze
Of revolutionary days,
When three ship loads of tea were sunk.
That British wives had better drunk,
And saved their land from Yankee spunk.
Back through the vista'd years of time,
Names honor'd now in every clime
The Pilgrim Fathers world-wide fam'd,
Our warmest adoration claimed.
Fond memory dwells with delight
Upon the crystal cascades bright
That leaping down the mountain swift—
Is lost within the canons rift,
The snow-capp'd mount with cloud-wreath'd side
Well nam'd for him the nation's pride
With ranges stretching far and wide,
Reflecting 'tis the one who reigns
In scales the mountains that portrays
The lovely colors of the flower,
That decks the beautious woodbine bower,
Whom we ador'd in life's prime hour,
In trophies won by conquering race,
The God of armies we could trace,
Acknowledging the unerring Hand,
That justice sway'd or judgment plann'd.
Unknown we landed strangers there,
We had not written rooms prepare,
Glad pondering the while we knew
That when Heaven burst upon our view
Dear lov'd ones who have gone before
Will greet us on the shining shore,
And thence we shall go out no more,
Then joy of joys 'twill be to hear,
The Saviour say, your welcome here,
To mansions furnish'd for you come
And dwell in our celestial home.

THE PULSE OF TRADE,

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

Cardinal Manning on Temperance.

Instancing the position of a high dignity of the Roman Catholic Church on the temperance question the views of Cardinal Manning may be noted. His Eminence says:—"For thirty-five years I have been priest and bishop in London; and now as I approach my eightieth year I have learned some lessons, and the first thing is this. The chief bar to the working of the holy spirit of God in the souls of men and women is intoxicating drink. I know no antagonist to that good spirit more direct, more subtle, more stealthy, more ubiquitious, than intoxicating drinks. Though I have known men and women destroyed for all manner of reasons, yet I know of no cause that effects man, woman, child and home with such universality and steady power as intoxicating drink." Cardinal Manning is a man of strictly abstemious habits, a moderate liver is every respect. He is a frequent guest at luxuriant banquets, but in the midst of such feasts generally makes his dinner of a baked potato, a piece of beef and a glass of water. The Cardinal rises at 5 in summer and 6 in winter. After half an hour's meditation he says mass in his private chapel, and then passes thirty minutes in thanksgiving. He breakfasts at 7 in summer and 8 in winter. After a very light breakfast, his eminence passes an hour or two over his correspondence and the London Times, which he cordially dislikes (so far as opinions are concerned), and devotes the rest of the morning to literary work and matters pertaining to the arch-diocese."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, it soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether riding from teething or otherwise. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and nobby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good clothes are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so far in knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its goods cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

The Winner of the Dress.

Among the prizes offered on the list at the Farmers' Picnic Thursday last was a handsome dress, presented by Mr. H. LeBrun, to go to the prettiest young lady on the grounds. By some misunderstanding the prize was, it appears, awarded to Miss Carey. We have been asked to state that the dress has since been awarded to Miss E. Mitchell, of Ashburnham.

Delay on the C. P. R

An accident which occurred a short distance east of Smith's Falls last night delayed the express due here at 5:12 this morning until one o'clock this afternoon. The express was made up of twelve coaches and was crowded with people board for a the Industrial. The wheels of a train got off the track and cut up the road for a stretch of four miles and this caused the delay at Smith Falls. A C. P. R. Official remarked that a delay of this kind had not occurred for a long time, but, of course, had to happen just at exhibition time when there was a great amount of traffic.

The Question of Luck.

Is there such a thing as luck? is the question often asked. There is and there is not. Success in business, so often ascribed to luck, is due mainly to sagacity, push and enterprise. To be lucky means in the general use of the term, fortunate. Something that comes to a man, success, for instance, as the result of his forethought and ability is not due to a fortituous combination of circumstances. But should a man happen on something to his advantage which he has not looked for which comes to him free of his own exertions, this may fairly be called luck. Take the instance of the unparalleled sale of boots and shoes now going on at Gough Bros.' double store. Here is luck for you. Not a man in the county even dreamed of such luck. Boots at half nothing. Shoes at absolutely below cost. Children's wear that will ward off chills and fortify their toes at phenomenally low prices. There is not a case on record where even the closest buyer has asked a reduction in the price of the boots and shoes at Gough's. Nobody has the cheek to do so, and their goods are going like hot cakes. There was a tremendous rush on Saturday and the rate at which the goods are going indicate that the people appreciate the goods and the prices; the best of goods and the lowest prices. A six thousand dollar stock being slaughtered at astonishing low prices. Men's, women's, boy's, children's boots. A choice new stock of fine goods. The greatest chance for bargains in boots and shoes ever presented in Peterborough. Note the place, 375 George-st. 1d65

THE THIEF CAUGHT.

Mr. Charles Porter's Clothes Line Visited Last Night.

Last night about half past eight Mrs. Chas. Porter, who lives on Alymer-st., had occasion to go into the yard in rear of the house when she discovered a man in the act of stripping the clothes line of the articles of wearing apparel that hung thereon. Upon hearing Mrs. Porter the thief made off. Mr. Porter who was in the house rushed out, but the man was gone, so he went to the police station immediately and reported the occurrence to Officer Stewart, while his brother, Mr. David Porter took a walk round to see if he could run across the robber. On Charlotte-st. he met a man who asked him where Snowdon's hotel was and Mr. Porter suspected this individual as being the same man who had been interviewing the clothes line. He went and informed Constable Stewart, and accompanied that officer to the yard at Snowdon's hotel. Here they found a man acting very suspiciously who Stewart seized, and upon looking round several articles of linen were found lying on the ground. The officer marched the man to the station and was surprised upon commencing to search him to find that, what had appeared to be a shirt, proved upon closer inspection to be a lady's print wrapper, which he had put on to facilitate carrying it. Upon making the fellow disrobe it was found he had concealed several ladies' print dresses and other pieces of linen clothing about his person. The man was not "broke," for a purse was found in his pocket containing a return ticket to Lakefield and $12 50 in bills, silver and coppers. He gave his name as "Bill" Wilson, and Officer Stewart says appeared almost paralyzed with fear.

At the Police Court this morning he gave his name as Robt. Young and said he was from Lakefield. He pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny and the Magistrate sentenced him to three months in gaol.

Vital Statistics.

The Division Registrar has received instructions from Toronto to prosecute with rigor all persons who refuse or neglect to furnish him with the necessary particulars. The principal offenders in this respect in Peterborough are the medical men and the superintendents of the cemeteries. The authorities have a long list of names and Police Court cases may be looked for. The law is strict and the Toronto authorities are bound to enforce it.

Police Court Pointers.

Hattie Trotter, a young girl about seventeen years of age, who does not conduct herself in a manner befitting a girl of her years, was up on a charge of vagrancy, and was remanded for one week.

Jas. Cash was arrested by Constable Adams last night for being drunk, but as it was his first offence and he having been very quiet, the Magistrate allowed him to go with the warning "Don't come here again."

A woman complained to the Magistrate that she was annoyed by some young men who were continually calling her indecent names. She lodged a complaint against one of the offenders and the case will come up to-morrow.

THE Featherbone Corset is guaranteed to give perfect ease to the wearer. O. C. Rowse has the sole agency for Peterborough. d62tf

At the Opera House.

The Star Theatre Company opened a season of three nights at the Opera House last evening, by presenting "The Galley Slave" to a large audience. The company is a good one and should receive the patronage of all lovers of the drama. Miss Florence Lytelle as Frances Carmini is a talented young actress and her impersonation well merited the applause bestowed. Mr. T. J. Quinn, as Sidney Norcott, was good, and Mr. J. M. Howard as Oliver Oliphant, was very amusing. The rest of the support was very creditable and the whole of the pathetic and absorbing story was so well wrought out as to delight the audience: and there can be little doubt but that they will be greeted with a good house this evening when they put on the boards that grand melo-drama "Silver King."

DEATH OF DR. COLLINS

After a Short Illness at Cobourg—Sad Circumstances.

The intelligence reached town this morning that Dr. Collins had died at Cobourg. The news at first could hardly be given credence, but when it was established beyond doubt a feeling of most profound sadness came over all who heard it, for the circumstances surrounding the death are, perhaps, the saddest that have been chronicled for some time. The doctor left Peterborough on Sunday last for Cobourg, where he was to be married to Miss Mary O'Neil at 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning. All preparations had been made, the chapel of St. Joseph's Convent beautifully decorated, the many friends of the bride had sent most handsome and valuable gifts and the arrangements for the happy event were most complete. But the doctor who had been suffering for some time from a boil on his neck which he had had lanced, and during a professional visit to Ennismore it is supposed he caught cold in the sore. However, it was never thought such an insignificent ailment would interfer with the nuptials, but when the hour for the ceremony arrived the doctor was too ill to leave his bed. It was then thought that a few days would find him all right again and the wedding would be celebrated quietly. But Providence had ruled it otherwise for the symptoms took a serious aspect and last night the doctors in attendance gave up hopes of saving his life and this morning their worst fears were realized when the doctor passed away. It is not known what was the direct cause of death, but it is supposed that blood poisoning must have taken place.

The object of much sympathy will be the young lady whose happiness has been shattered in such a sudden and melancholy manner. The doctor's parents will also receive the sympathy and condolence of everyone in the lost of their son who was just entering upon a life that promised of usefulness. The sadness of the story is increased when the suddenness of the death is considered. The deceased gentleman had purchased a fine brick residence on Simcoe-st. and had it all furnished ready for his return with his bride, but that return was destined never to take place. The feeling among every one whom the news reached, whether they had been acquainted with the doctor or not, was one of the most profound sorrow and sympathy for the family of the doctor and his intended bride.

Dr. Collins was probably between twenty-seven and thirty years of age and had only been about three years in Peterborough His father is a well-to-do farmer residing about two miles from the village of Hastings. He took his degree of M.D. at Kingston University about three years ago and came immediately to Peterborough, and began the practice of his profession. He was a very unassuming man, but has many warm friends here who will mourn his loss. The deceased had a fair share of practice and was just entering upon a life of bright prospects and good possibilities when so suddenly stricken down. He was a faithful member of the Roman Catholic Church and belonged to and was an active worker in the Emerald Benevolent Society. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 10:30 at Hastings.

Orange Excursion.

The Orange excursion which the Golden Eye carried to Jubilee Point to-day was attended by about one hundred and fifty people. Mr. McIlmoyie's orchestra was on board and a good time will undoubtedly be enjoyed. The steamer was to run as far as Idyl Wyld.

Tailors Organising.

At a meeting of the tailors held last night in Labor Hall it was decided to withdraw from the Knights of Labor and to form an assembly under a separate charter to be composed of all persons, male and female, working at the tailoring trade. The assembly will probably be organized on Thursday evening.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

Only Nine Factories Sold—A Great Deal of Time Wasted.

The Cheese Board met to-day and after considerable time had been wasted the last half of August make of nine factories was sold. The make of the last half of August and the make of September and October in round numbers were boarded with the intention of taking contract bids for the whole. This, however, was finally decided not to be desirable, after Mr. Hodgson had bid 8¾c., 9c. and 9c., and Mr. Dundas 8¾c., 8¾ and 9c. for the three months' cheese respectively. The buyers present were Messrs. Carton, Wrighton, Cook, Bird, Hodgson, Cluxton, Stewart, Fitzgerald and Dundas. Twenty-three factories boarded 2377 cheese of last half of August make as fallows:—

Baseball Matters

The baseball tournament to be held at the Exhibition next week will probably be very interesting. Already there are two entries—the Peterboroughs and the Cobourg. The latter club has not formally entered the contest but the correspondence which has taken place will amount to about the same thing. It is expected that Hastings, Campbellford, Ashley Nine of Belleville, and other nines in the district will be heard from in the near future.

The Baseball Club met last night and talked matters over for some length of time, but there was no outcome. A "split" has occurred in the club and the meeting was called to discuss the disputed points.

Brevities.

—Mr. C. N. Brown is now engaged in putting up street numbers in Auburn.

—It is probable that the Town Council will meet on Monday night next.

—The 57th Battalion is called to parade to-morrow evening.

—There will be no band in the Park this evening owing to other engagements.

—There will be four Scott Act cases at the Police Court to-morrow.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings healt and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

It is extremely interesting to visit some of the leading manufacturing houses in Toronto. Perhaps the most interesting and surprising of them all are the extensive Ornamental Stained Glass and Decorative works of the McCausland & Son. It is from this establishment that the finest windows have come for the principal edifices, throughout our country.

The Nicholls Hospital Trust.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I find in a late issue of one of the daily papers an advertisement for tenders for certain work in connection with the Nicholls Hospital now in course of erection in the North Ward. I gather from this advertisement that it is proposed to lead, by a tile drain, all the sewerage from the Hospital directly to the river. It seems to me that if this be done the Hospital will in a short time become one of the most popular and thriving institutions of our town, and as a summer resort, will draw better than all the hotels of the surrounding district. When the tiny typhoid germs dance merrily down the sparkling Otonabee and nestle underneath the sawdust, and creep it to the factories, summer boarders will flock to the Nicholls Hospital. The Hospital Board and the Town Council, and all who have interested themselves in this concern are to be congratulated on the certain success that awaits their efforts, for the proposed tile drain is enough to make a Hospital flourish in the midst of the most healthy community. Yours hopefully,

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1888.

The Treasure of Frachnard.

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

The doctor ruefully took it in his hands. "They have been!" he said. "Their tense is past. Excellent pantaloons, you are no more! Stay! something in the pocket," and he produced a piece of paper. "A letter! ay, now I mind me; it was received on the morning of the gale, when I was absorbed in delicate investigations. It is still legible. From poor, dear Casimir! It is as well," he chuckled, "that I have educated him to patience. Poor Casimir and his correspondence—his infinitesimal, timorous, idiotic correspondence!"

He had by this time cautiously unfolded the wet letter; but, as he bent himself to decipher the writing, a cloud descended on his brow.

"Bigre!" he cried, with a galvanic start.

And then the letter was whipped into the fire, and the doctor's cap was on his head in the turn of a hand.

"Ten minutes! I can catch it, if I run," he cried. "It is always late. I go to Paris. I shall telegraph."

"Henri! what is wrong!" cried his wife.

"Ottoman bonds!" came from the disappearing doctor; and Anastasie and Jean-Marie were left face to face with the wet trousers. Desprez had gone to Paris, for the second time in seven years, he had gone to Paris with a pair of wooden shoes, a knitted spencer, a black blouse, a country nightcap, and twenty francs in his pocket. The fall of the house was but a secondary marvel; the whole world might have fallen and scarce left his family more petrified.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE WAGES OF PHILOSOPHY.

On the morning of the next day the doctor, a mere specter of himself, was brought back in the custody of Casimir. They found Anastasie and the boy sitting together by the fire; and Desprez, who had exchanged his toilet for a ready made rig out of poor materials, waved his hand as he entered and sunk speechless on the nearest chair. Madame turned direct to Casimir.

"What is wrong!" she cried.

"Well," replied Casimir, "what have I told you all along? It has come. It is a clean shave this time; so you may as well bear up and make the best of it. House down, too, eh! Bad luck, upon my soul."

"Are we—are we—ruined!" she gasped.

The doctor stretched out his arms to her.

"Ruined," he replied, "you are ruined by your sinister husband."

Casimir observed the consequent embrace through his eyeglass; then he turned to Jean-Marie. "You hear!" he said. "They are ruined; no more pickings, no more house, no more fat cutlets. It strikes me, my friend, that you had best be packing; the present speculation is about worked out." And he nodded to him meaningly.

"Never!" cried Desprez, springing up. "Jean-Marie, if you prefer to leave me, now that I am poor, you can go; you shall receive your hundred francs, if so much remains to me. But if you will consent to stay"—the doctor wept—"Casimir offers me a place—as clerk," he resumed. "The emoluments are slender, but they will be enough for three. It is too much already to have lost my fortune; must I lose my son!"

Jean-Marie sobbed bitterly, but without a word.

"I don't like boys who cry," observed Casimir. "This one is always crying. Here! you clear out of this for a little; I have business with your master and mistress, and these domestic feelings may be settled after I am gone. March!" and he held the door open.

Jean-Marie slunk out, like a detected thief. By 13 they were all at the table but Jean-Marie.

"Hey!" said Casimir. "Gone, you see, Took the hint at once."

"I do not, I confess," said Desprez, "I do not seek to excuse his absence. It speaks of want of heart that disappoints me sorely."

"Want of manners," corrected Casimir. "Heart, he never had. Why, Desprez, for a clever fellow, you are the most gullible mortal in creation. Your ignorance of human nature and human business is beyond belief. You are swindled by heathen Turks, swindled by vagabond children, swindled right and left, up stairs and down stairs. I think it must be your imagination. I thank my stars I have none."

"Pardon me," replied Desprez, still humbly, but with a return of spirit at sight of a distinction to be drawn; "pardon me, Casimir. You possess, even to an eminent degree, the commercial imagination. It was the lack of that in me—it appears it is my weak point—that has led to these repeated shocks. By the commercial imagination the financier forecasts the destiny of his investments, marks the falling house"——

"Egad," interrupted Casimir; "our friend the stable boy appears to have his share of it."

The doctor was silenced; and the meal was continued and finished principally to the tune of the brother-in-law's not very consolatory conversation. He entirely ignored the two young English painters, turning a blind eyeglass to their salutations, and continuing his remarks as if he were alone in the bosom of his family; and with every second word he ripped another stitch out of the air balloon of Desprez' vanity. By the time coffee was over the poor doctor was as limp as a napkin.

"Let us go and see the ruins," said Casimir.

They strolled forth into the street. The fall of the house, like the loss of a front tooth, had quite transformed the village. Through the gap the eye commanded a great stretch of open snowy country, and the place shrunk in comparison. It was like a room with an open door. The sentinel stood by the green gate, looking very red and cold, but he had a pleasant word for the doctor and his wealthy kinsman.

Casimir looked at the mound of ruins, he tried the quality of the tarpaulin. "H'm," he said, "I hope the cellararch has stood. If it has, my good brother, I will give you a good price for the wines."

"We shall start digging to-morrow," said the sentry. "There is no more fear of snow."

"My friend," returned Casimir sententiously, "you had better wait till you get paid."

The doctor winced, and began dragging his offensive brother-in-law toward Tentaillon's. In the house there would be fewer auditors, and these already in the secret of his fall.

"Halloo," cried Casimir, "there goes the stable boy with his luggage; no, egad, he is taking it into the inn."

And sure enough, Jean-Marie was seen to cross the snowy street and enter Tentaillon's, staggering under a large hamper.

The doctor stopped with a sudden, wild hope.

"What can he have?" he said. "Let us go and see." And he hurried on.

"His luggage, to be sure," answered Casimir. "He is on the move—thanks to the commercial imagination."

"I have not seen that hamper for—for ever so long," remarked the doctor.

"Nor will you see it much longer," chuckled Casimir, "unless, indeed, we interfere. And, by the way, I insist on an examination."

"You will not require," said Desprez, positively, with a sob; and, casting a moist, triumphant glance at Casimir, he began to run.

"What the devil is up with him, I wonder?" Casimir reflected; and then, curiosity taking the upper hand, he followed the doctor's example and took to his heels.

The hamper was so heavy and large, and Jean-Marie himself so little and so weary, that it had taken him a great while to bundle it up stairs to the Desprez' private room, and he had just set it down on the floor in front of Anastasie when the doctor arrived, and was closely followed by the man of business. Boy and hamper were both in a most sorry plight, for the one had passed four months underground in a certain cave on the way to Acheres, and the other had run about five miles as hard as his legs would carry him, half that distance under a staggering weight.

"Jean-Marie," cried the doctor, in a voice that was only too seraphic to be called hysterical, "is it!— It is!" he cried. "Oh, my son, my son!" And he sat down upon the hamper and sobbed like a little child.

"You will not go to Paris, now," said Jean-Marie, sheepishly.

"Casimir," said Desprez, raising his wet face, "do you see that boy, that angel boy? He is the thief; he took the treasure from a man unfit to be intrusted with its use; he brings it back to me when I am sobered and humbled. There, Casimir, are the Fruits of my Teaching, and this moment is the Reward of my Life."

"Tiens," said Casimir.

WHAT CAN I AFFORD?

Every day of the week this query is the preliminary part of nearly every purchase made. People will not have what requires a large outlay of money. Everybody seems to be at the mercy of an unaccommodating pocketbook.

What Are We Going to Do About It?

In the very nature of things we have to do just what you want us to do. We are at your dictation in all matters that are regulated by the proportions of supply and demand. In short we will take for our goods which means our regular and low prices for every line in the shop. We sell every needed article in the Line of Groceries and Housekeeping Supplies. With us, your money will go as far as it possibly can in purchasing goods. Give us your trade and make a trial.

Just What You Can Afford to Pay,

ELEVEN HUNDRED SETTLE IN CANADA THIS SEASON.

Making a Total of 8000 Now in the Dominion—Mr. Justice Wurtele Transferred to the Court of Queen's Bench.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—The defalcations of Customs Officer Leslie, who was stationed at Leslie, Man., aggregate $1100, and the Customs Department has made a demand upon his sureties for a refund of the amount.

The Customs Department has granted the Red River Valley Railway all necessary facilities for the operation of the road across the boundary.

The Customs Department contemplate sending Customs Inspector Young of Winnipeg on a tour of inspection along the Northwest frontier with a view of introducing measures for preventing smuggling.

The reported removal of the Chinese interpreter at Victoria, B.C., is unfounded.

Last month $3000 was collected at Victoria from Chinese alone.

Mr. Joseph Pope, secretary to Sir John, has returned here from Prince Edward Island.

It is understood that Justice Wurtele has been transferred from the Superior Court to the Court of Queen's Bench. His salary will be increased from $4000 to $5000.

Col. Irvin, Inspector of Artillery, has returned to the city from Quebec. He attended the artillery competition at the Island of Orleans. Ontario was the only province not represented.

Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron leave to-morrow for Quebec.

Hon. Mr. Tupper has returned to the city.

The Department of Agriculture has been informed of the arrival of 96 Icelandic immigrants, making a total of 1100 for the season. There are now settled in the Dominion over 8000 of these hardy sons of the soil.

Mr. Shutt, chemist at the Experimental Farm, has returned to the city. He has been visiting England and Germany during the last two months for the purpose of gaining information respecting experimental work in agriculture in these countries, and also with the object of purchasing apparatus for the new laboratories. Mr. Shutt visited several universities in England and Germany. He says he has completed the purchase of chemical apparatus.

MANITOBA MATTERS.

The Hudson Bay Railway Company Sends Out an Exploring Expedition.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18.—Although there is no definite announcement, the belief prevails that the Government accepts the Hudson Bay Railway's alternative offer to build sixty miles, but the acceptance is so carefully guarded that it is doubtful if the company will agree to it. The company sent out an exploring expedition to the Narrows to-day to ascertain the capabilities of the country.

Strachan, a clerk in the Canadian Pacific Railway city ticket office, charged with the embezzlement of $619, has been remanded till Friday.

Chicago has sent another grain buyer here to purchase grain.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney and Mrs. Dewdney leave for Ottawa to-night.

Narrow Escape from Death of a Stationer —Two Painful Accidents.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 19.—E. A. Taylor, the well-known stationer, had a very narrow escape from being killed. He was standing on a small step ladder assisting in removing some of the fixtures from his old store, when he suddenly lost his balance and struck his head just below his temple with great force against the fixtures. He fell to the floor and was picked up insensible. Medical aid was summoned and he was removed to his home. His leg was also injured.

A young man named Sutherland, a brakeman on a G. T. R. freight train, had one of his feet cut off while coupling cars at Woodstock. He had only been out from England three weeks, and it is doubtful if he will survive the shock.

Contractor William H. Harwood while engaged in plastering the ceiling of the new church of St. John the Evangelist, on St. James-street, had the misfortune to break both his wrists. The fall was occasioned by the giving way of the scaffolding.

A Run Off on the C. P. R.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—A run-off occurred early this morning on the line of the C. P. R. a few miles west of Peterboro. The Toronto train due in the city at 6 o'clock this morning did not arrive until 1 o'clock this afternoon. Eight freight cars and a locomotive were ditched and the contents of the cars scattered over the line.

Death of Advocate Elliott.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—R. J. Elliott, advocate, who was struck by the hoof of a carter's horse, died to-night from his injuries. Mr. Elliott had only commenced to practice law two years ago and was very popular. He was also captain of the 6th Fusiliers and editor-in-chief of McGill University Gazette.

Frontenac Conservative Candidate.

KINGSTON, Sept. 18.—At the Conservative convention for the County of Frontenac, to select a standard bearer in the coming election to fill the vacancy in the Local Legislature caused by the death of the late Mr. Wilmot, Hugh Smith, warden of the county, was chosen.

THE TALK OF LONDON.

A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT'S CABLE LETTER.

The Parnell Commission Begins Like a Play—But It is not to be a Comedy—Unlimited Powers of the Court.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—It began like a play, this Parnell commission. Admission was only by ticket—one color for the first floor, so to speak, set apart for journalists, solicitors, barristers and Queen's counsels; another color for two semi-proscenium boxes, where ladies sat, and blue tickets for the gallery.

The accommodation for this great play were as if the boodle trials were to be held in the chambers of a New York police judge. When Judges Hannen, Smith and Day entered, just as the big clock was striking 11, the audience was fairly massed together, and oxygen was in great request. Only one man seemed cool. He was Geoge Lewis, who was there as a Parnellite solicitor. He was the stage manager of the cause celebre, and looked as though he regarded the sitting as the preliminary to a fizzle. The three judges, however, looked as if they meant serious business, and when President Commissioner Hannen finished reading the program governing the inquiry the audience saw that what at first looked like a comedy was not to be one in the hands of these judges. Yet it might turn out to be a burlesque collaborated by the government and the Times.

An evening paper foolishly asserts that the commissioners have no power to release Dillon on bail. There is no limit to the power of a royal commission. It may send to The New York Herald office in London and search every bureau or box and carry off letters or other documents, together with the staff, and this without a word of forewarning or explanation. It may compel a business man to produce his most private accounts, and send him to jail if he refuses. There is nothing which a royal commission cannot do, for it is armed with all the powers of Parliament and they are practically unlimited. If, then, it thinks proper to set Dillon free it can do so. It can also arrest and throw into prison any high or low, who may rashly question or defy its power.

But the Parnellites are not disposed to incur this penalty. Following Sir Charles Russell's advice they will boldly face the inquiry and see everything out, come what may.

I can only say that at this moment both sides profess to be perfectly confident of victory. The Times, in spite of many contradictory accounts from time to time, is said to be all right by those who ought to know. In that case somebody must be all wrong. It will be quite useless to look for even the slightest clue as yet to the enigma.

A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

Dillon's Release.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The statement that John Dillon had been released on bail is incorrect. His release had no connection with the action of the Parnell Commission. The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, on account of the medical report on the state of Mr. Dillon's health, granted him an unconditional release. The full term of his imprisonment would not have expired until the end of the year. On his arrival at Dublin he was met by a host of friends. Mr. Dillon is much thinner and paler than when he was sent to prison and is obviously ill.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

Angry Because She Refused Him Ten Cents With Which to Buy Liquor.

PERTH AMBOY, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Bridget Patten was shot by her husband, Thomas Patten, because she refused to give him ten cents with which to buy liquor. Patten, who is employed on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, had been on a spree for several days, and awoke only half sober. By threatening his wife he induced her to let him have 25 cents, and he left the house. He returned about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, drunk and very ugly. He demanded ten cents, but his wife refused to give him any more money. She was lying on a bed nursing her three-months-old infant. With an oath, her husband dragged her from the bed and began to kick her. As she was regaining her feet he drew a revolver and fired at her, the shot taking effect in her neck. She seized her infant and ran from the house, closely followed by her husband, who kept firing shot after shot at her, none of which, however, took effect.

She finally reached the home of a neighbor, and fell to the floor with her infant in her arms. Patten, with his revolver still in his hand, tried to gain an entrance to the house in which his wife had taken refuge, but he was kept out, and was finally arrested by Chief-of-Police Jackson. The bullet first fired entered Mrs. Patten's neck on the right side and grazed the jugular vein. Dr. Wilson, who is attending the woman, has not deemed it advisable to probe for the ball. Her condition is critical.

The Baltic Still Aground.

COLLINGWOOD, Sept. 19.—The two sister ships, Atlantic and Pacific, have failed to pull the Baltic off the island on which she is ashore near Kagawong. Another attempt will be made to accomplish this with the assistance of the Northern Belle. The water which had been let in the hold to prevent the Baltic from pounding was pumped out, and as she made no water it is believed that the vessel has sustained no injury. The hold has again been filled to keep her resting easily.

Seriously Injured by a Playmate.

WINDSOR, Sept. 18.—Fred Townsend, aged 16, wrestled and threw a colored youth of the name of Lyons, whereupon the latter got angry and threw a stone which struck Townsend's head, fracturing his skull. The doctor has slight hope of his recovery. Both lads live near Kingsville.

Eat it was Loaded.

KINGSTON, Sept. 18.—Joseph Reid of Kingston Mills met with an accident this morning which came near costing him his life. He was in a saloon when the 5-year-old son of the proprietor went to his father's desk and took a revolver, playfully exclaiming to one of the men: "I won't shoot you. You ain't loaded." As he made the latter remark he pointed the weapon at Reid and pulled the trigger, when there was an explosion and blood slowly oozed from a wound under Reid's right eye. Reid immediately hurried to a surgery where the bullet was extracted. The ball struck the cheek bone under the right eye and remained imbedded there.

Queen's College Chairs Filled.

KINGSTON, Sept. 18.—At a meeting of the trustees of Queen's University, this afternoon, John Macgillivray, B.A., Ph. D., was appointed to the chair of modern languages. He is a Canadian, a Collingwood boy and brother of the pastor of Chalmers Church, Kingston.

James Cappan, M.A., of Glasgow, secured the professorship in English language and literature.

An M.P.'s Little Fracas.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—A fracas occurred at the court house this afternoon between Mr. Vanasse, M.P., and Mr. Bourgouin, arising out of the veto meeting of last week. The member for Yamaska charged the learned counsel with being a traitor to the Conservatives and sold to Mercier, whereupon Mr. Bourgouin struck Mr. Vanasse in the face. Friends then came up and interfered.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Exhibition Receipts—Death of a Centenarian—The Wandering Jew Nabbed.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—Mr. William Brown, who formerly resided with his son at 412 Queen-street west, has died at Bolton village at the great age of 105 years.

Hon. Thomas Greenway, Premier of Manitoba, is in the city looking after that province's exhibit at the fair. He says that the damage done by the frost has been greatly exaggerated. Despite the losses there will be as much—if not more—realized from the crops this year than last. He was not prepared to say anything definite about the Hudson Bay railway scheme, for the reason that matters in connection with it have not yet taken a definite shape.

The total receipts at the exhibition so far this year are $34,746; last year for the same days, $27,632.

Yesterday Chief of Police Grasett received a dispatch from Scotland Yard, London, Eng., notifying him that the officers of that department had succeeded in securing the person of Barnett. No further particulars were contained in the cable, except that Barnett was being held to await the pleasure of the Toronto authorities. A reply was promptly dispatched to the effect that an officer would be sent after the prisoner as soon as possible, accompanied with the request to hold Barnett until called for. The warrant on which Barnett was arrested was issued on Sept. 6, and sworn to by Detective Inspector Stark. It charges Barnett with the fraudulent appropriation of the proceeds of two deposit receipts, the property of the Central Bank, on Sept. 7, 1887, the amount of each being $5250.

Yesterday morning in the Court of General Sessions, Judge Morgan delivered judgment in the appeal case of Rev. W. F. Wilson against the conviction by the Police Magistrate for disorderly conduct. He held that the conviction, notwithstanding the technical points raised by Mr. Bigelow, was perfectly legal so far as form went. It now remains for the merits of the case to be gone into, which will probably be some day next week. The plumbers' appeal case will be taken up about the same time.

CHARGE AGAINST A DOCTOR.

Trying to Put His Daughter-in-Law in an Insane Asylum.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Dr. Benjamin Andrews, a wealthy physician of Brooklyn, is charged with endeavoring to have his son's wife, Jennie Andrews, placed in an insane asylum. The doctor was opposed to his son's marriage, and the daughter-in-law claims that all the family trouble is due to his opposition. She says that her husband is a drunkard and that he once went to bed with his clothes on and set the bedclothes on fire with a cigar, and that he would have been burned to death but for her exertions. Dr. Stone, who called to see Mrs. Andrews, says she is not insane, but was suffering from an assault made by her husband.

She Married the Coachman.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Sept. 19.—Miss Annie Rider, daughter of a leading bookseller here, has caused a profound sensation in society circles by her clandestine marriage to a coachman. She is a highly cultured and extremely attractive young woman. She was the inventor of the "blue flame" kindling wood, which had been patented and the manufacture of which had become a lucrative business. The coachman's name is Morgan, and he is a very intelligent man. It has just come out that they were married last April, though they have lived apart, and by no outward manifestations have they betrayed their relations. Morgan a short time ago resigned his coachmanship and began studying telegraphy. By some means the young couple became alarmed lest their secret should come out, and have at last publicly announced their marriage and will hereafter live together. The young lady is 22 and her husband 24.

Shot a Cuban Bank Officer.

HAVANA, Sept. 19.—Senor Manuel Romero, one of the head officers of the Spanish Bank of the Island of Cuba, was murdered while sitting in his office at the bank. A young man named Victor Manuel Garcia, who had been lately employed in the bank, was discharged by Senor Romero for bad conduct two days ago. Manual Garcia, sr., father of this young man, appeared in the office of Senor Romero to inquire the cause of his son's discharge. Words ensued which were followed by blows, in which Garcia drew a revolver, but was disarmed by employes of the bank. At this moment Garcia, junior, appeared and fired two shots at Senor Romero, killing him instantly. The murderer is only 21 years old and of good family. Senor Romero was of excellent reputation. Both father and son are now in jail.

A Train Stopped for a Duel.

CATTLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 19.—Two men, Steele and Mockabee, both drunk, boarded the eastbound Chesapeake and Ohio train at Mount Stirling and fought all the way to Stepstone, where the conductor put the men off and told them to fight it out. They drew their pistols and exchanged five shots each. The fifth shot from Steele's pistol passed through Mockabee's brain, killing him instantly. They were cousins. After the killing Steele boarded the train and went home, the train having waited until the duel was over.

Floods in New York State.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Rain fell at Newburgh Monday night to the depth of five inches. Landslides and washouts occurred at this city on both the Erie and West Shore roads. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon neither of the Erie tracks had been cleared for the passage of trains. Passengers are transferred at the scene of the blockade.

The Crouch Murder Case.

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 19.—Detective Ballard has returned from Lexington, Mich. It is stated that he has secured the missing link in the great Crouch murder case. He has possession of a photograph of the alleged murderer and claims to possess evidence that will surely bring to the surface the details of the horrible slaughter of nine persons.

United Typothetae of America.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The second annual session of the United Typothetae of America, the employing printers of the United States and Canada, was begun yesterday. The attendance was about 100, considerably less than was anticipated, though in all probability this number will be largely increased to-day.

A Man Unfit to Live.

LONG ISLAND, Sept. 19.—William Bohan, who is charged with having gouged out both eyes of his wife about a week ago, was tried before a jury and promptly convicted of mayhem. His wife was the chief witness against him, and although an unwilling one her testimony was sufficient to ensure his conviction.

Jacksonville's Death Roll.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 18.—The official bulletin for the 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. to-day shows 156 new cases of yellow fever with twenty deaths.

Murderer Jacobs' Trial.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—No judgment was rendered in the Pitcher case yesterday.

The Caughnawaga murder case was continued at the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday. Agathe Moineau, a neighbor of Jacobs; Madame Moineau, mother of the murdered woman; Moise Leport, a constable, and Dr. Patton gave evidence.

MR. SHERMAN'S SCHEME.

THE ANNEXATION BEE BUZZING IN HIS BONNET.

Ohio's Senator Thinks the Dominion can be Drawn into the Union by a Policy of Friendliness.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—In the Senate Mr. Sherman's resolution offered on Monday instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to enquire into the state of the relations of the United States with Great Britain and the Dominion of Canada and to report at the next session such measures as are expedient to promote friendly commercial and political intercourse between those countries and the United States, was taken up, and Mr. Sherman proceeded to address the Senate, delivering his remarks from manuscript. After an allusion to the President's retaliation message, and a justification of the rejection of the fisheries treaty, he asked, why should Canada refuse to allow American fishing vessels to enter her ports and to ship their fish to their American markets? A denial of that privilege appeared so unchristian and selfish that he wondered it had not long since led to violent retaliation. If the President had by proclamation withheld the like privileges from Canadian fishing vessels, the evil, he believed, would have been quickly corrected, but the President instead of exercising the powers which he had under the Act of March 3, 1887, had asked Congress in his retaliation message for the power to suspend a commerce which had amounted for the last six years to $270,000,000. No wonder the sudden change of base excited surprise in both countries and was regarded as a mere political movement. The President's proposition was, in other words, to suspend and embarrass the commerce of exports and imports amounting to nearly a hundred millions a year. Such a proposition, made without warning in the midst of a popular election had been the President's response to the earnest demand made by the American fishermen that they should be secured in the enjoyment of what they believed to be their unquestionable rights.

Why had the President, he asked, blended the dispute about the transhipment of fish with the vast interior commerce of the country? Why connect the controversy in the waters about the mouth of the St. Lawrence with commercial relations along a boundary line of 4000 miles? No good could come of such a movement unless it was desired to establish non-intercourse between the two countries. The measure of retaliation requested by the President was far beyond the range of and out of all proportion to the complaint.

He denied the position taken by the President, that Article XXIX of the treaty of 1871 had been terminated on July 1, 1885. A constructive repeal, he argued, was not favored by law. Besides, all the contracting parties treated that article as being in full force.

The retaliation proposed by the President was retaliation against the United States. When President Grant had asked Congress for powers like these, they had been refused him, and was Congress now going to give to President Cleveland the power which it had refused to President Grant? Even if Great Britain had violated a treaty, Congress alone could prescribe the proper remedy, either by abrogation of the whole treaty or a portion of it, or by retaliation in kind. In that case Congress had furnished a remedy simple, ample and complete in the Act of Congress, March 3, 1887. Congress had not undertaken to abrogate Article XXIX of the treaty of 1871, and according to his construction that article was now in full force and effect. Neither the interests of the American people nor public policy demanded its abrogation, but rather that it should be maintained in force.

The discrimination against American vessels in Canadian canals, although unjust, had been seized upon as a pretence for this bill. He concluded, therefore, it was not wise to give the President the additional powers of retaliation which he asked.

The time had come when the people of the United States and the people of Canada should take a broader view of their relations towards each other. The whole history of the two countries had been a continuous warning that they could not remain at peace except by political as well as commercial union. It would be better for all if the whole continent north of Mexico shared in the prosperity and blessings of the American Union. But the way to union with Canada was not by unfriendly legislation but by friendly overtures. The true policy of the Government of the United States was to tender to Canada freedom of trade and intercourse and make that tender in such a fraternal way that it should be an overture to the Canadian people to become a part of the American Government. He saw in the success of that policy much that was good, nothing that was harmful to any part of the country. He was not wishing to vote for any measure that was not demanded by national honor.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) replied to Mr. Sherman, describing a portion of his speech as a "post mortem on the fisheries treaty," and said Mr. Sherman's zollverein idea had seemed to be a plan for the annexation of Canada. He admired that senator for thus grasping Canada around the waist and holding her up to a close embrace with the people of the U.S. He looked forward, perhaps at the end of the next century, to something like a realization of this dream, unless in the meantime the Federal party of the United States, which was so much in love with the ancient traditions of centralized power, might think it better for Canada to embrace the United States within her union and draw them back within the Imperial power of Great Britain. He was a little at a loss to know, in view of recent presidential elections, whether the United States were not after all drifting to imperialism. He had been surprised at the breadth of Mr. Sherman's treatment of the question and preferred to read that senator's speech before commenting upon it. The Committee on Foreign Relations would meet to-morrow. It had had before it since Sept. 10 the Retaliation Bill passed by the House, and it was with astonishment that he had heard the senator from Ohio condemn the bill before it had been considered by that committee. After it had been considered to-morrow he would bring the subject to the attention of the country.

Mr. Sherman's resolution went over without action.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1888.

BURIAL REFORM.

An English clergyman lectured in Montreal recently on the subject of burial reform, and at a conference held afterwards resolutions were adopted endorsing the work of the Burial Reform Association.

The Rev. Mr. Lawrence, the clergyman referred to, said that three leading thoughts animated the promotions of the reform, and these he stated to be (1) that a Christian funeral should show forth the Christian principles of faith and hope; (2) the essential part of man is not the perishable body, but the perishable soul, and (3) the mortal remains do not constitute the true personality of the departed one. Topics of absorbing interest, the speaker said, grouped themselves about the subject, and he enumerated some of them as follows:—(1) The life on earth, an integral part of the life eternal; (2) man a spiritual being, capable even in this life of wondrous development; (3) death, to the Christian, a transition from one stage of existence to a higher; (4) the observance of natural laws for the proper giving back of the body to the plain earth, an act of recognition of the Divine order; (5) the safeguarding of the general health, a public duty; (6) the spiritual, risen, body, to be like unto Christ's glorified body; (7) the showing practical sympathy with the bereaved, a Christian privilege; (8) Christian art a handmaid to religion; and (9) solemn contemplation on things unseen, an imperative duty.

Apart from the religious aspect of the question, there are material considerations that should influence the public opinion in opposition to excessive display at funerals. There is at such times a commendable desire to show respect to the departed friend, but where elaborate displays are common there is a danger that, in endeavoring to conduct the funeral according to custom, the family may incur expenses that it cannot afford. The time of mourning is often the time when all the resources of the family should be guarded for necessities, and a costly funeral may entail weeks of hardship and privation. With these facts in view, we understand one object of the society is to bring about a change in funeral customs towards simplicity and moderate outlay, that no one will feel called upon to endanger their comfort to inter a friend or a head of a family in accordance with the usages of society. The subject is certainly one deserving of attention.

YOUNG'S POINT.

Correspondence of the Review.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. Leonard, wife and daughter, of Rochester, N. Y., spent a couple of days in the village last week, the guests of the Lakeview House.

PICNIC.—The picnic under the auspices of St. Mary's church passed off very pleasantly and was a decided success financially and otherwise. Several of Peterborough's "fair women and brave men" graced the occasion by their presence. A few games were provided, but the majority of those present remained near the dancing platform to enjoy the excellent music given by Mr. McIlmoyle and his assistants.

DANCING PARTY.—A large number attended the party at the Lakeview House on the evening of the 12th inst. This was the second party of the season at this house and, needless to say, proved as satisfactory and enjoyable as those for which the house is already noted.

TO CHANGE HANDS.—Mr. D. Costello will soon leave here to re-open the Albion Hotel in Ashburnham. Dan has hosts of friends and while regretting his departure we can not but tender our good wishes for his continued welfare and prosperity. The hotel here reverts to Mr. McFarlane, the owner, who is very popular and an experienced hand at the business.

ENNISMORE.

Correspondence of the Review.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On last Saturday evening while Mr. M. Flood and Mr. M. Collins were returning home from town, and on crossing the bridge they came in collision with two gentlemen in another rig which was coming against them. It was not at the turning out place and both horses refused to turn out, when all at once both horses became frightened and bolted. Mr. Flood's horse slipped and fell close to to the edge and the other buggy catching in the hind wheel of Mr. Flood's capsized both Ennismore gentlemen into the lake. One of the strangers jumped out quickly and held Flood's horse firmly on the bridge. At this time Mr. M. Leonard accompanied by a young lady drove up and Mr. Leonard at once sprung out to help the two out of the water, when the young lady cried "pull Mr. Collins out first." Both men and the buggy were soon released nothing having been broken but one shaft. As soon as Mr. Flood secured dry footing he exclaimed "the longer a man lives the more he knows."

ZION.

Correspondence of the Review.

FARMERS' PICNIC.—The farmers of this locality had a grand picnic on the 13th to Jubilee, where they distributed a few very costly prizes to the lucky winners. First, best looking girl, 2nd for the heaviest lady on board. It being rather a difficult matter to guess the weight, as three appeared to be the same size, the judges came to the conclusion to have them weighed, so the prize awaits the heaviest lady. But this is nothing to compare with Zion football.

BUTTERNUT PICKERS.—A large waggon load of butternut pickers spent a day at the lake, the majority of them being girls. We will give the Smith man some when he comes down.

KEENE EXHIBITION.—Now is the time to prepare your stock for the Keene show, as a few thousand dollars will be scattered around on the 4th.

FALL SEEDING.—The farmers here are mostly busy with their fall seeding of which a very large acreage has been sown. No doubt the brighter frost, etc., have tempted them to sow more than usual.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL held their picnic on Friday of last week and it was, we are pleased to state, a decided success. The music was all that could be desired. In fact the music given by the choir here has a wide-spread renown.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings healt and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

It is extremely interesting to visit some of the leading manufacturing houses in Toronto. Perhaps the most interesting and surprising of them all are the extensive Ornamental Stained Glass and Decorative works of the McCausland & Son. It is from this establishment that the finest windows have come for the principal edifices, throughout our country.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and nobby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good clothes are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so far in knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its goods cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Death of Rev. I N. Robinson.

To-day Mr. T. W. Robinson received word of the death of his brother, Rev. Isaac N. Robinson, which occurred very recently at Souris City, Man. The reverend gentleman was chairman this year of the Brandon district Methodist Conference. It is not likely that the body will be brought to Peterborough for interment.

He Wasn't Made to Work.

Thos. Ritchie was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant of commital for the non-payment of a fine. On the 27th of August last Ritchie was up at the police court on a charge of drunkenness and Mr. Edmison, police magistrate at that time, fined him $10 or twenty days and gave him twenty days in which to pay the fine. He also gave the young man a severe lecture about his idle habits and said that he should be ashamed to be living on his poor old mother who was compelled to work for her living. The lecture seems to not have done any good and this morning the loafer went up to gaol for twenty days.

Janauschek.

Of this great actress who appears at Bradburn's Opera House Friday evening, Sept. 21st, the Philadelphia Record says:—"During the past week the greatest of living tragediennes has been playing an engagement in this city which has been heralded as Janauschek's farewell to the Philadelphia stage. It is insisted by the great actress' manager that after this season she will play no more, yet this will seem almost incredible to those who but yesterday witnessed Janauschek's superb acting. Tragic actresses are not to be had upon call—least of all those who, like Janauschek, join to magnificent natural gifts the serene poise, technical quality and absolute mastery of expression that follow only upon a long and varied experience. Unless physically unable to act, an artiste so richly endowed should not leave the stage until the sacred fire of inspiration shall begin to burn dull and low, and Mme. Janauschek has never manifested a fuller and more complete grasp of the resources of her art than during her engagement at the opera house last week." The Ottawa Free Press says:—"Madame Janauschek supported by an excellent company appeared at the Grand last evening in the celebrated dramatization of Walter Scott's great novel, Guy Mannering, entitled Meg Merrilies, and thoroughly satisfied the large audience present of her great dramatic abilities." 1d66

ARRESTED IN BUFFALO.

A Man Supposed to Have Been the Gough Robber Nabbed.

When the excitement is all over and the affair ceased to be talked of, a man has been arrested in Buffalo who is, in all probability, the daring fellow who committed, or attempted to commit the Gough burglary. It will be remembered that a man named Greenfield, who escaped from the Central Prison some time ago was credited with several burglaries here, it being supposed he was identical with young Ferguson who is well known here. This man Greenfield was supposed to be in Buffalo, and Chief Roszel, immediately after the Gough affair occurred, wrote a letter to the Chief of Police in that city, asking if the whereabouts of Greenfield was known. An answer was received that he had been arrested there for bringing in stolen goods from Barrie, but that, the parties failing to prosecute, he was only charged with vagrancy, and, after serving a short term, was allowed to go and had not been seen since. The Buffalo police also promised to hold him if they ran across him again. This morning Chief Roszel received a telegram from Buffalo stating that Greenfield had been caught. The Chief wired asking if there were any marks on the man, and the reply came back that he had wounds on wrist and leg. This is probably the man who was the principal in the burglary at Gough's, and it is evident, from the vest which he left behind him and which was identified by Mr. LeBrun as one that was stolen at the time of his robbery, that he is the same gentleman who has been operating in Peterborough and then made his skip. Whether Greenfield will prove to be the Peterborough boy it is suspected he is, cannot be said yet, but there is little doubt but what the right man for the burglary has been nabbed this time.

It is probable that Greenfield will be brought here at once. Police Magistrate Dumble wrote to the Attorney General today asking the Government to take action to have the man brought back, and, if this meets with a refusal, the town will take the necessary steps to extradite the man. The preliminary papers, in fact, were made out to-day and as soon as word comes from the Government Constable Stewart will leave for Buffalo to identify the man, which he believes he can easily do.

A Pleasant Day.

The Orange picnic to Fraserville was a success yesterday. The day was pleasant the picknickers happy and the sail to Jubilee Point and then to Idyl Wyld was much enjoyed. Those who remained at the Point tripped the light fantastic to their heart's content, and the music by Mr. McIlmoyle's orchestra was, as usual, first-class.

Personal.

Mr. John Roszel and his wife, of Smithville, Lincoln county, uncle of Chief Roszel, were in town yesterday visiting the Chief. Mr. Roszel said he came here expecting to find a place about the size of Ashburnham, and was greatly surprised when he beheld our brisk and busy town. He thought Peterborough was a fine place and was delighted with all he saw.

At the Opera House.

"Silver King" was presented at the opera house last night to a good audience who entered into the spirit of the play and seemed to enjoy it immensely. This drama, as is well known, is one of the strongest ever written, and when well put on cannot fail to delight any audience. The Star Company is by no means a poor one and their presentation of the drama last evening was a good one, and the audience were liberal in the manifestations of appreciation. Miss Florence Lytelle as "Nellie Denver," portrayed the loving and devoted wife and then the careworn, despairing mother in a clever manner, and Mr. T. J. Quinn, as Wilfred Denver, took his character in a highly creditable manner. W. C. Whitlock as Eliza Coombs, made much amusement and portrayed his character to perfection. The support was generally good throughout. To-night the Star Company will present "A Celebrated Case," and will no doubt be greeted by a full house.

OVERCOME IN A WELL.

Two Men Fall Insensible at the Bottom of a Well.

Yesterday considerable excitement was created at Lakefield by the narrow escape from a death of suffocation by gas of Thos. Dunford and Arthur Robinson, who were engaged blasting at the bottom of a well on the premises of Mr. Geo. Cochrane. A blast had been put down and exploded, and Dunford descended into the well to clean away the stones and earth the blast had thrown up. He had not been down long when Mr. Cochrane looked into the well and was surprised to see Dunford lying prostrate at the bottom. Robinson immediately tied a rope around his waist and was lowered down to ascertain what had befallen his fellow workman. Upon nearing the bottom the cause became too evident. The blast had opened up the earth and a large quantity of gas had accumulated at the bottom of the well and overpowered the unfortunate man. Robinson was in the act of placing a rope around the body of the insensible workman, when he, too beside his comrade. This was observed by the watchers above and how to get the two men into the fresh air was most excitedly discussed. If another man had gone into the well to bring up the insensible workmen it would have most certainly added one more to the insensible forms lying at the bottom, for the gas was too strong to be withstood for any length of time. However a good idea was suggested and acted upon. A pail of burning paper was lowered into the well, and in this way the poisonous gas was consumed and the air cleared. A man was then lowered and the bodies of the two men brought out of the well. Doctors had been sent for and means were immediately adopted to restore the inanimate forms to consciousness. After considerable time had been spent in applying restoratives, signs of returning life became visible and finally consciousness was fully restored.

WAS OVERCOME AND TOPPLED OVER

To-day the men are doing as well as could be expected.

Suit for Damages.

Notice has been received by the town from Messrs Hall & Hayes, solicitors for Mr. Snowdon, that, if the Simcoe-st. bridge is lowered as Mr. Phelan has asked and as the town council ordered, they will bring a suit for damages against the corporation for material damage that Mr. Snowdon claims the work will do his business.

Leaving Town.

Mr. Wm. Henderson, of the C.P.P. freight office here, has resigned his position on that road, and will, as soon as his resignation is accepted, leave Peterborough. He has taken a far more lucrative situation with the Travellers Accident and Life insurance Company, having been appointed special agent for this company on the Ontario division of the C. P. R. Mr. Henderson will be on the road a great part of the time, but his headquarters will be in Toronto. The object of the insurance company is to work up their insurance among the railway employees. Mr. Henderson who has resided here for the past three years, has many warm friends, who, though sorry to lose a good friend, will congratulate him on the securing of his better situation.

Honoring the Dead.

The funeral of the late Dr. C. Collins took place at Hastings this morning. Several Peterborough gentlemen went down to the burial, among whom were Rev. Father McEvay and Messrs. H. LeBrun and J. Maloney. At the meeting of the Emerald Benevolent Association last night the following representatives were appointed to attend the funeral to-day, it being impossible for the society to attend in a body:—Messrs. P. McCue, Geo. Ahearn, Geo. Scriber, Henry Carveth, T. Mercier, E. R. Chambiant, Geo. Giroux and Robt. Donoaghue. The lodge room of the society will be draped in black for one month. The following resolution was passed:—"Resolved, that whereas in the death of Dr. Collins we have sustained the loss of a true friend and brother, therefore, be it resolved that we place on record an expression of our kindly feeling towards the deceased, and that we send the same to the members of his family and that a copy be sent to the Catholic Record and Peterborough daily papers."

MARRIED IN OTTAWA.

Mr. Harry Phelan United in Marriage to one of Ottawa's Fair Daughters.

There was a most interesting and happy event celebrated at St. Patrick's church, Ottawa, yesterday morning, when Mr. Phelan, of the firm of Fortye & Phelan, was united in marriage to Miss Maggie N. Nagle, second daughter of Mr. Richard Nagle, of Ottawa. Speaking of the marriage the Ottawa Free Press says:—"The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Whalen, Mr. Fred G. Cox, son of Mr. George A. Cox, of Peterborough, acting as groomsman and Miss Aggie Nagle as bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a suit of white corded silk, with orange blossoms, the bridemaid's costume being cream colored. The bride's train was carried by Miss Boxie. The church was filled with spectators, including many of the old schoolmates of the bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Smith. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's father, on Gloucester-st., where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Phalen leave this evening on their wedding tour, carrying with them the best wishes of their Ottawa friends for their future prosperity and happiness. The presents received by Miss Nagle on the occasion of her marriage, were numerous and costly. They included a magnificent silver tea set, from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phalen, father and mother of the groom; handsome piano lamp from Mr. D. Fortye, the groom's partner; hand-painted silver fruit dish from Mr. Alex. Elliott, of Peterborough; silver pudding dish from Mr. and Mrs. Gladman, of Peterborough; silver tray, Mr. LeBrun, Peterborough; magnificent lamp, from Mr. Richard Nagle; vases, Mr. T. Raphach; salad dish, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Brophy; case of knives, Mr. Macpherson, Montreal; silver tea set, Mr. F. G. Cox; locket and chain, from the groom; silver ice-pail, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Brophy; pair of vases, Mr. and Mrs. Rubidge; desk, Mr. and Mrs. John Heney, Ottawa, besides many neat gifts from former schoolmates of the bride and other friends." Mr. Phelan is one of Peterborough's finest young men and most sincere and numerous will be the wishes of future happiness and prosperity that will be bestowed upon him and his estimable bride and most cordial will be the welcome that will await their return to our town. The REVIEW joins with their many friends in these expressions.

CRICKET AT TORONTO.

The Peterborough Club Win Their Game With East Toronto.

A weak eleven of the home club visited Toronto yesterday and played the long delayed return match with East Toronto. The ground was very dead and high scoring was out of the question. Peterborough batted first and scored only 49. Rutherford, Ray and Parker all played good cricket against the first-class bowling of S. D. Smith and Cameron. The East Torontos had a strong batting team and it was confidently expected that 49 would be a small score for them to get, but the very fine bowling of Day and Rutherford proved too much for them and they were retired for the small score of 27, Smith's 10 including a fine bit on to the railway track for 6.

In the second innings of Peterborough, Ray and Rutherford were the mainstays, while little Dunsford showed very nice form for so young a player. East Toronto had 67 to get to win, and when time was called 43 of them had been secured for the loss of six of the best wickets, Cameron having a six hit in his score. It was a bowlers' match all through and the analysis will repay perusal. The score was as follows:—

by proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Dr D. D. McDonald, Petitcodiac, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons with consumptive tendencies." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

A good substitute for buttermilk in cooking is a thin batter made of flour and tepid water, and allowed to remain long enough to sour.

A bread and water poultice is made by dipping a piece of bread, after the crust has been removed, into warm water. Lift it out at once and apply hot.

Not only should mattresses be turned and aired at least three times a week, but pillows and bolsters ought to be beaten, shaken and exposed to the fresh air.

Make starch with soapy water and you will find it a pleasure to do up your starched goods. It prevents the iron from sticking and makes a glossy surface.

When potter's ware is boiled the purpose of hardening it, a handful or two of bran should be thrown into the water, and the glazing will never be injured by acids or salt.

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

Honorable Acquittal of Two Wrongly Suspected Men—Hamilton Presbytery.

HAMILTON, Sept. 19.—R. O. Mackay has sold the wharf property on the east side of the James-street slip to the Hamilton Steamboat Company.

The parsonage of Trinity Church, at Rymal station, was burglarised Saturday night and several articles of clothing, besides $20 in cash, stolen.

A bricklayer named Chas. Jeffrey, accused of stealing some $70 from a fellow boarder was honorably acquitted by the Police Magistrate, the Crown not having the slightest evidence against him. Besides the misfortune of having been falsely accused Jeffrey sustained the loss of $60 which was stolen from him.

William Parry was also accused of stealing, the complainant in this case being Martin Zenker and the sum said to have been taken $59.35. Parry was honorably acquitted, there being no evidence to show that he had even been in the house where Zenker boarded.

The regular meeting of Hamilton Presbytery was held yesterday. Rev. Mr. Robertson, Moderator, was unable to be present, owing to his illness with typhoid fever, and Rev. Samuel Carruthers was called upon to preside. Resolutions of sympathy were passed on the death of the wife of the Rev. John Young and the illness of Mr. Robertson. Rev. R. McCrome was asked and consented to continue his services at Delhi. The resignation of Mr. Jas. Walker, as treasurer, was received. Rev. Dr. Laing reported that the Government had acknowledged the receipt of the protest against opening the Welland Canal on Sundays. E. R. Hutt, student, was appointed to supply Port Dalhousie during the winter, and Port Colborne will be supplied by Mr. Pyke. It was resolved to unite Cayuga and Mount Healy, the united congregation to pay $550 for salary, $50 for residence, and to apply to the augmentation fund for aid.

A Queer Verdict.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—The body of an unknown man was found in the river Sunday morning. The jury returned a verdict of "found drowned without boots or stockings on."

While leading horses from an Allan steamer Harry Payne, a recent arrival from England, was kicked in the breast and had three ribs broken.

Smith, Fischel & Co., cigar manufacturers, are in difficulties. The liabilities are $45000, of which $15000 is held abroad and the balance in Montreal. J. E. Mullin & Co. and the Union Bank of Lower Canada are the heaviest creditors. Smith had not the courage to meet his creditors and has left for Chicago.

H. M. S. Pylades left for Quebec this morning. The evening previous to her departure the officers of the ship were the guests of the officers of the fifth military district at an impromptu dance as the Armory of the Victoria Rifles.

147 deaths took place in the city last week Four were caused by croup, three by diphtheria, and the same number by typhoid.

A meeting of members of the bar was held yesterday to consider the situation caused by the vetoeing of the District Magistrates' Court Act. A committee consisting of Hon. R. Laflamme and others was appointed to draw up resolutions dealing with the case, and the meeting adjourned until Saturday.

St. Catharines News.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 19.—The well at Thorold has reached the depth of 1000 feet, but there is not yet any sign of striking natural gas. The directors, however, will push on the work so long as the funds hold out.

A young man named Joseph Sells, while carrying a quarter of beef, fell through a trap door in Kane & Beeton's store to the cellar, a distance of twelve feet. Singular to say, he was not injured.

Prosecutions under the Scott Act continue. Three Niagara hotel-keepers, Messrs. Welsh, May and Sherlock, were arraigned before Magistrate Davis, charged with selling liquor. Welch was fined $100. Judgment in the other two cases was reserved for a week.

Separated by Dime Novels.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—Dime novels have just been the means of separating a respectable Montreal citizen from his wife. An artisan, whose evenings are devoted to the cultivation of good literature, had occasion to complain of his wife's inveterate habit of reading trashy stories. The latter resented and disregarded all attempted interference with her predilections. The husband insisted that she should break off a habit which he regarded with extreme disfavor. The wife continued to buy the trash from small book dealers. There was a good deal of bickering which last evening had a sudden and unexpected ending. In her husband's absence the wife packed up all valuables she could lay her hands on and disappeared. When the husband returned and saw his house in confusion he guessed what had occurred. He found his wife about to board a train for the west. She boarded the train all right, but the goods did not, for the husband fiercely took them from her.

A Big Judgment Against Pontiac County.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—At Aylmer yesterday afternoon Judge Wurtele gave judgment in the case of the Pontiac and Pacific Railway Company v. the County of Pontiac for $100,000 and costs in favor of the railway company. The case was brought by the railway company to recover the amount of the judgment in bonds, being a subsidy promised by the county towards the construction of the line. The county resisted payment on the ground that the bonus was voted by an illegally constructed council.

Island of Ascension.

The British government is about to abandon the island of Ascension, 780 miles south of St. Helena, which it seized in 1815, solely for the purpose of preventing the possible escape of Napoleon.

Ingalls' Command of Language.

The speaker was a general on the Union side in the late war, a native of New York state and a graduate of Union college. He emigrated to Kansas after his graduation from college.

"There was a little crowd of us in Kansas City just before the war," said he, "from the eastern states and graduates of the eastern colleges. We formed a set by ourselves. Some of us were lawyers, some bothering about real estate and town lots, some practicing medicine—all doing something actively; all, I believe, have since attained notoriety in some way or other. Ingalls was a graduate of Williams college. He looked as he does now—thin and spare. He was eccentric in his dress, and always wore something striking. He used to love to wear, I remember, a big red necktie. He was a shy, reserved fellow, and had the reputation of being very cynical. It was said that he lay awake nights polishing his bitter epigrams. He wasn't very popular, and as a lawyer, though he was considered smart, he had only a fair practice.

"I think I came to be as intimate with Ingalls as any of the boys were, and I well remember his telling me one night, as we sat in my room smoking together, the manner in which he was working to secure command of language. He said that it was his practice for an hour or so each day to open Webster's Dictionary at random and run down a column or so of words, carefully studying the meaning of each word and hunting up in the lexicons its derivation and so forth. You know that in explaining the meaning of a great many words the dictionary gives a line or a couplet from Pope or Johnson, or from some one or more of the classic authors, and these quotations Ingalls would often commit to memory, especially if they happened to appeal to his imagination. Then, too, he would look up in Crabbe's synonyms, the words which meant the same, or nearly the same as the word he had in mind, and he would study carefully the nice shades of difference between them all. He told me that so far from finding this work tiresome or disagreeable he took the greatest pleasure in it, and that he knew it did him inestimable benefit. He considered this practice far superior, for the purpose of giving one command of his own language, to the old traditional one of translating the Greek and Roman classics into English and of then translating them back again.

"I met Ingalls years afterward, and he told me he was still keeping up the practice. I suppose he is keeping it up now, and that's where his facility of expression comes from."—New York Sun.

The gains from time to time are well illustrated by the following table:—

PERIOD.	Gain in income.	Gain in assets.	Gain in assurances.
1872 to 1876, four years	$ 54,617 21	$169,482 69	$1,149,743 00
1876 to 1880, four years	38,580 67	195,188 29	1,167,386 14
1880 to 1884, four years	136,976 84	503,264 31	2,982,924 90
1884 to 1887, three years	217,451 89	453,967 24	4,023,373 65
Total in 1887	$495,831 54	$1,750,004 48	$10,873,777 69

It is worthy of note that the gains for the last three years only are 68 per cent. more than those of the preceeding four years.

WHAT CAN I AFFORD?

Every day of the week this query is the preliminary part of nearly every purchase made. People will not have what requires a large outlay of money. Everybody seems to be at the mercy of an unaccommodating pocketbook.

In the very nature of things we have to do just what you want us to do. We are at your dictation in all matters that are regulated by the proportions of supply and demand. In short we will take for our goods

DOINGS IN THE DOMINION

BREEZY PARAGRAPHS FROM ONTARIO'S CAPITAL.

Montreal East Nominations — A Young Clerk's Theft—Burglars from New York en Route for Canada.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—Stanley Thicke, a workman in Alexander & Cable's lithographic establishment, in The Mail building, fell through an opening to the basement yesterday morning and was severely injured about the head.

The local press is beginning to criticize the management of the exhibition pretty severely, and it is learned that exhibitors have reason to complain and threatened a boycott or something of that nature. An evening paper hints at a not very remote change in the personnel of the permanent staff.

The detectives have a large aggregation of parasols, umbrellas, satchels and other articles found about the hotels and on the streets.

Hundreds of arrivals were turned away last night from nearly all the city hotels, which were never more crowded.

The trustees of the new Western Orange Hall met last evening for the transaction of the final business for the opening ceremonies. It is expected that about twenty lodges will make the new hall their headquarters.

At the General Sessions George Mills was acquitted of the charge of assaulting Policeman Hamilton.

A number of street accidents were reported at police headquarters yesterday, but none of a serious nature.

An open switch at Brampton caused a collision between No. 11 east bound local G. T. R. train and some freight cars on a siding. The engine was badly wrecked, but the driver and firemen escaped with a few bruises.

The St. Michael's Bay Lumber Company, the headquarters of which is in Toronto, suspended yesterday on account of inability to pay notes amounting to $40,000 held by the Central bank.

It is understood that at a meeting of the master plumbers last night, sufficient progress was made in the way of a settlement with the striking plumbers that the matter will virtually be settled this morning.

Mr. William Proctor of Ottawa, aged about 40, was on the aerial railway at the Exhibition grounds about 5 p.m. when another passenger knocked against him. He fell to the ground, a height of eight or nine feet, receiving severe internal injuries.

A subpœna has been sent to Montreal to be served on James Baxter summoning him as a witness against Broker Cox whose case comes up on Friday.

Col. Tyrwhitt, M. P., and Dr. Morton of Barrie were knocked down by a horse at Grand's auction sale yesterday, the former getting a bad wound in the forehead and the latter an ugly cut in the eye.

Shortly before midnight a young man named George Moore, belonging to Walton, attempted to board a train at Parkdale station while the cars were in motion. He slipped and fell, and the cars passed over one of his legs. The ambulance was summoned, and he was conveyed to the hospital. It is probable that amputation will be necessary.

The gate receipts at the Exhibition yesterday amounted to $11,627.45; the total to date being $46,374.85.

Flight of a Montreal Defaulter.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—J. R. C. Thompson, formerly a paper manufacturer's agent on St. Francis Xavier-street, lately book keeper for Charles Gurd & Co., manufacturers of ginger ale and soda water, two days ago confessed to Mr. Gurd that he had overdrawn his account some $2000. That gentleman told him to go home and remain till he called to discuss the matter. Mr. Gurd called at Thompson's house shortly after with his attorney and told him to make a clean breast of it. Mrs. Thompson was thunderstruck when she heard of it and immediately offered Gurd her gold watch, worth some $175, some very valuable pictures and a gold watch of her husband's, worth about $300, which was held by her husband's mother for safekeeping, as part payment of the money taken. The latter, however, refused to give them up, claiming that they were hers. While the discussion was taking place Thompson, who is very stubborn at times, showed signs of annoyance and walked out into the hall where he put on his overcoat and disappeared, since which time he has not been heard of. It is supposed he has gone to the States.

Acadia College Jubilee Fund.

MONCTON, N.B., Sept. 20.—Of the 50-cent shares of the Acadia college jubilee fund 15,870 have been paid up. In addition to the above, Dr. Saunders has received $3324, so that the total amount paid in up to the time of making up the report to the convention was $11,260. With this amount the floating debts have been paid off, $5000 paid on the college mortgage, and upwards of $2000 is now on hand to pay the remaining $5000 on the college mortgage, when the college will be entirely free from debt. It is hoped to receive a total of 100,000 shares, equal to $50,000.

Stole from His Employer.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—A young clerk of a St. Helen-street merchant stole $280 from his employer's safe yesterday. Detective Barrett, who was notified, suspected him and forced him into a confession, found the money in the clerk's house and restored it to its owner. The merchant had put $280 and two checks into the safe in the morning, but instead of placing them in the money drawer he put them under one of the ledgers which the clerk had occasion to use a few minutes later. As the case is not being pushed in court no arrest has been made.

As Usual.

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 20.—In a collision of two freight trains here last night Engineer Chase was killed. The wreck caught fire and two tramps were roasted to death.

THE TALK OF LONDON.

MARRIAGE OF MISS HAMILTON, THE SCOTCH HEIRESS.

Emperor William's Sedan Order—Long Lost Tapestry Discovered—A Doleful Story from Lake Como.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Miss Nisbet Hamilton, the great heiress, who during the last 25 years has refused offers of suitors from princes and serenities downwards, married, last Tuesday, Henry Ogilvy, younger son of Sir John Ogilvy. Miss Hamilton is a representative, through her mother, of two of the oldest and most popular families in Scotland.

I am glad to hear that Emperor William has given orders that the public celebrations of the victory of Sedan shall cease. It is high time this annual jubilation over France's defeat was brought to an end. The Emperor acted very wisely, and his decision meets with the hearty approval of all sensible Germans.

The Empress Victoria lately paid visits to several country houses in Germany and, on the foundation of this fact a vast superstructure of fiction has been created by some imaginative journals. The Empress, in reality, was seeking a suitable residence for her second daughter, the Princess Victoria, who will be married shortly to Prince Alexander of Battenberg.

When Marguerite of France was married to Victor Amadeus, of Savoy, she took with her to Italy twenty pieces of the very finest Gobelin tapestry, illustrating classical legends. This unique tapestry, which was of immense value, disappeared mysteriously when Napoleon invaded Italy. It had been hidden away lest the French should think proper to carry it off, which they would certainly have done. It was so carefully concealed that after some years, when calm was restored, it was found impossible to discover it, and the two officials who put it away were both dead. The tapestry had been almost forgotten till about a month ago, when the Marquis of Villamorin, master of the royal household, was making a thorough investigation in the palace at Turin, from roof to cellar, and behind some huge chests, in a store room on the highest story, found a secret chamber which concealed the long lost tapestry. It has been very little injured by its hundred years of hiding. King Humbert has ordered that the tapestry be carefully repaired and cleaned, after which it will be sent to Rome and hung in the quirinal, in the apartments which the Emperor William will occupy during his visit next month.

From Como comes the following doleful story: The floods have proved disastrous to travellers who have come down to Lake Como in order to prolong the summer. Como itself is a sort of Venice. At Caderabbia all the visitors have been driven from the Hotel Bellevue, for the waters have invaded the ground floor. At Ballaggio the hotels are above the flood, but all the quays are under water. Passengers from the steamboats have to land in boats everywhere along the lake, for the landing places have disappeared. At St. Moritz the floods have been even worse. The road along the Engadin valley and from thence to Chiavenna has been washed away in many places, and the railroad from Chiavenna to Colico has ceased running. Families have been four or five days on the way from St. Moritz to Lake Como, and so crowded have been the inns along the route that a family has deemed itself fortunate in being able to hire a whole billiard table for the night.

I hear that Miss Braddon is writing her literary reminiscences, which ought to be very interesting. HENRY LABOUCHERE.

A Radical Unionist Conference.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—A conference of radical Unionists was held at Bradford yesterday. Lord Hartington wrote a letter to the conference congratulating the party upon the successes of the Unionists. He said everything that had occurred since the Home Rule bill confirmed the soundness of the judgment which had inspired their actions. The policy of their opponents, he declared, had shown itself to be more and more based on disorder and lawlessness. The events of the last session of Parliament had proved that the Unionist alliance was capable of providing the country with a legislative policy which was of a distinctly popular and practical character, and as long as the Unionists continued their duty of repressing crime, while seeking to satisfy the legislative wants of the people, the party would resist the attacks of the enemies of England and Ireland. The conference adopted resolutions approving the policy of the Government and affirming the necessity of an improved organization of the party.

Mr. Chamberlain, in an address to the conference, said he believed that the healing of the rupture in the Liberal party was improbable and almost impossible. The Gladstonians carefully avoided putting a program before the country because they did not know what the unstable politician who was leading them might next propose. The speaker defended the action of the Irish executive, claiming that the course pursued had been strictly in accordance with parliamentary legislation. He denied that evictions were unfair; they might fall harshly upon the victims of the plan of campaign, but a greater injustice would be done to the cause of social order if people were allowed to defy the law with impunity and evictions were stopped on account of the threats of members of the National League. The Unionists would continue in the exercise of their duty of protecting the minority in Ireland and preserving the faith, honor and integrity of the country.

The Sud-Americain Victims.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—All the passengers and crew saved from the steamer Sud-Americain, which was run into and sunk at Port Luz, with the exception of the captain and the injured, have re-embarked for Genoa. The bodies of 39 victims have been recovered and buried.

The Kaiser Goes a-Shooting

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Upon the conclusion of the army manœuvres Emperor William took leave of the foreign princes who attended the evolutions. The Emperor afterward departed for Hubert-Usstock on a shooting trip.

A Treacherous Official.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The Krupp official who was arrested for trying to sell plans is named Hoppe. He offered the plans to the Armstrongs of Newcastle who sent a letter to Krupp without writing to Hoppe.

How Rome Will Entertain the Kaiser.

ROME, Sept. 20.—The Germen Imperial family being still in mourning the Italian Court on the occasion of Emperor William's visit will give only a grand banquet and a reception and a concert.

Brisbane's Big Blaze.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—A despatch from Brisbane says two warehouses, Browne's and Banker's, were destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is placed at $2,000,000.

A Lad's Foot Crushed by the Cars.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—Peter Saunders, aged 15 years, attempted to jump off the Canadian Pacific Railway cars at Hochelaga, when he missed his footing and had one of his feet so badly smashed by the wheel passing over it that it had to be amputated.

Count Tolstoi to Retire.

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—Count Tolstoi, Minister of the Interior, is about to retire on account of ill health.

TOO REMOTE.

How a London Newspaper Views the Annexation Idea.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—All the morning papers publish long cables about Sherman's speech and resolution. The Daily News gives him pats on the back, praises the Republicans for postponing the anti-Canadian action and scolds President Cleveland. The editorial says: "The retaliation at which the President's loyal but indiscreet friends jumped was the first impulse of men in anger. The Senate will probably treat the question in a cool, cautious spirit of amicable compromise."

The leader next passes to a second discussion of the annexation idea, and, after saying, "It is perhaps true that even a strong and homogeneous Canada, if once severed from the old country, would gravitate toward the larger mass," The Daily News calms the perturbed spirit of its readers by concluding thus: "Although the Quebec agitations and American sensational utterances do play with the annexation idea, the thing itself is too remote for serious discussion."

BURNT TO A CRISP.

A $15,000 Fire at Montreal—Two Persons Perish in the Flames.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—A fire broke out in the toy store of W. H. Desparois on Notre Dame-street late yesterday afternoon, caused, it is supposed, by the explosion of some powder used in making firecrackers, and spread to the premises adjoining of A. J. Plamondon and A. Turcotte & Co., clothiers. The loss will be about $15,000. Desparois is insured for $10,000 in the Glasgow and London; Turcotte & Co. for $10,000 in the same company, and Plamondon for $6500 in the Citizens', Glasgow and London and Commercial Union Companies. Mrs. Desparois, an old widow lady, and Desparois' brother were found burnt to a crisp on the third floor.

Ambitious City News.

HAMILTON, Sept. 20.—Thos. Moylan, who was stabbed in Sunday's row, is progressing favorably. He will be able to attend court to-morrow.

For some time past a gang of roughs have been in the habit of creating a disturbance about the Rising Sun canning factory. Last night the bookkeeper told them to go away, and while remonstrating with them on their refusal, he was struck on the head and knocked senseless with a stone thrown by one of the crowd. His head had to be stitched in four places. The gang scattered before the arrival of the police.

Chas. M. Dewey, who was arrested on suspicion of having stolen a horse and buggy, has been committed for trial. Bail was fixed at $400.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

As the date of the Peterborough Central Exhibition draws near the prospects for an excellent show, always good, continue to brighten. The entries are coming in fast, and the Secretary and his staff are as busy as they can be making the entries, answering inquiries and preparing for the opening of the fair.

There is now no doubt that the number of entries will be large, and that, of course, means a large and varied exhibit. As an educational medium the fair depends upon the number, variety and quality of the exhibits. In this particular the Central has always been a success, and this year the farmers of this and neighboring counties will have another excellent opportunity of viewing and comparing good stock and produce without going far from home.

The exhibition will be opened on Tuesday next, and on Wednesday it will be formally opened by the Hon. Chas. Drury, Minister of Agriculture. An address will be presented to Mr. Drury on the grounds, to which the hon. gentleman will reply and will then formally declare the exhibition open. The ceremony will be an interesting one and the directors acted wisely in securing Mr. Drury's services.

The special features of the exhibition will be attractive. The special prizes for speeding in the ring are large and will draw some fine and fast horses into the competition. The parade of the prize stock will be an interesting feature to all and instructive for those engaged in agriculture and stock breeding. The baseball tournament will, no doubt, be worth seeing. This popular game is more popular than formerly in the country, and the bringing together of a number of clubs from a wide district to compete for valuable trophies will afford diversion and amusement.

All that is now necessary to make the exhibition an assured success is fine weather. The arrangements are in competent and experienced hands, the grounds are spacious and suitable, the entries are rolling in, the special features are such as will attattract and interest, and with such a bill of fare, with the reputation of previous successes, and with cheap rates on the railways and steamboats, there is every reason to expect a very large influx of visitors, as well as a large attendance of townspeople and those residing nearer to Peterborough.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings healt and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

A SQUAW BURNED AT THE STAKE.

Human Sacrifice to Avert the Machinations of Witchcraft.

LOS ANGELE, Cal., Sept. 20.—News comes from the camp of the Mojave Indians that a young squaw, 18 years of age, was burned at the stake recently in San Bernardino County. There has been a strange and mysterious disease prevailing among the tribe, the victims usually dying within forty-eight hours after being attacked. Twenty of the most popular men of the tribe have died of the attack. The medicine men of the tribe resorted to all their peculiar devices to drive out the evil spirits. The patients were belabored with sticks, and, in the case of Stone Head, a sub-chief, his body was dragged through the Colorado to cleanse him of the spirit. The alarm was so great among the tribe that it became necessary to offer a sacrifice to appease the Great Father. Animals were killed for propitiation, but this proving vain a great council was held.

The medicine men assembled around a huge pot filled with herbs, while the bucks were squatted in a semicircle beyond them. When the decoction had simmered down to a teacupful a white male and white female pigeon were taken from a basket and the liquid poured down their throats. The male bird flew away but the female fluttered and died. This proved to the medicine men that there was a female witch in the tribe.

The bucks then rushed to their tents, and with yells and imprecations drove their women to the place where the council had been held. The squaws were driven past the bird in single file. Nearly all went by without noticing the bird, but one, a handsome squaw of 18, the daughter of Creso, a sub-chief, stooped and was about to pick up the bird.

The bucks immediately seized her, as she, the first squaw to touch the bird, was adjudged the witch who brought the disease on the tribe. She pleaded piteously for her life, but her cries were in vain. She was denuded of her clothing and carried to a pyre, where she was pinioned to a stake. A slow fire was kindled and the young girl tortured to death while the bucks danced about it, filling the air with their incantations.

The Cuban Cyclone.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Latest advices from Cuba estimate the loss of life by the recent cyclone at over 1000. The damage to property will foot up over $7,000,000. The greater part of the fatalities occurred along the coast from Caidarien to Matanzas and especially on the keys near Lagua. Among the residents of these small islands the most painful scenes occurred; women and children, sometimes entire families, perished by the dozen. Two mothers were drowned trying to rescue their little ones. Others endeavoring to save life were also drowned. Among the dead at La Isabella was a mother with two children still firmly clasped in her arms. In this situation the bodies were buried.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

TWO HONEST FARMERS

From Otonabee Township, in their walk about town the other day, strolled in on WYATT & TURNER, one with a bundle under his arm, (he traded before he came in,) standing and looking on while the other was keenly examining our stock and prices. "How long has this store been here?" he asked. "Only since last July," answered the clerk. "You surely must have heard of WYATT & TURNER, the New Clothing Men before this!" "WYATT & TURNER:—Yes, that's the name where a neighbor of ours told us to go," said the farmer, "but" pointing to the man with the bundle, "my friend here wanted to look around and he's bought some things already. I made up my mind to find your place and here I am." Lots of Goods were displayed and in many new gay and nobby Styles, which they examined and learned the prices with feelings hard to control. "Is Clothing so much Cheaper than it has been?" Clerk: "I should say so. Good clothes are so Cheap now that it does not excuse anyone buying or wearing cheap trash." "Well, you bet I'm done dealing anywhere else. I never saw such value. Why, it makes a man wish he was ten years younger to get some of the wear out of clothes so much better and Cheaper. Rely on me for a customer and I'll take two suits now," said the man. Clerk: "Well friends, we hope to see you next time; we'll appreciate your trade very much." They thanked him and left. Now, we value the above more than the sale of a half dozen suits; for we doubt if we could produce any argument more convincing than the above dialogue for the public. Our success so far in knowing how to combine all the elements necessary to obtain the best results possible in uniting cheapness with quality makes us bold enough to say that we can always—yes, always—save your money in trading with us. No house in the business owns its goods cheaper than do we, and we ought (and we surely would) go out of business if we could not deal with you more satisfactorily than any house in the country.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Mr. Rubidge, C.E., has charge of the work and has established his headquarters in an office in Cornwall.

At the Opera House.

The Star Theater Company put "The Celebrated Case" on the boards at the Opera house last night to a fair audience. The play is a good one with an interesting plot, and at times calls for some pretty heavy acting. The presentation last night proved most acceptable to the audience, the company as a whole all acquitting themselves well. The company will remain in town all week, but will not show again until Saturday afternoon and evening.

Still Languishing in Gaol.

The boy Wm. Roach, who has been remanded three times since his arrest for supposed connection with the Ball robbery, was brought down to the Police Court this morning, when Chief Roszel asked for a further remand of one week, which was granted. The Ottawa police say that the boy was there two months ago, asking for charity. He said he wanted work, but when the police secured work for him he left the city. He was also given a ticket to Toronto by a gentleman in Ottawa, but sold it and spent the money.

MADAME JANAUSCHEK.

Mr. Quinn, Manager of the Star Theatre Co., Speaks about the Tragedienne.

The Peterborough public will be furnished an opportunity to-morrow evening of seeing the greatest tragedienne on the American stage to-day in the person of Madame Janauschek, who appears in the celebrated dramatization of Sir Walter Scott's novel, Guy Mannering, entitled "Meg Merrilies." It is seldom that a celebrity of the high standard of Madame Janauschek can be induced to give a date to a town of the calibre of Peterborough and now that arrangements have been completed there is no doubt but that a crowded house will great the talented and gifted actress.

This morning a REVIEW reporter, having heard that Mr. T. J. Quinn, Manager of the Star Theatre Company, had seen Janauschek during her first engagements on this continent, saw Mr. Quinn, and upon interrogating that gentleman as to his opinion of the great tragedienne, was told some interesting facts about Madame Janauschek. Mr. Quinn said:

"Madam Janauschek occupies a unique position in the dramatic world to-day, in the fact that she stands alone, without an equal. She came to America twenty years ago, and played one season in New York in German, being unable to speak a word of English. She was at this time the greatest exponent of legimate tragedy on the German stage, just as she is to-day of the English. She is a woman of great will and strong resolution, and determined that on the following season she would appear in English. Mr. Augustin Daly, manager of the Fifth Avenue theatre, New York, brought her out in the Academy of Music and she made a great success. This fact appears to me to show a most wonderful power of determination and resolution, for Madame Janauschek in one season mastered the English language and appeared in six different plays, including Lady Macbeth, Deborah and Meg Merilies. I was," Mr. Quinn said, "at that time in connection with Mr. Daly's Theatre and was sent to manage the Academy of Music and saw Janauschek in all her characters. Charlotte Cushman had impressed me greatly, but madame Janauschek I considered her equal, and as Meg Merilies superior. The New York press was unanimous in the opinion that she was the equal of Charlotte Cushman and spoke of her as the greatest actress America had ever seen. It was to see Madame Janauschek that my company remained here two nights without showing. I have not seen Janauschek for some time, and, as only one of my company had ever seen her, and as they were all anxious to witness the great tragedienne, I decided to remain over."

What support does she usually carry?

"Well, I never saw her with a poor company and Mr. George Chaplin, her leading actor now, is one of the best in the profession and has been with her for the last three years, which fact alone speaks for itself."

Mr. Quinn was most enthusiastic in his praises of Madame Janauschek and said if the public knew, as he did, the grand opportunity offered them there would be a crowded house to-morrow evening.

The Steamer.

The Silsby steam fire engine was taken up to the Wm. Hamilton Manfg. Co.'s works yesterday to be overhauled. The machine has been in use for over eighteen years and in that time has seen some very hard service, while the repairs during the same period have cost but a nominal sum and it is high time that the machine was thoroughly overhauled.

The Gough Burglar.

A telegram was received from the Chief of Police of Buffalo saying that the man Greenfield would be held without fail until the arrival of an officer with the necessary papers. It will probably be a couple of days before the necessary arrangements can be made for the extradition of the man, and considerable expense will be entailed. However, Greenfield, who is in all probability the Gough burglar, as he left Buffalo on August 24th without any marks on his person and returned with the wounds on his wrists and legs, will be brought here as soon as the legal formalities can be carried out. If Constable Stewart recognizes the man the work of extradition will be easy, and if the man is brought here Mrs. McNern, the woman who dressed his wounds, will be able to identify him beyond a doubt.

Booming the Babies.

One of the greatest debts that posterity owes to the present is for the fine race of people who will till our farms and run our business when the men of the day are locked away in another earth. Statistics prove beyond question that the human race is certainly becoming more intellectual and astue. The babies of to-day are bang up babies, far superior, far cuter than the baby of twenty years ago.

Parents who have children—and most parents have—recognize this fact and it only needs a competition to bring out the jewels of the household. Confident of the case, Gough Bros., the wonderful cheapmen, have offered a substantial list of prizes to be awarded at the Central Fair at Peterborough. For the finest baby (under 1 year), $10.00 suit for father, cashmere dress for mother and $5.00 gold piece for baby. Gough Bros. know that hidden off on the concession lines are darling babies, bright, plump little youngsters that are perfect gems of humanity. This competition will bring them out and heartless old bachelors will be snuffed out as they contemplate the bright array. Everyone should not fail to see this, the biggest feature of the fair. It will interest the thousands and find a responsive sympathy in every heart. Should a sparking pair of twins be shown—and who knows what the resources of the county are—Gough Bros. will do better, and if triplets take the prize then the fortune of the happy parents is made. Look up the programme of the fair and put a big red mark opposite the Baby Show. 1 167-w38

The Praises of Stoney Lake.

A party of fifteen Americans who have been camping at Stoney Lake since the middle of June, arrived in town last night on their way home. They stopped at the Oriental and were met there last night by a few Peterborough gentlemen and an enjoyable social evening was spent. The Americans were enthusiastic over Stoney Lake as a camping and fishing ground. They had spent the summer at many summer resorts but their praises of the facilities for spending a pleasant summer at the back lakes were loud. They may be expected to return again, and the popularity of the lakes may become more widespread through their enthusiasm.

INDIAN CUSTOMS.

Rev. D. V. Lucas Relates Some of his Indian Experiences.

The audience that assembled in the Sabbath-school room of the George-st. Methodist church on Wednesday evening to hear Rev. D. V. Lucas deliver a ecture on the Indian tribes of the coast of British Columbia and Vancover Island filled that spacious basement to overflowing. The lecturer announced on Sabbath last that he would describe some of the customs of the Indians and give some amusing tales of his experience among them in an interesting and pleasing manner and he fulfilled his annoncement to the entire satisfaction of his large audience.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE was in the chair and, after the opening exercises, proceeded to introduce the lecturer, who he said had gone out, as he remembered, when the volunteering for work among the heathen was considered to be a much greater sacrifice than it is to-day, as missionary work was then in its infancy.

THE ADDRESS.

Rev. D. V. LUCAS referred in opening to the days of his going out into the work, that Mr. Dumble had mentioned, and spoke of his British Columbia and Vancover Island mission field. He was going to tell them of the Indian tribes and would speak first of some of their customs. The medicine system of these aboriginal people was one that had existed always and was to be found among every tribe of Indians, even in Australia. The medicine men were great men among the natives, who believed that they received their power from some juvisible source. He told of the manner in which the medicine man was prepared for his work. When a young man decided to become a medicine man he gave up everything and left his village. When he would return he would be frothing at the mouth and acting in the wildest manner. It was the custom for him to bite a piece of flesh from the first person whom he met on his return and also to tear limb from limb the first dog he could catch hold of. The person thus bitten considered it a great honor, but the speaker did not know what the dog thought of it. While this system existed no missionary need try to make Christians of the Indians, but they first had to overcome the medicine men. One of the most hideous mode of ornamentation practiced among some of the tribes was the inserting of a shell in the lower lip of the little girls, which, as the child grew, was replaced by a larger one until sometimes he had seen women with their lips standing out two inches. Some times when they would get a piece of a hot potato or food they would lay it in this shell and blow on it until cooled and then gave it a flip over into their mouth with their lip, so that the shell was useful as well as ornamental. This was not exaggerated. When he was delivering this lecture in England the people

COULD HARDLY BELIEVE THIS,

but he had referred them to the illustration of it in the statuary of Indian tribes in Sydenham Gardens. In the western part of Vancouver Island they had a custom of placing a child's head between two boards and leaving it so for years. In Victoria he had seen one girl on exhibition whose head had been kept between boards until it measured eighteen inches from the bottom of the brow to the top of the forehead. Yet the girl's brain was not affected in the least. This practice had died out entirely almost owing to the missionary work. He spoke of the marvellous powers of oratory which some of these aborigines possessed, and related a scene he had witnessed at one of the Indian feasts, and said he would never forget the address of the "great man" to his braves. The chief on this occasion was arrayed in full Indian regalia and carried a long bowie knife in one hand and a gun in the other, and he seemed, Mr. Lucas said, to make the knife and the gun both speak, so vigorous were his gesticulations. They could take the books on the rules of oratory of any of our colleges and would follow every rule in that book. The thought had been impressed upon him that nature was the greatest power in the delivery of an orator. There were men who were spoiled by over education, who were bound by a sense of propriety and who would be far better if they would speak in their natural way. There were among these Indians as fine orators as would be found anywhere. He could not tell why God had spread the beautiful wild flowers in the wilderness or why He had buried the beautiful shells in the deep sea and no more could be explained why He had put into these Indians faculties as bright as He had bestowed on any man. He instanced the great orational powers of those Indians who went through Canada after the rebellion, and said that by their gracefulness of manner, modulation of tone and illustrations taken from nature they could sway any audience. There existed a very friendly feeling among the Indians towards the white men, which did not emanate from a cowardly fear.

THE VANCOUVER INDIAN

never knocked at a door, but walked right in and would always remain until told to leave, and resembled white people in one respect, that they always were telling how bad there neighboring tribes were and extolling their own virtues. He spoke of the Chinook jargon, which, he said, was the most generally known on the coast. While the English language contained about 40,000 words with new ones being added every day, the Chinook jargon consisted of only 300 words which expressed all their wants. Everybody learned this language. Every tribe, he said, had a different language, but the French, English, Chinese or any Indian tribe on the coast would understand the jargon. He sang a hymn, "How Happy Every Child of Grace who Knows his Sins Forgiven" in the Indian jargon, which amused the young folks present immensely. He spoke of the Indian idea of names and told some amusing stories and incidents about their language and use of peculiar words. He referred to the Indian wit, giving very amusing illustrations and closed by thanking the audience for their kind attention.

Mr. DUMBLE, upon the lecturer taking his seat, put several questions to Mr. Lucas with reference to the Indians. In reply Mr. Lucas said he might explain that there were about 40,000 Indians altogether who were known as two divisions—one division, those on the coast, being called the fish-eating Indians, and the other division being known as the Indians of the Interior.

The CHAIRMAN then made an appeal for a liberal collection, saying that the lecture was worth it.

While the collection was being taken up Mr. Lucas spoke a few words on temperance. The meeting closed with the benediction.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

HAND TO HAND.

By REBECCA HARDING DAVIS.

PART I.

The managing editor's patience was almost exhausted. "Positively, Maj. Standish, I don't see that we can find any room for anything of yours in The Camera this week. Or any week," he added with an inward oath to himself, glancing impatiently at the heap of "revises" waiting upon his desk. He did not take them up, however, but stood outwardly respectful, for he was a young fellow, and Standish, though a notorious bore, was old and white headed.

The major patted him patronizingly on the shoulder. "My dear fellow," in his most luscious, grandiloquent tone, "let me give you a hint. I've been twenty years in the very thick and heat of American journalism, and you are but a neophyte. You want to make The Camera weighty? I call it dull, sir, dull. Too much respectability kills a paper. It needs a different class of articles—something at once forcible and light. Philosophic and vif, sparkling and—well, do you take my meaning?"

"Something like that in your hand, eh?" laughed Stinger.

"Precisely. You've hit it," complacently twitching his white whiskers.

"No. Not today, major."

"Suppose we try a short thing on fish culture? I've got myself up on fishes thoroughly."

"The Times did that on Friday."

The major stood a moment anxious and silent. "This new asteroid, now! When I was on The London News, Griffin used always to say: 'For anything taking in the scientific line, Dan Standish is our man.' Don't want it, eh? Who's doing that hanging down in Delaware for you? I'll make you a two column job of it for $5, and pay my own expenses. That road always dead beads me."

Stinger took up his proofs. "We sent a stenographer reporter this morning. We really have no use for you, Maj. Standish."

"You never were more mistaken in your life. Where you need me, my dear boy, is to take charge of your reportorial corps. I'd make those lazy fellows toe the mark."

"Mr. Stinger!" It was the proprietor McMurray's voice, which rasped through the room like the filing of a saw. He came to the door of his office. A sandy, flat built Scotchman, to whose making up nature had grudged every atom of flesh save in the one matter of a keen, red, tomahawk shaped nose. "Have not those proofs gone up yet? You encourage too many idlers in the office, sir. You here again, Standish?"

"Ah, Mr. McMurray! A delightful morning, sir!" The major beamed on him effulgent. Stinger and Withrow, the news editor, both driving their pens furiously at McMurray's appearance, winked at each other. The seedy major, with his grand brawny build, his imperturbable suavity and his dauntless lying, always came off first best in these encounters. McMurray, in his faultless black clothes, with all his badging of wealth and conscientious religion, seemed to feel himself thin and sour, and cowed before him.

"I wonder," he said, with a sneer, "that with your higher literary occupations, you can spare time to besiege this office as you do."

"Pon my soul, I wonder, too. Now that is precisely what my publishers say to me. 'Write a book, Standish,' they say. 'Take the public between the eyes with a knock down blow.' Then those magazine fellows in New York and Boston are crying out every month for me to come to their help. But I like to see the old Camera succeed, that's the truth."

"The Camera is under obligation to you."

"Not at all. I'm glad to help build it up. I've a pride—Philadelphia enterprise, sir—a pride in it," backing to the door. "What I have here, sir," touching his forehead, "was meant for mankind, not to barter for fame or money. By the way, have you seen that last little thing of mine in the Westminster?"

"No, nor nobody else," savagely.

"Ah," you don't take the quarterlies? I'll send it to you. I'll send it to you. Good morning, Mr. McMurray, good morning."

"Keep that liar and braggart out of the office, Mr. Stinger," said McMurray in his coldest, civilest tones; for when other men would have raged, his sense of duty kept him quietest. He smoothed his face before going back into office. Young John Proctor was there, the clergyman to whom McMurray's church, through his influence, had just given a call. He had just come from the depot after two years' absence in the west, and McMurray was striving to do him honor in his hard, ungenial way. Proctor had been a sort of ward of his, and it was whispered about in the office that McMurray would be glad to have him now for a son-in-law. This church was his idol, and to see his only child the wife of one of its ministers was, in his opinion, to inclose her in the pearly gates of salvation while yet alive. "The office" felt as if the delicate, bright haired little heiress would be thrown away on Proctor. "These penniless preachers know how to feather their nests," Stinger had said but a few minutes before.

Mr. McMurray could not forget Standish when he went back to his office. "Lazy old Bohemian!" he growled. "If you want the most disreputable vices, Mr. Proctor, always look for them in an old man who lives by his wits."

"Who was it?"

"Standish—the major. You know him."

"What! There!" Proctor dashed out into the office without his hat, and down the stairs, shouting, "Hillo, major!" leaving McMurray astonished behind him. He took up his pen and began to write severely. The carnal flesh was stronger in the young man than he had thought. Withrow, out of curiosity, lounged down the stairs and found John at the door looking anxiously up and down the street.

"Ah, Mr. Withrow! do you remember me? John Proctor," wringing his hand in a hearty fashion which he used to have when a boy. "I'm looking for a friend of mine, Maj. Standish."

"Yes! Maj. Munchausen, we call him in the office."

"He is a friend of mine," coolly. "The office does not know him as well as I do, probably."

Withrow felt himself rebuffed, but only for a minute. "The old fellow has a cockloft over a ware house somewhere, where he cooks for himself. How he lives, God knows. He has nothing now but the odd jobs we give him here in the office. He's had nothing from us for two weeks."

"Is he alone? There was a little girl, or woman, rather?" Proctor hesitated. The story of the old major and Madeline was something which he could not drag out before this fellow.

"Niece or something? She lives in some country town now, I believe, and colors photographs. A great artist, the major says. She's a dull girl, I fancy. Women without brains have to scratch hard for a living nowadays."

Mr. Proctor did not care to enter into the woman question. He stood whistling under his breath, with some queer ideas in his clerical head, which Mr. Withrow would have hardly thought befitted it. They grew out of the remembrance of those Saturday afternoons when, for year after year, he used to escape from boarding school and repair to that same cockloft over the warehouse, there to feel himself a Gypsy or a Corsice for a few delicious hours. What a vagabond, uncertain life it was! the poverty, the shifts, the fun, the inextinguishable jollity and tender love under it all! What a prince the major and Madeline made of him—saving all week to compass the Saturday's roast chicken and cranberry tart! Proctor had never known father or mother; his ideas of love or a home were all drawn from poor Standish and his crazy menage. So strong was this boyish instinct in him just now that he actually stood breathless when anybody resembling the major came in sight. If the old man should not recognize him, or should meet him with the formal deference of other respectable people, why, then, good-by to that old boyhood, so horribly dear and disreputable!

Now the major was in a restaurant a few doors down the street. "Try an advertisement in The Camera, Sam," he said to the bookkeeper. "I swear it will pay you like—like"— His talk halted; the ideas seemed to stagger through his brain.

"I believe you've had a drop too much, Standish," said Sam.

"No; I've had to stop drinking. You can't get a glass of champagne fit for a gentleman in this accursed town. But about the advertisement?" (The Camera paid him a small percentage on this sort of business, and a few cents now would buy him his dinner.)

"No."

He was remanded until to-morrow.

ALL LONDON IS LAUGHING.

PUNCH'S KEEN THRUST AIMED AT SCOTLAND YARD.

Home Secretary Matthews Indignant—The Whitechapel Murderer Evidently a Skilled Anatomist.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Daily Telegraph has resumed its onslaught on Home Secretary Mathews and other papers are following its example. All London is roaring with laughter over a cartoon in the last number of Punch representing a blindfolded policeman seeking criminals while unconsciously dodging between their legs. The cartoon is said to have aroused feelings of indignation in the breast of the Home Secretary, but the opinion is now general that the present Scotland Yard system which he inaugurated with a flourish of trumpets upon taking office will not survive the autumn session of Parliament.

The inquest on the body of the woman found murdered in Whitechapel was renewed to-day. The evidence given by the witnesses confirmed the theory that the murderer is a skilled anatomist. It was shown that certain organs of the murdered woman were removed in a way that no one but an expert could have done, and the theory that the murder was committed by an insane surgeon is revived and finding many believers.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's new opera is entitled "The Tower" and will be produced on Oct. 10. The story of the scene being laid in Norway is untrue.

Commander Cameron contributes some interesting facts to the discussion concerning Bartfelot's death. He defends the people of Manyuema. When travelling in that country he found that the people, though cannibals, were brave, hospitable and courteous. They have a strong love for freedom, and a reluctance to travel. He thinks that if the Manyuema tribes murdered Barttelot, they must have been with his caravan as slaves, as from his knowledge of their character he believes they would not have been there in any other capacity and they would not hesitate at any means of regaining their freedom.

Gladstone's Birmingham campaign, beginning in November, promises to be of importance. He has accepted an invitation for a public reception by the Mayor.

In response to the demand of the Scotch people for increased attention to their affairs, the Government will take an early opportunity of amending the Scotch Secretary, Lord Lothian, in the Cabinet.

Yesterday in the City Court the big man said he had been assaulted by the little man Oct. 11, 1887. He said he was struck on the ear with a leg of mutton, which caused a subsequent partial deafness, and therefore he sued for damages. Counsel for the little man said it was ridiculous to think that his client could have hurt the gigantic plaintiff, but the counsel for the latter told a story from the Bible about David and Goliah and the jury gave the big man a verdict for $100.

The Duty will Remain.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—At a meeting of the Council of Ministers to-day it was decided not to suspend the import duty of five francs on cereals, which action it was announced would probably be taken on account of the inadequate harvest.

Murdered in His Room.

MANY AWAIT THESE AGENTS.

Stage-Struck Maidens Sigh for the Return of Messrs. Gillespie & Hagaman.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—For some time there flourished at No. 2 West Fourteenth-street a so-called dramatic and variety agency, under the management of Messrs. Gillespie & Hagaman. They inserted advertisements in the papers that they could procure excellent engagements for ladies who were desirous of going upon the stage. Their mode of procedure was unique. Mr. Gillespie would receive the aspiring applicant for histrionic fame, compliment her voice, praise her stage appearance and picture to her the glittering triumphs she would make. By a strange coincidence each applicant was exactly suited for a certain part in a company that was being organized to go on the road.

The manager of the company being out of town, a correspondence was always necessary and the lady was requested to deposit a dollar for the same. Having obtained this dollar she was given a book and a part assigned for her to study. She must call again in three days. Having studied the part thoroughly she calls as agreed. This time Mr. Hagaman receives her and declares her to be just the lady for whom he is looking. He will make an engagement with her three weeks hence. Then in stalks Mr. Gillespie with a claim for $10 as agent for the lady. Unless this sum is paid the engagement she has entered into is null and void.

It was in this way that many stage-struck young ladies paid in various sums, but are waiting in vain for the promised engagement. In fact, Messrs. Gillespie & Hagaman have flown, leaving grieved hearts, ruined hopes and empty pockets behind them. It is estimated that the firm cleared several hundred dollars.

Because His Wife Wouldn't Ante.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Jacob Tenburg, aged 20, has been supported by his 18-year-old wife Sophia since their marriage a month ago. She is a saleswoman in a Grand-street store.

"I've lost $50 playing poker," said the husband, coming home late Monday night, "Let me have $25. I'm going right back to the place."

"If you only knew how hard I must earn it," she pleaded.

"I didn't marry you for your good looks," he said, angrily, "I married to get supported." He then beat her brutally and was arrested by Officer Shields, of the Essex Market Court Squad.

"Six months for you, you scoundrel," said Justice Duffy to the prisoner. "If a politician comes here in your behalf I'll run him out of court."

"I protest against this," exclaimed the husband. "No wife can testify against her husband." But his protest was in vain.

Led the Gas Under the Bed Clothes.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Mrs. C. J. de Leon, an elderly widow, committed suicide by attaching a rubber tube to an unlighted gas jet which was turned on, and inserting the other end beneath the bed clothes, which she tucked closely over her head and body.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Graham's Second Dose of the Cat—Accident to a C. P. R. Conductor.

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—Not since the fair opened have so many drunken men been seen abroad as yesterday, and street fights are numerous.

Benjamin Graham, the colored ravisher of little children, who was sentenced in May last to 23 months and 20 lashes, received the second instalment of the cat yesterday morning in the yard of the Central Prison. The culprit seemed to remember the first dose, for he squealed before he got a stroke. He hardened, however, early in the punishment, and took the latter part of it fairly well.

On Sept. 12 a number of residences were entered and many valuable articles stolen. The same day a detective arrested two young men named Louis Witkowski and David McKenzie. In their pockets the police found most of the property. The prisoners yesterday morning were convicted of participation in all three robberies. McKenzie made his first bow to the court and was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment in the Central. Witkowski is a hardened criminal, having served four short terms in the jail and Central, and two years in Kingston. The magistrate committed him to the Kingston penitentiary for 5 years.

William Mason, assistant-conductor on the Grey and Bruce division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when nearing Parkdale yesterday morning, leaned out from a car platform to examine a defective brake rod when he came in contact with a fence that runs across a cattle guard, was thrown from his position and so badly injured that he has since died.

The Canadian Pacific Railway official reports of the Northwest grain crop received yesterday indicate an excellent and abundant harvest.

A charge of perjury preferred against John Barton McKay by Private Detective Mat. Howie revives a case that agitated merchants in the city and neighborhood a year ago. It may be remembered that McKay & Co., commission merchants, were charged before the Board of Arbitration of the Board of Trade with some tricks of trade which were not in strict conformity with regular shipping business. The Board investigated the complaint under oath, and it is charged that Mr. McKay committed wilful and corrupt perjury in deposing to a certain statement. Mr. Pearson, his counsel, stated that Mr. Mackay was at present in Philadelphia and would not be back in Toronto again until about Christmas. He claimed that she alleged perjured statement was a slip of the tongue, and owing to Mr. Mackay's absence the case stands indefinitely.

Exhibition receipts yesterday were $10,555, an increase compared with the same day last year of $1355. The total receipts to date are $56,928; last year for the same days $49,061.

The plumbers' strike was settled yesterday, the men returning to work on substantially the old terms.

Samuel Eplett and R. Manning of Coldwater turned off the gas in their room at the Simcoe House and then turned it on again. They were discovered unconscious at a late hour yesterday morning and brought round after two hours' assiduous attention. They are now thought to be out of danger:

COMMENDED AND DENOUNCED.

A Diversity of Opinion Touching Manitoba's Action re the Hudson Bay Scheme.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20.—While The Sun strongly commends the conduct of the Government towards the Hudson Bay Railway scheme The Free Press bitterly denounces it and charges that when all the facts are explained and the subterfuges of ministers known, the feeling of disappointment now existing will deepen into indignation. It accuses the Government of trying to destroy the scheme from pure malice and having knifed it to the injury of the province.

Attorney-General Martin says he is convinced that the alternative proposal of the company to build to the narrows is merely a trap laid to catch the Government and when the money is exhausted it would be compelled to sink all it had invested or put in more to complete the line to tidewater.

The wheat movement has not yet commenced.

A slight advance in rates has been made from points on and near the boundary.

The early-closing movement has collapsed.

Governor Schultz left for Banff to-day.

The Call charges that the Local Government adjourned the Legislature instead of proroguing to prevent the trial of the Emerson election case, in which damaging disclosures about the ministers would be made.

MONTREAL MATTERS.

Lieut.-Col. Bond Enters a Second Suit for $50,000 Against Baxter.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—Lieut.-Col. Frank Bond has taken another action for $50,000 damages against James Baxter on account of the new charge made against him before the grand jury.

Smith, Fischel & Co., cigar manufacturers, have assigned at the demand of the Union Bank with liabilities of about $95,000. The largest creditors are the bank itself which is interested for $50,000 and J. E. Mullin & Co. interested for $24,000, $15,000 of which is secured.

Raoul Dufresne, paints and oils, of this city has assigned with liabilities amounting to about $55,000.

The Carthagenian ran aground at Sorel on her way up and did not arrive in port until to-day.

Suicide or Foul Play.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 21.—Ira E. Smith, a young coal oil dealer of this city, was found dead near Haubstadt, a station on the Evansville and Terre Haute road; his head having been severed from his shoulders. Some believe he committed suicide by allowing a train to pass over his neck, but others fear he is a victim of foul play. He is a native of Cincinnati, was 30 years old, and had been married six months. He left home to go to an Odd Fellows' meeting and was not seen after that. The police are now at work on the case and promise some developments very soon. The case is still clouded in deep mystery.

Labrador All Right.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 20.—Captain William Harding of the schooner Flying Scud has arrived from Labrador, where he had been for two months. He says that to his knowledge there is no truth in the published stories that the people on that coast are starving. The fishing has been poor, but in every harbor he visited the people seemed in a very comfortable condition, and vessels from more northern ports brought no stories of destitution.

Northern Pacific Earnings.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The stockholders of the Northern Pacific Railroad held their annual meeting to-day and, with the exception of electing J. C. Bullitt in place of Mr. Belmont, re-elected the board of directors. The report shows an increase of $963,015 in net earnings. Surplus $518,685, against $65,085 last year.

The Slugger Seriously Ill.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Yesterday afternoon it was thought John L. Sullivan was dying. He had a chill, his hands and feet were cold and breathing quick. At 2 p.m. to-day the physicians stated that the slugger was worse. It is believed, from what can be learned, that he is dangerously ill.

HANGING TO A BALLOON

THE WILD AND HORRIFYING RIDE OF A MICHIGAN MAN.

Old Mark Sanborn Becomes Entangled With a Parachute Rope and is Carried Up 1500 Feet Head Downward.

KALAMAZOO, Sept. 20.—A sensational scene was witnessed at Centreville, St. Joseph county, yesterday on the fair grounds. The crowd had gathered to see Prof. Bartholomew make a balloon ascension. Everything was in readiness for the event, and the word had been given to the men holding the gdy ropes to stand firm and let go quickly at a given signal. An old man named Mark Sanborn of Burr Oak was adjusting the ropes of the parachute with which Bartholomew was to descend, when the balloon started off, and one of the parachute ropes became entangled about Sanborn's leg above the knee, carrying him up 1500 feet, head downward. Sanborn struggled hard to free himself as he shot upward through the air, but to no avail. The crowd was horrified, and all expected to see him fall to the earth and be crushed to pieces. After the balloon had reached its highest altitude it descended, landing Sanborn safely astride a rail fence, where he was rescued more scared than hurt. Bartholomew saw that he had a passenger trailing behind him as he went up and told the unlucky man to "hang on" and he would try to bring the balloon to land, which he did. Sanborn then said, "I wouldn't go up in that way again for all Centreville."

Coal Discovered in Parrsboro.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 21:—Mr. W. J. Jones of Parrsboro and Whitfield McCarthy of Springhill have for some time been prospecting for coal at a point about eight miles due north of the mouth of the Diligent River, where they found distinct indications of coal. Where the logs in stream driving wore away the banks the regular formation was exposed, and it was similar to that about Springhill. Very little work with the pick brought out coal which was covered by a fossil shale and rested on a fire clay. More than a bushel of coal was dug out of the bank with but little labor. This was immediately tested by making a fire with it, which burned beautifully. In the process of combustion the coal seemed to run together, showing it to be highly bituminous, and small jets of flame were emitted from it, a proof that it had much gas in it. The specimens of coal brought into town by Mr. Jones are intensely black, yet clean to the touch, and greatly resembled the famous Albertite of New Brunswick. Some who have seen it pronounce it similar to the coal obtained at the old Pictou mine. Borings to discover the thickness of the seam are to be commenced at once.

A Gigantic Swindle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A gigantic swindle has come to light. James Edward Bedill, real estate clerk for the firm of Shipman, Barlow, Larocque & Choate, at 35 William-street, has, by a system of audacious swindling, robbed the clients of his firm of hundreds of thousands of dollars. The precise amount as far as known is placed at $264,500. He was a trusted employe in charge of the firm's large real estate business. He forged bonds and mortgages, registers, seal and all, took the money himself and pate the interest on the false mortgages as they fell due. His swindles cover a period of five years. An accident led to his discovery and he is under arrest. To Inspector Byrnes he said he had spent the money playing policy and at amateur farming.

Mangled by a Saw.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 21.—A serious accident occurred at Geldard & Wilson's saw mill, at Prosser Brook, near Elgin, on Thursday afternoon. Aaron Hayward, while working in the mill, fell on one of the circular saws and was frightfully mangled. Drs. Robinson and McDonald were called, and amputated the right leg between the knee and ankle. A pound of flesh was torn out of the left thigh and one hand was mangled. As Mr. Hayward is nearly 70 years old his recovery is doubtful.

A Fatal Slip.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 21.—A little girl named Bedell, while on her way to school in Woodstock the other day, stepped upon a truck wagon loaded with stone for the Woodstock Bridge, which was proceeding in the same direction, and when in the act of getting off the wagon slipped and fell. One of the wheels passed over her body, inflicting injuries from which she has since died.

Fire at Thorold.

THOROLD, Sept. 21.—The old Scotia Hotel, a brick building on Chappel-street, was burned to the ground about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, together with a lot of furniture belonging to Mr. Wm. Fobister, who had partly moved into the place yesterday. The building and furniture were insured. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Found His Aunt's Roll.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 21—James Dunlap of Portland, a brakeman on the I. C. R., was looking through the house of the late Mrs. Ferguson, an aunt of Mr. Dunlap's who died recently, when he unexpectedly came across $680 in bills, all carefully rolled up and stowed away.

THE DISSALOWED ACT.

WHEN the Liberal party was in office it did not hesitate to threaten to disallow, and to veto acts passed by the Provincial Legislatures. Now, however, they profess to believe that no Provincial acts should be disallowed, and the recent veto of an act of the Quebec Legislature is being used in that Province as a ground for attacking the Dominion Government. The scope of the disallowed act and the reasons for applying the veto power are thus stated in the report of Sir John Thompson, the Minister of Justice:—

"The undersigned has the honor to report that the Lieutenant-Governor of the province of Quebec transmitted to the Secretary of State for Canada, on the seventh day of August last, certified copies of the acts of the Legislature of that province, which had been assented to by him on the twelfth day of July last. On the eighth day of August these copies were received by the Secretary of State and referred to the undersigned for report. Among these acts is one to which it would seem that early consideration should be given, namely, that marked 'Assembly bill No. 12,' and intituled 'An act to amend the law respecting district magistrates.'

"The undersigned would call attention to section 96 of the British North America Act, which provides that 'The Governor-General shall appoint the judges of the Superior, District, and County courts in each province;' and section 99 of the said act, which provides that 'the judges of the Superior courts shall hold office during good behaviour, but shall be removable by the Governor-General on an address of the Senate and House of Commons;' and to section 100 of the same act, which enacts that 'The salaries, allowances and pensions of the judges of the Superior, District and County courts shall be fixed and provided by the Parliament of Canada.'

"The act of the Legislature of Quebec before referred to professes to enable the Lieutenant-Governor of the province by proclamation to abolish the Circuit Court sitting in the district of Montreal (the Circuit Court being a court now presided over by the judges of the Superior Court of the Province of Quebec) and to establish in that city for the said district a special court of record under the name of the 'District Magistrates' Court of Montreal. It provides (section two) that the court shall be composed of two justices called 'District Magistrates of Montreal,' who shall be advocates of ten years' practice, be chosen from among the members of the Bar of the province and be appointed under the Great Seal of the province by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. It contains other provisions as to the qualifications of the judges newly to be created and provides (section 4) that they shall hold office during good behaviour, but may be removed from office only upon the joint address of the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly. Also by section 5 it enacts that the salaries of these judges are to be paid out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the province, and by sections 6 and 8 that 'All the powers now possessed by the judges of the Superior Court and the duties imposed on them respecting the affairs, proceedings, matters and things within the jurisdiction of Circuit Court sitting in the District of Montreal are hereby conferred and imposed upon the district magistrates of Montreal;' and that 'the jurisdiction of the said court is the same, mutatis mutandis, for hearing and deciding civil matters as that exercised under the laws of the said Circuit Court of the District of Montreal.'

"The undersigned is of opinion that the provisions of the act which profess to confer upon the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council the power to appoint these judges, the provisions also which relates to their terms of office, their qualifications for office, are clearly in excess of the powers conferred on the provincial legislatures by the British North America act and clear invasions of the powers conferred by the British North America act on the Parliament of Canada and on Your Excellencey; and as any delay in disallowing the statute of Quebec in question may lead to confusion and private injury in the administration of justice, he recommends that the same be now disallowed."

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

CHURCH SOCIAL.—The Baptist social on Friday night in the P.C.A. Hall was a great success. The hall was well filled, and everything was conducted in the best of spirit and pleasantry. The Y.M.C.A. band of Peterborough, contributed to the evening's enjoyment. The autograph quilt which was sold by auction brought a very handsome sum. Mr. George McIlmoyle, auctioneer, knocked it down to Mr. George Cochrane at $19.00.

PERSONAL.—The following have gone to the Toronto exhibition:—Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Braden, Mr. Barry Sherin, Mrs. Robt. Graham, Miss Graham, Mr. Hugh Fitzgerald, Mr. Lister....Mr. James Edwards, G. T. R. station agent, is off on a holiday....Miss Emma Tanner has gone on a trip west....Mr. Wm Arnott has gone to Charlotte, N.Y., where he has procured a good lucrative position....Mr. Pepioe, who has been for some time past Mr. Sheldrake's assistant, left this week for England via Montreal....Mr. A. I. Wright, proprietor of the steamer Cruiser, left on Wednesday for Bristol, England, via New York, his future home. Mr. Wright will be very much missed by his many friends in Lakefield, he being one of the most popular gentleman in the village. We wish him bon voyage....Mr. R. C. Strickland has gone for a short trip over Lake Ontario to the country of retaliation.

IMPROVEMENT.—Messrs. Smith & Trude have built an addition to their meat shop, and are refitting the interior, also giving it a good coat of paint both outside and in.

THE BLAKELY.—The "Blakely House" looks quite like a new house. It has been shingled, the verandah overhauled, the whole place has received a good painting, and now presents a very respectable appearance.

REAL ESTATE PURCHASE.—Mr. J. L. Madill has purchased the stone house he has been living in from Mr. Adams, and is giving it a good overhauling, while Mrs. J. L. Madill is away at Kingston, visiting her mother.

PICNIC.—The picnic of the season came off on Tuesday. Messrs Casement and Bird chartered the Steamer Cruiser and sent complimentary invitations to their many friends. The party numbering about forty. The Cruiser left the wharf about 10 a. m. and went to "Lovesick Locks," where we all decamped with the baskets. The ladies went to work and prepared the spread of fat things. When all was in readiness, one gentleman remarked to your correspondent, "What a magnificent spread our ladies do prepare," all of which I heartily agreed with. After dinner and sightseeing was over the word was given for a run to the head of Stoney Lake, which was duly accomplished. On the way home supper was spread in the front cabin and when all were refreshed, order was called by your correspondent, and Mr. W. J. Wallace was called on for a few remarks. After complimenting the ladies on their bountiful repast and expressing his delight at being present, he moved, seconded by Mr. Wm. M. Graham, that a vote of thanks be tendered to Messrs Casement and Bird for their kindness and hospitality, which was unanimously carried, the party singing "for they are jolly good fellows." Messrs Casement and Bird in response spoke of how much pleasure it gave them to entertain their friends in this way, as they did not have a wife and house to invite their friends to. Some one present remarked "It's your own fault," which is correct. The gentlemen also spoke in a very feeling manner about the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace for California next week and how very much their circle of friends would miss them. All expressed sorrow at the near seperation, so soon to take place. As the boat drew near the wharf the entire company broke into singing "Auld Lang Syne," which ended a most pleasant day.

AGRICULTURAL GROUNDS.—The Agricultural Society are fencing their grounds and making a track for speeding the fliers. For a number of years passed the Society have lost a good deal of money by giving free horse and cattle exhibitions. This year the free part of the show is done away with. A very nominal sum will be charged, admitting to all parts of the show, which should have been done long ago. The Society will now be in a better position, and it will, of course, be probable that better prizes will be given.

C. L. S. C.—On Tuesday evening a number of friends met in the Methodist Church, Lakefield, to make arrangements for the C. L. S. C. class of the coming year. After the opening exercises the President explained the course of reading for the year and gave some encouraging advice to the members. A number of people subscribed for the Chautauqua. Mr. McEwen also tried to interest the boys and girls in the Chautauqua Young Folks Reading Unions. It is hoped that a number will avail themselves of this class. It was agreed that the C. L. S. C. meet on the first Monday in October at the Manse. The meeting closed with responsive C. L. S. C. services.

JOT it down and remember that Turnbull will show 50 different styles of Children's and Misses' mantles, all handsome designs on the Opening days, Sept. 26th and 27th. These goods were manufacturers' samples bought at a bargain and will be sold cheap. d68tf

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Institute Literary Society.

The Collegiate Literary Society met yesterday afternoon and an interesting programme was carried out. The first number was an essay by Master Hurley and was followed by a reading by Miss Carey, both of which were very meritorious. A debate then ensued, the subject being, "Resolved, that the Canadian form of Government is better than the American." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Sargent and Fife, while Messrs. Dodds and Wallbrooke spoke for the negative. The judges after hearing the arguments advanced by both sides gave their decision in favor of the negative. Master O'Brien then gave a reading, and the critic of the whole proceedings, Mr. Colbeck, made a few remarks and the meeting closed. The society meets every week.

THE C. P. R. EXTENSION.

The Plans for the Branch to the Dickson Co. Mills Registered.

The map or plan of the proposed branch of the Ontario and Quebec (or C. P. R.) railway from the main line to the Dickson Co's mills, was registered at the registry office this morning as plan No. 75 of the town of Peterborough. The branch will run on the present extension to the Central Iron and Bridge Works. At Sherbrooke-st. it turns into the river and follows a direct line to the west corner of the Island, which it crosses, following on to land again east of the lots on the north side of Simcoe-st. It passes west of Wilson's woollen mill, crosses Hunter-st. and runs along the private road (Dickson-st.), between the raceway and the river, to the Dickson Co.'s saw mill.

Where the railway strikes the river at Sherbrooke-st. the plans show a 450 feet trestle, including one span of 40 feet, and between the island and the woollen mill a 200 feet trestle.

The private property crossed by the branch is owned by Mr. John Carnegie, 236 feet, and the Dickson estate, 2,009 feet. The town property crossed is Dalhousie, Water and Hunter-sts. and the small street from the river to Hunter-st., and 152 feet on the island. The crown property which it will run over is the river and 210 feet on the reservation for a road allowance on the river bank.

These plans are as authorized by the Railway Committee of the Privy Council and are registered in accordance with the Railway Act.

Do not fail to see the large exhibit of carpets, lace curtains, fancy wool goods in fascinators, clouds, shawls, jackets, caps and hoods, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings Sept. 26th and 27th. No goods will be sold. d68tf

Good for Matie.

The handicap two-mile race for a handsome silver cup presented to the Ramblers by the Oddfellows' Band, of Belleville, took place at that city yesterday and was won by R. M. Roy, jr., son of Mr. R. M. Roy, of Peterborough. There were five starters and the Intelligencer speaking of the race says:—"The race was a very pretty one, especially between Roy and Gibson. Koyl led at the start, but pumped himself out, and was passed by Roy and Gibson, the former winning by one second only, which is excellent for a 'green' rider. Time, 7m. 23s."

TURNBULL'S establishment will be open on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Sept. 26th and 27th, to give everyone a chance to inspect the large display of millinery and mantles. But no goods will be sold. d68tf

Personal.

Mr. J. R. Dundas, of Lindsay, is in town to-day.

Mr. A. E. Scott passed a very good night and is slightly improved to-day.

His many friends will be pleased to hear that Mr. W. H. Hill is steadily improving.

Madame Janauschek and part of her company are at the Oriental. The remainder of the company are at the Grand Central.

Mr. Joe. Phelan, who went to attend the Ottawa College at the opening of the term, has been compelled to return home. He was unwell, and the doctor ordered him to discontinue his studies for a time.

The Riversides to Play off the Tie.

The Judiciary Committee of the Canadian Lacrosse Association met in Toronto yesterday, and among other things considered the charges against the Bradford club of playing outside men. The Bradford club admitted this and made a counter protest against Barrie which was allowed. The outsiders who played were suspended as were the Barrie and Bradford clubs for the balance of the season and all remaining games scheduled with either of the clubs suspended were awarded to their opponents by default. The Peterborough-Bradford game of September 18th goes to Peterborough by default as the Bradfords did not show up here. Orillia and Peterborough, being tie for the district championship, the committee ordered them to play the tie off on a date and place to be named by the president of the association.

Should Fairs be Attended.

Sometimes the average man is tempted to ask, "what is the direct good derived from thes agricultural exhibitions?" The enquiry is all right, but the man who ventures to maintain that these fairs are not productive of good is behind the age. It affords an opportunity to compare notes, to see what others are doing, to note improvements, to see how the world is progressing The average man cannot spare time nor money to run off to the city or to the big exhibitions, consequently he must do the next best thing, attend the local shows. Every one who attends derives good from it, especially so if during the fair at Peterborough he happens to drop in at Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men, to buy boots and shoes, for there will be found an immense stock of fine boots and shoes, bought for 40 cents on the dollar, and sold for less than half price. Men's boots, women's boots, children's boots, all as good as gold and cheap as clay. What a rushing, roaring, rollicking, rough-and-tumble business Gough's are doing! Their store, 373 George-st, is the shrine of countless pilgrims, seeking to cover their wearied feet with boots and shoes, bought from those public benefactors in boots, Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men. 1d68

FOUR TO ONE

In Favor of Peterborough was the Score of the Lacrosse Match.

Quite a few spectators were seated on the bleaching boards in the P. A. A. A. grounds yesterday afternoon to witness the struggle between the Lindsay and Peterborough Y. M. C. A. lacrosse teams. The game afforded a little amusement for the audience and good plays were always cheered. The home team, however, were too strong for their opponents and played all around them, scoring four games to Lindsay's one. One great fault with the visitors was the loose way in which they played, not minding their checks as they should have. The local team played a good game all round after the Lindsay's secured their first game. This gives the local team the pennant for the series of games played with Lindsay and Port Hope. The match was played on time—one hour and a half. The names and positions of the players was as follows:—

Peterborough	Position	Lindsay
Kincaid	Goal	Pearson
Metheral	Point	Anderson
Connal	Cover point	Hughes
Packenham	1st Defence	Finley
Hendricks	2nd Defence	Munro
Davidson	3rd Defence	Cullen
Henderson	Centre	Beaton
Stevens	1st Home	Dunoon
Armstrong	2nd Home	Mulligan
Foote	3rd Home	Cornell
Begley	Outside Home	Montgomery
McMillan	Inside Home	Hudson
Butler	Field Captain	Smythe
Joe Armstrong	Umpire	Geo. Armstrong (Orillia)

W. A. Sanderson, Referee.

Play was called at 2.45, and after the face off the ball was uncomfortably near the Peterborough goal, but it was kept on the move up and down the field, although had the home team played more together the chances are they would have not had to play so much on the defence. A scrimmage took place from which Cornell emerged with the ball, and after neatly dodging two men made a pretty shot on goal and secured the first game for Lindsay. Time, 20 minutes.

The second game was played more evenly, neither team pressing the other's goal. After some not scuffles, Henderson got the ball away up the field and ran it do wn well into Lindsay territory and played it to McMillan, who tipped to Begley and the latter made a pretty shot between the flags. Time, five minutes.

The third game was one continual scrimmage in front of the Lindsay goal while it lasted. When the ball was thrown into the field it would always be promptly returned and the scuffle renewed in front of the visitors' flags, until Stevens managed to tip it through, securing the second game for Peterborough. Time, five minutes.

The fourth game was a little more evenly contested, though the visitors were forced to play a defence game pretty much from the face off. Cornell done some pretty dodging this game and plays a neat game all time. Several shots were made on the Lindsay flags, and the fight raged hot until McMillan got a shot on goal and sent the rubber between the flags, scoring the fourth game for the home team. Time, fifteen minutes.

The ball was faced for the fifth time when there was about fifteen minutes left for play. There was little field play, the ball hanging around the visitors goal all the time nearly, until, during a hot scrimmage, Henderson knocked it between the flags. Time fifteen minutes.

This ended the match, and after giving cheers for each other, the clubs started for the train which the Lindsay club had to catch. The visitors were a little inclined to kick and departed rather depressed in spirits.

Bible Class To-night.

The teachers and officers of the Charlotte-st. Methodist Church will meet for the study of next Sunday's lesson, "The death and burial of Moses," in the lecture room of the church this evening. Rev. S. J. Shorey will take charge.

An Exhibition Train Service.

An answer has been received from the Grand Trunk railway, in reply to a request of the Exhibition Directors made through Mayor Stevenson, that they will put on a local train to run to the exhibition grounds during the time of the fair.

Harvest Home.

A harvest home will be held at St. Luke's Church on Thursday evening next. There will be shortened evensong service. Mr. Jacques will give an organ recital (probably his last public appearance before leaving town) and Miss Vair, Miss Cunningham and Mr. Kingscote will contribute solos.

Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably egulate the bowels.

Cricket.

The Veterans and Colts play what will probably be their last cricket match this afternoon. The series of matches between these two teams have afforded good sport for each and to day the Colts will try and retrieve the name which was lost at the last struggle.

The Campbellford vs. Peterborough cricket match will come off here on Tuesday next.

Silver Fleece Assembly.

The tailors met yesterday afternoon in Labor Hall to form a tailors' assembly of the Knights of Labor. There was a large attendance of the trade and the organization was started on a most substantial basis. The assembly will be known as Silver Fleece Assembly, and, as soon as the charter is received, will include all the female operatives in the town. The officers were elected but one not to be given to the press.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright es a button." It is very pleasant to taste. it soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether rising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TURNBULL'S fall and winter stock is now complete. Every department is crowded with beautiful goods, which will be sold cheaper than ever this season. d68tf

CHATTING WITH JANAUSCHEK.

The Last Season of the Great Tragedienne Before the Public.

Madam Janauschek and company arrived in town this morning. About eleven o'clock the sounds of music and singing could be heard coming from the opera house, and a REVIEW reporter making his rounds happened to be passing just at that time and received an invitation to witness the rehearsal of the company. Upon entering the opera house Mr. A. Stewart, manager of the company, was met and the scribe was introduced to that gentleman. After a short chat Mr. Stewart presented the newspaper man to Madame Janauschek. This gifted lady was seated in the body of the empty hall listening to the rehearsal of some of the choruses of Macbeth, but received the reporter most graciously and chatted pleasantly for some time. Madame speaks in broken English, having a German accent.

Madame Janauschek made several inquiries about Peterborough and during the conversation that ensued said that she had been in Quebec, Ottawa and Toronto last season, but the other places she was now visiting was for the first time. "My season commenced about two weeks ago, when we entered Canada at Halifax and have played at St. John's, N.B., Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and other places. I was surprised while in Kingston to meet with such an unappreciative people; only the rough parts in the play seemed to please them. I have always found the Canadians such intelligent people, who appeared to enjoy good acting, that I was greatly surprised at my reception in Kingston. We will leave Canada very soon, as we only visit Lindsay, then Toronto and then go to St. Catharines, at which place we will cross to the United States and go south to New Orleans. My Canadian tour has proved very successful so far."

"This is to be your last season before the public?" enquired the reporter.

"Yes," replied the tragedienne, "this will be my last season. I do not know where I shall reside after retiring. I have thought of this many times, but I have become so accustomed to a life of almost constant travel that I will wait until I give up my drifting life before I decide upon where to make my home." Being asked about her company she said, "There are sixteen ladies and gentlemen in my company, and as Macbeth, Meg Merrilies and some other of our plays embrace songs and choruses I have to have good singers as well as good actors and actresses."

After some further conversation the newspaper man left, much pleased with having been afforded an opportunity of having the pleasure of a chat with the greatest tragedienne on the American stage.

While engaged in conversation Madame Janauschek stopped abruptly in the middle of a sentence to correct one of the sopranos who had not taken a note just as Madame thought would sound best. She is most particular, Mr. Stewart remarked, about the appearance before any audience, and if you attend to-night you will undoubtedly be delighted with "Meg Merrilies," which is one of Madame's strongest characters.

by proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. The Y At Home.

The "At Home" given by the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union in the Union hall on Thursday evening was a very pleasant entertainment. The hall was furnished like a home, and the walls were adorned with pictures, brackets and ornaments, the young ladies showing admirable taste in the arrangement and adornment of the hall. The home-like appearance of the room and the informal character of the gathering, the people moving about and chatting, added to the pleasure of the occasion. A number of parlor games were provided, and they were not allowed to remain unused and assisted in passing a pleasant evening. At intervals numbers of a good programme were given, and the audience attested its pleasure by hearty applause. Among those who took part in the programme were Mr. A. L. Davis, who sang a song; Mrs. Stapleton, a solo; Miss Wrighton and Miss C. Errett, an instrumental duet; and Mr. W. H. Stevens a song, the last calling forth an encore. The "At Home" was thoroughly enjoyed and those who were present seemed loth to leave the hall even when the clock pointed out that it was time to disperse. Several who were to take part in the programme were unable to be present, but their places were ably filled and the "Y" hop-s for their presence and assistance at the next "At Home." The Union desires to return thanks to all the friends who so generously contributed to the pleasure of the evening, and the decoration committee makes special mention of Mr. A. Clegg's kindness in supplying sundry articles which added greatly to the general effect.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings healt and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

It is extremely interesting to visit some of the leading manufacturing houses in Toronto. Perhaps the most interesting and surprising of them all are the extensive Ornamental Stained Glass and Decorative works of the McCausland & Son. It is from this establishment that the finest windows have come for the principal edifices, throughout our country.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: Feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

Keely's Motor will not Move.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 20.—The Keely motor case came up again yesterday afternoon in the Court of Common Pleas on a rule to show cause why an attachment for contempt of court should not be issued against Keely for his failure to obey the order of the court, which instructed him to put his machine in order and show it to a number of experts whom the Court had appointed. His counsel contended that Mr. Keely had not obeyed because of a lack of money. The judge said that this was not a sufficient answer. Counsel then stated that it would cost about $100,000 to put the motor in such a condition that it would operate. The courts say the experts were to report simply what they saw, and if they could not so report an individual would be appointed.

Serious Accident at Trenton.

TRENTON, Sept. 20.—A serious and what is likely to prove a fatal accident occurred this morning at the new government buildings being erected here. As John Crandell, a carpenter, was placing a frame in the window of the second story he lost his balance and fell a distance of about 20 feet, falling on some broken stones on the street below. His shoulder blade and arm were broken, his face badly bruised and his skull fractured. He is still alive, but in a very low condition.

Killed by the Cars.

INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE, Ont., Sept. 20.—Conductor Peter Durham of the Michigan Central Railway, while jumping from a Grand Trunk Railway engine this evening about 9.15, slipped and fell upon the track. Twenty-five freight cars passed over him, severing his right leg at the knee and his left leg at the hip and injuring his head and body. He died at 11.50 p.m. He was unmarried and came to Canada from Preston, Lancashire, Eng.

Drowning Accident at Port Elgin.

PORT ELGIN, Sept. 20.—A drowning accident occurred here yesterday forenoon off the breakwater. Mr. Frederick Thiele, a very respectable retired farmer residing here, left his home about 8 o'clock to fish off the breakwater, from which he, in some unknown way, fell in the lake and was drowned. He was not missed until towards evening. His body was found by grappling this morning.

Burglars at Ripley.

RIPLEY, Sept. 20.—Mr. A. McKay's store was entered by burglars some time last night and an attempt made to blow open the safe. Two holes were drilled and a quantity of powder administered, but the fuse did not reach the powder. It is supposed they were alarmed by somebody at this stage as no further damage was done.

Correspondence of the Review.

EXCURSION.—The Orange excursion and picnic on Tuesday was very successful. The attendance was large, there being people present from North Monaghan, South Monaghan, Cavan, Smith, Otonabee and Peterborough, including a number in uniform. The Golden-Eye took the party to Jubilee Point and a number enjoyed the sail on to Idyl Wild. There was plenty of music, Mr. McIlmoyle's orchestra furnishing fine music for the dancers and the fifes and drums also giving spirited selections. Mr. R. Hallinan called off for the dancers in a distinct and acceptable manner. At the Point, which was reached at 12 o'clock, the pavilion was occupied and dancing was kept up on the green sward also. The boat left on the return trip at 5 o'clock and reached Peterborough at 9. The day was thoroughly enjoyed, as there was a quiet, orderly and jolly crowd on board.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

WEDDING BELLS.—An interesting event at the residence of Mr. T. M. Willan, Reeve of South Monaghan, on Wednesday evening, was the marriage of his second daughter, Miss Minnie Willan, to Mr. David Hutchinson, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Rural Dean Allen, of Millbrook. There was a large number of the friends of the young people at the wedding, and among those from Peterborough were Mayor Stevenson, M. P., and Mrs. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. John Carnegie, Mr. and Mrs. George Hillard and Mr. J. Carey. An excellent wedding dinner was served, and an enjoyable time was spent by the guests. The Millbrook brass band was present and discoursed good music in serenading the happy couple. The bride received a very large number of magnificent presents tangible evidence of the high esteem in which she is held. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson left in the evening on a wedding tour. They begin life together with the heartiest wishes of a host of friends for their happiness and prosperity.

SEYMOUR WEST.

HARVEST HOME.—A harvest home dinner was held on Wednesday under the auspices of the Methodist church of Seymour West, in Mr. Wood's grove, near the Centre Church. There was a very large attendance and an excellent dinner was served by the ladies. After dinner the Rev. W. H. Learoyd, the pastor, conducted a platform meeting in the grove. The choir rendered several chose selections, and speeches were delivered by Mr. C. Mallory, and the Rev. Messrs. Denike, Secombe, McDill and Anderson. Rain coming on cut short the speeches and also a very pleasant festival. Baseball was played on an adjoining field. The festival was a marked success and was thoroughly enjoyed.

A BEAR.—While the Rev. R. B. Denike was driving along the road near Mr. J. McCollough's a bear came out on the road and moved leisurely along. He did not care whether he left the road or not, but went to one side and Mr. Denike passed on. The bear, which was a very large animal, went into the woods and is probably there yet.

BANKERS.—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce
SOLICITORS.—Dumble & Leonard.

TO DEPOSITORS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.

TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent. debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223.69, and on securities of at least double that value.

By the Laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS.—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate Security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest. The Mortgage may be paid by yearly instalments or otherwise, as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed. A WINNIPEG DECEIVER.

HOW A MARRIED MAN DELUDED A YOUNG GIRL.

A Terrible Poisoning Tragedy Reported from the Shores of Lake Temiscamingue —Killed at a Railway Crossing.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 21.—Additional interest is created in the case of McKay, who is implicated in the embezzlement at the Canadian Pacific Railway ticket office, by another charge made against him, Strachan, who is apparently the chief offender, being discharged. It appears that McKay, who is a married man, became acquainted with a young girl named Eliza Botsford and falsely procuring a marriage license induced a friend to pretend to be a magistrate and go through the form of a ceremony. The girl was completely humbugged, but finding out her error told all to her mother. McKay had used a fictitious name and the affair was kept secret for several days, but the mother finally visited McKay and upbraided him with his conduct. He at once skipped to the States. Strachan and Deegan, who officiated as the magistrate, have been arrested.

Manitoba exhibits were sent to Hamilton and Ottawa this evening.

A TERRIBLE CRIME.

How Mrs. Boivin Fell a Victim to Her Own Murderous Act.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—A case of poisoning is reported to have occurred on the of shores Lake Temiscamingue, north of Mattawa, on Sunday afternoon last which resulted in the death of a man named Boivin and his wife, aged 40 and 35 years respectively. For some time past Mrs. Boivin has been anxious to get rid of her husband. The opportunity occurred on Sunday when the man complained of feeling unwell. His wife suggested a dose of epsom salts, but instead of that prepared a dose of strychnine. He was suspicious of the mixture and refused to take it when, to satisfy him, the woman took a spoonful herself which induced him to take the full dose. The woman made the mistake in her own case of miscalculating the strength of the poison. When a man named Grenier called in shortly afterwards the poison had affected her, as was indicated by the twitching of her face. Calling her husband to her assistance Grepier found that Boivin, who was in another part of the house, was much worse than his wife, and was unable to assist her. Becoming alarmed Grenier started for assistance. On his return they were both dead.

Dr. Dennis O'Connor.

WINDSOR, Sept. 22.—There assembled yesterday at Assumption college, Sandwich, Bishop Walsh, of London, Bishop Borgess, of Detroit, and about 40 of the clergy, who came to witness the conferring of a doctor's cap, cloak and ring on Very Rev. Dennis O'Connor, for eighteen years superior of the college. The bishop read the official documents, and Bishop Borgess, on behalf of the American clergy, who are the alumni of the college, presented Dr. O'Connor with a valuable emerald ring and a cap and cloak, which are the insignia of his office. Father McManus, of Battle Creek, Mich., brought forward a handsome gold chalice, and Rev. Dean O'Brien, of Kalamazoo, a purse. The recipient acknowledged both favors in a graceful speech.

One Year for Burglary.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 21.—On the night of Sept. 19, a couple of burglars effected an entrance to the Wesley Park Hotel, which had been closed for the season. Night Watchman Randall, of the M. C. R., who had seen them enter, obtained assistance and entered the hotel where he found the burglars in bed with their booty on the floor. He arrested them and handed them over to the Ontario police. They gave their names as Frank Jones of Michigan and George Allan of South Carolina. They had in their possession three watches which had not been taken from the hotel. The prisoners were sentenced by Police Magistrate Hill to-day to a year in the Central.

THE SCOURGE OF THE SOUTH.

Bronze John's Terrible March Through Sunny Cities.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 21.—The excitement of yesterday continues and is greatly increased by three new cases of yellow fever this morning. No deaths have yet occurred. It is generally conceded that all the cases originated here and were caused by excavations and disturbing filthy sewers on the depot grounds during the past two months. Three-fourths of the white population have fled, the stores are nearly all closed and there is but little food in the city for the "can't-get-aways." No trains stop here. A special train will be furnished to-night for such as wish to go through to the north.

Cairo Quarantined.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 22.—This city yesterday established quarantine against all trains from the south on the Illinois Central and Mobile and Ohio railroads. All passengers for the north will be compelled to have health certificates.

Not Permitted to Discharge Mails.

Jacksonville's Bulletin.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 22.—The official report yesterday shows 118 new cases of yellow fever and 14 deaths. A large majority of the new cases are among colored people in the suburbs. The comparatively few deaths are among the negroes who usually recover rapidly.

An Incident of the Plague.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 22.—One of the most pathetic incidents of the pestilence occurred yesterday. A little 9 year-old boy named Storck was brought in from the Sand Hills where he had recovered from yellow fever. Making his way to his home he was was told that his father, mother and sisters had all fallen victims to the disease. He will be cared for by a gentleman who was a patient in the hospital.

Cholera in Portuguese India.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The Foreign Office announces that all the ports in Portuguese India are infested with cholera.

A Chicago Good Samaritan.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—"Don't use my name; I wouldn't have it in the paper for $100," said a gentleman yesterday afternoon at the Armory Police Court. He had just given Matron Litell $10 to buy a ticket for Mrs. Annie Douglas to enable her to join her husband in Kingston, Ont.

Until three months ago Mrs. Douglas, with her husband James, lived at No. 48 East Twelfth-street. Mr. Douglas could not find work and went to Kingston, Ont., where he found employment in the locomotive works.

His wife toiled away in an effort to save money to pay her expenses to join him, and by hard labor she managed to save $25. Just as she was about to start she was told by her husband to buy the return coupon on an excursion ticket which a lady was using from Kingston to Chicago, and which she would sell for $6.50. Mrs. Douglas bought this ticket and going to the depot had her trunks checked and examined by the customs officer. Then she boarded the train and missed her purse containing her ticket, checks, and her little fortune of $17, all she had in the world.

It was a terrible loss to her, and almost stupefied, she left the train and sat in the depot until long after midnight, when she was ejected by a watchman. On the street she met Officer Stewart, who took her to the Armory, where Matron Litell cared for her until yesterday, when the Good Samaritan sent her on her way to join her husband.

Where Half of Bedell's Boodle Went.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—James E. Bedell, the clerk who swindled Shipman, Barlow, Larocque & Choate's clients out of $260,000 by means of bogus mortgages, appeared in the Tombs Court to-day, a complainant against the policy dealers, H. J. Emerson and Philip Goss, in whose shop at 180 Broadway, he says he lost $127,277. This sum, Bedell says, he lost between January, 1881 and Sept. 17, 1888, when the last visit was made there. He invested $150 on that day. Defendants were held in $5000 bail each.

Human Brutes.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—A special from Evansville, Ind., gives details of a horrible outrage perpetrated on a deaf mute named Annie Seibert and her mother this morning at 2 o'clock. John Kelly and James O'Brien have been arrested, charged with committing the crime. They broke into the house and compelled the women to submit on pain of death. The bed-ridden father of the girl was unable to interfere.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 21.—The body of A. L. Wright, a Boston business man, was washed ashore near Sand Bar Bridge, 10 miles north of this city, last evening. THE UNSPEAKABLE TURK.

HIS EMPTY PURSE ENDANGERS THE GRAND VIZIER'S HEAD.

Italy Preparing for a New Expedition Against Abyssinia—The Late Emperor Frederick's Part in Founding the Empire

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The unspeakable Turk has had another domestic squabble, which bade fair to result in the Grand Vizier losing his head. As nearly every other monarch on the continent was engaged in putting his army through its annual manœuvres, the Sultan thought Turkey ought to follow suit, and consequently he ordered the second-class reserves out to manœuvre. The Grand Vizier immediately sought his royal master's presence and conveyed the dismal intelligence to him that the treasury was empty, and that it was impossible for the troops to engage in mimic warfare. The Sultan stormed and insisted, but the Grand Vizier protested that there was no money. After a stormy scene the Sultan yielded with bad grace to the inevitable.

There is no longer any doubt that Italy is quietly preparing for a new expedition against Abyssinia, to be ready about the middle of October. Extensive preparations are being made so that it may be more successful than the last.

The missionary societies are clamoring for an inquiry to be made into the charges against Maj. Barttelot and Henry M. Stanley. The charges are of cruelty to the natives and a readiness to shoot them for disobedience.

The Deutsche Rundschau, a monthly review, publishes an abstract from the diary of the late Emperor Frederick regarding the Franco-German war. The details of the events narrated show that Frederick had the greatest part in founding the empire before others had dreamed it possible. The abstract also proves that some of the Princes, especially the Prince of Bavaria, gave their consent to the formation of the empire grudgingly.

In an interview to-day with the Nizam of Hyderabad's agent, Mr. Gladstone said that he retained very friendly feelings toward Turkey. On the eve of the bombardment of Alexandria he urged that Turkish troops be sent to Egypt. The Sultan, however, refused to do so. Mr. Gladstone said that he was confident that the Government intends to evacuate Egypt at the earliest possible moment.

A party of Maoris have arrived from New Zealand to play football matches against the principal English clubs.

Mr. Savage, the Librarian of Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon, claims to have discovered fragments of an unknown play of Shakespeare entitled "Irns" in an old manuscript book written by one Edward Pudsey in the time of Elizabeth and James the First. It contains extracts from Shakespeare and Ben Johnson's plays, but differing in some curious respects from the published texts. Pudsey does not allege this play of "Irns" to be Shakespeare's entire work, but includes extracts. The grave objection to Savage's theory is that the other plays are distinctly stated to be those of Shakespeare, whereas respecting this one there is no intimation of the kind. It is probable, therefore, that Pudsey was ignorant of the author's name.

The second volume of the Duke of Coburg's memoirs to be published soon will cover the years 1851 to 1860.

Certain important correspondence of European monarchs and statesmen, by Sir Bartle Frere, is soon to be published.

Mr. Lawrence Oliphant is seriously ill at Surbiton.

Holland's Budget.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 22.—The Minister of Finance to-day presented the Budget to Parliament. It is estimated that the deficit at the end of 1888 will amount to $3,250,000, and the total deficit at the end of 1889 to $10,417,000. The credits required for the national defences in 1889 exceed those expended for the same purpose in 1888 by $850,000. The Minister of Finance says he will be able to avoid a new loan for a long time in consequence of the abundance of money in the treasury.

Defending Barttelot's Character.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Belgian officers of the Congo State at Brussels deny the atrocities imputed to Major Barttelot. The Times on the same subject says that from Captain Van Gile's experience he believes the reports are false and that Tippoo Tib would not permit abuse of his men.

The German expedition for the relief of Emin Bey will reach Wadelai before the English expedition and thus claim the territory governed by Emin.

Preferred Expatriation to Death.

Found Dead on Her Husband's Grave.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Wm. J. Murphy was found dead on her husband's grave last night. She had taken chloroform.

Charged With Being a Spy.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—A French manufacturer of Belfort, France, has been arrested at Mulhausen, Alsace, on the charge of being a spy.

A Close Call.

HARRISTON, Sept. 22.—On Thursday evening J. Mitchell, 13th concession of Maryboro, was driving with his engine and thresher over what is known as the Rothsay bridge on the Conestago River. The horses had reached the first pier of the bridge when the span which they were crossing gave way, and the thresher, engine, horses and driver, together with the woodwork of the bridge, were precipitated into about six feet of water below, falling a distance of some eight or ten feet. One span of the bridge gave way. The horses had reached the pier of another span when the accident occurred. The weight of the engine and machine pulled them back and they actually turned a somersault on the engine. The driver found himself and horses on the fallen portion of the bridge partially floating on it. As soon as he had recovered from the momentary shock he cut the harness and the horses were safely got out, only being slightly scratched. The engine is a fixture in the bed of the river.

Failures at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—In consequence of Dufresne's assignment yesterday John Jamieson & Co., oil merchants, and Brodie Jamieson, oil merchant, suspended payment to-day. The liabilities of the former will amount to about $25,000 and the liabilities of the other firm are put down as probably amounting to about $40,000.

Canon Norman Installed at Quebec.

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—The formal installation of Canon Norman as Dean, Dr. Roe as Archdeacon and Rev's. A. A. Vonifland, T. Richardson, G. Thorneloe and J. Foster as Canons of the Anglican Cathedral of this diocese took place this morning.

Killed at a Crossing.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—As a Canadian Pacific train was passing near St. Scholastique last night a farmer in a cart attempted to drive across the track. The engine struck the vehicle, precipitating him under the wheels and killing him instantly.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1888.

UNITED STATES DIGNITY.

UNITED STATES politicians have talked a great deal about the dignity and honor of that country during the discussions on the fishery question and retaliation. But by their acts these politicians have struck severe blows and both the honor and dignity of their country. They have allowed their desire to make party capital carry away their judgment and the Republic bids fair to become a laughing stock to the world and a nation that no other country will be desirous of trusting.

In regard to the fisheries the Democrats began well, in a proper spirit and with a due regard to the importance of international questions, by negotiating a treaty. The Representatives and Senators of that party approved of and voted for the ratification of the treat, but the Republicans saw a danger to their party in its ratification and an opportunity for political advantage in its rejection. They did not wish President Cleveland to have the prestige of having settled the difficulty. They wished to make it appear that he was under British influence and had given way to Great Britain. They talked of national dignity, and humiliated their country by rejecting an agreem nt made by their government with another nation, merely as a partisan move to gain votes.

Then came President Cleveland's celebrated message. He and his party had declared the rejected treaty to be a settlement of the questions favorable to the United States. They approved of the agreement in the strongest terms, as one that would benefit the country and peacefully adjust the difficulty. But when the Senate refused to ratify it, the President and his party wheeled about and abused Canada, which had agreed to a settlement approved of by themselves, and threatened to retaliate. The position was a humiliating one for the President of a great nation to occupy, humiliating for the leaders and members of the party and detremental to the dignity, honor and reputation of the nation.

Not only in its dealings with Canada has the United States cut such a sorry figure. A commercial treaty had been negotiated with China. A rumor came across the Atlantic that the Chinese Government had rejected the treaty with the alterations made in it by the United States Senate. Here was another opportunity. As votes might be influenced by diatribes against Great Britain, so political advantage might be gained by a blow at the detested Chinee. A bill was introduced into the House excluding Chinese from the United States and, under a suspension of rules, was rushed through in a day. Before it was passed by the Senate information was received that the Chinese Government had not rejected the treaty, but still had it under consideration. But as the Democratic House had adopted the exclusion bill, the Republican Senate had to do the same or be charged with favoring Chinese immigration, which it could not afford, as its candidate was already suspected of that. So the bill was passed and sent to the President for his signature or veto. It will probably be signature, as possible international complications must not be allowed to stand in the way of vote gaining.

The United States, through the President and other mouthpieces, have made an ado because Canada had favored its own St. Lawrence route in the collection of canal tolls, and the Dominion was charged with bad faith in violating the provisions of the Washington treaty. But by that treaty Great Britain had undertaken to use its good offices to secure equal terms for United States and Canadian vessels in the canals. It did so and secured the privilege for United States vessels, which they still retain. The United States agreed to use its good offices with the State authorities to secure for Canadian vessels similar privileges in state canals. The Canadian vessels, however, never obtained the privileges, and it now appears that the United States Government has never fulfilled its agreement and has not tried to obtain from the state authorities the use of those canals for Canadian vessels.

In the face of all this the United States politician talk of their country's honor and dignity, and charge Canada, which has fully carried out the provisions of the treaty, with bad faith. The excitement consequent upon the Presidental elections may account for the recent acts of the President and Congress (and what an excuse!), but what explanation is their regarding the canals?

Ontario's Barley Surplus—Cox Again Remanded—Exhibition Receipts.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—Yesterday afternoon Gardener Mitchell, aged 18, was at work on a building when he fell from the scaffold, a distance of over 20 feet, dislocating his right shoulder and fracturing the bone.

A little boy, probably 8 years of age, whose limbs are paralyzed, was found straying in the Queen's Park at a late hour last night. He cannot tell his name, nor give any information about himself.

It is estimated here that Ontario's barley surplus for export will reach 12,000,000 bushels.

Chas. Hicks, a G.T.R. switchman, had one of his hands smashed while coupling cars in the yard near the foot of Bathurst-street.

The cigarmakers' dispute, which has lasted between four and five months, is practically settled, but the terms are not made public.

At the Police Court yesterday the cases against E. S. Cox were again adjourned for a week.

The Police Magistrate had 103 cases to dispose of yesterday.

The exhibition receipts this year total $39,534; in 1887 they were $32,069 and in 1886 $40,897.

A large number of people have been swindled by the Mount Khingan Tea Company which professed to give away a ladies' solid silver watch with every twenty pounds of tea sold.

It is said that a mission to Minneapolis to bring back ex-Cashier Allen of the broken Central as a witness in the Cox case proved unsuccessful.

NORWOOD.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL.—On Tuesday evening M. Sierra was charged before Squire Drain with stealing $5 from "Jack" Clapper. After a careful hearing of the case the Magistrate committed the prisoner to gaol to stand his trial at the fall assizes.

THE NEW ROLLER MILL.—Mr. H. Buck informs us that arrangements have been completed for the introduction of the roller system into the mills here. The latest process, "The Cochrane," has been adopted, and by the end of October the farmers of this section will be able to get roller flour at the Norwood mills.

A BRIDGE COLLAPSES.—On Tuesday as Mr. Geo. Livingston, of this village, was driving a team attached to a load of brick across the bridge over the Ouse, near Mr. George Ford's, Asphodel, the structure collapsed, precipitating the driver, waggon and horses into the water. Fortunately neither man nor horses received serious injury.

BEARS PLENTIFUL.—Bears are reported as being unusually plentiful in this section. Mr. Samuel Elliott, of Belmont, who lives about four miles east of Norwood, saw five on Saturday. His son faced one with a double barreled shot gun, but two discharges of buck shot failed to convince bruin that his days were numbered. He "skipped" to a neighboring swamp apparently uninjured.—Register.

TEAS!

Tea is the Universal Beverage.

The demand for Tea exceeds that of any housekeeping requisite.

The Tea known as Gunpowder is one of our most popular Green Teas. In appearance it is round, like small shot, with a beautiful bloom, which will not bear the breath. It has a greenish hue, and a fragrant, pungent taste.

This kind of Tea is often adulterated by inferior kinds, colored, glazed and manipulated to look like the Gunpowder with which it is mixed.

Where the leaf is open and loose, the outside of a darker hue, and the taste brassy and unpleasant, it should be promptly rejected.

Teas should never be bought in quantities unless first tested by steepping, as a fair style of Tea may be a poor drawer, and the adulteration of Tea is more readily detected by this means.

My Teas will be found to stand this test, and are really splendid in the cup.

Obituary.

After a long and serious illness Mrs. Forster, wife of Mr. Wm. Forster, of North Monaghan, died on Friday evening. She suffered from an affection of the heart, and for fifteen months, carefully attended by loving family and friends, she patiently bore severe suffering. She had been a strong, healthy-looking woman, but was greatly reduced by the long months of sickness. As the end drew near the pain ceased and she passed easily away. Mrs. Forster was a daughter of the late John Green, of North Monaghan, and was the only sister of Messrs John, W. J. and R. H. Green, of Peterborough. She was born in the year 1841, in the township where she passed her life, and was 47 years of age at the time of her death. She was a woman of a very kindly disposition, a loving wife and mother and always ready and willing to help the needy or to render assistance in time of trouble, and was highly esteemed as a friend by her neighbors. A consistent member of the Methodist denomination, she was a regular attendant and member of the Charlotte-st. Church. Mrs. Forster leaves a husband and seven children, five boys and two girls, to mourn her loss, all the children being grown up but one. The family have the sincerest sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon, at 2 30 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

An Old Settler Dead.

Another old settler in the county passed away on Friday night in the person of Mr. James McGregor, of Keene, who had been ill for a long period. He was 63 years of age and leaves a widow and four children. The funeral will take place on Sunday at 12 o'clock to the Keene cemetery.

The Market this Morning.

There was a very large market this morning and the attendance was good. Prices of vegetables do not vary much, while fruit was not very plentiful. Butter was bringing 21c. to 24c., eggs 13c. and 16c., chickens 35c. to 45c., ducks 70c., tomatoes 30c. and 35c. per peck, apples 30c. per bag and 20c. per peck.

Theft of a Rubber Coat.

Wm. Ross, known around town as "Gen. Tighe," was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing a rubber coat from Michael O'Brien. The coat was found in the room occupied by young Ross and Mr. O'Brien swore that it was his and identified it beyond a doubt. Ross said the coat was one he had got in a second-hand store in Kingston. The Magistrate gave Mr. O'Brien the coat, and let Ross go on the charge of larceny, but he is liable to be called upon any time to receive sentence on this charge.

The Identification of the Man.

The man Greenfield will probably be identified and the doubt as to whether he is the daring fellow of the burglar-Stewart duel be dispelled before many days. Chief Roszel, will go to Buffalo to-morrow morning and see the man. If he proves to be the gentleman wanted, Greenfield, should he prove the right man, and refuse to come to canada, can not be extradited on the charge of burglary nor can he be tried for burglary upon his being brought here. The charge that he will be given up by the United States authorities on is assault with intent to kill, and this will, therefore, be the only charge he can be placed on trial for. He will probably be back in time to be comitted on trial at the assizes here, which open here on Thursday, 11th of October. The costs involved in this case will be pretty heavy. The expenses of those who go to Buffalo will have to be paid by the town, while the ordinary expenses of the trial will come under the general head and be paid by the county and town in the usual grant for the administration of justice.

A Fashionable Audience at Jananschek.

It was a fashionable audience that assembled in the Opera House last night to witness the dramatization of Sir Walter Scott's Guy Mannering entitled "Meg Merrilies" as presented by Madame Janauschek and her company. The orchestra chairs were well filled, but in the other parts of the house vacant seats were far more numerous than they should have been if Peterborough possesses many lovers of true dramatic art. Those present, however, were delighted with the play, which was worth more than ten of the sensational and millinery society dramas which no doubt would be treated with a crowded house. The Star Theatre Company occupied reserved seats and with a keen dramatic eye for strong and weak acting, were most liberal and enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation. Nothing need be said of Janauschek as "Meg Merrilies," as her praises have been read by every one, and all who have seen the most extravagant encomiums showered upon the head of this great tragic actress were unanimous in the opinion that the strongest of these could only do her justice. The company which supported Janauschek as a whole is composed of good actors and actresses, the character of "Dominie Sampson" especially being filled in an inimitable manner by Mr. Tyrone Power, whose make-up and stage actions were studied to a nicety. One great lack, which had it been possible to fill, would have added ten-fold to the effect of the singing throughout the play, was the absence of any orchestra or music of any description.

FOUR GAMES EACH.

The Veterans Victorious and tie the Colts in the Number of Wins.

The Colts and Veterans played another match game yesterday and the latter were victorious by ten runs with two wickets to fall. This now makes four wins for each of these teams out of the series of games that has been played, and a final game will have to be played to break the tie. Yesterday the Colts went to bat first and had to face the bowling of Cannon and Sailsbury who both were in pretty good form. Their last wicket fell for 49 runs, only one man, Hamilton, have succeeded in having placed double figures opposite his name in the score book. The Veterans went to bat and it was thought they would have a rather easy work in running up the required 49, but things looked rather shaky for a little while, but several nice three-run hits by Cannon and Cameron brought the score up in quick shape and the eighth wicket fell with 59 runs scored and the game ended. Cannon and Cameron made the only two good scores—the former's 18 being got in good form. Hamilton and Pearson trundled for the Colts. The score was as follows:—

NOTES.

Before the Colts went into the field they were photographed in a group by Mr. Hautlain. And this, perhaps, would rattle them slightly.

The match on Tuesday between the home team and Campbellford will be for blood, and a good game is expected.

A Canvas Dining-room.

About a week ago Mr. J. J. Turner, the well-known tent and awning maker, received an order from the Port Perry exhibition directors for the construction of two tents. The larger one of the two has been completed and was to be seen this morning standing in rear of Mr. Turner's establishment on George-st., where it had been erected in order to allow the maker to see that it was perfect in every detail before shipment. The tent is quite an extensive one and considering the large amount of labor its construction necessitated and the master mannerly in which this has been executed, the prompt filling of the order speaks well for the capabilities of Mr. Turner and his establishment. The canvas house is 63x40 feet in dimensions, and contains over 600 feet of canvas and will accommodate between 400 and 700 people. The roof is supported by two centre poles, and the sides can be rolled up when required, while an entrance can be made at either side. The tent is well put together, every seam being doubled stitched and the top and the bottom are hemmed with rope. The exhibition people intend using it as a dining room and the idea is a good one, as the movable structure is preferable to the wooden building which would require time to erect and then probably be of an inferior class. The class of work which Mr. Turner has given them will, also, allow them to remark that they have a tent which could not be beaten for appearance and durability in Canada. The canvas dining room will be shipped immediately.

TURNBULL'S fall and winter stock is now complete. Every department is crowded with beautiful goods, which will be sold cheaper than ever this season. d68tf

There was a Bar in the Buildings.

Last night a young man from Keene strayed into the town buildings in search of a drink. He had mistaken the counter in the town clerk's office for an hotel bar and could not be impressed with the gravity of his mistake or the probable consequences. He was finally handed over to a constable and this morning appeared at the police court bar and was allowed to depart, it being his first offence.

The Burns Club To-Night.

The Burns Club will meet this evening at eight o'clock, in the W. C. T. U. Hall, entrance south of Mr. Clegg's store on George-st. To-night will probably see the business of organization all finished and the meetings will soon begin to take the form of social evenings, when the programmes will be a source of instruction and benefit as well as enjoyable and productive of a more fatherly feeling among Scotchmen and lovers of the great Scotish poet, Burns.

DO not fail to see the large exhibit of carpets, lace curtains, fancy wool goods in fascinators, clouds, shawls, jackets, caps and hoods, on Wednesday and Thursday evening, Sept. 26th and 27th. No goods will be sold at J. C. TURNBULL'S. d68tf

Waiting for the Blessing.

An eastern United States senator tells this about his little girl: He says that when his family had gathered for dinner little Elsie was too busy with her playthings to suspend and her mother called to her to come.

"'Yes, in a minute,' was the response.

"'But we are all waiting,' said my wife, 'and your papa is waiting to ask the blessing.'

"She came in, climbed into her chair, folded her little hands demurely, bowed her head and said in a low voice, 'Let her go, Gallagher!'

"I am afraid," said the senator, laughing, "that the blessing I invoked at my table that day was slightly incoherent."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A New Word Wanted.

A clever coiner of words may find a chance for his skill in manufacturing a suitable name for the product of the type writer. The difficulty lies in deciding whether the result should be termed manuscript or type matter. The present adjective, "type written," is of advantage, inasmuch as it meets both conditions. Still, Americans are nothing if not inventive.—New York Tribune.

Discovery of a New Sensation.

I have a little girl and when it is her bed time, in indication that she is getting tired and sleepy, she will yawn or gape, as it is sometimes called. One evening I said: "Gracie, I see you are yawning; it is time for bed." She spoke up quickly and said: "Mamma, I was not gaping; that was only another kind of sneeze."—Boston Globe.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back headache, etc. In a few days you may go well, or, on the other hand, you may go down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."
